CENTRAL POWERS TO ASK AMERICA FOR ARMISTICE

Suspension of Hostilities Reported Proposed by German Chancellor

ALLIES WILL BE ASKED TO STATE PEACE TERMS.

Maximilian Reported Willing to Accept America's Fourteen Conditions; Warning by Washington.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 5.—The immediate suspension of hostilities has been proposed by the Imperial German Chancellor, Prince Maximilian, in the Reichstag, according to the Berlin correspondent of the Tijd. The Entente Allies are to be asked to state their terms.

The Chancellor's proposal also embraced the dispatch of plenipotentiaries to a neutral place to discuss the question of a league for national arbitration and disarmament.

Other advices say that the Chancellor has not yet made the statements credited to him regarding the suspension of hostilities, the appointment of plenipotentiaries and the request for the Allies' terms, but that it was understood he would make such proposals.

The plenipotentiaries are further to be empowered to discuss the creation of a federal Austria, the right of self-determination for Russian frontier states, the restoration and indemnification of Belgium, autonomy for Alsace-Lorraine and the return of the German colonies.

The terms of the Entente Allies will be asked at the same time with the object of forming a basis for the consideration of these important questions.

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 5.—Prince Maximilian of Baden, the new Imperial German Chancellor, is willing to accept President Wilson's fourteen peace conditions, according to reports received from Berlin by circles closely connected with the Foreign Office here, even though this for many reasons may not be thoroughly demonstrated in his statement before the Reichstag.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Prince Maximilian, the Imperial German Chancellor, in the Reichstag today, emphatically declared that the new government stood on the basis of a just peace, regardless of the war situation.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—The Austro-Hungarian Minister at Stockholm has been charged to request the Swedish government to transmit to President Wilson a proposal to conclude immediately with him and his allies a general armistice and to start without delay negotiations for peace.

This announcement is made in a Berne dispatch to the Havas Agency. The text of the proposal follows:

"The Austro-Hungarian monarchy, which has made only defensive warfare, and has borne witness several times to its desire to put an end to the bloodshed and conclude an honorable peace, proposes by representation to President Wilson to conclude immediately with him and his allies a general armistice on land, on sea and in the air and start without delay negotiations for peace.

"These negotiations will be based on the fourteen points in President Wilson's message of January 8 and the four points of his speech of February 11 (February 11,) 1918, and those equally of September 27, 1918."

In transmitting this dispatch, the Berne correspondent of the Havas Agency says:

"Germany and Turkey must take the same step as Austria. Meanwhile the semi-official news agency at Berlin withholds the news, evidently awaiting the meeting of the Reichstag, which will be held this afternoon.

The Imperial Chancellor, Prince Maximilian, certainly will make an important announcement in the Reichstag, which has assembled four days in advance of the regular time.

The action of the Austrian government has been preceded by a number of conferences with representatives of Berlin and Hungary, both civil and military, and representatives from the states of the German confederation."

On September 14 the Austro-Hungarian government invited all the belligerent governments to enter into nonbinding discussions at some neutral meeting place, with a view to bringing about peace. Two days later President Wilson rejected the proposal, declaring that the American government had made its position and purpose so plain, having repeatedly stated the terms upon which peace would be considered, that it would entertain no proposal for such a conference. Baron Burian, the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, in announcing that he was not surprised at the reception of his peace note, declared that it had already produced remarkable phenomena, and would do still more in the near future. Rumors prevailed in

HUNS TO GIVE UP ENTIRE COAST.

[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Information comes from authoritative sources that there are indications of an early German abandonment of the entire Belgian coast. This gives confirmation to the many reports from Holland of the withdrawal of vast quantities of German war material from that region.

The Zeebrugge and Ostend exploits, the air and naval bombardments and the Allies' progress to the southward made German occupation of the coast region increasingly costly and uncomfortable. The further intentions of the enemy can only be conjecture, but the indications lead to the belief that he will go back to what may be termed the "Antwerp line."

One Dutch report says that the evacuation of Rousselaere and Bruges is expected soon.

The German activity during the coming dark months should be greatly curtailed, if not arrested, in both directions. The Allies' control of the channel will be more secure and the all-around gain to the Allies will amount to a substantial change in the conditions of war.

HAVRE, Friday, Oct. 4.—In the operations in Flanders since September 28 the Belgian, British and French forces have taken 10,500 prisoners, 350 guns and 600 machine guns, says the official statement from the Belgian War Office tonight.

GERMANS VENT RAGE WITH TORCH.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Oct. 5, 5 p.m.—Wide gains of great importance have been made today by the fighting British armies. In the north the line of the Haute Deule Canal has been reached and the Germans are hurriedly evacuating Lille.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, Oct. 5.—(11 a.m.)—Great tongues of flame were shooting up today from the city of Douai and more fires have been started in Cambrai. The Germans also have applied the torch to many villages in the Cambrai area.

As the flames and smoke rolled up from the ruined places they were accompanied by explosions, in which the Germans blew up the stores they were unable to save and which they did not wish to leave behind, fearing they would be used by the British to hasten the German retreat.

It is evident that the Germans were prompted solely by rage in applying the torch to many of the places to which they set fire. They are destroying things of no military value to any one and the destruction of which simply adds to the general devastation of the country.

During the night the British appeared to have regained possession of Beaurevoir and of the railway at Ponchaux.

In the Beaurevoir fighting the British have pushed their way through the German forces until the latter now have been reinforced with cooks and officers' servants who have been thrown into the line with rifles. Apparently every available German has been brought out for active service in this locality.

AUSTRIANS FLEE BEFORE ITALIANS

ROME, Oct. 5. — Italian columns pursuing the retreating Austro-Hungarians in Albania yesterday passed beyond the Lyushna River and reached the rivers Kavaya and Poloivin. The Italians are continuing their advance toward Elbasan, thirty miles northeast of Berat, according to an official statement issued by the War Office today.

Austro-Hungarian forces yesterday launched an attack against the Italian lines north of the Grappa, on the mountain front of Northeastern Italy. The War Office says that the enemy was repulsed all along the front of attack except at one place, where the Austro-Hungarians gained a footing.

The Austro-Hungarians began their assault along the front from the head of Stizzon Valley to Mont Solarolo. The text of the statement follows:

"In the Tonale region, southeast of Ponte di Ercavalle, our detachments surprised and destroyed an enemy post, capturing the few survivors.

"At Dosso Casina an enemy assault patrol was driven back. On the Asiago Plateau British detachments broke into the enemy's lines, devastated his works and dispersed the garrison. We captured 150 prisoners.

"North of Monte Grappa the enemy attacked our front from the head of the Stizzon Valley to Monte Solarolo. He was repulsed everywhere except at Malga Valpez, where he gained a footing."

Italian units aiding the French in the advance north of the Aisne, it was announced today, have overcome stubborn enemy resistance and captured important heights positions. They have taken prisoners and machine guns from the enemy.

A. Henderson. Col. Stewart served with the British yeomanry in the South African War, and later with the Northwest Mounted Police in Canada and the Yukon.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—[Associated Press Dispatch.] Germany, Austria-Hungary and Turkey have resolved simultaneously to ask President Wilson to make representations in their interests for a general armistice and negotiations for a general peace, according to a Berne dispatch to the Havas agency.

BATTLE SUMMARY

ALLIES CRUSH DEFENSES.

[Resume by Associated Press.]

A powerful movement is apparently under way in Germany for a general armistice and peace. The new German Chancellor, Prince Maximilian of Baden, is reported to have proposed, or to be on the eve of proposing a general suspension of hostilities, the appointment of the plenipotentiaries to meet at a neutral place for the discussion of a league for arbitration and disarmament and the forwarding of a request to the Entente Allies for their terms. It is furthermore reported that the German Chancellor has expressed his willingness to accept President Wilson's fourteen peace conditions.

Austria-Hungary, through its Minister at Stockholm, is requesting the Swedish government, according to advices from Berne, to transmit to President Wilson a proposal for a general armistice with the Entente Allies on land and sea and in the air and start without delay negotiations for peace. These negotiations are to be based on the terms set forth by President Wilson.

A new peace note to be issued by Baron Burian, the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, it was announced, will declare that all of President Wilson's terms have been accepted by the dual monarchy.

And, finally, from Berne comes the announcement that Germany, Austria-Hungary and Turkey intend simultaneously to approach President Wilson with the object of having him make representations looking to peace.

OUR MEN ENGAGED.

The American troops in the sector between Rheims and the Meuse are engaged in extremely heavy fighting. Joined up with Gouraud's army, they are driving the Germans before them at a quickening pace. French troops are reported to have taken Bethenville, which is several miles beyond the former line.

In the north, under the menace of the British pressure from Flanders to north of St. Quentin, the enemy has set fire to Douai and other towns and villages in that area, evidently in preparation for a retirement to the French frontier. Heavy explosions have also been heard.

With the French covering the western outlet of the Grand Pre gap through the Argonne Forest, the Americans in an advance of three miles between the Meuse and the Aire are rapidly closing up the eastern entrance to the pass. Gen. Pershing's men in smashing blows Saturday realized a considerable advance all along the front and took additional villages and heights from the Germans. The enemy resistance was most stubborn as on this front the Germans are standing on the Kreimhilde line, the last of their prepared defenses.

The Americans are advancing toward Sedan and the great communication line upon which German security on the present

BRITISH TAKE 71,000 TURKS.

Arab Army in Palestine Also Takes 8000 Prisoners; 350 Guns Captured.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 5, 6:30 p.m.—Seventy-one thousand Turks have been taken prisoner by Gen. Allenby's forces since the commencement of the British operations in Palestine and Syria, according to an official statement issued tonight by the War Office. This is in addition to 8000 prisoners claimed by the Arab army.

Three hundred and fifty Turkish guns were taken.

Included in these figures are the Turkish commanders of the Sixteenth, Nineteenth, Twenty-fourth, Fifty-third and composite divisions, the commander of the Haan garrison, Ali Veri Pasha, and German and Austrian troops numbering over 206 officers and 3000 of other ranks.

"GET OUT," WE REPLY

Can't Hear Peace Cry Yet.

New and More Aggressive Efforts in Propaganda Washington Expectations.

Enemy First Must Give up Every Foot of Conquered Soil, is Condition.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The statement was authorized officially late tonight that the American government had received no new peace proposal from Austria and had no official information whatever concerning new developments reported to be impending in the Teutonic campaign for peace by negotiation.

An Austrian appeal for an armistice for discussion of peace on President Wilson's own terms, is regarded here as the logical sequel of the President's recent summary rejection of the proposal that hostilities be suspended for secret and nonbinding peace discussions.

What the American government's answer to such an appeal would be is indicated by the statement authorized when the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister complained that his acceptance of President Wilson's principles had not been noticed—that peace could not be talked of upon any terms so long as Germany and Austria occupied a single foot of conquered territory.

New and more aggressive phases of the Teutonic effort for peace by negotiations before Allied and American soldiers invade German soil, evidently are about to be launched, and the only question is the exact form they will take. Officials here will be surprised neither by the Austrian armistice plea, which Berne press dispatches through Paris tonight, say is coming, nor by a similar move by Germany herself, which the new Chancellor, Prince Maximilian of Baden, is said to have proposed or to be about to propose in the Reichstag.

Pershing Driving a Wedge Between Kaiser's Army and Germany.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Oct. 5.—The German retreat before Gouraud's army, which is supported by the Americans on the right, is quickening perceptibly. French troops this afternoon reached Bethenville, lying about three miles north of Moronvillers.

PARIS, Oct. 5, 1:10 p.m.—American troops attacked again this morning between the Meuse and the Argonne along an extended front. Several villages have been taken.

The forward sweep of the Americans is progressing brilliantly, according to advices received by La Liberte this afternoon. The American forces are in contact with the last defenses of the Brunhilde line represented by the woods between Brieulles and the Meuse.

The enemy is reported to have removed the long-distance guns that were protecting the railway junction of Vouzieres, six miles north of Montheis.

FRENCH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Oct. 5 (Reuter's, 5 p.m.)—In Eastern Champagne the Germans are falling back on the line of the Arnes River. This line has been reached by the American troops, who have taken St. Etienne-a-Arnes.

LONDON, Oct. 5, 4:30 p.m.—In their offensive between the Meuse and the Aire the Americans have scored an advance of from two to three miles, moving over the most difficult country encountered in the Argonne fighting. YANKS GAIN DESPITE ODDS.

Capture Three Towns in Most Desperate Fighting of Stiffening Defense.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Oct. 5, 11 p.m.—The Americans again today met desperate resistance all day long and had to resist a series of counter-attacks. The machine-gun and artillery fire was particularly violent most of the day.

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Friday, Oct. 4, 10 p.m.—(Reuter's.)—The fighting today, when the Americans resumed their advance, differed noticeably from that of last Thursday. The stiffening in the German defense was unmistakable. The whole front now is adequately defended by artillery, every sector having its own admirably devised protection.

The night preceding the attack was dark, but absolutely clear until near dawn. It then clouded over densely, making observation difficult during the entire day through the ground haze on the low levels and the ceiling of gray clouds.

On the left of the American attack, although the first objectives were early attained, the progress made afterward required caution and courage to achieve, machine guns being thick in the woods north of Exermont, while the artillery fire was coming from the edge of the Argonne and the hills beyond Gesnes.

In the open Aire Valley the advance was especially difficult. Nevertheless, Chatel Chehery was captured, as was Chateau Chehery, shortly afterward, and the line was pushed toward Fleville and Cornay.

The town of Gesnes, northeast of Exermont, changed hands more than once before the enemy was persuaded to yield it. Even then his artillery prevented any effective hold being taken upon the place until the American line still further east was able to bring a cross fire to bear.

It was here, in front of Romagne, that the enemy's supreme resistance was expected and was felt, since Romagne is the pivot of his main line of defenses. In the open ground in this sector between two masses of woodland the advance was held up for a considerable time despite the success achieved further east.

Against a harassing artillery fire from the heights east of the Meuse the entire American front made a noticeable advance, despite the desperate efforts of the enemy to delay them. The air force backed up the infantry in a daring fashion. Although compelled to keep near the ground, the airmen were unremitting in attempts to bomb transports and attack infantry on the roads. In consequence of German anti-aircraft fire they paid for their daring in a large number of casualties. The air was the scene of most spectacular combats, all fought at a height of less than [illegible] feet.

NOTHING TO STOP BRITISH.

Haig's Troops Prove Ability to Crush Any Resistance of Germans.

BY PHILIP GIBBS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS, Friday, Oct. 4.—This morning when I went up from Bellenglise to Bellicourt and along the great tunnel where the Scheldt canal goes under the ground for several miles there was a heavy gunning on the left by Gouy and Le Catelet and in the direction of Montbrehain and Beaurevoir where there was fierce fighting yesterday, continuing throughout the night and resumed today. The famous English division added to its record yesterday by capturing 2000 more prisoners at Aliancourt and the outskirts of Montbrehain, where it had severe fighting.

It is probably some of these men I saw, marching back this morning shortly after dawn when the mists were white on the fields and dead trees on the skyline above the canal faintly pencilled in gray sky like masts of ships in a sea fog. Through this grayness and high thistles that grow between shell craters and trenches came a long column of Germans guarded by a few men with fixed bayonets. I watched them as they passed and from the battle line in their long gray overcoats and field caps only a few wore their camouflaged shrapnel helmets and here and there was a man without any kind of headgear.

Later in the day I saw another column of about 600 without overcoats, this time having left their line in a greater hurry, and an officer with me said: "It looks like defeat when every day sees such numbers of prisoners coming back. Truly it looks like the break-up of an army."

FIGHTING HARD.

Yet the enemy is fighting hard now for his Beaurevoir line, knowing if he loses it he has lost everything that can be called a line, until he goes much farther back.

It is not easy fighting for our men. The English and Scots of the Thirty-second Division who retook Sequehart, which already had been in our hands twice were violently counter-attacked, but succeeded in beating off these attacks. It was the second Australian division who broke the Beaurevoir line, west and southwest of that village, working forward with aid of the tanks, although handicapped by bad ground and water to the outskirts of Montbrehain.

On eastern side of the village of Estrees, the enemy had pill box fortresses, from which there came slashing machine gun fire and the Australians were checked there for six hours, until by dogged efforts they overpowered the place and captured 200 men in the concrete shelter, while they were outside of it they were bombarded by gas shells which is a horrible method of fighting, and they had to wear their masks, but would not go back. Because of that they managed to get east of Wiancourt and to the west of Beaurevoir and held their ground during the night while the English troops were thrusting back a counter blow which made them withdraw from Montbrehain, into which they had penetrated during the day.

VILLAGE MINED.

This village was mined and there were two explosions while our men were in the streets and fighting the batallions of no less than nine different divisions. The enemy was on higher ground than the English and Australian troops and able to get enfilade fire from one position to another, so that for a time the situation at Montbrehain, where our men were fighting from 10 o'clock in the morning until 6 o'clock in the evening, became untenable. On the left of that around Le Catelet and Gouy some English battalions who had taken these places by most desperate endeavors were having nagging fighting in the trenches and ruins which form part of the old Hindenburg line beyond the canal, and this morning this continued without much progress, although somewhat to their right, other comrades of their's were able to make ground towards Ponchaux and Beaurevoir.

Against them were a miscellaneous crowd of Germans, including guards grenadier reserve regiment and Forty-sixth, Eighty-sixth, Eighty-seventh and Ninety-sixth reserve infantry regiments, while south of them the Thirty-fourth German division with scrapings from depots and offices, cookhouses and camps were hurried up to counterattack our men when they were exhausted after long fighting.

HUN LACKS RESERVES.

So for some hours the German resistance had been stiffened and they were able to keep us in check. It cannot be for long, I imagine, because there is no doubt the enemy is in desperate straits for reserves strong enough to make a firm stand, and what I saw today is real proof there are no lines ahead of us now which our men cannot break if they have freshness and numbers and are not used up by the long periods of fighting. Men who captured the Scheldt canal can take anything, and because the Germans could not hold this line, they can hold no line. I went along the great length of it today, and was astounded our men could get across with such little loss. It has steep banks ninety to one hundred feet high on each side of the canal, cutting high and dry by Bellenglise, but with five to six feet or more of water twenty yards wide between that village and Bellicourt some miles away. When it goes into the tunnel it is perfectly prepared for defense with communication trenches leading from lower ground beyond to high banks, where there were machine gun and field gun emplacements having a perfect field of fire should any men be rash enough to advance over the ridge to the western bank. Our men were rash enough and crossed the canal on bridges of planks and on water rafts.

"The old Boche ought to defend a position like this to the crack of doom," said one of our officers this morning, and, indeed, it is only the marvelous courage of our men favored by dense white fog which achieved this crossing of Scheldt canal.

PLEASANT STREAM.

In time of peace it must have been a pleasant stream, with steep banks clothed with undergrowth and by a long straight vista of water, which goes suddenly into the hillside. Even now it has none of that grim horror which haunts Yser canal, although the German airmen were above watching our activities and searching for any new menace preparing against them.

Our air patrol challenged them to single fights and tourneys, or dog fights, as our flying men call them without romance, and there was constant chatter of machine guns overhead and coming of many engines, and our squadrons came sailing up, and more hostile aircraft appeared from the clouds. From behind the British lines many thousands of men stared up at this sky battle, and there was furious work by our anti-aircraft guns one after another. In less than two minutes two airplanes came crashing to earth, poor broken things; out of one a body fell swaying so lightly that I think it must have been fastened to a parachute, but the other fell like a stone, but that way of death was better than another way which I saw when I went into the tunnel where the water goes under the hill.

This tunnel is five miles long, but I walked only part way through. It is pitch dark, so that its blackness is like velvet on one's eyes. By a pocket torch I could see a yard ahead, and I flashed it over the black water of the canal, where there were many big old wooden barges, where many Germans had hidden until they were routed out. After that when a party of Australians advanced with torches and hand grenades and fixed bayonets, they saw ahead of them the glint of light and shouted, "Who goes there?" and waited.

RANGERS INVESTIGATE.

Presently very slowly towards them came, not Germans, but two old bush rangers with a stump of candle between them. "Well, boys," they said, "don't be scared; we were only exploring a bit on our own." They had got into the tunnel higher up and were on a prowl for Germans or souvenirs. There are only dead Germans in the tunnel now, and some were dead in such a way that the sight of them revived that gruesome story of the German kadaver Anstalt or corpse factory which was circulated some time ago.

Credulous wild rumors spread among English and Australian troops that here they had discovered the ghoulish work of boiling down cadavers. In a cavern of the main tunnel were two boilers, and around about it Thursday I saw bodies of German soldiers, and inside the boilers were the bits of bodies. What more was wanted as evidence of a foul practice?

To men of easy belief in the worst horrors of humanity such evidence would be good enough. But I prefer the mentality of an Australian boy whose face I could not see, but who as he stumbled along by my side said: "I want to get at the truth of this tale, because I do not think any men in the world would be vile enough to do such things."

And the truth is that by some explosion from within or without these German cooks and soldiers had been killed and were blown to bits as they stood round their stew pans and parts of their bodies had fallen into the boiling grease.

PEACE NEWS LOWERS WAR SHARES PRICES.

BULGARIA AND TURKEY INFLUENCE WEEK'S TREND IN STOCK MARKETS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Bulgaria's surrender and the impending collapse of the Turkish forces overshadowed all other developments in this week's stock market, incidentally imparting a distinct peace tinge to the greatly-increased operations.

War shares and many others not hitherto placed in that rather varied group, were freely sold at material price reactions, while stocks which are expected to derive substantial benefits from a cessation of the world conflict advanced correspondingly.

Foremost in the latter divisions were the shippings, oils, motors, tobaccos and many utilities, especially gas and electric issues and tractions, including those of companies operating in the Middle West.

United States Steel was under constant restraint, but yielded only 5 points in the face of a heavy daily outpouring. Transportations began the week with additional gains, due mainly to further favorable statements of earnings, many low-priced rails participating. Moderate reversals were the rule in that quarter later.

Despite the unusual exigencies created by the Liberty Loan, money conditions were in no wise disturbed.

Most of the foreign war flotations reflected the stimulating news from abroad, Russian external bonds mounting to the year's highest quotations.

IN THE CHAMPAGNE.

On both sides of the Suippe the American and French troops under Gen. Gouraud rapidly are driving the Germans from the heights dominating the Champagne region east of Rheims. The Germans are retiring to the River Arnes, but the Americans already have reached that stream at St. Etienne. Northwest of Rheims the French have forced several crossings of the Aisne Canal, endangering the German rear in Champagne. A German retirement on a considerable front to a depth of at least five miles in Champagne is not unlikely as a result of the successes of Gens. Gouraud and Berthelot.

From St. Quentin north to the Lys on the front before the important bases of Cambrai, Douai and Lille, the British are exerting strong pressure. The Germans are endeavoring to hold onto their positions until the work of devastation in their rear is completed. North of St. Quentin the British have driven further eastward the apex of the salient at Beaurevoir and on Saturday captured 1000 prisoners.

SUB BASES BOMBARDED.

In Belgium the forces under King Albert maintained their pressure. Since September 28 the Belgian, French and British have advanced nine miles on a twenty-five-mile front and have taken 10,500 prisoners and 350 guns.

Dispatches show that the enemy is abandoning his submarine bases on the Belgian coast. The coast has been under heavy fire from British warships and it is said that the exodus of the Germans is now under way.

In Albania Austrian armies along the Semeni River seem to be in precipitate retreat. Italian cavalry is operating in this theater of the war.

British forces have been active in Northern Italy and have raided the Austrian positions opposite them.

YANKS' GOAL IS BIG RAIL BASE.

Central Arch of Huns' Lines in France Aimed At.

Gen. March Tells Importance of Latest Drive.

Nearly Two Million Men Have been Sent Overseas.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The great trunk railway system near the Belgian border which feeds the whole central arch of the German lines in France is the goal of the First American Army, which Gen. March, Chief of Staff, said today, is making rapid progress. Official dispatches show the Americans to be eighteen miles from the nearest point on the important railroad, Gen. March said. Reports today have indicated that despite stiffening of German resistance, the American forces are pushing onward and the distance to the goal is being cut down rapidly.

To back up that American effort, Gen. March showed that the flow of American troops to France continues at a rate of more than a quarter of a million a month. A total of 1,550,000 men have been embarked, he said.

The Chief of Staff plainly made evident his great pride in the deeds of the American army in France, now a vital factor in the stirring events which he described.

"The news during the last week from all fronts has been excellent," he said. "The three drives begun by the Allies on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, have moved our line forward on a front wider than ever, affecting practically the entire line from the sea to Verdun.

DRIVE WAY FORWARD.

"Between the Argonne Forest and the Meuse River the American army has not only held the enemy's reinforcements to that sector, but has driven its way forward on its entire front to the Kriemhilde position, where the enemy is standing. The American divisions at that point threaten the main railroad line of communications from Germany to the west front, the railroad coming through from Germany and passing through Sedan and other places of historic military interest. It is the most important single artery of supply of their army.

"The Americans have reached a point eighteen miles in a direct line from that railroad and as soon as the direction of the drive became evident, Germany threw in its path a great many divisions, withdrawing them from other points in the line, and they have been held there by the Americans when they are badly needed elsewhere.

"Just west of the Argonne Forest, Gen. Gouraud's French army with the Second American Division has likewise fought its way northward eight to ten miles to the enemy's line of defense, west of Challerange.

"Hills have been captured which command the enemy's supply lines south of Vouziers.

ENEMY FORCED BACK.

"The British drive on Cambrai and St. Quentin developed into a battle for the entire Hindenburg line between those points and the enemy has now been forced back to or beyond this line along its entire length from Flanders to the Aillette. The British, aided by the Twenty-seventh and Thirtieth American divisions, directed their assaults particularly against the hills five to ten miles north of St. Quentin, where they have swept entirely across the enemy's zone of defenses and have opened gaps in his lines which he has closed with great difficulty. In spite of the opposition of the enemy, Cambrai is being enveloped by the advance of the British, who have crossed the Escaut Canal on a wide front south of the city, and have reached the hills beyond.

"The drive in Flanders rapidly spread the line into a semi-circular salient, ten miles deep. By this advance, the Allies have taken back more than seventy-five square miles of Belgium, and threaten the enemy's possession of Ostend and Zeebrugge and of the coal fields behind Lens. In consequence, the enemy is reported to be evacuating the two ports, and is withdrawing from the entire sector from Lens to Armentieres.

"The enemy has come down off the Vesle-Aisne plateau, northwest of Rheims, and has been followed by the French to the Aisne Canal.

IN THE BALKANS.

"In the Balkans, while the Bulgarian army is retiring from Serbia, the Serbian army has advanced rapidly northward and is in contact with the Austrians near Vranye, half way between Uskub and Nish. In Albania the Austrians are retiring and the Serbians have (reoccupied Berat, crossing the Semeni River, and moving in the direction of Durazzo, the naval base which we attacked the other day."

Of the embarkation of American troops, Gen. March said:

"The shipping of American troops during the last month has continued over 250,000, in spite of the general epidemic of influenza all over the country, in military camps as well as in civil life. In sending men abroad we are selecting men who have neither had the disease nor been exposed to it. This has made necessary some readjustment, but the flow of troops is, as I have stated it, over 250,000 for the last month.

"The entire number of troops embarked from the United States is over 1,850,000."

WOLF PUTS ON SKIN OF LAMB.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—In the reorganization of the German Cabinet, involving the retirement of Pan-German and extreme conservative elements, and the introduction of a large admixture of Social Democrats, Liberals and Clericals, officials here find no indication of a real change of heart on the part of the thoroughly frightened imperial party.

The Cabinet changes are believed to be nothing more than part of a plan to save the principle of autocratic control of the Cabinet, while striving to make is appear that the demand for the creation of a responsible Cabinet, whose existence shall be dependent entirely upon the will of the Reichstag, has been granted.

The condition is peculiarly interesting to Washington officials owing to the often expressed determination of President Wilson to deal hereafter only with a government that is actually representative of the will of the German people and not with one of the present autocratic form.

STATEMENTS BY WAR OFFICES.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Field Marshal Haig reports some progress by British troops around Mont Drehain and Beaurevoir in the St. Quentin sector. His statement tonight adds that the Germans have begun to withdraw from the high ground between Le Catelet and Crevecoeur.

It says:

"Operations of a minor character were continued successfully by us north of St. Quentin. Australian and English troops, accompanied by the tanks, made progress in the neighborhood of the villages of Montbrehain and Beaurevoir, and on the spur northwest of the latter village. A number of prisoners have been taken.

"On the whole front between these two villages our troops now are east of the canal. Driving in the German covering detachments, they have gained possession of La Terriere and a section of the Hindenburg system in this neighborhood.

"The enemy is burning Douai."

In the region north of St. Quentin British troops made substantial progress yesterday southeast of Beaurevoir and north of Le Catelet. Field Marshal Haig's report earlier today says that 800 prisoners were captured.

The British line northwest of Le Catelet was advanced slightly Friday night.

FRENCH.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Oct. 5.—Fort Brimont has been captured by the French troops, the War Office announces tonight. The massif of Moronvillers has been taken and the massif of Nogent l'Abbesse encircled.

The statement adds:

"We hold the course of the Arnes River. We have crossed the Suippe River at Orainville and the Arnes at several points.

"In victorious attack, our troops, in collaboration with the Americans on the Vesle front and in Champagne, compelled the enemy to make a general retreat toward the Suippe and the Arnes. He abandoned strongly-fortified positions held since 1914."

Under the pressure of French and American attacks in Champagne, the Germans have retired on their left flank and given up territory, the War Office reported today.

West of the Suippe the French, keeping in touch with the German Rear Guards, have reached the heights southeast of Moronvilliers.

French and American troops in Champagne have gained further ground north of Blanc Mont in the direction of the River Artes.

Along the Aisne Canal in the region of Rheims the French are pressing the Germans vigorously and have crossed the canal at several points. The French have reached the outskirts of Bermericourt, east of the canal.

Violent fighting continues north of St. Quentin. In desperate fighting the French have driven the enemy from the heights southeast of Chardon-Vert.

The French have maintained their gains in heavy fighting east of the Argonne Forest.

The statement reads:

"Northwest of Rheims we have resumed our vigorous pressure against the enemy along the whole front of the Aisne Canal which we crossed at several points. Our troops have progressed to the outskirts of Bermericourt. The number of prisoners counted during the last five days is more than 2500. Thirty-one cannon fell into the hands of the French, including twenty of large caliber, of which five were 210's.

"South of Monthois the French broke up German counter-attacks against the Croix des Soudans and maintained their gains. The enemy with heavy reinforcements, disputed the terrain on the front between Orfeuil and Monthois with extreme stubborness."

LONDON, Oct. 5.—A statement dealing with the operations around St. Quentin issued by the French War Office and just received here says:

"We have taken Chardon-Vert, south of Sequehart, and many fortified woods. We have captured Morcourt, where we took 400 prisoners and four cannon."

CARGO VESSEL LOST.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

A steamer proceeding to New York reported that she picked up four men and one dead body from the wreckage. Naval vessels were immediately sent to the scene to search for possible survivors and to sweep the vicinity for mines. The Sun Saba was of 2458 gross tons.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The American steamship San Saba, reported sunk by hitting a mine off Barnegat, N. J., carried a crew of thirty-seven men and was commanded by Capt. Birdsall. cans very close to the German main line. It is expected that the Americans will have to prepare their positions for several days before being able successfully to attack these strong positions.

GENEVA (Switzerland) Oct. 5.—Forty villages in Alsace-Lorraine from Basel to Colmar have been evacuated by the civilian population, according to the Democrate. The German authorities, the newspaper says, now have ordered the inhabitants of Mulhausen, Altkirch and other smaller towns to prepare to leave immediately.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The American advance northwest of Verdun threatens the greatest single line of communication between Germany and the west front, Gen. March said today, and Gen. Pershing's forces have now reached a point within eighteen miles of this great artery.

The progress of Gen. Pershing's forces caused the German General Staff to throw into this sector many divisions of reinforcements, the Chief of Staff said, but despite this the Americans not only have maintained the positions won, but have pushed forward until they now face the German Kriemhild line of defense.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 5.—A German supplementary official report today claims that the attack of the French and American divisions in Champagne today from north of St. Marie-a-Py to Monthois was a failure, according to advices received here from Berlin. The report says the attack was supported by tanks and partly carried out by fresh forces.

Berlin alleges that partial attacks on both sides of the Aisne met a like fate. The statement concludes:

"Between the Argonne and the Meuse, after a drumfire that reached to the eastern bank of the Meuse, the Americans tried to break through in a mass onslaught of infantry and tanks, which in places was repeated seven times. They were completely repulsed with the heaviest losses."

CHARGE IN FOG.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Oct. 5, 7 p.m.—Fighting with all the ferocity of the early days of the war, the Germans did their utmost today to bring to a halt the American offensive.

Early this morning and in the forenoon the Americans pushed forward through a blanket of fog a yard at a time, and later in the day when the mists lifted they drove forward a further distance against the German line.

Almost no change has been made on the right near the Meuse, but on the left the operations of the French west of the Argonne Forest and the Americans on the east defined more clearly the salient in which the enemy still has a considerable force opposing the Americans, who have been steadily clearing the forest of machine-gun nests.

Again the Germans concentrated their greatest efforts on the center in an effort to prevent the swinging upward of their line to a point which would endanger yet further that part of the army left in the Argonne woods.

AIR ACTION LESS.

Although the artillery action of the Germans today was terrific—the volume was greater than yesterday—there was a notable reduction of aerial effort. Only occasionally did the German aviators accept the challenge of the Americans today and even a bombing expedition to Landres-et-St. Georges, where more than two tons of bombs were dropped, did not develop resistance.

The contrast in the forenoon was not surprising because of the low visibility but conditions in the afternoon were excellent and full advantage was taken of them by the French and Americans who carried out a hundred missions, ranging from simple observation to bombing the back areas. The theory of the aviators is that the Germans have adopted a policy of conserving their airplanes, using them to great extent only on cloudy days such as yesterday. On cloudy days they can fly by compass above the clouds, swooping below them when occasion demands, than disappearing above almost immediately, and so escaping all but momentary observation.

The American planes were an active factor until late tonight. Before the fog actually lifted they were over the German lines, machine gunning the men in the trenches and harassing the transports and artillery. Time and again the roads behind the lines were choked by flyers, who, with their machine guns, dropped the horses dragging guns and transports. This choking of the roads was accomplished without the loss of a single plane. Of the few enemy planes that did fly over the American lines one was brought down by an anti-tank gun captured a few hours before.

TANKS USED.

Tanks were used again by the Americans, but somewhat less extensively than on the first day. It was a day of artillery action more than anything else. Each side sent hundreds of thousands of shells, high explosives, shrapnel and gas, into the other's territory. Repeatedly the Germans gathered in force to launch counter-attacks, but always with negative result. The Americans, most of whom have now had experience on battlefields, stood like veterans here and there changing their defense to offensive and gathering in another tiny bit of ground between them and the Kriemhilde positions.

The Americans threw a flood of artillery fire into the German lines and moved infantry up with machine guns.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—More than 200,000 subscriptions, amounting to approximately $70,000,000, during the first week of the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign were reported in Chicago tonight.

Milwaukee, according to reports to the Seventh Federal Reserve District, has so far subscribed $17,900,000, or about 55 per cent. of its allotment. With reports in from thirty-seven counties of Wisconsin the total for the State is $41,000,000, or 41 per cent. of the quota.

Detroit, with subscriptions of $28,000,000, has taken more than half of its allotment. Michigan outside of Detroit, has bought [illegible] per cent. of its allotment.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 5.—The Jones and Laughlin Steel Company today subscribed to $7,000,000 worth of Liberty Bonds. The subscription represents the steel company, its employees, officers, directors, subsidiary companies and affiliated interests.

PANAMA ASSEMBLYMEN BUY.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PANAMA, Oct. 5.—The session of the National Assembly of Panama was suspended for fifteen minutes today while two Panama girls took subscriptions for America's Fourth Liberty Loan. Every member subscribed. The girls then called on the members of the Cabinet and obtained a subscription from each one.

The Chinese Nationalist League of Panama at a meeting today voted to subscribe to the loan as an organization and each member also made a subscription.

The workers in the Canal Zone already have subscribed $600,000 and the committee feels certain of obtaining the quota of $1,000,000.

PREVIOUS PLEDGE OF THE FUTURE PEACE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Oct. 5.—(Havas.)—Premier Venizelos of Greece has telegraphed Premier Clemenceau expressing the admiration and gratitude of Greece for the help given by the French in Macedonia. The sacrifices made by the Allied soldiers, he added, attest the solidarity of the great and small nations all hungering for liberty, "which is the precious pledge of the future peace."

In reply M. Clemenceau said he thanked regenerated and reconstituted Greece for aiding in the first victory in the east. The Allied victory marks the beginning of an era of justice, he declared.

EVENTS IN EAST IMPERIL KAISER

Bulgaria's Surrender Isolates Turkey from Ally.

War in West Also Going Against German Arms.

Teutons Daily Face Overwhelming Disasters.

BY J. B. W. GARDNER,

Military Expert of the New York "Times."

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Shortly after the completion of last week's review, the Bulgarian delegates appeared before the Allied commander and signed an armistice. The terms were unconditional surrender in general.

This peace has forced the Austrian army in Albania to begin a widespread retreat which they must continue until practically all of Albania and Montenegro have been evacuated. The Italians took advantage of the situation and to avoid complete destruction the Austrians were forced to fall back. Berat has already fallen to the Allies without a blow being struck. Durazzo, now destroyed by the Allied fleet, must also be given up.

The Serbians, it is reported, have reached Nish, near the Bulgarian border, where it is crossed by the Oriental Railroad. Because of the railroad connection this is the most important event following the Bulgarian surrender. This completes the isolation of Turkey from the Central Powers. Cut off from Germany and Austria, Turkey must eventually get out of the war. Germany can possibly send her materials from Russia but not sufficient to maintain her in a constant defense of Palestine, Mesopotamia and her newly granted territory in the East.

BULGARIA DIVIDED.

The only fly in the Allies' ointment is that there is something like a revolution in Bulgaria, part of the population siding still with the Germans. And the pro-German element, joining hands with the Germans and Austrians, threaten to defend their country against an Allied invasion and to prevent them from reaching the Oriental Railroad. This we have seen has failed in the latter respect.

The Germans are fully alive to the great danger of permitting the Allies to obtain full control of the Balkan states as they will have if Turkey follows Bulgaria's example. Austria, too, sees the danger even more clearly than does Germany and both can be counted on to do their utmost to prevent the Allies from realizing the opportunities which Bulgaria's surrender has placed in their way. Unfortunately for the Central Powers, the only thing that can remedy the situation as far as they are concerned is men and guns. There are no men to send. Germany can spare none from Russia.

The Russian situation is steadily becoming more unendurable for the Germans. The troops they have there are the sole hope of saving anything from the treaty of Brest-Litovsk. Moreover, Rumania, while Russian treachery forced her to surrender, needs most careful German watching. Once the Allies establish themselves on the Danube River, Rumania will welcome them with open arms.

On the western front, German wastage has gone on at such a tremendous rate that no troops can possibly be withdrawn for service elsewhere. To attempt to withdraw troops from this front, in order to save the East would be suicide. Austria and Germany can send sufficient troops into Northern Serbia and Bulgaria to check the Allies for a short time. The end, however, is inevitable. The Central Powers must give up the Balkans, Turkey must get out of the war and on the same terms as did Bulgaria, and the Allies must invade Austria. Unquestionably the German future in the East looks black. Gen. Allenby has taken quick and immediate advantage of the defeat of the Turkish army and has advanced beyond Damascus, capturing the town with an additional 5000 prisoners.

On the western front, many events of great importance have taken place. On the extreme northern end of the line, east of Ypres, the Belgians have been steadily pushing forward with the British, until they have finally crossed the Roulers Menin Railroad. This move threatens the entire German hold on the Belgian coast.

But more important than this is the way this movement on the north synchronizes with the British movement south of Cambrai in drawing a loop around the great German bases between Menin and St. Quentin. This loop is an enveloping movement on a large scale, which, when we consider the weight of pressure which is unceasingly being directed against the entire German line, holds a powerful menace to the safety of the German arms.

HABIT OF DEFEAT.

Psychologically it is the intention of Foch to instil into the German mind the habit of defeat. Again the purpose is attrition on a tremendous scale, so that when it comes to the final blow Germany will have nothing with which to meet it. If under this plan the tips of the circle are drawn closer and the line should crack disaster will surely follow. The Germans are aware of the danger and are already getting out of a part of the circle and in all probability preparing for further withdrawals. Over a front of nearly twenty miles on either side of the La Bassee Canal the Germans have been withdrawing for two days. Already they have retreated for over six miles, abandoning Armentieres and Lens and there is no indication yet that the retreat has halted.

This retreat was a direct result of the Belgian operations in the north. It is not going to be necessary to drive the Germans out of France foot by foot. Clever flanking movements will be able to accomplish this result with a minimum waste of human material.

On that section of the line between Douai and Cambrai we have seen the most astonishing accomplishments of the war. It was anticipated by all those who had studied the war and who realized the difficulties of attacking strongly fortified positions, that when the Allied forces confronted the Hindenburg line their spectacular advance since July 18 would come to a halt. The Germans were snugly back behind the Canal Du Nord before Cambrai. Before St. Quentin they were approximately in the same positions they had held in the spring of 1518. Suddenly the British broke across the difficult Canal Du Nord, seized all of the important ground west of Cambrai and reached the suburbs of the city.

FRENCH AT ST. QUENTIN.

The French in the meantime drove across the St. Quentin Canal and captured the city. The Hindenburg line in its most vital and therefore its strongest point was smashed over a wide front. All the forces then have had to be discarded as a result of the new tactics and improved machinery, coupled, of course, with the decline in strength of the Germans.

The British had no desire to penetrate Cambrai through street fighting as Cambrai is too large for that and it would only cause useless destruction. To attack on the north meant heavy losses. The British therefore turned their attention to the stretch of line between Cambrai and St. Quentin and have spent the past several days in heavy attacks. These have been in the main entirely successful. The north and south stretch of the Scheldt Canal is still held by the Germans, but it is almost surrounded. North and south of it wedges have been driven in, that to the south penetrating several miles east of the canal line. Here it appears that the defenses of the Hindenburg line have been definitely breached. If the British can but keep going here, not only will the canal line be turned, but the Germans will have to leave the entire Cambrai region. This will force a retreat on a wide scale.

The Germans have voluntarily given up the line of the Vesle and have fallen back behind the Aisne, releasing the western side of the pocket in which Rheims was placed. East of Rheims, however, the French and the Americans are keeping up the attack which began last week in the Champagne and Argonne countries. Not a great deal of heavy fighting has taken place east of the Argonne. But on the west fighting has been consistently pressed. The result so far is that the Germans have been thrust back from the ridge which generally parallels the front about five miles north of Somme-Py and the wedge which at the outset was narrow has been consistently widened westward. Here we have another salient forming, one heel of which is near Courcy north of Rheims and the other near Monthois. This, like the British attack, is designed to force a retreat by threatening Laon. The progress here has been quite as remarkable as that of the British about Cambrai. The Germans are fighting desperately, but they are being forced back irresistibly and face a retreat here. In fact, there are at least three points on the line where a retreat is almost inevitable if another week brings a repetition of Allied successes. Any one of them may bring in its wake serious consequences.

WEAK DRUG SAVES LIFE.

Young Woman's Attempt to Commit Suicide Fails—Is Treated at Hospital.

Misplaced confidence in the strength of a drug solution which she drank in an alleged attempt to commit suicide early yesterday saved the life of Miss Marguerite H. Crowe, 24, of No. 317 South Flower street.

The young woman, who said she is private secretary to a well-known business man, was found moaning in her room and was rushed to the Receiving Hospital, where it was discovered the drug she took was not strong enough to accomplish the purpose it was planned for.

Despondency is said to have been the reason for her act.

Baldness

—is rapidly increasing — says Prof. John H. Austin, Chicago's bacteriologist, hair and scalp specialist of 39 years' practice —and is in many, many cases directly or indirectly caused by —A very common scalp trouble.

Alopecia Pityrodes—

—It starts with a scaling of the scalp, sometimes slight, called "dandruff," sometimes abundent—producing, thick, grayish-white, dry or greasy scales—which leads to falling of the hair.

—At first, when the hair starts to fall, it is hardly noticeable, but as this ailment, "Alopecia Pityrodes," becomes more deeply seated, and the germs multiply, as they always do, the falling of the hair increases rapidly, and in time the top of the head becomes entirely bald. Both men and women of all ages of life are subject to Alopecia Pityrodes, but particularly those between the ages of 20 and 35 years.

—Prof. Austin, who is now at Hamburger's, says that people who are at all troubled with any kind of hair and scalp trouble, such as

—Itching Scalp
—Falling Hair
—Excessively Oily Hair
—Dry and Brittle Hair
—Dandruff
—Split Hair
—Gray or Faded Hair

—Should have their hair examined at once under his powerful microscope.

—Professor Austin says that the use of mange cures, dandruff cures, hair tonics, vaseline and elixirs is like taking medicine without knowing what you are trying to cure.

—During the past three years Prof. Austin has made thousands of free microscopic examinations of the hair and scalp of Hamburger's patrons—and they enthusiastically appreciate this service.

—Both men and women should take advantage of the FREE MICROSCOPIC EXAMINATIONS—by the Prof. Austin method—of the hair and scalp this week in private offices on the Second Floor of Hamburger's. Hours: 10 to 12 and 2 to 4 daily.

WOMEN TO REPLACE MEN IN INDUSTRY.

ENLARGED SCOPE OF ACTIVITIES SEEN IN ORDERS OF GOVERNMENT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—That women are to replace men in an enormously increasing ratio in industry is now certain. Orders giving women a large share of the responsibility for the administration of war labor supply programme have been issued by the United States employment service of the Department of Labor.

Two women, one representative of management and one representative of labor, are to be added to each State Advisory Board of the employment service, bringing the total membership of each of these boards from five to seven. Hitherto the State advisory boards have been composed of the State director of employment service as chairman, two representatives of management and two of labor.

In addition two women are now being added to the original membership of every community labor board, changing the personnel of these boards to one man and one woman each representative of local management, one man and one woman each representative of local labor and one local representative of the employment service as chairman.

It is further ordered that the two women members on the community labor board shall have full voting powers on all questions coming within the jurisdiction of those boards. These powers include the decision of questions concerning the methods of recruiting and distributing of war labor in the various communities subject to the general direction of the United States employment service under the Department of Labor.

The Department of Labor necessitates a larger introduction of women into industry than has hitherto been attempted in this country. The policy of the employment service in having this great change in the national life supervised by women equally with men is a guarantee that the process will be carefully carried out and that no woman will be allowed to take work for which she is not physically fitted or under conditions not suitable for her employment.

CHECKERBOARD OF WAR.

How Can Germanic Army Escape Utter Annihilation in Belgium?

BY HARRY CARR.

Germany having suggested an armistice and peace, the usual question arises; is this offer made with sincerity or is it merely an attempt to stiffen the morale of the German people by convincing them that the Allies' offer them no alternative but a fight to the finish?

This is a question for diplomats to decide; but the military position of Germany is desperate enough to justify any conclusion.

It is problematical now if Germany could manage to retreat from France and Belgium without the annihilation of her army.

The new American offensive in the Argonne, coupled with the encircling movement north of Ypres, threatens to cut the Germans off from their bases of supplies; while the terrific British drive in the center threatens to tear the German army into two parts.

This great peril, in which the Hun army stands, calls for an immediate retreat, but the conditions confronting such a retreat make it an all but impossible military operation.

The Germans are now harvesting the result of their violation of Belgium. They are hoist by their own petard.

Had they been content to invade France by their lawful route through Alsace-Lorraine, their present predicament would have been much simpler. But having made the invasion through Belgium, it follows that they must retreat over the same route.

In so retreating, they must make a wide quarter circle. The further such a retreat proceeds, the more dangerous it becomes.

The acute danger lies in the fact that the long, curving flank of the retreating army will be exposed to the assaults of any army that the Allies will land in Belgium.

CAN'T BE DONE.

It will be impossible to prevent the landing of such an army, because, as the retreat proceeds, it automatically breaks contact with the English Channel.

The moment the banks of the English Channel are yielded by the retreating Germans, at that moment does the problem of the retreat become the most difficult maneuver probably ever attempted by any army.

This is the reason why:

As the retreat proceeds to the point where troops can be landed by the Allies on the Belgian coast, the position of the Germans assumes the shape of a fan.

Germany will then be facing the necessity of fighting rear-guard actions, not only in France, but all along the entire coast line from Holland to the French boundary.

Under the most favorable circumstances, a rear-guard action is a difficult military feat. When the necessity of fighting a rear-guard action that covers the whole distance of the present rear, and, added to that, the whole distance of the long curving flank, the problem becomes appalling.

And we should not forget that, while Germany must put up a desperate battle to protect the rear line and the long right flank, the Americans and French will be in a position to cut in through Lorraine and head off the retreat before it can arrive at the Rhine.

Thus the Germans will be under the necessity of fighting a slow, careful retreat to hold off the British; at the same time they will be under an equally-pressing necessity of conducting an exceedingly-rapid retreat to beat the Americans to the Rhine.

Added to this, the fact must be remembered that the Germans have to retreat through a country whose inhabitants are burning with hatred and revenge. Behind every stone wall will be a civilian who has seen his people lined up and shot before that same stone wall.

PRECEDENTS.

It is a matter of history that nearly every army that ever tried to retreat in any such circumstances has been torn to pieces.

Whenever that retreat progresses to the point where contact with the English channel is broken, then the Germans instantly find themselves with the longest battle line they have had at any time during the war.

At no time have they ever been able to protect a line of such length—even when their man power was strongest and their morale most glowing.

Their man power at the present time is, of course, terribly reduced and their morale at a very low ebb, both as to the civilian population and the troops in the field.

I don't see how they can escape being absolutely cut to pieces.

There are half a dozen very savage battles in progress on the west front. Any one of them is likely to tear a hole in the German line. Whenever this happens and the Germans thus lose their ability to act as one elastic army, they cannot escape virtual annihilation.

It is well enough for them to speak of the vigor with which they will fight when they get back to the Rhine; but how are they to get back to the Rhine?

The Hindenburg line no longer offers the slightest protection. It has been almost shot to pieces.

The Americans are driving in behind it in the Argonne and the British are chewing it up as a bulldog tears a rag doll.

So much for the west front. When we realize that the west front is the safest place the Germans occupy we get some idea of their plight.

In the east the Central Powers are as a snake cut in two.

The surrender of Bulgaria not only makes defeat inevitable, but makes the future of Germany after the war look very black.

The Germans make no secret of their fear to face the period that follows the war. Their only hope of avoiding a frightful commercial catastrophe is to get a tight grip on Russia.

With Bulgaria out and leaving the Allies a broad, free path into the very heart of commercial Russia all Germany's hopes are snuffed out. Whoever brings food to Russia this starving winter will have the inside track in the race for Russian influence, and of course the Allies will be there with food. The alienation of Russia from Germany will leave the Kaiser in a frightful predicament.

With Germany hopelessly involved and facing a massacre on the west front; with Turkey yelling for mercy; Austria-Hungary unwilling to go further; with more Americans arriving at the front every day and with a rested and restored Italian army ready to start a new offensive, the situation has nothing in it that is particularly cheering to the Hohenzollern family.

GIRLS! LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR

A small bottle of "Danderine" makes hair thick, glossy and wavy.

Removes all dandruff, stops itching scalp and falling hair.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now — it costs but a few cents—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance, freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and luster, and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower, destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

WILL BLOCK OUTSIDE INFLUENCES AT LEWIS.

CAMP MORALE OFFICER ASSIGNED TO STIMULATE SPIRIT OF SOLDIERS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CAMP LEWIS (Tacoma) Oct. 5.—A new department was created here today with the assignment of Capt. Walter L. Doty of the One Hundred and Sixty-sixth Depot Brigade to be camp morale officer. This is the first time this work has been segregated under one man and it will be Capt. Doty's duty to make suggestions and work out plans tending to increase the co-operation and spirit of soldiers here.

Work among the men is not considered as great a factor in their morale as is the prevention of outside influences lowering their morale. This has been shown of late by false reports circulated outside camp concerning the incidence of disease here.

Relatives of many soldiers have written here relating exaggerated stories of sickness they have heard of and this has had a disconcerting effect on some men.

Another factor against the camp morale is contained in pessimistic letters some soldiers have received from home. Practically all desertions from this camp, although there has been very few, were caused by letters relatives had written soldiers concerning home affairs.

Nineteen medical officers arrived here today and were assigned to organizations of the Thirteenth Division.

According to instructions received from the War Department, all Porto Ricans in camp will be transferred without loss of rank to troop units in their own country.

SHIPBUILDING RECORD BROKEN

Wood Vessel Ready for Sea in Twenty-three Days.

Steel Craft to be Launched as Loan Drive Feature.

Portland Boilermakers Disobey Half-Holiday Order.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ABERDEEN (Wash.) Oct. 5.—The wooden "speed" ship, Aberdeen, launched last Saturday night at the yards of the Gray's Harbor Motorship Corporation, after seventeen and one-half days' of work, is ready for her trial trip and immediately thereafter will be turned over, complete, to the Emergency Fleet Corporation, having been fully constructed and ready for sea in twenty-three and one-half days, smashing every former world's record.

The nearest approach to the time made on the Aberdeen was that achieved on the steel steamer Crawl Keys, built at the Encorse yard of the Great Lake Engineering Works in twenty-nine days. The Crawl Keys, however, was a single-screw steamer, while the Aberdeen, a ship of 4000 tons, has twin propellers.

TO HONOR ALL ALLIES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Bearing a name which the Emergency Fleet Corporation stated will be "in honor of all the Allies," a 5500-ton steel cargo ship will be launched at Newark Bay, October 14, as a feature of the Liberty Loan drive.

An announcement by the loan committee here tonight said it was understood the name of the vessel would be withheld, as a surprise, until the hour of christening, and that Mrs. Wilson, wife of the President, probably would be its sponsor.

BACK PAY AWARDED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—The forthcoming decision from the Federal Shipbuilding Labor Adjustment Board on the demands of shipbuilders generally for higher wages will be effective as from last August 1st, according to a telegram received here today by R. H. Brotherton, special examiner of the Emergency Fleet Corporation from V. Everit Macy, chairman of the board.

This means, according to Brotherton, that any probable wage increase will date from last August 1.

The demands followed insertion of a clause in a previous agreement signed by the board, the ship workers and their employers, allowing the workers to seek higher wages if living conditions justified them.

Despite recent orders of the Pacific Coast Council of Boilermakers and Iron Shipbuilders, there was no general observance today of the Saturday half-holiday in the Pacific Coast shipyards. In the Oakland yards about 5000 men obeyed the order and quit work at noon, but the machinists and laborers continued at their tasks. In the Northwest the Seattle workers only took a half-day holiday, about 30,000 being affected.

In the various other shipbuilding plants along the Coast there was no cessation of activity, the men preferring to remain at work pending settlement of the question by the Federal Wage Board whether overtime is to be allowed for Saturday-afternoon work.

DECLINE HALF HOLIDAY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 5.—Members of the Boilermaker's Union in this city did not take a half-holiday today, as they were ordered to do by the Pacific Coast Council of Boilermakers' and Iron Ship Builders' meeting in Oakland, Cal., yesterday. The local boilermakers remained at work in the shipyards despite instructions from the south to work the forty-four-hour week instead of the forty-eight-hour week.

OAKLAND, Oct. 5.—The order of the Pacific Coast Council of Boilermakers to work only a forty-four-hour week, meaning a half holday Saturdays, was obeyed here, and some 5000 men quit at noon. The machinists and laborers remained at work.

MORE STATE HEALTH ORGANIZATION URGED.

TUBERCULOSIS CONFERENCE DELEGATES DECLARE LAWS ARE NEEDED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DENVER, Oct. 5.—Declaring several States and cities in the Southwest did not have "adequate" health organizations, the southwestern tuberculosis conference, in session here today, urged the immediate establishment of public health departments by these States and municipalties. The conference asked also that they be given sufficient authority to enforce existing laws safeguarding public health or necessary regulations.

The experience of all social welfare and anti-tuberculosis associations, the conference asserted, has shown that authority is requisite to the control of tuberculosis, communicable diseases and for sanitation. This declaration preceded the adoption of a resolution, which includes the call to Southwestern States and cities without public health departments to take action.

The conference, which had been in session two days, closed this afternoon, and more than 150 delegates visited sanatoriums in the city and the army's recuperation camp, under construction at Aurora, Colo.

BRITISH EDUCATORS ENVOYS TO AMERICA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Five eminent scholars representing universities of England, Scotland and Ireland, envoys of the British government to the United States "to inquire into the best means of securing closer co-operation between British and American educational institutions," will be the guests of Columbia University the coming week and on October 14 will start on an extended trip through the East, West and South. The itinerary will be announced later.

The mission, which is said to be the most distinguished British educational body that ever crossed the Atlantic, is composed of Arthur Everett Shipley, vice-chancellor of the University of Cambridge; Sir Henry Miers, vice-chancellor of the University of Manchester; the Rev. Edward M. Walker, fellow of Queen's College, Oxford; Sir Henry Jones, professor of moral philosophy in the University of Glasgow, and Dr. John Joly, professor of geology and mineralogy in Trinity College, Dublin.

FUNERAL OF VETERAN.

The funeral of Herbert Farnham, one of the youngest veterans of the Civil War, will be held this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. R. Bingham, Milan avenue, South Pasadena. The body will be cremated and the ashes sent to Detroit for interment. Mr. Farnham enlisted in the Union Army at the age of 15 years and fought through the war. He has lived in Southern California for the past four years. He died on Friday at the age of 77 years.

BLASTS' DEATH LIST FIFTY.

Casualties at Perth Amboy Explosion are Estimated at Two Hundred.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

PERTH AMBOY (N. J.) Oct. 5.—Army officers investigating the explosions which wrecked the great shell-loading plant of the T. A. Gillespie Company at Morgan estimated tonight that the dead would number not more than fifty and the injured 150. The property loss probably will approximate between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000.

Late today it was believed danger of greater devastation by the blowing up of stores of trinitrotoluol was virtually over. All that substance left unexploded is buried in underground caissons along the bank of Cheesequake Creek, upon which the plant is located, or is loaded on four barges tied up at the company docks along that stream.

Army officers reported after a reconnaissance by airplane that the location of the boats and storehouses is such that they believed there was slight probability it would be exploded either by fire or concussion.

INVESTIGATION STARTS.

Maj.-Gen. C. C. Williams, Chief of Ordnance of the United States Army, arrived here tonight to conduct a rigid investigation into the explosions and fire which demolished the shell loading plant of T. A. Gillespie Company at Morgan, with the probable loss of fifty lives and injury to 150 more workmen.

Gen. Williams was accompanied by Capt. Wilson, also of the Ordnance Department, and Lieut. De Nuffive, a French ordnance expert. Upon their arrival they went into conference with the army officers already here. Gen. Williams declined to make any statement until he had gone more deeply into the circumstances surrounding the disaster.

Late today the flames which have been sweeping the buildings of the Gillespie plant, appeared to be under control and there seems no danger they will reach the trinitrotoluol stores remaining untouched. There have been no serious explosions since afternoon and no additional damage has been done since then. Army officers declare that the danger is virtually over and they hope tomorrow to begin a systematic search of the ruins for the bodies.

Soldier guards with fixed bayonets and loaded rifles patrolled the deserted streets with strict orders to prevent looting or disorder of any kind.

MANY HOMELESS.

With the passing of the menace of an explosion around the plant, the problem of caring for the homeless became a serious one tonight.

South Amboy, a town of about 10,000 population, four miles north of Morgan, was virtually wrecked by the series of blasts. Scarcely a building in it remains habitable. Many were unroofed, and the walls of others blown in, while every pane of glass was broken. More than 400 citizens decided to spend the night there, however.

The Atlantic division of the Red Cross established headquarters at Perth Amboy this afternoon. Fifty ambulances from New York and Newark, with corps of doctors and nurses, arrived to take charge of the situation. Eight central depots were opened in churches, schools and other public buildings. Commandeered automobiles and cars driven by members of the Women's Motor Corps from New York and New Jersey were sent out to pick up fleeing refugees and bring them back to the depots for shelter. The Red Cross brought in from New York five motor trucks loaded with six tons of supplies. The city and the territory around Morgan was under military control, with the State guard in charge, under the personal direction of Gov. Edge.

7000 HOMELESS.

J. W. Faust, assistant director of civilian relief of the Red Cross, estimated that more than 7000 persons had been made homeless by the hail of shells and the force of explosions. He believed between 40,000 and 50,000 more had fled from their homes fearing disaster, and would not return until all danger is over. They present almost as much of a problem as those who are actually homeless.

Although South Amboy was hardest hit by the blasts, many farmers even nearer to the scene of the disaster were heavy losers. The homes which had been theirs before the war began and the shell-loading plant was built were demolished.

Officers and enlisted men had risked their lives for hours trying to determine whether the stores of QUIET WOMEN'S FEARS.

Women, who have been wandering about the streets all day, many of them with children in their arms, receive the assuring news with almost hysterical relief. The greatest difficulty has been experienced, however, in quieting the fears of those who have been vainly seeking news of husbands or relatives who had been at work in the plant when the first explosion occurred.

It has been determined definitely, that only between 500 and 600 men were at work on the night shift. Fifty of this number were employed in building No. 6-11, which was the first to blow up. Four of these workmen have been accounted for and the others were undoubtedly killed or injured. It is considered highly probable, however, that those in the other buildings made their escape, as they had ample warning. While few of them reported today, officials of the company are confident they fled in panic and will turn up sooner or later.

The cause of the first explosion has not been definitely determined and probably will not be until the army completes its rigorous investigation which is already under way. Officials do not believe, however, that it resulted from overheated T. n. t. They are equally positive it could not have been the work of German spies, for they declare the plant was the best guarded in the United States. All employees had been carefully investigated by the secret service and they have been constantly supervised.

explosives in the warehouse or on the barges were in danger from the flames, which had swept through the hundreds of buildings of the plant, which covers 2700 acres, but they had failed.

AIRPLANE OBSERVER.

The Signal Corps was asked to provide an airplane for observation purposes, and one arrived in the afternoon, manned by Maj. H. L. Armstrong and Capt. W. W. Watson. The machine circled around the big track surrounded with barbed wire to aid the scores of armed guards in keeping out trespassers. The two birdmen leaned over the machine and leveled field glasses at the scene of desolation beneath them. They kept at their task for nearly fifteen minutes and then alighted outside the danger zone.

It probably was the first time in this country that an airplane had been used for such a work of observation. After they had reported to Col. Douglas I. McKay of the ordnance department at Washington, it was announced that there was "no further danger unless the unforeseen occurs."

The aerial observation showed that five of the thirteen units of the plant had been destroyed by the flames which followed the first explosion, but that the 200 plant guards who began fighting the fire with water pumped from Cheesquake Creek, after the water mains burst, had the situation well in hand.

Promptly upon hearing that the plant would be rebuilt at once, women employed in it and who came here to escape danger, held a meeting and decided unanimously to return to work as soon as the call comes.

"Many of us have boys over there," said the chairman, "and we are all anxious to do our part to aid in bringing the war to a speedy close. All of us know the danger to which we are almost constantly exposed, but it is nothing in comparison to that of our boys at the front. We want them to know there is no delay as far as we are concerned."

REFUGEES IN NEW YORK.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Red Cross agents and volunteer relief workers, some of whom were themselves refugees, worked tonight in the choked roads leading away from Morgan and South Amboy, seeking to restore some semblance of order among the thousands of refugees from the shell-wrecked New Jersey district and to direct them to places where they could find food and shelter.

With Newark, Jersey City, New Brunswick and other nearby towns reported crowded to the limits of their resources, scores of the homeless began arriving in New York tonight from the ferries which had brought them across from Staten Island.

They were met at Battery Park by Red Cross agents, and relief workers from the Young Men's Christian Association, the war camp community service, the Knights of Columbus, the Salvation Army, the Hebrew Relief Society and other organizations.

Under the direction of Martin Conboy, Draft Director for New York, several armories were thrown open and fitted with cots and beds to receive the bewildered wanderers, most of whom are foreigners. Members of the Women's Motor Corps reported with automobiles to transport them to the improvised homes. Many had spent last night in fields.

REFUGEES REACH CITY.

One of the first groups of refugees to reach New York included a family of fourteen persons—father mother and twelve children, the youngest an infant in arms. They had saved none of their belongings and were taken in charge of Red Cross workers at the Battery.

While a large number of the refugees are expected in New York, several thousand have been housed in New Jersey towns.

An emergency call was received here for surgical dressings to be rushed to South Amboy, where relief headquarters had been established. It was reported that 500 of the original 10,000 inhabitants were in the town and that many had been injured by fragments of shells, falling glass or debris.

From national headquarters here of the Boy Scouts of America, word was sent forth to members throughout New York City and northern New Jersey to be prepared to give what aid they might. Reports were received that the scouts were doing effective work, operating under civil authorities, in notifying people in advance of expected further explosions and in helping homeless families to leave devastated districts.

CITY TRAFFIC TIED UP.

Traffic over all bridges and subways between New York and Brooklyn was suspended suddenly at the beginning of the Saturday rush hour this afternoon by order of Mayor Hylan and the Public Service Commission, after they had received reports that further explosions, more violent than any which had yet occurred were expected momentarily at the Gillespie plant. Not even pedestrians were allowed to cross the bridges, and Brooklyn was isolated except for a few inadequate ferries. Hardly had this order gone into effect when the tubes under the Hudson, connecting New York and New Jersey, also were closed.

Occupants of buildings in Lower Broadway were ordered by the police to leave immediately and to walk in the middle of the street, lest they be injured by falling glass. Superintendents of buildings and apartments all over the city were ordered to keep doors and windows open in order to lessen the force of the expected concussion. Ten thousand police reserves were hastily summoned to their respective precincts and eighty-nine hospital units of 125 persons each were notified to hold themselves in readiness for instant service.

The explosion failed to materialize. Meanwhile, the subway and elevated terminals were jammed with seething masses of humanity which wanted to go home and could not understand why they were not allowed to do so. The confusion was increased by the bewildered police, who sent subway passengers to the elevated and vice versa. Various conflicting statements were issued regarding the source of the report of the impending explosion in explanation of the action of the authorities.

The confusion lasted two hours until the embargo was lifted.

It was stated tonight that a report had been received to the effect that 80,000 tons of trinitrotoluol were likely to explode at any moment. This was later reduced to 80,000 pounds and then to 8000. Finally, information was received that the wind had changed, enabling the fire fighters to begin removal of the explosives. It was also stated that Mayor Hylan had acted on advices from authorities at Washington. The Washington officials, however, denied issuing any such warning. Then it was said that a fire guard in Brooklyn had notified the police that New Jersey officials had told him of the impending disaster.

The extensive preparations for a catastrophe were not without a beneficial result, however, for they caused the opening of thousands of windows and the consequent airing out of homes and offices, a step which had been urged by the health authorities in their fight against Spanish influenza.

Earlier in the day vague reports of impending disaster had resulted in women employees being ordered out of the Standard Oil Company and other buildings in Lower Manhattan. Only material damage was the shattering of a large number of windows.

DRIVE GERMANS FROM AIR.

American Aviators Sweep Sky Clear of Huns in Meuse-Argonne Region.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Friday, Oct. 4, 5:30 p.m.—Today was not one in which the conditions were ideal for aviation, but it was not so bad as to prevent operations by the pursuit planes, which set out early upon their tasks. So active were the airmen that the day was the busiest in the air they have had since the Meuse-Argonne offensive started.

It was hardly daylight when the aviators began their operations. Soon afterward a squadron of five Americans fought a battle with seven German machines in the region of Fleville, in which the Americans brought one of the enemy down. Later in the morning three German aviators were reported to have been brought down by anti-aircraft guns while in the afternoon four others were reported downed within the American lines from similar means.

The Germans attacked the American balloons along the front repeatedly. In most instances the anti-aircraft guns drove off the enemy planes. In a number of instances pursuit planes protected the observation balloons from the Germans.

RICKENBACKER IS VICTOR.

On Thursday eevning Eddie Rickenbacker brought down two German airplanes. The American airman finished the first quickly and then tackled the second, bringing him down after a few minutes' fight.

Lieut. J. C. Vaseoncelos of Denver, Colo., was the star of the day on Friday although he brought down only one airplane. He was engaged with a Rumpler and a Fokker and shot down the latter west of Apremont. The lieutenant returned to the airdrome with scores of bullet holes through the wings of his machine. Even the windshield had been smashed by enemy bullets.

The German balloons did not venture aloft except in one case, and that balloon descended immediately when an American patrol hove in sight. It did not attempt to go up again.

Just before nightfall eight American pursuit planes encountered more than twenty-five enemy machines beyond the lines while on a balloon shooting expedition. The Americans had accomplished their mission when they ran on to the big squadron of German airplanes. A fight followed which lasted more than fifteen minutes, but when it was concluded five of the enemy planes were downed and all but one of the American squadron was on its way home safe.

In the attack made yesterday east of the Argonne Forest, the corps holding the middle of the American line met with most determined resistance during the day. The Americans advanced behind a terrific barrage. This bombardment of the enemy lines began at 5:30 o'clock, twenty-two shells falling each minute along the German lines. This was gradually increased to fifty per minute at 6:45 o'clock.

The American fire had hardly begun to slacken when the German batteries began to speak and the enemy machine guns commenced to impede the advance of the Americans.

CENTER ADVANCES.

Nevertheless, the troops in the center moved steadily ahead. They fought their way through Cierges, which they had shared for several days with the enemy, and before noon had driven the Germans out of Gesnes.

In front of Romagne lies the strongest German line in this sector. It is a long, intricate trench system, which is built on a curving line, so that each end of it enfilades any force that attacks another portion.

The American troops on the left kept in perfect touch with the center and rapidly cleaned up Exermont and Chehery and captured Fleville. By noon they had mopped up La Viergette and Le Menil farm, as well as the Grange farm. They had also taken Hill 240. This advance had been just as rapid as that of the troops farther to the east, notwithstanding the fact that they went over the top at 5:30 o'clock without any artillery preparation and handed the Germans a big surprise.

Just south of Chehery the general advance was slowed up by a German counter-attack, and the American tanks had to be sent for to drive the enemy back.

The Germans have deliberately set fire to the villages of Romagne, Gesnes, Cornay, Bantheville, Chevieries, St. Juvain and Marcq. Shells from American guns fell thick along the front, and ammunition dumps everywhere were exploded when the shells reached them.

On the center of the line fell the bulk of the work. It was here that the deepest advance of the day had been planned. On the right the troops operating northward along the Meuse met with hardly any resistance at first, and easily pushed up to the outskirts of Brieulles. German artillery on the east side of the river, however, soon opened up an enfilading fire, which not only affected the extreme right of the American line, but carried far over toward the center. The enemy artillery farther west along the line opened up with a barrage, through which only one infantry regiment had to storm before the American guns could silence the German batteries.

All of the areas back of the American lines were subjected to an intense bombardment before the advance had been going on very long. After crossing No Man's Land and geting into the enemy defenses, the American infantry was met with machine-gun fire, which was intense all along the line.

SAILORS CAPTURED.

The fighting was so bitter everywhere that the number of prisoners taken fell far below the total for the first days of the last two drives. Among those brought in were some belonging to naval units, showing that reinforcements had hurriedly been thrown in against the American attack.

Tanks played a prominent part in the battle, especially on the left of the line near the Argonne Forest, where the advance was quite rapid. These machines were able to go over the ground easily because the mud had dried out considerably. During the past days the co-operation of the tanks with the infantry has been perfect.

Joseph Timmons, correspondent for the Los Angeles Examiner, while watching the battle from a hill in the region of Epinonville, was wounded in the right cheek by a shell fragment this afternoon. Other correspondents assisted Timmons to a field dressing station. Later he went to a town back of the battle area, where his wound, which is not serious, was dressed.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN LORRAINE, Oct. 5, 11:30 a.m.—After a forty-minute barrage the Germans last night attempted to raid the American lines east of Gerardmer, in Lorraine, with a strong party. The attack was a total failure.

The German party comprised sixty men and every member of it who reached the American lines was either killed or captured. Five wounded prisoners remained in the hands of the Americans.

(Gerardmer is southeast of Epinal and eight miles from the German border opposite Colmar, Alsace.)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Thursday, Oct. 3.—(3:40 p.m.)—More than 300 miles of road have been repaired by the American engineering force on this front since the beginning of the offensive last week, it is estimated, while scores of bridges, some of which have been out of commission ever since the Germans occupied the region four years ago, have been rebuilt. The rebuilt bridge structures include those which the Germans destroyed when they were driven out a few days ago.

The roads are yet far from good but motor trucks and wagon trains are able to pass over them and the engineers who have been studying the maps express their confidence that the task ahead of them will be much simpler.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Oct. 4.—After artillery preparation, the Americans went over the top at 5:30 o'clock and before mid-afternoon had attained all their objectives.

The fighting was of the bitterest sort, continuing, at last accounts, at nearly every point. The Germans apparently were surprised by the attack, which had been expected by them two nights ago. They retreated slightly at first without any great artillery action or resistance, but then stiffened and fought like desperate men throughout the remainder of the day.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Friday, Oct. 4.—The late hours of today's fighting, accompanying the American advance, witnessed a notable increase in the heaviness of the German artillery fire and the activity of the German aviators. The ferocity of the fighting as the hours progressed indicated the desperate earnestness of the enemy.

As one means of holding up the American push, the Germans had cut down trees in the Argonne and interlaced wire among these obstacles. Behind the barricades thus formed th enemy machine guns contested the advance.

The effect of the American artillery bombardment is known to have been considerable. It left one battalion of the enemy with only two machine guns. It also has been learned that two of the seven guards divisions on this front have been badly cut up since September 26. One battalion had only 150 men left. One of the guard divisions has been taken out of the fighting altogether, while another has had its ranks filled with Landwehr.

Government and Police Officers Questioning Arrested Men.

WHOLESALE SLACKER RAID.

Six Hundred Officers Visit All Theaters and Resorts; Small Army Arrested.

The greatest slacker raid in the history of Los Angeles began without warning at 8:30 o'clock last night, when 500 uniformed policemen, led by Chief Butler, Special Agent C. L. Keep of the Department of Justice and Acting Lieutenant Slaughter of the police war squad, raided dance and pool halls, motion-picture and stock company theaters and the streets of the business district, arrested and sent to the Police Station all men without registration cards on their persons.

By 1 o'clock this morning nearly 3000 arrests had been made altogether, the police estimated. Only a few hundred remained in custody overnight, however, and most of these because the lateness of the hour prevented their securing their registration cards from home. It is expected that the majority will be released today.

The feeling among the arrested men and their families and friends ran high at times, the absence of a registration card being in all cases sufficient ground for summary arrest and detention at the City Jail until the card could be sent for. In a number of cases the men brought in were just as promptly turned loose by members of their draft boards when they appeared before them.

Not more than twenty actual slackers were caught in the big net, the officials estimated. At 11 o'clock there were only ten men in jail out of the 650 who had been arrested up to that time.

Beginning with a general talk by Chief Butler, a reading of the questions of law involved by Mr. Keep and instructions by James W. Long, chairman of Draft Board No. 17, who represented all of the draft boards of the city, the men were told off, at 7:30 o'clock p.m., to the districts they were to cover, and their duties for the evening.

The raid was planned in accordance with instructions from the Western Department of the army.

Between 8:30 and 11 o'clock last night, the police visited all the big central motion-picture theaters, all pool and dance halls in the business districts and all vaudeville and stock company theaters, taking into custody all men between the ages of 18 and 45 years inclusive, who could not produce their registration cards.

More than 100 deputies from the Sheriff's office, led by Sheriff Cline and Special Agent Arthur C. Webb of the Department of Justice, swooped down on the Vernon resorts and took charge of all draft violators, lodging their prisoners in the County Jail.

PLACES VISITED.

Following is a list of the places visited by the police:

Pantages Theater, Hippodrome Theater, all Main street motion picture shows, Grauman's, Tally's Broadway, Kinema, Alhambra, Clune's Broadway, College, Garrick, Quinn's Rialto, Superba, Miller's Palace, Symphony, Iris, Orpheum, Mason Opera House, theaters, No. 452 South Broadway, No. 528 South Broadway, No. 608 South Hill street, No. 227 South Spring street, all Main street, Spring street and Broadway pool halls, social clubs, all theaters, clubs and pool halls east of Main street, to Alameda street, and from First street south to Tenth.

Twenty-five automobiles for the transportation of prisoners were assigned to the Police Department by the Automobile Club of Southern California, thirty-five machines were donated by members of the American Protective League, all police and Sheriff's office machines were pressed into service, and in addition many private citizens willingly volunteered. A total of 150 automobiles were in use.

DUM-HEAD COURTS.

When the prisoners arrived at Central Station they were directed into the three big chambers used as police courts, and all detained were placed either in the City Jail or the big police assembly rooms. All members of local exemption boards were present, with the names of their registrants, and in this way many men were handled and released before midnight.

The first man to be brought in was George Steddard, who was brought in from Jack Doyle's and arived at Central Station at 9 o'clock. At 10 o'clock last night more than 600 men had been gathered into the huge net.

The general purpose of the raids was primarily to discover all actual slackers, men who had failed to register, who refused to appear for classification and who failed to fill out their questionnaires; to arrest al men who failed to carry their registration cards, and in this manner impress upon them the necessity of having their cards always on their persons.

The number of prisoners in the County Jail, arested by the deputy sheriffs under Sheriff Cline and Special Agent Webb, was twenty at 10 o'clock last night. According to Chief Special Agent Keep, at least 100 actual slackers should be secured by the raiders.

BOOKED AS SLACKERS.

The following men were booked as actual slackers last night and were the screenings of the raid, up till 11 p.m.:

Marian Williams, 26; T. E. La Sourse, 24; Joe Brusco, 26; J. Adams, 24; Harry W. McLean, 28; Li Shew, 29; Joseph Rodriguez, 24; Charles L. Newell, 27; Pete Flaherty, 31, and Pedro Garcia.

Bull Montana, Douglas Fairbanks' physical trainer, was gathered in during the raid, but later released, when friends secured his cards.

The maddest man taken in custody during the raid was Mija V. Vukojeviet, who was releas tember 26 from San Quentin, serving seven years for man ter. Vukojeviet had no idea was necessary to register, and ed arrest. He will be held is registered.

Mrs. Robert Trautman, wh peared at Central Station wit husband's registration card, notified that Mr. Trautman had taken into custody, gave the to a man whom she mistook officer, and after waiting an and a half for her husband's pearance appealed to a unif officer. A search was institu the card, but it could not be Mrs. Trautman fainted when this.

Edward Mayo, 39 years old, asked after the raid had be he had his card. He replied he didn't have to show a —— and further said, according police, when asked if he had bonds, "To hell with the Li Bonds."

Just Once! Try Dodson's Liver Tone! Take No Calomel! Listen To Me!

If bilious, constipated, headachy or sick, I guarantee relief without taking dangerous calomel which sickens and salivates.

Stop using calomel! It makes you sick. Don't lose a day's work. If you feel lazy, sluggish, bilious or constipated, listen to me!

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile, crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are "all knocked-out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents. Take a spoonful tonight, and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous by morning, I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it cannot salivate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep the entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste.

Stature and Bearing of Men at Camp Lewis Surprise to Eastern Commander—Gen. Greene's Transfer no Reflection on His Ability.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CAMP LEWIS (Wash.) Oct. 5.—To welcome formally Brig.-Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt, the new commanding officer at Camp Lewis, an elaborately-appointed reception and ball was recently given by the Camp Lewis officers under his command. The spacious assembly hall of the Butter Building was selected as the setting for the affair, and handsome decorations and appointments were arranged in military placements.

A large number of guests were in attendance, and the commanding officers, with their wives, were in the receiving line with Gen. Vanderbilt. Military music by one of the regimental bands and orchestra were played for both the reception and dancing programme.

The reception was the first affair here in Gen. Vanderbilt's honor, and was one of the most notable social affairs of the year in military circles. Large motor parties came from Tacoma, Seattle, Olympia and from the various military colonies around American Lake.

FINE BODY OF MEN.

"Nowhere in the country has a finer body of men been assembled than those the West has sent to Camp Lewis," said Brig.-Gen. Vanderbilt recently in summing up his impressions since his arrival at the cantonment.

"Perhaps it is expected that a commander should compliment the men under him, but really the stature and bearing of these western men have surprised me. Particularly was my attention focused on the military smartness of the 243 men just graduated from the officers' training camp. These new officers are going to bring credit to the West."

Word has just been received at Camp Lewis of the promotion from lieutenant-colonel to colonel of Frederick Guy Knabenshue, formerly on Gen. Greene's staff at Camp Lewis as mustering officer. Col. Knabenshue is now serving as chief of staff at Camp Custer, Battle Creek, Mich.

Col. Knabenshue was mustering officer at Camp Lewis from the arrival of the first troops last September until this spring. He was given great credit for the manner in which he organized the work at Camp Lewis. Col. Knabenshue was appointed a second lieutenant by Grover Cleveland and has served in many places.

PRAISE FOR GEN. GREENE.

Both President Wilson and Secretary of War Baker have declared that there has been no reflection made against the name, the character or the conduct of Gen. H. A. Greene, who some time ago was relieved from command of the Ninety-first Division at Camp Lewis, reduced to his Regular Army rank of brigadier-general and given a command in the Philippines.

This message was brought here from Washington, D. C., by Dr. Mark A. Matthews, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Seattle, and a warm friend of Gen. Greene. This is the first statement savoring of an official nature that has been made since the popular officer was relieved of his command, and it has been received with much interest here.

That Gen. Greene had suffered at the hands of a "vice syndicate of Seattle and neighboring cities," which has chosen to take advantage of his transfer from the command of Camp Lewis to the Philippines in order to attack his character through false inuendoes and insinuations, was the statement made by Dr. Matthews.

A "MILITARY STEP."

"President Wilson and Secretary of War Baker assured me that Gen. Greene's transfer to the command of the Philippines was not a demotion, and that his lower rank at the latter command was a military step which is frequently involved in a move from post to post, and which merely signifies a reversion to original rank.

"The President assured me that Gen. Greene had been sent to the far-eastern post, which may become one of the most important points in the Siberian situation, as the place where he can do the greatest good.

"Secretary Baker told me that if Gen. Greene had done anything to merit official reprimand he would have been court-martialed not given an important post.

"This is not the time to pay my respects to those who have tried by innuendo to injure the reputation of the man who did more for Camp Lewis and the Ninety-first Division than any other man."

According to the latest official information received here, the Ninety-first Division, which has been in France for some weeks, is still under the command of Brig.-Gen. Frederick S. Foltz, former brigade commander at Camp Lewis, and who succeeded to the command of the division upon the transfer of Gen. Greene. It is understood that one of the major-generals will be placed in command of the Ninety-first.

THE CHIEF OF STAFF.

Col. F. C. Johnson is the new chief of staff of the Thirteenth Division at Camp Lewis. He was transferred to the cantonment from San Antonio, Tex., and will have the gigantic task of supervising the training of the new men. Maj. A. M. Thompson will be his assistant.

The majority of the men who arrived at Camp Lewis in the August draft either are in their early 20's or late 20's. Very few are between 23 and 28. The greater number are from 28 to 31.

The August draft is better physically than the last two drafts. Last week the percentage of rejections was running at 11 per cent, 1 per cent. lower than for the preceeding draft. This week the rejections dropped to 10 and then to 9 per cent. The total has not been computed, but it is expected that the rejections for the entire draft will be under the July draft.

Approximately the entire 10,000 men of the August draft are now in camp and 5000 additional men are now arriving. The two drafts combined make the largest continuous movement of National Army troops to Camp Lewis since the establishment of the cantonment. The 5000 new men are coming from Washington, Oregon, Nevada, Idaho and Montana.

Every man in the Thirteenth Division at camp is to receive instructions in swimming unless he has the proficiency that would allow him to swim in his service clothes, carrying his pack of forty pounds and holding his rifle in one hand above his head.

Experience has shown, say division officers, that almost without exception the man who can swim is saved in case a ship is submarined. Many others also are saved, but these are the fortunate ones in boats, who have little or no trouble. Private George Cunha of San Francisco, widely known in swimming circles, will be in charge of the instruction, which will be given in the lakes about camp.

Better than a mile a minute was the time made by a Camp Lewis carrier pigeon between a point on Puget Sound and Camp Lewis last week. The bird was in the air thirty-one minutes, covering a distance of forty miles. A second bird made the distance in fifty-five minutes, a third in fifty-eight and the fourth in fifty-nine.

Seven pairs of United States carrier pigeons have been hatched at Camp Lewis and six pairs are setting. In addition to the government birds there are several different kinds of pigeons at the Camp Lewis pigeon loft, including Red Dragoons, White Dragoons, Jackobins, Rollers, Satinettes, Tipplers and Tumblers.

Construction of a clothing and hat repair shop and a canvas goods repair shop has been authorized for Camp Lewis and work soon will start. The two buildings will be located in the utilities section. Their combined cost will be approximately $17,000. While clothing and hats have been repaired at Camp Lewis for some time, the work has not been conducted on as elaborate a scale as it will be in the future.

PORTO RICO EXEMPTS ORDERED RE-EXAMINED

SAN JUAN (P. R.) Sept. 10.—Men exempted from military service after examination by the local boards are being called for re-examination in San Juan and in many other municipalities in the island.

In San Juan those being re-examined include chiefly those called for the second draft of 15,000, who probably will be called for active service in September or October. In other towns it is said boards are generally going over their lists and calling men previously exempted for re-examination.

This action by the examining boards is said to be voluntary on their part, but comes in response to general criticism that throughout the island men of the better class have not found it difficult to find grounds on which to obtain exemption.

TO JOIN NAVY.

Applications for service in the navy will now be received from men of special qualifications and in deferred draft classes. No men will be considered who are in class 1, or who have not been classified. Applicants must bring classification cards when applying at the United States Navy mobilization station, room No. 313 Union Oil Building.

Vukojeviet, who was released September 26 from San Quentin, after serving seven years for manslaughter. Vukojeviet had no idea that it was necessary to register, and resisted arrest. He will be held till he is registered.

Mrs. Robert Trautman, who appeared at Central Station with her husband's registration card, when notified that Mr. Trautman had been taken into custody, gave the card to a man whom she mistook for an officer, and after waiting an hour and a half for her husband's appearance appealed to a uniformed officer. A search was instituted for the card, but it could not be found. Mrs. Trautman fainted when told this.

Edward Mayo, 39 years old, was asked after the raid had begun, if he had his card. He replied that he didn't have to show a —— card, and further said, according to the police, when asked if he had bought bonds, "To hell with the Liberty Bonds."

Officer Wade Box was called to the New Broadway Hotel, where Mayo was, and when Box told the man he was under arrest, Mayo tried to whip the officer. As a result he was taken to the Receiving Hospital with a broken nose and a fractured jaw and later placed in jail on a charge of sedition.

Several hundred persons crowded the sidewalks in front of the City Jail to watch the men as auto after auto unloaded its human cargo. Wives, sweethearts and mothers in many instances accompanied men brought in, and spent several anxious hours waiting to use a telephone, or for someone at home to bring the man's registration or classification card.

About 150 sailors and soldiers joined the officers in the round-up at 10 o'clock. The men jumped from autos and walked between lines of policemen. They were booked in a large room by five typists, and then, if they gave evidence of having a card at home, were permitted to go to justice court No. 2 to wait for the arrival of the card. In departments 3 and 4 members of draft boards judged whether or not the men should be released, held for identification, or sent to jail.

One man, who said he was worth $50,000, in the lumber business in Orange county, motored to Los Angeles and left his card at home. He frantically tried to get in touch with the Orange County Sheriff, and later was released.

Board members who decided the fate of the men caught in the raids were James W. Long, chairman of board No. 17; E. H. Bagby of the same board; S. D. Adkins, board No. 16; John J. Shields and Joseph Chambers of board No. 8, R. L. Chunning and Walter J. Arms of board No. 6.

One man considerately went with his friend, who was held, and had a bad hour himself in trying to get out again.

According to board members, most of the men brought in forgot their cards and a large number of them were friendly aliens, who did not seem to understand the necessity of carrying their cards at all times.

Men of the 1917 registration who failed to show classification cards and those of the 1918 registration without the green registration certificate or classification card were held.

TANK CAPTAIN LOSES AN EYE.

Premature Explosion Serious for Stanley Lord.

Preparing to Fire a Salute Nearing Monrovia.

Injured Man Insists that the Meeting be Held.

Through a premature explosion, Capt. Stanley Lord, in charge of the tank "Democracy," which has been on a Liberty Loan selling campaign in Los Angeles and Orange county towns during the past week, has lost the sight of his left eye and his face is badly powder burned.

The accident occurred last evening on the Foothill boulevard as the tank was approaching Monrovia where a big loan meeting had been scheduled. The injured man was rushed to the Monrovia Hospital for first aid treatment.

Capt. Lord and other members of the tank party had left the 'Leven Oaks Hotel only a few minutes before to take their places on the tank in the parade which had been formed to escort the "Democracy" into town. The tank was driven by Sergt. Harris of the Arcadia Balloon School and aboard, besides Capt. Lord, were Lieut. Robert McKenna of Sydney, Australia, and Aviator J. Robinson Hall of the Arcadia school, Liberty Loan speakers.

It had been customary in the trip through the county to fire a salute from the tank gun at the approach to each town. This function had been delegated to Capt. Lord, who gave personal attention to the cutting and lighting of the fuses. It is believed that the premature blast was due to a faulty fuse. No other persons were injured.

While the accident halted the plans for the Monrovia meeting for a time, it was Capt. Lord's wish that it should be held and it took place at the City Hall park. A good sum was realized.

DROP FLOWERS FROM AIR FOR DEAD FLYER.

MILITARY FUNERAL IS GIVEN LIEUTENANT WHO FLEW FOR LIBERTY LOAN.

Lieut. Louis K. Godman of Beverly Hills, an army aviator, who was killed while flying for a Liberty Loan parade a week ago yesterday at Charlestown, S. C., was given a military funeral here yesterday. Two aviators flew over the city while the services were being held at the chapel of Boothe & Fitch, No. 1201 South Hope street, and during the final salute of the firing squad and the sounding of "taps" at Rosedale Crematory, and dropped flowers as a final honor to the young flyer, who had died for his country.

Lieut. McDonald, chaplain at the Arcadia balloon school, officiated at the services, and the pallbearers were Lieuts. W. C. Farnham, Frank H. Walter, W. H. McLaughlin, Thomas G. McLaughlin, John C. Rahn, Harold A. Pogue, Harry W. Warner. The floral tributes included a floral airplane propeller from his fellow-aviators.

Lieut. Godman was 25 years old and leaves a bride of three months and a widowed mother, Mrs. Cora G. Shoemaker. He won his commission three months ago after training at San Diego and at Fort Sill and has lately been stationed at Emerson Field, Columbia, and it was there he flew to help the Liberty Loan.

REPORTER, NOW FLYER, BATTLES GREAT ODDS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Oct. 5.—A young American aviator distinguished himself during the recent great aerial activity over Belgium. He is Lieut. Walter P. Chalaire, who at the outbreak of the war was a reporter on a New York newspaper, and now is in a hospital in England with a bullet wound through his shoulder.

While attached to a British photographic group, Chalaire and another machine went out over Ostend. On the way back he became separated from the other machine. Soon afterward Chalaire and his observer discovered a large group of German machines above them and another group below the tail of their machine. The enemy groups began a concerted attack.

Chalaire maneuvered the machine and used his machine gun and the observer used his gun, with the result that at least two enemy machines were seen to go earthward in a spin.

By this time some of the enemy machines had gone off, but seven remained and continued to fight. Bullets from their guns flew all around and punctured virtually every part of the American machine, but the observer, who had been hit, kept on firing, although he was bleeding freely. The wires were cut by the bullets and the gas tank was punctured.

About the time Chalaire got a bullet through his shoulder he noticed that his observer had become unconscious. He put his machine into a dive through the clouds, expecting every moment that it might collapse. Once through the clouds, he made straight for the coast of Flanders, where he made a safe landing. Chalaire hauled his unconscious observer from his seat and found that he had been wounded in seven places. The pilot's wound was painful, but he set out immediately for help. As a consequence, the observer, who was a British sergeant, quickly got much-needed medical attention and he is now in a hospital in England on the road to recovery.

ITALY CALMLY WAITS HER HOUR TO STRIKE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Italy faces the future with optimism, Premier Orlando, Premier of Italy, speaking before the members of Parliament and the Senate, declared, according to an official dispatch received today from Rome.

"We have not registered any great actions at our front," said the Premier, "but calmly and faithfully Italy is waiting for her hour to strike. The Italian people are calm and full of confidence."

Italy, Premier Orlando said, is looking with intimate solidarity upon the national aspirations of the oppressed nationalities.

"The blood shed by Italians and Czecho-Slovaks in Italy has now indissolubly bound the two nations," he added. "The Italian government and the Italian people are confident that an intimate friendship will be established between the Italians and the Jugo-Slavs, with reciprocal advantage and the cordial and sincere friendship for them is returned with equal sincerity and cordiality by the Jugo-Slavs."

CONGRESS WAITS FOR COMMITTEE REPORTS.

BOTH HOUSES MARK TIME AS ARMY EMERGENCY BILL IS PREPARED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Awaiting committee drafts of important legislation, Congress today virtually was at a standstill. The Senate was not in session, while the House adjourned immediately after convening. Similar informal recesses throughout next week until the $7,000,000,000 army emergency appropriation bill is ready, about October 14, are planned by the House.

The Senate Finance Committee, in revising the $8,000,000,000 revenue bill today, completed all uncontroverted features of the income tax clauses, passed over the war excess profits sections until next week and proceeded with minor features. Individual surtaxes, corporation rates, taxation of salaries of Federal and State officials and other disputed questions will be taken up next week.

That inheritance, or State taxes, shall remain in the bill was definitely decided today by the Finance Committee, but Chairman Simmons said a plan different from the House system may be adopted.

Railways to Cash Wage Checks.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Complaints that some railroads have refused to cash employees' pay checks prompted the Railroad Administration today to explain that a previous order forbidding the promiscuous cashing of checks did not apply to those presented by railway workmen.

RAPID SPREAD OF INFLUENZA.

Epidemic Cases Greatest Since Outbreak of Disease.

Deaths Double in Army Camps in 24 Hours.

Public Gatherings Prohibited Throughout Country.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Spanish influenza increased more rapidly during the twenty-four hours ending today noon than in any similar period since the disease became epidemic. Reports to the office of the surgeon-general of the army showed 17,383 new cases in army camps.

The new cases represented an increase of 4408 in comparison with the number reported for preceding twenty-four-hours period. A total of 2141 new pneumonia cases were reported, an increase of 287. Deaths at camps totaled 653, an increase of 390.

For the forty-eight-hour period ending today noon 1644 new cases of influenza, 229 of pneumonia and forty-five deaths were reported at Camp Meade, Maryland. Subsidence of the disease was also noted at Camp Funston, Kansas, where 943 new cases were reported today in comparison with 1276 yesterday.

The American Red Cross, which has sent a number of nurses to Camp Devens, Mass., where the epidemic has been the most widespread, today received information that the situation at that camp is now well in hand and that the nurses can gradually be withdrawn and assigned to civilian needs.

The demand for nurses has increased so rapidly that the Red Cross tonight announced that Canadian nurses would be enlisted for service in the United States.

GAINS IN WASHINGTON.

Gains were made by the disease today in Washington with twenty-seven deaths reported in the last twenty-four hours, the largest number for any similar period since the start of the epidemic. With the exception of a few meetings in the open air, no church services will be held tomorrow in Washington.

Definite reports as to the spread of the disease among the civilian population were lacking tonight. Dispatches received by the public health service, however, told of little abatement of the epidemic in most States. The stringent measures being taken, it was said, soon should show results.

Camp Taylor, Kentucky, with 1578 new cases, reported the greatest spread of influenza in the twenty-four hours ending at noon today; the Kentucky camp also reported 268 new cases of pneumonia, and forty deaths have occurred.

Reports received by the Red Cross from the Middle West show more than 400 nurses have been supplied by the organization to meet the emergency caused by demand for nurses.

PHILADELPHIA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—There is no abatement in the epidemic of influenza in this city. At noon the report for the preceding twenty-four hours showed 245 deaths and 1480 new cases, an increase of 742 over yesterday's report.

During the week there were 1131 deaths from all causes, the highest death rate in the history of the city. The authorities estimate that 75 per cent. of these were due to influenza.

BOSTON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—Gov. McCall and Henry B. Endicott, chairman of the State Emergency Public Health Committee, today telegraphed to the chairman of Public Safety committees in all cities and towns in the State, urging them to follow the example of Boston and close all saloons, soda fountains, bowling alleys, poolrooms and other places of public gatherings.

Retail stores in this city which now open for business before 9 a.m. and close between 4 and 6 p.m. were ordered by the City Emergency Health Committee today to open no earlier than 9 a.m. and close at 4 p.m. The committee took this action to relieve congestion on the transportation system and thus lessen the danger of the spread of influenza.

Twenty-three cities and towns called on the State authorities for nurses, but there were only a few available.

CHICAGO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Four hundred deaths from influenza and pneumonia in the past six days in Chicago were reported by the health authorities tonight. Reports from down State showed that there were between 400 and 600 cases in Danville, and an estimated total of 5000 in the city of Rockford.

More than 1000 new cases of influenza with thirty-seven deaths, as well as 270 new cases of pneumonia with sixty-four deaths were reported today. It was estimated by the health department that there are from 40,000 to 50,000 cases of influenza and pneumonia now under treatment in the city.

GALESBURG (Ill.) Oct. 5.—Five deaths and 500 cases of influenza were reported here today. Two of the deaths wiped out the medical staff of Stronghurst, when Drs. W. H. Wells and Edwin E. Bond succumbed within twelve hours of each other in a local hospital.

COLUMBUS, O.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

COLUMBUS (O.) Oct. 5.—Ohio now has between 15,000 and 20,000 cases of Spanish influenza, according to reports received today by the State Department of Health. The disease is spreading rapidly through the State.

Four thousand cases have been reported from Camp Sherman, together with over 100 deaths. There is an unknown number of cases at the Wright aviation field.

RICHMOND, VA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

RICHMOND (Va.) Oct. 5.—The closing of schools, churches, Sunday-schools, theaters and other institutions was ordered today after the health authorities had reported 1600 cases of Spanish influenza here.

ANNAPOLIS (Md.) Oct. 5.—Midshipman Harry Latta of Goshen, Ind., died at the naval hospital here today, making the third fatality among the regiment of students from the influenza epidemic.

There are between 700 and 800 cases of influenza among the 6000 students.

DENVER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DENVER, Oct. 5.—The spread of Spanish influenza in Southwestern States continued today. Reports from points in Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and Western Texas told of progress by the malady and in some instances of increasing numbers of fatalities.

El Paso, Albuquerque and Roswell, N. M., ordered churches, theaters and other public meeting places closed. The closing order included schools in Albuquerque and Roswell.

At Flagstaff, Ariz., 130 cases have developed at the Northern Arizona Normal School, it was announced tonight. There also are seventy other cases of the disease in Flagstaff.

At Albuquerque two deaths occurred in the last twenty-four hours and in Denver fatalities were increased by two. Six deaths occurred in El Paso and Fort Bliss last night. Two more soldiers died at Colorado College, Colorado Springs.

SEATTLE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, Oct. 5.—Every place of indoor public assembly in Seattle, including schools, theaters, motion-picture houses, churches and dance halls, at noon today were ordered closed by Mayor Ole Hanson and City Health Commissioner J. S. McBride as a means of combatting further spread of Spanish influenza here. Presence of the disease in Seattle was confirmed today by State Commissioner of Health Dr. Thomas D. Tuttle.

Only public gatherings in the open air will be permitted. Theaters were instructed not to give today's matinees and pastors were ordered to hold no services in churches tomorrow. An order issued last night stopped all Seattle dances. Police were instructed to see the orders are obeyed. Commissioner McBride said he thought the influenza cases here mild and totaled between 100 and 200.

EL PASO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EL PASO, Oct. 5.—Six deaths occurred here and at Fort Bliss last night from Spanish influenza.

All theaters, churches, dance halls and other indoor meeting places were ordered closed today by the city board of health. The schools closed yesterday.

CONTRABAND WHISKY TO AID GOVERNMENT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 5.—Approximately 9000 gallons of contraband whisky, seized here since Utah went into the "dry" column, and which had been ordered destroyed, will not find its way into the sewers, but will go toward alleviating a government shortage of denatured alcohol. This became known today, when Chief of Police J. P. Arley White received requests from Washington for his entire stock.

The Bureau of Standards at Washington has asked for ten barrels and the Motor Transport Corps asks for 4000 gallons or more. The liquor will be denatured before shipping, it is said.

AMERICAN "RECRUITS" JOIN AUSTRALIANS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Oct. 5.—(Reuter's)—The camaraderie existing between the Australians and Americans was illustrated when the Anzacs passed through the American infantry, according to programme, during Sunday's battle. There naturally was some confusion in the subsequent fighting.

After the Australians had carried their objective, a good many Americans who probably had not unwillingly been borne forward in the advance, were sorting themselves out, preparatory to rejoining their units. Thereupon an Australian started a recruiting depot in the front line. Standing upon a heap of sand bags he shouted:

"This is the ——battalion of the Australian Imperial Forces, the finest fighting battalion on the western front. Who'll join? Walk up, walk up."

This so tickled the American stragglers that most of them temporarily attached themselves to the Anzacs, and when the battalion reattacked, it was considerably stronger than before.

DEATHBLOW TO HUNS IN WEST THREATENED.

ALLIED PRESSURE GROWING HOURLY WITH OSTEND, ZEEBRUGGE PERILED.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Oct. 5.—Interest is again centered on the Allied right, where Gen. Gouraud, with his French and American forces, has turned his attention toward the plateau east of Rheims. Acting in close co-operation with the Fifth Army, operating north of that city, he has forced the Germans into a pocket which he now is pinching out. There are signs that the Germans already are making preparations to move back.

On the center the armies of Gen. Rawlinson and Debeny continue to force the enemy back to Bohain, which is on the great Paris-St. Quentin-Maubeuge-Liege Railroad and is one of Gen. Ludendorff's main arteries.

On the left the Allies are within four miles of Lille and there are signs that the Germans are preparing to evacuate the seacoast since their whole northern wing is seriously threatened and the pressure is growing daily. Such an event would be a mortal blow to the German morale, equal to the loss of the Bagdad line, for the pan-Germans always have regarded Ostend and Zeebrugge as essential to Germany's world power.

POLES PRAISE WORK OF GEN. ALLENBY.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Oct. 5.—Count Zammoyski, president of the National Polish committee, has sent the following congratulatory message to Gen. Allenby, the Allied commander in Palestine and Syria:

"What Christianity had dreamt for many centuries, what has been sung and foretold by poets and why Crusades have been waged, is released. The Holy Land has been freed from the hands of her oppressors and for its freedom it can be grateful to the valiant British troops, who under your brilliant generalship have performed undertakings which shall forever remain in the history of war.

"The occupation of Palestine and the defeat of the Turkish army simultaneously are strong blows at the failing structure of power based on force. Being fully aware of the importance of the deeds performed by you and your troops, we transmit to you our most hearty congratulations and wishes for further success."

PREDICTS RUMANIANS SOON TO RE-ENTER WAR

FORMER ENVOY DECLARES SHE CAN BE MADE VALUABLE AID TO ALLIES.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Capt. Vasile Stoica, formerly attache of the Rumanian Legation here, and president of the Rumanian National League of America, declares that Rumania soon will be back in the war on the side of the Allies.

Southern Rumania still is in the hands of the Germans, but Capt. Stoica said these easily could be cleared out by the Allies and the Rumanian army reorganized.

Capt. Stoica said:

"The Rumanian army needs arms, ammunition and surgical supplies. The Allies have first to send these things and in the necessary quantities. This will be facilitated by the fact that the arms of the Rumanians are absolutely the same and of the same caliber as the French and that in France and Italy there are great quantities of Rumanian ammunition that could not be sent to Rumania because of the unfortunate turn of the Russian revolution.

"The spirit of the Rumanian people needs a certain moral encouragement, too, especially encouragement coming from the United States."

GREAT is the value of SALESMANSHIP.
Try it!

Call on some of your friends and neighbors. Ask them to buy Liberty Bonds, and note the many excuses they offer for not buying beyond a very low minimum.

Then return to your home; sit down and think hard of good reasons to overcome the objections you have heard.

When you have well in mind all the things that a big oversubscription to the will do for them and for us all, go out again and call on them.

Put enthusiasm and heartfelt energy into showing them WHY it is wise for them to increase their subscriptions.

You will be surprised at the ready response and the doubling up of subscriptions that will come as the result of your efforts in their behalf and in the interests of our country and of the world.

Take these additional subscriptions to your precinct headquarters and turn them in—after carefully signing your name and writing beneath it in large letters "SALESMAN" or "SALESWOMAN."

And you will have proven the worth of good SALESMANSHIP in presenting things to people in a way that leads them to act most wisely for their own and their country's best interests.

MEN STILL WANTED IN THE COAST ARTILLERY.

More than 200 candidates for the Coast Artillery Officers' Training School were recruited at the headquarters maintained in the Chamber of Commerce Building for the last two weeks, and which were closed last night. The officers in charge returned to Fort MacArthur, where recruiting in the future will be conducted.

Future recruiting will be devoted to filling to full strength a regiment of artillery now being formed at the fort. Good men with some mechanical training are wanted, and all men are eligible except those in class 1 of the draft prior to September 12.

REGISTRATION LISTS CLOSED.

Registrations of voters in Los Angeles county passed well beyond 300,000 last night when the lists were closed according to Registrar of Voters Lyons. In order to accommodate belated registrants, the books were kept open until midnight, and today the force of clerks will begin the compiling of the lists. Residents of the county who have not registered since last January cannot vote at the coming election.

MAY AMEND ORDINANCE.

Grocers are kicking about the new license ordinance on the ground that they are to be assessed more than they can pay. The amount levied aggregates more than $100 per year. Councilman Olsen will try to have the license ordinance amended this week because the police department has announced it will enforce the law to the letter.

HE GOES ALONE.

When Councilmen Farmer and [illegible] went up the aqueduct a week ago on an inspection trip, Councilman Criswell refused to go, because "outsiders" had been invited into the automobile. Yesterday he went alone, and will not return until Tuesday.

What "Single Tax" Would Do.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Perhaps the advocates of the "Single Tax" amendment, which comes up to be voted on at the November election have not considered the effect of its adoption. The body of this constitutional amendment is as follows:

"On and after January 1, 1919, all public revenues, State, county, municipal and district, shall be raised by taxation of the value of land, irrespective of the improvements thereon."

The amendment, if adopted, would not be self-acting, except as to limiting the property subject to taxation and repealing conflicting laws; and revenues could not be raised under it, without laws being passed to put it in operation. The legislative machinery would have to be enacted before it could become effective to raise revenue. The amendment simply limits the character of property to be taxed, without stating the method of raising public revenues. The limitations present a radical departure from our present system, and if the amendment is adopted, we shall find ourselves in this chaotic condition on January 1, 1919:

(1.) The public service corporations, banks, all personal property and all improvements on land would be immediately released from any further liability to pay tax, and collection of the present assessment could not be enforced against them;

(2.) The present assessment against the land only is all that would be collectable for the fiscal year of 1918-19. And in view of the anticipated high assessment against land, doubtless many of the taxpayers, (who otherwise would,) would not pay the first installment of the 1918-19 assessment.

(3.) The second installment for the year 1918-19, assessed against land only, would be the only tax collectable after January 1, 1919, for this fiscal year, which, considering the delinquencies, would probably be short of meeting the budgets, 85 to 90 per cent. And the State, county and city would have no resources to maintain their respective governments. Consequently the public institutions might have to close for lack of funds.

LOCAL REALTY MAN SUED BY TOMMY BURNS

PUGILIST ALLEGES HIS WIFE'S AFFECTIONS WERE ALIENATED BY "INDUCEMENTS."

Tommy Burns, former heavyweight champion of the world, now in the Canadian army at Vancouver, B. C., filed suit yesterday against Arthur W. Forrester, a wealthy real estate man of this city, asking $50,000 damages for the alleged alienation of the affections of the pugilist's wife. Tommy Burns sued under his real name of Noah Brusso. His wife, Mrs. Julia V. Brusso, said to be young and attractive, is the mother of four children, the eldest of which is 6 years old.

Mrs. Brusso met Mr. Forrester in this city and the alleged alienation was effected last year, according to Brusso. Mr. Forrester is charged with having "wrongfully, maliciously and unlawfully, and with intent to injure Mr. Brusso, destroyed Mrs. Brusso's affection for her husband by persuasions and inducements." The Brussos were married May 1, 1906.

The details of the case probably will not be divulged until the time of the trial. It is understood, however, that Mr. Brusso, who was out of the city when most of the alleged alienation took place, employed detectives to gather evidence.

Service in the suit was made yesterday on Arthur W. Forrester of the Forrester Building, No. 640 South Broadway. Mr. Forrester, who is married and lives at No. 2245 West Eighth street, said: "I do not know the man who sued me, nor his wife. I cannot imagine why I was sued, and certainly I have not alienated the affections of this man's wife."

SOLDIER'S PICTURE SPURS MEN'S ACTION.

SAILORS RUSH INTO BURNING HOUSE AND RESCUE MOST OF ITS CONTENTS.

Nearly a score of sailors and civilians, spurred on by the sight of a large framed photograph showing a soldier in uniform, broke into a burning building yesterday, and carried out nearly every bit of furniture in it while a fire of undetermined origin was destroying the structure at No. 148 North Anderson street, and two other large buildings adjoining it.

The fire started in the junk storage-house of H. Kliger, at No. 150 North Anderson street, and spread so rapidly that before the firemen arrived the large shed and two adjoining buildings were enveloped by the flames.

As the blaze spread to the roof of the house at No. 148, occupied by M. Pirrone, an occupant of the place rushed in through the back door and rescued the photograph of the soldier. Further entrance from the back door was blocked by smoke, but the volunteer rescuers made their way through the other doors and succeeded in carrying out everything of value.

The loss was estimated at about $6500, suffered mostly by Mr. Kliger, and partly covered by insurance.

Lieut. Charles C. Costillo was cut on the head and had his hands burned when he was caught under an avalanche of falling iron. He was treated at the Receiving Hospital.

INVASION OF RATS BRINGS CRY FOR AID.

REGISTER OF VOTERS TELLS SUPERVISORS RODENTS ARE EATING DOCUMENTS.

David B. Lyons, Registrar of Voters, sent an S.O.S. call to the Supervisors yesterday. His office is suffering from an invasion of rats, and while his one concern is the protection of valuable papers, which the rats seem to like, the girl employees are genuinely alarmed.

For some time past it has been observed that the young women deputies at times cast fearful glances at the floor, but the public at large did not know the reason until Mr. Lyons wrote a letter to the Supervisors. The cause is rats. Some time ago they were shy, shrinking rats. Now, they are bold, bad rats; they shoot across the bare board floors in a way to terrify the women clerks; they rustle papers on the desks and even play tag in the drawers.

Here is Mr. Lyons's S.O.S. call.

"The depredations done by rats in my department have become so serious that I am compelled to ask for prompt attention. I have taken it up with the head janitor and received numerous promises and perhaps some service. I confess I do not know just what he has done to abate the nuisance. I do know that valuable papers are being destroyed in the drawers of desks. I am sure that you will know how best to find a remedy. I only ask that you act promptly. I do not desire to shirk any of the responsibilities in this matter. If there is anything that you will authorize me to do, I will endeavor to do it."

Suggestions have already been made to Mr. Lyons. A few are:

Put walnut shells on their feet so they can be heard coming, and then knock them in the head with a club.

Gas 'em.

Catch one, cage him, feed him on rat meat and turn him loose as a cannibal.

Put fly paper over the floor and in the drawers.

Build an artificial lake with a small island. On the island put a piece of cheese. If the rats are not drowned going, they might be returning.

Hire a cat.

Use traps.

Smoke 'em out.

Talk 'em to death.

Hire a jazz orchestra and dance 'em to death.

SERVICES FOR SOLDIER.

Military Funeral will be Held for Sergeant, Who Died in Colorado.

Sergt. Maurice Samuel Ginsburg, formerly a Los Angeles electrician, died on October 1 of influenza at the officers' training camp at the University of Colorado, where he was a military instructor in the mechanical department.

His brother, J. Ginsburg, was in Salt Lake City when notified of the soldier's sickness. He brought the body to Los Angeles, and tomorrow morning at 10:30 military services will be held for Sergt. Ginsburg at the chapel of W. C. Draper at No. 1430 South Main street. The body will be escorted by members of the Student Army Training Corps from the University of Southern California. Burial will be at the Beth Israel Cemetery.

Sergt. Ginsburg lived in this city for nine years and was proprietor of a hardware store at Venice for a time. He enlisted eight months ago and had been a sergeant six months. He was 25 years old. His mother, Mrs. Dorothy Ginsburg, and a sister, Fannie, live at No. 2308 Griffith avenue. Two other sisters are Mrs. Sam Slater of Venice and Mrs. H. Slater of No. 1420 West Fifty-second street.

TIN-CAN HARVEST.

Annandale District has a Clean-up Week that Nets Huge Pile of Used Containers.

How many tin cans are there lying around in your neighborhood? At least one district in Los Angeles has answered this question, for it has had them gathered up—and there were more than 6000 pounds of them.

The Annandale Improvement Association recently decided that it was time to begin a campaign against the tin can piles. It appealed to Dr. J. L. Pomeroy, County Health Officer, who sent out an inspector, and gave the campaign moral support. The result was that a week's work netted 6198 pounds of tin cans gathered up in the Annandale district. They were carted away by a junk man, and he made a donation to the local auxiliary of the Red Cross in appreciation of the privilege of getting the cans.

FILM PICTURE PUT ON FOR COURT AND JURY.

Police Judge Chesebro, court attaches and the jury selected to try the case against T. J. Shirley, charged with exhibiting an alleged indecent motion picture, yesterday adjourned to a Main-street theater, where the film was thrown on the screen for their benefit. After watching the nine reels, the court moved back to Normal Hill Center, where the case was continued.

Shirley was arrested last July when he attempted to exhibit the picture. It was claimed by the defendant the film was the same one that about two years ago appeared in a South Broadway theater, and after some changes was allowed to be shown. The police say the film confiscated at the time Shirley was arrested had been taken to Arizona and there changed so as to make it objectionable. The case was continued till Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

"LITTLE BELGIUM" DINES.

Little Belgium, at No. 843 South Hill street, gave its first public dinner last evening, when the rooms were turned over to Latin-American citizens. An interesting musical programme was furnished and an address was delivered by Judge Victor E. Shaw. The Belgium Entertainment Committee, of which Miss Ethel Shaw is chairman, plans a series of entertainments during the winter for the Allied nations.

WAR CUTS OUR REGISTRATION.

Total for City and County is Fifty Thousand Less than Two Years Ago.

The total registration of voters in Los Angeles city and county for the general election shows a decrease of about 50,000. Two years ago the total was 361,274. Friday night the total was 302,269, and Registrar Lyons said yesterday a few hours before closing time that he did not expect more than 5000 to be added to the total. The decrease is attributed to the war. In the first place there are not as many eligible electors in the county as there were two years ago, and, secondly, many people are so deeply engrossed in the war that they have failed to register. Here are the totals up to Friday night:

City—Republican, 89,896; Progressives, 3991; Democrats, 45,895; Socialists, 4726; Prohibitionists, 5822; declined to state, 38,689.

County—Republicans, 55,916; Progressives, 1588; Democrats, 25,921; Socialists, 2344; Prohibitionists, 8237; declined to state, 19,054.

CALL SELECTED MEN FOR AUTO SCHOOL.

LOCAL BOARDS WILL SEND NEARLY FOUR HUNDRED TO SPOKANE.

Twenty-six medical examiners for local Board No. 17 will start physical examinations for the district tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. The examinations will be held in the California Building, where ten rooms have been obtained. Notices to appear for examination have been sent to 150 men.

Examinations for several other boards will begin this week. It is expected that the order numbers for registrants will have been received by Wednesday, and entered so that a man will know his exact status. Board No. 18 examined more than 300 men in the last three days. Board No. 10 has examined men every day during the week by sending them to various offices. Board No. 6 examined 300 men during the last three days. Board No. 4 starts Wednesday, Board No. 5, during the week; Board No. 7, Wednesday; Board No. 8, during the week, and other boards will start at least before the last of the week.

Local boards have received the call for 392 white men, qualified for general service, to entrain from here on the 15th inst. for Spokane, Wash., to attend the modern auto school. Another call has been made for 100 general service white men with grammar school education and an aptitude for mechanical work. These men will be sent to the University of Nevada for instruction as auto mechanics, locomotive engineers and surveyors. They will be assigned to various branches with no assurance of any special assignment. They entrain on the 15th inst. Five men have already volunteered on the first call.

WILL INCREASE BAIL.

Chief Butler Issues Order Which Should Prove Discouraging to Men Conducting Lottery.

The lure of the rolling bones and flirtations with the dame of chance received a strong discouragement yesterday, when Chief of Police Butler issued an order increasing the bail to be set in all cases of gambling.

The new order, effective today and applying to persons "conducting a gambling game, or lottery game, or agency" provides for a bail of $500, and sets the sum of $100 as bail for persons arrested and charged with gambling or visiting a lottery.

Chief Butler's orders were issued in line with his established policy of suppressing professionalized gambling and to clean the city of the lottery dens and other places where persons are separated from their money by the hopes of getting something for nothing.

ENDS HIS LIFE.

Harry D. Wilcox, for Eight Years a Santa Fe Railroad Clerk Shoots Himself Through Head.

While his mother was downtown yesterday afternoon, Harry D. Wilcox, 34 years old, for the last eight years a clerk in the main offices of the Santa Fe Railroad, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head on the back porch of his home, No. 860 Echo Park avenue.

Ill-health, according to the report made to the police, was the cause of the act. Mrs. Sadie Wilcox, the mother, found the door locked when she returned, and called the police. Wilcox did not go to work yesterday, saying he was too ill. His body was removed to the Robert Sharp & Son's undertaking parlors.

AUTO TURNS OVER.

Quartette of High School Students are Treated at Receiving Hospital for Injuries Received.

Two persons were seriously injured and two others escaped with minor cuts and bruises, when an automobile containing four young high school students turned over on Santa Monica boulevard, near the Wolfskill ranch, early yesterday morning.

Miss Anna Armstrong, 16 years old, of No. 861 Edgeware road, and William A. Gunter, 17, of No. 4432A Sunset boulevard, were the ones whose injuries are serious. Harold F. Weston of No. 4129 Clayton avenue was driving the automobile. Miss Marie Costa, 17, of No. 116 South Benton way, was the other passenger. All were treated at the Receiving Hospital.

HEALTH OFFICE SHORT.

Government's Call Leaves County Officer Without a Single Doctor Deputy.

The recommendation of Dr. Allen L. Winters to a government position by the secretary of the State Board of Health, is a hard blow to Dr. J. L. Pomeroy, county health officer. Dr. Winters, who leaves for Sacramento tomorrow, was a deputy in the county health office and is the third deputy to be taken by the government. The other two deputies were Dr. Charles B. Dirks, now a captain at Camp Kearny, and Capt. O. V. Schoeter, now at Camp Travis, Tex.

Dr. Pomeroy is now left without a doctor deputy. He has a territory of 4000 square miles to look after, and while he realizes that the government has first call on the services of these men, he also says that it will be impossible to maintain the standard of his department without help. It is his purpose to confer with Congressman Osborne to see if the government will not aid him through some of the surgeons now with the army stationed in this district.

TO ADMINISTER ESTATE.

A petition for letters of administration was filed in the Probate Court yesterday by Howard J. Guinn, son of James M. Guinn, former member of the Board of Education and pioneer educator in California. In the petition it states that Mr. Guinn, who died at his home in Highland Park on September 24, left an estate valued at $32,000, leaving no will. Besides the petitioner the heirs mentioned are Dapeleis M. Guinn and a daughter, Mabel E. Guinn.

Cascarets are just dandy for children. They taste like candy and no child need be coaxed to take them even when cross, bilious and sick. BALLOON SCHOOL MEN ARE GIVEN RECEPTION.

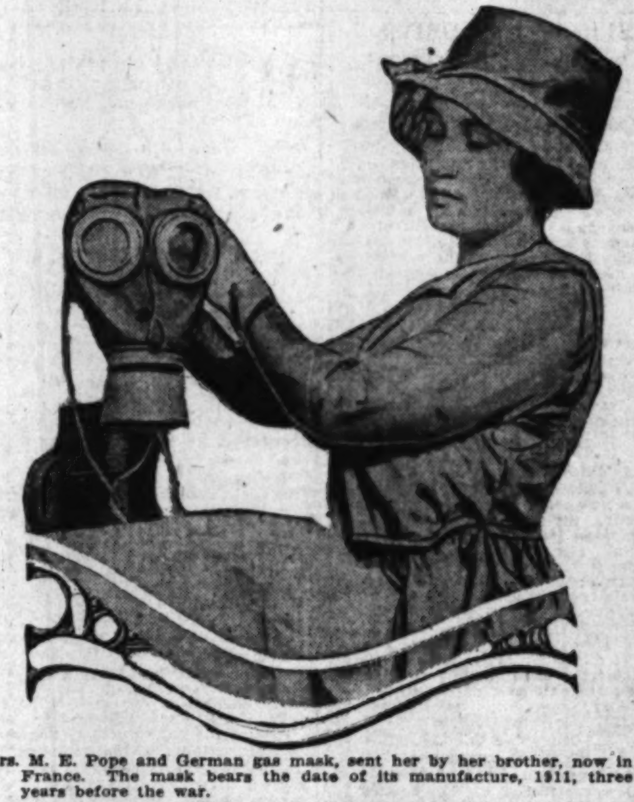
The Lake Vineyard Auxiliary, American Red Cross, is being congratulated on the successful entertainment it gave the boys of the Thirty-seventh and Thirty-eighth companies from the Arcade Balloon School at the San Marino grammar school auditorium. The entertainment, which was held Thursday evening, was made possible through the generosity of Mrs. H. E. Huntington and Mrs. George Patton, and was attended by a number of society young women from Los Angeles.

Following the programme there was dancing, and special cars were provided to carry the young soldiers back to camp. The officers of the auxiliary, which meets twice each week for sewing and other war work, are Mrs. L. D. Laukota, chairman; Mrs. W. L. Valentine, treasurer; Mrs. Mabel Murray, secretary, and Mrs. William Hertrich, in charge of workroom.

Plotted Atrocity Long Before War.



Mrs. M. E. Pope and German gas mask, sent her by her brother, now in France. The mask bears the date of its manufacture, 1911, three years before the war.

HUN GAS MASK TELLS TALE.

A German gas mask bearing the date 1911, showing that three years before the great war began the Huns had manufactured masks to protect their men while they were using poison gas on their enemies, has been received here by Mrs. Clara Doyle of No. 1134 South Oxford street from her son, Harry F. Doyle, now in France with the Fifteenth Cavalry. Private Doyle writes his mother:

"I have just returned from the front and in my travels over the battlefields, I saw many dead Huns. I also brought with me a German gas mask which I am going to send. Whatever you do don't let the kids put it on, as every time the Huns leave behind anything, they poison it. Don't take any chances."

Private Doyle, who is 18 years old, has been in France since April, and had previously served in the Philippines with the Fifteenth Cavalry. He writes that the mounted troops are being used chiefly as messengers, and dangerous work it is, he says.

The gas mask, which was shown to young Doyle's friends yesterday by his sister, Mrs. M. E. Pope, shows that it was constructed in the prewar days when metal was plentiful. The parts of the mask are welded together, and show that it was one of a stack of masks made long before the civilized nations had dreamed that Germany was preparing to overrun Europe and depending greatly for success on poison gas.

ORPHEUM BOOSTS LOAN.

While subscribing for $70,000 worth of Liberty Bonds—at the rate of more than $1000 a minute—the audience at the Orpheum last night simply bubbled over with patriotic enthusiasm. It was one of the liveliest meetings of the campaign, and came as a complete surprise to the theatergoers, but struck a most happy response.

The Orpheum drive was planned by C. E. Bray, and the hour that was allotted to its was brimful of interesting events. Robert T. Haines and A. W. Frye made stirring addresses, the Remick Quartette sang patriotic selections, as did also a quartette on the Orpheum programme: the orchestra played the popular war songs and the audience sang them with a vim. Red Cross nurses and other women acted as sales agents, in connection with the corps of men on the stage, and there was not a quiet second during the hour.

Subscriptions came thick and fast. Frank Van Camp subscribed for $10,000 worth of bonds, on condition that a similar amount was purchased by the audience, and this was done in less than two minutes. Then he took another $10,000 worth, and this was equalled by the subscription of J. B. Campbell. Various sections of the house were pitted against each other, with happy results, and then there was a call for every soldier and sailor in the house to rise, and $50 bonds were purchased for every one present.

One soldier subscribed for a bond on condition that the first payment be taken out of his money at the camp. This brought an instant response in the offer to make the first payment for him, and then an offer of $10 for the first payment on a subscription from any other soldier. So it went, incident after incident piling up to fan the flames of patriotic enthusiasm. Finally the campaigners bid the audience good night, and started to leave the stage, when they were called back and money for subscriptions to the bonds was handed up so rapidly that it could scarcely be recorded.

So successful was this surprise bond drive at the Orpheum that it is likely one or two others will be staged there during the present campaign, it was stated last night.

SON SAID HE'D NEVER BE PRISONER; MISSING.

FATHER BELIEVES IMPERIAL YOUTH DEAD RATHER THAN IN ENEMY HANDS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL CENTRO, Oct. 5.—Harold V. U. Lien, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Lien, is reported missing in action since August 7. A letter from young Lien to his parents under date of August 29 says he was badly gassed, but was recovering in a base hospital. He left in the first draft in October for Camp Lewis, and has been overseas since the latter part of May.

Everett M. Gullett, son of J. A. Gullett, living six miles southwest of Imperial, is reported missing in action since August 8

"I am sure this means that Everett is dead, as the last thing he said when he left here was that he would never be taken prisoner," said the father today.

Mr. Gullett has five sons in the draft—Everett, 30, left six months ago; George, 28; Enoch, 25; Frank, 18, waiting to be called, and Oliver, 20, in aviation.

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 5.—Word has been received from Camp Meade, Md., announcing the death of Lieut. Clark D. Fanton, a young physician of this city, who enlisted in July. His death was due to influenza, contracted while caring for his patients at the camp hospital. The deceased was born in Iowa thirty years ago, and leaves a widow and young son, who were with him at the time of his death.

VENTURA, Oct. 5.—Sheldon Gerry, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Gerry, was killed in action in France, August 16, according to word which has been received by the family here. Gerry was 24 years old and an only son. He enlisted in the Signal Corps, but subsequently was transferred to the infantry, leaving Camp Merritt in June for France.

Letters were received from him the middle of September, which were written a few days before he was killed. He spoke of having been in action, but was then quartered in a town back of the lines.

Gerry was a graduate of Southern California University two years ago.

OTTAWA (Ont.) Oct. 5.—J. T. Foster of Eureka, Cal., is reported in today's overseas casualties as having died of wounds.

The feature of his main address was his attack on the leaders of the Nonpartisan League and those of the Industrial Workers of the World, condemning them as pro-Germanists. He, however, commended the American farmer for his patriotism, but felt that they had been misled by men who took advantage of the opportunity to realize their grievances, but whose methods of conviction, such as State Socialism, were far worse than the evils complained of.

He departed tonight for Oyster Bay by way of Minneapolis.

LIVESTOCK EXHIBIT WILL BE EXTENSIVE—PALO VERDE IS THERE WITH COTTON.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 5.—The Southern California Fair, which opens here Tuesday morning, promises to surpass the exhibitions of former years, the livestock entries having passed the high water mark both in numbers and quality.

The entertainment features include daily racing programmes on the fast half-mile track, diving girls and numerous vaudeville acts, and thrilling air feats by government aviators.

A feature unique in the livestock line will be the prominence given to the humble and much-maligned goat. A special day has been set aside for honoring the animal that is doing much to help win the war. On Goat Day, goat owners from all portions of the Southwest will be on hand with their exhibits, which is designed to give momentum to this branch of animal industry. The first parade of milk goats ever held in the United States, according to the management, will feature the big livestock parade on Thursday.

The Better Babies contest this year will be held under the auspices of the Children's Year Committee of California, of which Dr. Adelaide Brown of San Francisco is chairman. Some are exceeding the quota, though here and there is found one, naturally, who is unable to stand the work—lifting ladders, etc. However, thus far, the different associations employing the women are said to be well pleased with results, and the move will probably grow, before the real opening of the naval orange season, some months hence.

"ROLL-DOWN" GAMES DECLARED ILLEGAL.

REDONDO BEACH JUDGE FINDS THEM LOTTERY IN TEST CASE DECISION.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDONDO BEACH, Oct. 5.—That the so-called roll-down games operated in connection with "country stores" in Redondo Beach and other beach cities are illegal was the decision of Judge E. H. Miller in a test case brought by Chief of Police Perdue against B. J. Adler, a local concessionaire, this morning. The game was held by the court to be a lottery as defined in sections 319 and 320 of the Penal Code of California. E. J. Dennison of the District Attorney's office prosecuted the case. Adler was fined $100 and the sentence suspended on condition that he cease operating the game.

It is expected that this decision will have a far-reaching effect. A test case was brought before a Santa Monica judge some time ago, and the roll-down game as then operated was held to be a game of chance and illegal. Operators of "country stores" then altered the game somewhat by placing an incline before the ball strikes the number. This did not change the legality of the game, according to the Sheriff's office, which is said to have ordered these games closed at Venice and Santa Monica. The game was then resumed and the table made level, the concessionaires contending that this change brought the game under the heading of "games of skill." Today's decision does not uphold this contention.

"In all such games," Mr. Dennison stated, "the element of skill does not enter, because the skill lies only in the realms of the imagination."

OXNARD BOOZE SHOPS CLOSE.

Won't Open Till After the Beans are Threshed; Patriotic Move.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

OXNARD, Oct. 5.—To aid in the bean and beet harvest as a war measure all the ten saloons in Oxnard will be shut tight from tonight at midnight for a period of two weeks.

A petition signed by fifty-three ranchers and owners of bean threshing machines was presented to the City Trustees asking that the saloons be closed until the end of threshing time and alleging that drunkenness among the crews was largely responsible for the shortage of labor.

After City Attorney Blackstock had informed the Trustees that they have legal power to close them, the proprietors of the saloons were asked to bar the doors as a patriotic measure to aid in harvesting the much-needed crops. The owners then agreed to make the closing voluntary. Oxnard is the only town in Ventura county that has saloons.

Announcement that the company would discontinue operations at the harbor was made this morning by Baron Alfred de Ropp, manager of the company. "A change in policy was due to the retirement of C. P. Grimwood, former manager. The plant here is said to have cost close to a million dollars, but was never used except for experimental purposes. It was planned by Grimwood to ship potash from Searles Lake and refine it here for the manufacture of various chemicals.

The company is owned by an English syndicate heavily interested in South African mining properties.

COURT CONTINUES TRIAL.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Oct. 5.—In order that evidence may be gathered to reveal the exact mental condition of Mrs. Ada P. Travis of No. 321 Newport avenue, charged with violating the local sedition ordinance, with resisting arrest and doing violence to the arresting officers by deluging them with red pepper bombs, Police Judge Carl Hawkins today continued the trial of the woman until Monday, upon request of her attorneys. Mrs. Travis refused to employ an attorney, so the court appointed two local lawyers to defend her.

After Judge Hawkins had granted the postponement of the trial attorneys for the woman asked that she be sent to the psycopathic ward of the County Hospital instead of being returned to jail, where she has been held in default of bail.

"It is plain that no person in her right mind would be guilty of the acts and words which the testimony given here attributes to the defendant," said one of Mrs. Travis's attorneys.

Judge Hawkins said the court had no authority to adjudge the defendant insane without any evidence directly impeaching her sanity, so the woman was returned to the City Jail.

Assistant City Attorney Dwight Bathurst and Chief Arthur Ellis of the American Protective League, prosecuting attorneys, protested against any delay in the proceedings because of any doubt of Mrs. Travis's sanity.

"It is absurd to say that no person in his right mind would commit such offenses," declared Attorney Bathurst.

"If this woman is a pro-German, is she disloyal, it is precisely the conduct she would be guilty of."

Mrs. Travis smiled sarcastically throughout the greater part of the trial. She sneered perceptibly while the court observed the 11 o'clock moment of prayer, and laughed without restraint when witnesses testified of how she threw red pepper over the arresting officers.

Each witness testifying today declared that the defendant was calm an deliberate in her alleged statements against the Red Cross, food conservation movement, Liberty Loan drives and other government activities.

Lynn W. Ballard, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, one of the salesmen who approached the woman and asked her to subscribe to the Fourth Liberty Loan, testified that Mrs. Travis declared "she hadn't any bonds and didn't want any," and "that they were not worth the paper they were written on."

Mrs. Kate Harper, a neighbor, testified that Mrs. Travis declared that she did not want her husband to register for the draft.

William S. Llewellyn, Red Cross solicitor, testified that Mrs. Travis told him the Red Cross was a graft and that the Red Cross solicitors were grafters when he called upon her in the interest of that patriotic organization.

WAR PICTURES THAT HELP WIN WAR.

"Pictures That are Helping to Win the War" might be the title of the war poster book which has been published by the Navy Department.

Great artists of Europe and America have put their power behind the war message.

The quick and vivid appeal of pictures has conveyed to hurrying, busy throngs the call to arms, to work, and to faith in their country's cause.

In order that Americans may own and remember these great war pictures, the war poster book has been made by their government. It is a selection of twenty-four of the most striking of these pictures, reproduced on coated paper and bound into an attractive booklet.

Any American can obtain one of these attractive booklets free. Write today for your copy. Be sure to write plainly. Ask for the war poster book, and include a 2-cent stamp for return postage. Address the Los Angeles Times Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, director, Washington, D. C.

CALLS LOAN SLACKER OBJECT OF CONTEMPT.

SPEAKER AT CALIFORNIA SOCIETY PICNIC AROUSES ENTHUSIASM.

"Will you keep in the bank a few dirty dollars at the price of the lives of our soldiers and, perhaps, your own liberty at home? My friends, if that is the valuation you set on freedom, then God pity you, if He will—but every true American will despise you."

That is the opinion of a Liberty Loan slacker expressed by James A. Tomlinson in an address before nearly 200 members of the California Society in Sycamore Grove yesterday. The speaker rendered a translation of the Kaiser's speech to his subjects, advising them to be "more merciless than the Hun" and then contrasted the war lord's fiendish counsel with the charge of Gen. Pershing to his troops in which our soldiers were admonished to be kind to the old and the helpless and to be especially gentle to women and children. He spoke of the freedom for which French patriots died in order to bring about the French republic.

"It is the same freedom that was born in America in Washington's time, that was nourished, fostered and perpetuated by Lincoln and which is to be made divinely and universally eternal through President Wilson and the American people," he declared.

Among others who took part in the programme were Dr. William Wenzlick, a member of the Pioneer Society; Clark B. Stocking, W. I. Traeger, vice-president of the Native Sons; Mrs. Amanda Gibson of Kentucky, Charles M. Sivyer, and Misses Winona Wenzlick and Hilda McFarland of the Wallis Dramatic School.

SEEK WOMEN WORKERS.

Shortage in Southland Said to be Acute—Men Laborers Also are Wanted.

According to the United States Employment Service in this city, the shortage of women workers in Southern California is increasing. Factory work is short of women in most of the industrial centers, and the situation relative to female help is said to be more serious than at any time since the opening of the local office.

A call was issued by the Employment Service yesterday for skilled labor as core makers, brass finishers, sheet metal workers and oxy-acetelyne welders. Two hundred unskilled laborers are needed for the San Francisco shipyards.

Aside from the utilization of Mexicans, the first importation of foreign unskilled labor into the United States to help fill the ranks of unskilled war workers was accomplished during the past month, when several hundred workers were brought to this country from Nassau, Bahama Islands.

PRISONERS WORK HARD.

Twelve Hours a Day Demanded by Germans, According to Canadian's Letter.

A Canadian who has been held prisoner at a German camp at Giessen for nearly four years, writes A. P. Michael Narlian of this city, under date of July 10, that all of the 470 prisoners there work twelve hours a day and are allowed seven hours' sleep. There are Canadian, English, Russian and French prisoners at the camp. The letter was four months in transit.

"We British are the best off," he says, "we get just enough clothes, books and food sent by the different societies, and that enables us to keep our spirits up. Games of cards, chess and checkers help to pass the time away."

The prisoner is Bert William Clark, formerly of Ontario, Can. Mr. Narlian, who is secretary of the British Soldiers' Aid Society here, together with Merritt Salmon, Arthur Penn and Harry Hensley of this city, have each subscribed a small sum monthly to keep this prisoner supplied with a few necessities. The prisoners are allowed only two letters a month.

SUIT NOT CONTESTED.

Jack Cusimano, a well-to-do member of the local Italian colony, did not contest the third divorce suit of Mary Cusimano, tried and granted by Judge Monroe yesterday. The ground of the complaint was desertion. The first suit was denied. At that time Mr. Cusimano declared that his wife was jealous. Alimony was granted in the second suit, which was dismissed when a reconciliation was effected. The final separation occurred January 5, 1917.

Goodbye, Curling Iron! Better Method Found

Don't burn the life out of your hair with that instrument of torture, the curling iron. There is nothing that will so surely dry out and break off the hair, giving it that ragged, unkempt appearance.

You will be glad to learn that you can keep your hair beautifully wavy and curly by using a perfectly harmless liquid known to druggists as "silmerine." You need only apply a little with a clean tooth brush before retiring and in the morning you will be most agreeably surprised with the effect. And this effect lasts for a considerable time, so a small bottle goes a long way and is quite economical to use. Pure silmerine is really beneficial to the hair and there is no greasiness, stickiness or anything unpleasant about it. It is a good idea to divide the hair into strands and moisten these one at a time, drawing the brush down the full length.

Home Face Peeling Becomes Popular

No complexion treatment yet discovered seems to have become so generally and so immediately popular as the mercolized wax process. Evidently the reason is that this method actually gets rid of a bad complexion, which can hardly be said of any other. To temporarily hide or bleach the defective skin with cosmetics cannot compare with the effect of literally removing the skin itself. Mercolized wax takes off the offending surface skin in flour-like particles, a little at a time, until there's none of it left. The new complexion thus produced exhibits a healthy glow and girlish beauty obtainable in no other way. This wax, which you can get at your druggist's, is applied at night in the same way you use cold cream, and washed off next morning.

Here is one thing that actually does remove wrinkles, remove them quickly, and at trifling cost: Powdered saxolite, one ounce, dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel. Use as a face bath.

KILLS HIMSELF.

William Turner, 60 years old, a retired grocer who lived with a married daughter at the corner of Seventh street and Grand avenue at the harbor for the past six or seven years, committed suicide yesterday by hanging himself in a barn at the rear of the house. No reason is assigned for the act. He lost his wife a year ago. A son lives in Oregon, and he has a sister in San Francisco.

Only One Bad Place.

Uncle Bill, hearing an explosion in the immediate neighborhood, said to his small nephew, sitting in the motor car beside him: "Get out, Jimmy, and look at the tire and see if it is flat."

"It looks pretty good," said Jimmy, upon inspection; "it's only flat on the bottom side."—[Oregon Journal.

"UNIFORMITIS," OUR NEW EPIDEMIC

Everybody's Got it, More or Less, or Ought to Have, but Sillygirl Complications Make it Serious Sometimes—It's Rough on the Slackers.

An old-time regular soldier—a grizzled sergeant—and a navy man, a boatswain, stood together at the Pacific Electric Station last night when the cars were arriving bringing soldiers and sailors in from the Arcadia Balloon School, the Riverside Aviation School and the three big posts at the harbor. On every hand there were greetings and smiles and enthusiasm and automobiles waiting outside the station for the men, and everybody was more than glad to see them.

Here and there and sometimes even more frequently in the crowd were young girls, some in groups of their own kind and some entirely alone. Most of them were a bit overdressed and not a few had lent some assistance to nature in the way of color for cheek and lip and of sparkle to the eye. They were all waiting for the fighting men, yet seemingly for no particular ones. They merely put themselves in the way of the disembarking uniforms and distributed smiles and coquettish glances and flirtatious remarks indiscriminately.

Among them were a few obvious and hardened Jezebels plying—or endeavoring to ply—their ancient trade frankly and with little effort at concealment. It is only fair to the rest to say that these were self-differentiated. Most of the unattached, would-be-attached chits had all the look of truant schoolgirls, gigglers, amateurish flirts, not-very-near vampires—one and all victims of aggravated forms of the new epidemic."

"UNIFORMITIS."

"Uniformitis" is its name. It came in with the war like influenza. It is caused by the decorations on a soldier's coat, or the rolling, devil-may-care gait of the sailor in town for the week-end. Back of it all is the really fine pride we all have in our soldier and sailor boys and a desire to honor and entertain them. Nowadays every patriotic American has uniformitis to a more or less marked extent. He ought to. But the police and the Y.W.C.A. camp community service workers say that a humorous and sometimes unfortunate phase of it is seen in the conduct of "silly girls"—the term is used by the social workers themselves—who throw themselves at the soldiers when they come from camp to Los Angeles or any other big city on Saturday afternoons and Sundays. A really dangerous feature is that mixed in with these young girls from homes are a few with no good intentions for our boys, professionals, leg pullers and bootleggers, and these the authorities are now after with a big club. It is not that soldiers are not able to look after themselves, but is on the same principle that forbids the sale of liquor to them or any other effort to exploit the uniform for private gain.

In the old days of armies raised by the volunteer system, uniformitis, which always came in with every war, had the good effect of causing young men to enlist. Now, when the only slackers are men who do not register with draft boards, or who are idlers, the chief value of uniformitis has gone, and there is left only a problem.

SOME PROBLEM.

As the policeman at the Pacific Electric Station said:

"See all this welcome-to-our-city? How are we to know which are the foolish young girls who ought to be at home washing dishes and which are the sisters and young wives of the boys? We men gave it up and called for help. Now there is a woman detective here and a different one every week. She mixes in the crowds, and when she has seen the same young girls greeting different soldiers and sailors each time she gives them a verbal spanking and sends them home with a warning that if they don't stop hanging around the stations we can have them locked up by the Juvenile Court under a new law passed only a few weeks ago."

R. E. Kelly, general agent of the passenger department of the Pacific Electric said: "The city and the road each keeps an experienced policeman on duty all the time in the Pacific Electric Station, and now that a woman detective will be there also, the public can readily see that everything is being done to keep loafers and men and women mischief makers out of the station."

WHAT EXPERTS SAY.

Mrs. Cecilia A. White of the staff of the Southern California office of the Young Women's Christian Association War Work Committee said: "For a long time I was at the Pacific Electric station Saturday afternoons and Sunday morning on behalf of the home entertainment work of the Los Angeles County War Community service to invite sailors and soldiers to Los Angeles homes, which were waiting to welcome them for Sunday dinner, automobile rides and home entertainment. It was a difficult task, sometimes, because of those who would abuse the privilege. I am glad a woman detective is to be put in the station.

"An enlisted men's club across the street would be a good plan, for there arriving service men would know that they could telephone, and make plans for the day, and there Los Angeles hostesses could be on hand to invite the men to their homes. The soldiers are fine, clean men, and most of them lonesome, and we cannot do enough to help them and give them a friendly welcome to Los Angeles whenever they come."

William Kay Crawford, secretary of the Los Angeles County War Camp Community Service, said:

"The soldiers appreciate how Los Angeles and its people are doing everything to make them feel at home when they come to town. Our enlisted men's club at Trinity Auditorium Building, where we have two floors, is busy all the time, sometimes as many as 9000 meals a month being served to enlisted men there. There is no better club in town than this, which is in charge of Mrs. Dan Murphy and Mrs. Michael J. Connell of the War Community Service. In Pasadena there is a similar club in the Chamber of Commerce Building, one at the balloon school at Arcadia, both in charge of Mrs. Myron Hunt, and one at Sixth and Center street, San Pedro. J. M. Danziger is general chairman in Los Angeles county of this service, which is carried on here and throughout the country under the auspices of the War and Navy departments commissions on training camp activities.

"'Surround the camps with hospitality' is the motto of this service. We have a law enforcement department which works in conjunction with the Department of Justice and the police to clean out those professionals who mean no good to the men."

The Los Angeles office of the War Community Service is at room 620 Ferguson Building, No. 307 South Hill street.

The Young Women's Christian Association maintains a large hostess house at Camp Kearny and is now about ready to open a similar center at the harbor. At these houses friendly workers of the Y.W.C.A. are always on hand to help the boys and their parents and friends. At these houses boys meet their women folk friends from home, in a cosy home atmosphere.

HELPS END SLACKING.

"Uniformitis" has been definitely recognized by the authorities. For instance, Myron Hunt of the local office of the Emergency Fleet Corporation says that as a result of the craze of young girls for men in uniform the shipbuilding plants have a hard task keeping useful draft age men on necessary jobs simply because the men say the girls won't look at a man outside of a uniform. "One hundred and nine of these useful men quit the yards and enlisted because of this social pressure since the first of the year," said Mr. Hunt, who is in charge of the division of deferments and transfers. "Of course, it helps to solve the real slacker problem, too.

Uniformitis brings pressure to bear to get young men into uniforms, and then, it would seem, the young girls often embarrass the young men with their attentions after they do get into uniforms.

How to cure it and keep the honest, sincere admiration of a soldier or a sailor in the sphere and practice and degree where it belongs, is the problem social workers are trying to solve. Parents can do the most, these workers say, and then comes the enlisted men's clubs and the hostess houses and the service Los Angeles women are doing in entertaining the men in their homes—this will solve the silly girl problem, and the police attend to the Huns who would abuse the friendliness of the soldier when he first comes to town and before he has a chance to see the really fine things Los Angeles people want to do for him.

OVER TWO MILLION A DAY

That's What We Must Raise for Next Tw Weeks to Put Loan Across.

THE BIG JOB AHEAD.

Los Angeles is pledged to raise $30,000,000 in twelve working days. That is $2,500,000 every day except Sunday until the Fourth Liberty Loan is victoriously closed on the night of October 19.

Every ounce of energy of every citizen is to be concentrated to this end and for the next two weeks this community will be the center of the greatest effort of salesmanship in its history.

Nearly every employer and every bank is making it as easy as possible for the "man with a job" to do not only his part but a little more than his part.

There is no joke about the often used slogan, "Give (loan) till it hurts." That is just what the people of this city must do if they are to put over the big loan.

The committee calls attention to the smallness of the individual subscriptions. Not to the fact that there is any noticeable failure to respond to the call for subscriptions.

Those who are subscribing are evidently offering what they think they can afford. That won't do. Los Angeles is in honor bound to raise $42,000,000 that "Your Boy and My Boy" may be supplied with arms, ammunition and food. Thirty million dollars of this sum remains to be taken in twelve working days.

Nothing is being held back. There are no secret figures, or secret possibilities. The $30,000,000 MUST come from the people of this city.

Los Angeles must not fail.

The Fourth Liberty Loan campaign swung into its second week yesterday with subscriptions recorded for Los Angeles city between $12,000,000 and $13,000,000 of the $42,000,000 quota and grave concern being expressed by those in charge of the work.

The cold, unvarnished, naked truth is that the people of Los Angeles are not responding to the call as liberally as they should, and the honor of the city is trembling in the balance.

Chairman McKee declares that there is no camouflage about this statement. The condition in which the committee finds itself, he says, is very serious. Los Angeles is far behind, according to the chairman.

There is no question about the patriotism of the people. They are practically all subscribing, but the individual amounts are, again quoting Mr. McKee, "deplorably small when it is considered that we are called upon at this time to do just twice as much as we did in the third loan."

"In many instances, subscriptions are coming in for amounts much less than the individual subscribed for the third loan. This means failure if continued, and that is something Los Angeles will not countenance. The people of this city must realize today that it is only by doubling their Third Liberty loan subscriptions that Los Angeles is going to meet [illegible] obligation of $42,000,000 [illegible] The victories in [illegible] at the present time do not mean that the war is ended. Our efforts should be increased rather than diminished and every dollar that we can loan to our government means much at this moment. It is only by an enormously increased volume of effort that we can insure a quick peace, and it is with this in mind that we are called upon today to subscribe to double the amount of the previous loan. Our boys in France need this money now and need it to put them through to a complete victory. Go to your precinct; go to your bank; and if you have subscribed, subscribe again, but see that your subscription is at least double what you were able to do for the third loan—if not more.

"No one can say he has not the money. It is not necessary that a subscriber should have the money—90 per cent. of it can be borrowed at 4¼ per cent. interest on the bonds as collateral without impairing the borrower's credit at his bank. It is not at all a question of what we can afford—we are not asked to afford anything. We are only asked to make a perfectly secure loan and not a gift. It involves no sacrifice.

"Under these circumstances failure by anyone to do at least his full part is perfectly unthinkable, and yet that is exactly what has occurred thus far in the campaign."

Next Saturday is Liberty Day and it is expected that millions will be added to the Liberty Loan fund in Los Angeles on that occasion. Chairman McKee has appointed Bernal Dyas grand marshal for the patriotic parade which is to be a feature. The parade will be educational and strictly army and navy, depicting many of the real reasons why everyone should support the loan. There will be floats, and massed formations of bombing squadrons [illegible] will lead the parade [illegible] stunt flyers show the citizens [illegible] they are being taught to do after they arrive in France and Germany.

SPEED UP!

One of the mainstays of the campaign from this time forward is the work of the precinct committees of

VAST INLAND EMPIRE TO BE SOLD.

Subdivision of the Great Miller & Lux Holdings in Kern County May Furnish Sinews of War for Coming Legal Battle Against Inheritance Tax.

Possibly to help furnish the sinews of war for the great legal battle impending against the State inheritance tax of $7,000,000 levied against the estate of the late Henry Miller, some 200,000 acres of the Miller & Lux holdings in Kern county are to be parceled and sold, Bakersfield advices indicate.

The Miller & Lux properties in California have long been notable for their immensity, and they are among the last of the great bodies of land held by individual concerns in this State.

While the supervision of the work preparatory to subdividing possibly the Kern county acreage is being handled by James Ogden, former general superintendent of the firm's ranches, the details are being worked out at their San Francisco offices.

It is said that already applications from possible purchasers have been received from eastern points by Thomas F. Burke, secretary of the Kern County Board of Trade. Hundreds of facts in differentiation of oil and irrigation resources and nearness to transportation lines and to settled communities must be considered in making up a scale of prices for the lands. This will take weeks of consideration and examination of the properties, situated all the way from Sacramento to Tehachepi.

ANOTHER BIG TRACT.

While this work is going on, the Kern County Land Company, is making preparations to cut up a portion of its large estate into small farms and will place them on the market even before the Miller & Lux lands are ready. More than 3000 acres in territory adjacent to Shafter, twenty-five miles from Bakersfield, are being prepared for the twenty and forty-acre farmer.

Available land for colonization purposes is decreasing rapidly with the years. South of Tehachepi there are few large tracts left suitable for subdivision. The population that is attracted to that section by years of judicious advertising by Southern California must come north, and the San Joaquin Valley may be advantaged by its proximity to Los Angeles, if desirable homesites are offered.

Wasco, McFarland and Shafter colonies have largely been built up on lands formerly belonging to the Kern County Land Company, and the latter colony may be extended to embrace adjacent lands. If the Miller & Lux properties are opened, as it now seems assured they will be, there will thereby be available to homeseekers a territory that is excelled by none in California for fertility and adaptability for the small farmer.

The fact that Miller & Lux have retained their interests in Kern county lands longer than in any other part of the State, is believed by agricultural interests to indicate that the most fertile lands of the concern are located there. The company, in Kern county, alone has more than 300,000 acres, nearly all of which will be subdivided. In other parts of the State, the acreage will run into the millions, it is said.

FIFTY YEARS AGO.

In 1870 lands in California were to be had for a few dollars an acre. Henry Miller obtained some of his Kern county acreage as low as 80 cents an acre, it is said. This land was purchased from the Southern Pacific Company and is considered some of the most fertile in the State. Other lands were secured at $1 an acre when the State was selling land to raise money for schools. At that time the land was so far from central marketing points that it was thought practically worthless for development. Today the same property will bring $250 an acre and some as high as $600 an acre.

It is the facts regarding the proper appraisement of these lands that is keeping a corps of workers busy, before it is possible to place the land upon the market.

Of the 300,000 acres owned by the Miller & Lux Company in Kern county, it is estimated that about 200,000 acres are adapted for general farming purposes. The rest are hill lands, excellent for cattle grazing. All these lands abound in subterranean water channels.

MEANS MORE PEOPLE.

The subdivision of 200,000 acres of the land will yield 1250 quarter sections of 160 acres each. It is reckoned by Secretary Burke that when the land is sold, twelve persons may reside and make a living on each quarter section. Thus the farming population of Kern county by reason of the Miller & Lux subdivision, increase by at least 15,000. As a result of this influx of settlers new villages will spring up throughout the county and Bakersfield expects to grow into a metropolis of possibly 75,000 or 80,000 population.

Los Angeles, naturally the source of supply for this section of the State, will be a great beneficiary, but as the Miller & Lux lands in the northern part of the San Joaquin Valley are sold, the cities about the bay will also share in the greater prosperity.

MINISTERS TO MEET.

The Baptist Ministers' Conference will convene at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow forenoon in Rowland Hall, No. 313 West Third street. The principal speaker will be Dr. Downey, a missionary from India.

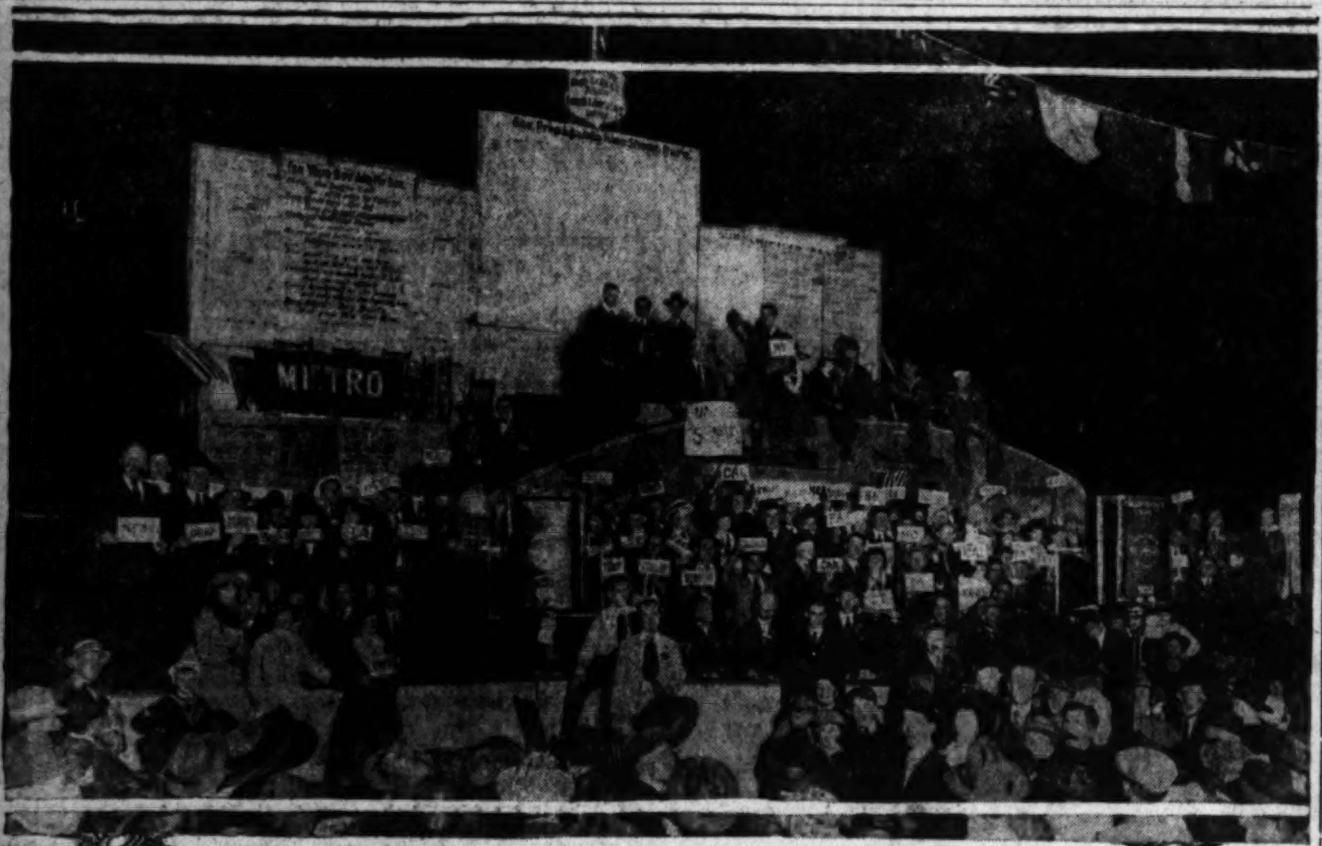
Next Two Weeks Must See Biggest Pull Ever



Flashlight of Typical "State Contest" and Film Workers' Drive Scene at Central Park Tank.

HONOR OF LOS ANGELES IS IN THE BALANCE.

We Must Raise Two and a Half Million Dollars a Day for the Next Twelve Working Days or Know that We Have Failed to Back up Our Army "Over There" in the Hour of Its Greatest Need.

which there are 666 in the city, each one equipped with a corps of workers, totalling 10,000. R. H. Ballard is at the head of this organization and last night issued a "speed-up" manifesto. In fact the urge all along the line is "more speed," "more money," "more subscriptions."

Members of the precinct organizations will visit every home in the city and continue visiting it until a "satisfactory amount," is secured from that home. Director Ballard suggests that on Monday morning every patriotic citizen go to his precinct headquarters and voluntarily make his subscription so that the work of solicitation may be that much lessened.

Much rivalry has been developed between the men and the women working on these precinct teams. Both sexes are co-operating to put Los Angeles over the top, and the results already obtained and expected next week should go far toward filling the local quota.

"Give the subscription information desired quickly," Ballard urges, "that the solicitor may cover as much ground as possible. If the subscription is made through a bank or any other branch of the Liberty Loan organization present your receipt at precinct headquarters in order that the proper record may be made and a button and honor emblem issued."

HUNDRED MINIMUM.

Workers have adopted a $100 minimum as their slogan and are proceeding on the theory that, the terms of payment being as easy as they are it is just as feasible for the small subscriber to take a $100 bond as it is for him to assimilate one for $50, and the total is so great that the sales effort must be made to count for as much as possible if the goal sought is to be obtained within the time limit. Whatever your subscription may be it should be doubled. There are just so many possible subscribers in Los Angeles, and the amount to be raised is $20,000,000 more than in the third loan. That means that each one must give more.

WOMEN'S WORK.

Mrs. J. T. Anderson, chairman of the Los Angeles County and City Women's Liberty Loan Committee, states that the citizens of Sherman have pledged themselves to oversubscribe the Fourth Liberty Loan four times. In the Third Loan, Sherman oversubscribed its quota three times, and they have placed their obligation one-fourth higher for the Fourth.

On the first day of the drive, Sherman reports a total of $3200 for the day, and states that they will not stop until the evening of October 19, no matter how many times they oversubscribe. Mrs. Anderson states that the women of this city are loyally and patriotically supporting the Fourth Liberty Loan. Mrs. Sadie Hatch of No. 430 Camulos street, the mother of four children under 16 years of age, came to the City Hall headquarters yesterday bringing $35 in 25 and 50-cent pieces to purchase a bond. This amount was saved over and above household expenses from her meager salary obtained in lumber mills, picking up ends of lumber.

Antoinnette Dracia, a French woman whose husband two years ago enlisted in the army and is now in France, purchased a bond in the second issue for herself, in the third issue for her oldest child and in the fourth issue is buying a bond for her second child. She lives in the French colony of Precinct No. 678, and in her spare time is selling Fourth Liberty Loan Bonds to the foreign population.

Another widow with three small children and one grown son who is now in France subscribed yesterday for a bond, although she says she was not certain where the money is coming from to pay for it.

Miss Ethel F. Coleman, chairman of Precinct No. 432, No. 727 Ardmore street, announced yesterday that she had passed the $50,000 mark for her precinct. While some of the residents of this precinct have not met their fourth loan obligation by subscribing double the amount they did in the third loan, Miss Coleman states that she believes they will before the loan is over, and that she will be able to report a big total.

Precinct No. 225, Mrs. L. A. Palmer, chairman of the Women's Committee, reports $27,200. Mrs. J. V. Mills of Precinct No. 426 reports $18,450; Mrs. G. M. Swindell of Precinct No. 472 announces that they have received subscriptions of $13,700. Mrs. Minnie Gibson of Precinct No. 516 reports a total of $13,250, and Mrs. M. M. Ritterband of Precinct No. 415 reports $10,550. Mrs. J. B. Severns, chairman of Precinct No. 566, announces a mass meeting in that precinct at Forty-eighth and Normandie, Tuesday night at 8 o'clock.

Director R. H. Ballard states that reports from precincts are arriving so fast at headquarters that it is impossible at this time to give an estimate of the precinct total. He further states that all reports from precincts from residents who refuse to subscribe and are able to are being turned over to the Investigation Committee.

Director of County Organizations W. B. Hunnewell announced Saturday noon that up to Friday W. B. Clancy, county chairman of Riverside county, reports a subscription total for Riverside of $559,550, which is 69 per cent. of their quota. For the balance of the county of Riverside, a subscription total is reported of $490,300, which makes a total for the county to noon yesterday of $1,049,850.

INDUSTRIAL DRIVE.

Director James S. Riley of the industrial organization announced Saturday that up to Thursday night, which is as far as it has been possible to make tabulations, the industrial organization has received at headquarters 6728 subscriptions for a total of $838,850. This is exclusive of all industrial subscriptions that have been placed through the banks, a total of which has not been received as yet.

AT THE TANK.

Interest in the tank meetings at Central Park is growing, and each night the crowd is larger than it was the night before. During the week it is estimated that 60,000 persons have been reached through these meetings, which have been in charge of moving-picture stars and producers and have provided a wide range of entertainment, and at the same time unlimited opportunity for the development of enthusiasm. Manager Jessen believes that the daily subscriptions from this source will increase until from $150,000 to $250,000 is realized every day.

Yesterday afternoon a big crowd turned out to greet Sessue Hayakawa, and members of his company, including two bright little Japanese girls who shouted through megaphones, "Please buy a bond." Mary Jane Irving, an American sister in art, was on deck with the same message, which appealed mightily to the folks on the ground.

Hayakawa made a stirring appeal for the sale of bonds. He said that although his color is different, and his features not the same as ours, he was 100 per cent. American and then to prove it he bought $10,000 worth of bonds.

Marshall Stimson made a four-minute patriotic address.

During the afternoon over $30,000 worth of bonds were disposed of, a popular selling feature being the grouping of all in the crowd who were entitled to wear a service star under signs denoting the division in which their "boy over there" is fighting. This picture will be sent to France and shown in Y.M.C.A. huts throughout the occupied zones. The expense is absorbed by the moving-picture people and the Los Angeles theaters so that none of it falls on the Liberty Loan Committee.

While the programme was going forward a scout airplane swooped down from the clouds and dropped letters in the air which fell in Central Park, near Victory tank. These letters were addressed to well-known prominent citizens of Los Angeles, newspaper publishers, and others, calling attention to the fact that the aviators could not see from the height they were flying, the totals that showed where Los Angeles was on the Fourth Liberty Loan, but urged that Los Angeles make these totals so big that they could be seen even up in the clouds. Other letters called attention to the fact that airplanes, guns and powder were costing Uncle Sam a tremendous sum of money that must be placed at once to insure our boys in France the necessary equipment to send them clean through to Berlin. Another letter stated that the drivers of this airplane were risking everything for Uncle Sam and all that Uncle Sam asked the people at home to do was to loan him their money. Another letter urged every citizen of Los Angeles to show that he was a loyal red-blooded American and 100 per cent. patriotic—that this was what the boys in France were looking to the people at home to prove and in this way open the road for them to Berlin.

The airplane was in charge of Lieuts. W. S. Heltzen and Oakley G. Kelly of the United States Air Service from Rockwell Field, San Diego. After dropping the letters which were read at the tank, the aviators performed thrilling nose dives, spiral dives and other war stunts for the entertainment of the crowd in Central Park.

The tank soirees are valuable because they form a central meeting place; a safety valve, where the excess steam generated by the intensive drive may find outlet. Again, most of the subscriptions secured through this source might not be reached in any other way.

Tomorrow night will be "big star night" at the tank. C. H. Christie, chairman of the Film Industry Committee, will be on deck, and the Brunton studios will provide a perfectly scintillant stellar outburst including such well-known performers as Helen Keller, Kitty Gordon, Lillian Walker, Baby Mary Jane Irving, Bessie Barriscale, Mme. Yorska, Dustin Farnum and Charles Gunn. Frank Keenan will preside. There will be jazz music, singing, "and everything."

On the tank itself will be speaker after speaker of stars, film magnates, soldiers of various nationalities who have been disabled in the great war, or are here on furlough, and other prominent and interesting persons.

Special fun and noise makers will be among the surprises of the occasion. For the first and possibly the last time in her life, the world-famous blind girl Helen Keller, who is filming a picture at the Brunton studios on a theme not yet disclosed, will address the audience. Miss Keller, who was once dumb, as well as deaf and blind, and who now speaks six languages, will make this special effort toward the success of the bond drive, an early victory and a lasting peace. In charge of the proceedings as studio field general is Harry Schenck.

By tomorrow the precinct committees and the industrial committees will be working under full steam; a number of rallies will be held every night; the tank revival will be on in full blast; the competitive committees will meet for a 6:30 dinner and final report at the Alexandria, and all the details of the great drive will be in full and complete operation.

MEXICAN GENERAL HELPS.

Once Rich, Now Night Clerk at Eighty, He Buys and Sells Liberty Bonds.

Brig.-Gen. Don Mariano Ruiz, who served with distinction in the Mexican army under the regime of Porfirio Diaz, culminating his military career as Governor of Tepic from 1905 to 1914, when, as a victim to the early days of the revolution he fled to the United States, leaving honors, property and family behind, is now night clerk at the Yorke Hotel, Second and Main streets, where he is said to earn $1 every night, plus a place to lay his head.

The old warrior, who is nearly 80 years of age, is full of fight yet and he is expressing this belligerency by buying from his meager earnings, Liberty Bonds and spending all of his spare time working among the Mexican people in Los Angeles stimulating the sale of these securities. Already the general is reported to have sold forty bonds and is still going strong.

Gen. Ruiz began his military career in 1857 and served through various Mexican campaigns, rising rapidly. He was high in the regard and the councils of Diaz, is a graduate of a military college, well educated, and was influential and wealthy.

FLED FOR HIS LIFE.

When Mexico "blew up" with the murder of Madero, the general found himself unable to follow the revolutionists in their mad orgy and because of his conservatism his property was confiscated. Forced to flee for his life, he formed a haven in this city, where he commenced all over again the battle for existence, although he was then well past the allotted three score years and ten.

Out of his own small funds he has caused a proclamation to be printed in Spanish which he is circulating in Mexican quarters urging his people to respond to the "noble hospitality" which this country has showed to Mexico, and to help in its hour of need a nation where Latin Americans are enabled to live in safety. "Buy Bonds," is the burden of his plea.

Incidentally the Mexicans resident in Los Angeles are responding liberally to the call. This branch of the bond-selling campaign is being handled through the office of Mayo & Co., No. 373 North Main street, under the direction of A. S. Peat, who is in command of all the work among foreigners.

ENEMY AT WORK.

Some German propaganda has been spread among the Mexicans and occasionally a frightened bond holder will appear at the Mayo office to express the fear that he has been "stung." In such cases an offer is immediately made to take his bonds off his hands at par. Usually this is sufficient to calm the investor, who immediately proceeds to spread the news that the American bonds are actually selling for 100 cents on the dollar, and in the end has a stimulating effect.

In every department of the bond-selling campaign among foreigners the committee is meeting with the most encouraging success, and while the totals are necessarily comparatively small, our adopted citizens are responding liberally. The small colony of Armenians, for instance, has already subscribed $17,300, which is only about $2000 less than their total for the entire time of the Third Liberty Loan.

HELEN KELLER ASKS MILLION.

Blind and Deaf Authoress Sells Liberty Bonds from Dark, Silent World.

Helen Keller, blind and deaf authoress, who is now in Hollywood, is trying from her "world of darkness and silence" to sell $1,000,000 worth of Liberty Bonds, she stated in a telegram which she sent to Gov. Stephens at Sacramento yesterday, asking him to buy a bond through her. The Governor was not in Sacramento yesterday.

In her telegram Miss Keller added: "It is the only way I can help bring liberty and peace."

LIBERTY LOAN NOTES.

Announcement is made from the superintendent's office, Los Angeles division, Southern Pacific Railroad, that the Fourth Liberty Loan subscriptions for the division 100 per cent. is running forty-eight hours ahead of time.

The local branch of the National Biscuit Company, No. 1225 East Sixth street, is displaying in its window a new service flag containing 1812 stars, representing a contribution, so far, of more than 15 per cent. of the company's male employees to the fighting forces of Uncle Sam. The local Liberty Loan Committee will also receive a pro rata subscription from the company through the local branch. A large advertising appropriation has also been made for the benefit of the loan, and the entire sales force is working on bond sales.

On Tuesday night Manager J. C. Jessen, of the tank Victory, promises a full comedy programme that will bring a rush of buyers to the amen corners. The programme is said to have something to do with the Mack Sennett comedymakers, and the Sennett bathing girls. Charlie Murray is "considering" taking charge for the night.

A. J. Taylor, cartoonist for The Times, will put on a "stunt" at 7:30 Monday evening, when he will draw for the crowd a series of pictures that will bring home some of the atrocities of which the Hun is capable, and show for what we are loaning our money to the government.

The following Liberty Loan meetings will be held Monday, at the various industrial plants:

Fulton Shipyards—12:15 p.m.

Ebell Club House—3:30 p.m., in charge of Miss Millard.

Highland Park—7:30 p.m., Sunbeam Theater—Speaker, Carlos Hardy.

Mass meeting Precinct No. 300—8:30 p.m.—2719 Sunset Blvd.

Hollywood Loyalty League—8:15 p.m.—Hollywood Women's Club.

Hall of Records—4:30 p.m., Room No. 6.

Precinct mass meeting—8 p.m.—La Salle and Adams—Charge of Mrs. Gilhousen.

Jefferson High School—12 noon — 38th and Hooper. Speaker, Carlos Hardy.

Los Angeles Shipyards Company—11:30 a.m., San Pedro, J. Stitt Wilson.

Precinct mass meeting—8 p.m.—State Normal School—F. H. Ashbury in charge and Sergt. Moran will speak.

A meeting will be held at 10:30 a.m., Monday in every one of the Boos Bros. cafeterias.

The town of Needles has gone over with a $141,250 subscription.

The Japanese committee, under Mr. K. Tanigashi chairman, reports 836 subscriptions down to the close of business October 3, for a total of $71,700. They expect to get over $200,000 from Japanese residents of Los Angeles before the end of the drive.

A mass meeting with Japanese speakers was held at Terminal Market, Friday morning about 4 o'clock, and a similar meeting will be held Saturday morning at the Ninth-street Market, the object of these meetings being to work up enthusiasm for the loan. Although no particular drive was made at the meeting, $500 was signed up at the Terminal Market Friday morning.

The Swedish committee reports subscriptions aggregating $16,000.

[illegible]

News from outside points is favorable. A number of Los Angeles county towns have already completed their quotas and are busy on oversubscriptions. There is little doubt that the county at large will do its part. The big fight must be made within the city.

GOES TO CAPITAL.

Sylvester L. Weaver Leaves for Two Important Conferences at Washington and New York.

Weaver, sub-regional adviser for Southern California, of the Resources and Conversion Section of the War Industries Board, left yesterday for Washington to attend a meeting of representatives from all parts of the United States, to be held in Washington, beginning on the 14th inst. The convention was called by C. A. Otis, chief of the section. Frederick J. Koster of San Francisco, adviser for Region 19, and George C. Bordman will attend from the Coast.

FAIR'S EXHIBITS DOUBLED.

Displays for Liberty Show Far Exceed Anticipations—Merritt is Orator.

Ralph P. Merritt, Federal Food Administrator for California, who has just returned from Washington, was yesterday chosen orator of the day for the opening of the California Liberty Fair next Saturday.

The first day is to be known as Liberty Loan Day, when Gov. Stephens will formally open the fair. Mayor Woodman also will make an address. Telegrams have been received from Senator Phelan and Congressmen Osborne and Kettner, and there is a possibility that they and other prominent State and national figures will be in attendance.

Backed by the United States government, indorsed by the State of California, with an appropriation of [illegible]0,000, and reinforced by the city and county of Los Angeles, the California Liberty Fair will be opened at Exposition Park next Saturday, October 12, and for fifteen days the people of the State will have an opportunity to see an array of exhibits wonderful in their diversity.

Constant requests for the extension of time for the closing of entries has resulted in the exhibits to be grouped at the grounds growing to at least twice the number at first anticipated.

The fair will be both educational and attractive and interesting. The United States Department of Agriculture has worked out a plan whereby its joint committee on government exhibits is sending out a comprehensive food show which will be second to none ever displayed by the government.

IS COMPREHENSIVE.

The scope of the work of the Department of Agriculture is so wide and the quantity of its exhibit material so great that its displays vary in different sections of the country. In every case, however, they have been selected to clinch some reason why American agricultural production must be increased, and being increased, and to show some of the numerous ways in which this can be done. These exhibits will not be for the farmer alone. They are for him first, but food production has become the business and concern of everybody in America. The agricultural exhibits are attractive, interesting and informing enough to hold the attention of even the novice who cannot tell a solo from a silo.

The War Department display can hardly fail to place Americans more closely in touch with their soldiers, who are making more uneasy some heads that wear crowns. There are Browning machine guns for infantry and Lewis machine guns of the aircraft type, mountain cannon that can be pulled to Alpine heights, figures clothed in regulation uniforms, including an aviator's flying togs; rifles of the latest model and wooden blocks showing penetration of the old and new bullets, complete equipment of the "doughboys" and a trench periscope for watching the friskiness on the part of the "Heinies," gas masks, trench helmets, etc., etc.

There are to be models of the various kinds of tents used by the army, national and regimental colors in silk, storm and post flags, a portable field wireless outfit, heliograph instruments, lanterns for night signaling, day and night rockets and signal flags.

THE NAVY EXHIBIT.

The navy display will show more of the tools that are making this world an unsafe place for international burglars and also some rifles captured from German soldiers. The navy shows a depth charge of the kind whose bubbles often mean the end for some submarine pirate; a naval mine and anchor, and a big torpedo with its truck. Projectiles of various sizes are accompanied by bombs that airplanes drop. The clothing display includes some worn in winter weather by the men aboard our submarines.

The Weather Bureau will show how it is able to forecast storms, frosts and floods to protect agriculture, commerce and navigation, and will display its daily weather map, showing conditions in the immediate locality of the exhibition.

The Bureau of Animal Industry will show how to improve and increase the country's supplies of meat, milk and poultry, how it guards the health of the public and our soldiers and sailors through its meat inspection system, and how to drive out the destructive animal diseases that annually take a toll of meat worth many millions of dollars.

The other great co-ordinated branch of the Department of Agriculture, the Bureau of Plant Industry, will treat its field in the same manner, with special attention to methods of bettering and stimulating plant production and eradicating plant diseases.

THE FOREST SERVICE.

Broad features of forest service work are to be presented in popular and striking form. Models urge the burning of local fuel wood to release coal for cities and war purposes and relieve transportation, contrast proper methods of logging with the wasteful ways, and show the proper handling of tree windbreaks for increasing crop and animal production. Other forest service displays show how forest fires are prevented or discovered and fought; how valuable timber can be saved for war uses, and the need of retaining forests to retard soil erosion or slopes.

Distinctive exhibits of the Bureau of Chemistry illustrate the enforcement of the Food and Drugs Act, production and preservation of food products, use of tanning materials, production of colors and other chemical industries. Differences between true and imitation commercial articles are shown, and light is thrown on adulterated or misbranded medical preparations.

The Great Wortham Show will arrive in Los Angeles on Thursday in time for the opening of the fair on Saturday. This show travels by special train, twenty-four cars carrying 300 persons. They have just completed a successful season on the North Pacific circuit. In the aggregation are sixteen distinct shows, which will make up the greater part of the sawdust trail.

MATE IN RECORD TIME.

Los Angeles Man Completes Test for Merchant Marine in Eight Hours.

A new record for taking the final examinations to become a mate in the merchant marine was established by Roy C. Donnally, a graduate of the government free navigation school of Los Angeles, who recently was awarded his license. Instead of two to four days usually required, Donnally astonished the examining officers by completing his test in eight hours.

Two graduates who were examined with him—Elisha M. Hollaway and Earl J. Stauffer—gave Donnally a pretty race, finishing their examinations within a short time after Donnally had cast off for his first cruise.

Hollaway left a fascinating work to join the sea forces of Uncle Sam, having been leading director for one of the large motion-picture companies here. At one time he directed the pictures made by Baby Marie Osborne.

RIVERSIDE FAIR IS READY.

With the honor of staging the first milch goat show ever held in the United States, and with entries from all the large goat ranches in the West, the Southern California Fair will open at Riverside on Tuesday to continue through the remainder of the week. The live stock show at Riverside this year will be the best and largest ever staged at the fall show in the citrus city.

As a result of few race meetings the past summer, the management of the Riverside fair sees more horses entered this year in the week's races than ever before. More than sixty of the best steppers on the Pacific Coast have been entered. With big purses offered the pacers and trotters, each race will be one for the money from the word go.

A varied collection of exhibits have been made this year from every locality south of the Tehachepi and from the Colorado River to the Pacific Coast. From Lower California Gov. Cantu will send a display of the products of the soil.

The government will have special war exhibits at Riverside. With a new "war wing" in which will be exhibited work being done by the women in helping to win the war, special exhibits are promised in this line at the big fair. National live stock associations have recognized Riverside with prizes that are worth going after.

The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce will run an excursion to Riverside Wednesday to give all an opportunity to visit the big show.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce, Realty Board, Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association and other organizations that will send delegates are urged to obtain their tickets early, so sufficient cars can be provided on a special train that will leave the Pacific Electric Depot at 9 o'clock in the morning.

It is urged that members of these organizations not only go themselves, but take their families. The Naval Reserve Band of fifty-three instruments will provide music on the train, and there will be other entertainments. A special programme has been arranged at Riverside for the Los Angeles delegation. Some of the choice exhibits there will be displayed at the Liberty Fair, to be held at Exposition Park, October 12 to 26.

"DON'T WORRY," SAYS NURSE

Los Angeles Girl in France Writes of the Work of Van Kaathoven Unit.

Filled with words of cheer from the war front, what is probably the first letter from Base Hospital Unit No. 35 of the American Expeditionary Forces, commanded by Dr. J. J. A. Van Kaathoven, one of Los Angeles' best-known physicians, has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Phileas David of No. 119 West Twenty-fifth street from their daughter, Miss Eugenie L. David, one of the nurses.

The writer, before her departure for France, was well known in medical circles here. During the twelve years that she has been in nursing service, the last five saw her as district nurse for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Miss David left Los Angeles last May, proceeding to camp McArthur at Waco, Tex. It is thought that she landed in France about August 20.

"They (the French people) think that it is the noblest thing in the world for us American women to come away over here to take care of our boys," says the letter, which, in part, follows:

NO TIME IS LOST.

"We arrived in camp and got to work the next morning. It was the same old work, only we are not as fully equipped as we were in the States. But it is wonderful how everything progresses and how in no time a new base is established. Right now I am at one of those new camps. Twenty of us came here to help get one of the other base hospitals ready, and we will probably remain until the unit arrives.

"Generally we go away prepared to stay three weeks or more and take enough clothes in our suit case to last that time. The food is as good as can be expected. Of course we don't have cream puffs and chocolate eclairs, but we are quite satisfied. As you know, the water is bad and a few of the girls have been sick. But so far I have escaped, and all in all, everything is fine.

"They certainly treat us well at this camp. Beds are good, with plenty of covering. There are four to each quarter, and a table, basin, chair and shelves. All quarters are either of brick or stone. Everything is so comfy that one really cannot realize that one is in France."

REAL FRENCH ACCENT.

Here Miss David adds that she has considerable enjoyment talking to the French people. She is of French descent and speaks the language fluently. The French, she says, are surprised to meet Americans who speak their language.

"As soon as they hear me," she says, "it is 'Oh! vous etes francaise! On peut le dire tout de suite. Vous n'avez pas d'accent comme les Americains,' etc. And so we keep on jabbering.

"We are going to a dance at 7:30 in the next village. A few nights ago we attended a vaudeville at one of the convalescent camps. It was cleverly put on and we saw a number of Boston boys.

"And," she concludes, "don't worry for we are all well and feeling tip-top."

DOCTOR FINALLY GETS CHANCE TO HELP WAR.

OSTEOPATH, TURNED DOWN OFTEN, JOINS Y.M.C.A. FORCE OF WORKERS.

Dr. H. Warren Nice, osteopath, of this city, is to go overseas in the Y.M.C.A. service. His application has been approved by the council at San Francisco, his papers have been sent on to New York, and application has been made for his passport, so that he hopes to be on the way soon.

This is a striking instance of perseverance in the determination to get into active war-work service overseas. Three generations of the forebears of Dr. Nice were Quakers, but he offered his services for work for Uncle Sam at least a dozen times, but was rejected because of his age.

Dr. Nice is somewhere between 40 and 50, and his actual birthday date is on record at Washington. He was a member of the Nathan Hale Volunteers, and when this country declared war against Germany he gave valuable service in the intelligence work in the north. Then he tried to become an army chaplain, but the age limit intervened. When Col. Roosevelt planned to take men to Europe, Dr. Nice thought this would be his chance, and he offered his services.

Then he applied for admission to the first reserve officers' training camp. Again his age was the bar. His application was made for the second officers' training camp at San Francisco, and he was refused again—only 1465 out of the 8000 applicants were taken.

Still determined to get into some line of service, Dr. Nice made application to the Y.M.C.A. War Work Council, and for weeks his application was held up. Then he tried to get into the Red Cross service in Europe, but was refused because of his lack of knowledge of surgery. He took an examination for the Medical Reserve Corps, but was rejected because he was an osteopath and not an alopath, he says.

Finally, he tried to get a passport to go to France for the Foreign Legion or ambulance service, but found that was impossible, as he did not have a definite contract with the French government. He took an active part in the Third Liberty Loan as a speaker, and is now one of the speakers in the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign. And Dr. Nice now speaks with an increased vim, for the Y.M.C.A. has called him to service, and he is happy that at last, after all his efforts and disappointments, he is to have some definite active part in the work overseas.

CHINO SUGAR BEET MEN DISAPPOINTED.

REFUSAL OF GOVERNMENT TO OFFER BONUS MAY CURTAIL ACREAGE.

In answer to a communication sent to the Department of Agriculture at Washington a few weeks ago by the Chino Chamber of Commerce, regarding the sugar-beet industry, the government has stated that there can be no bonus offered to the beet growers of that section.

Frank Wiggins, secretary of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, had the matter in charge, and he has been advised that the government will neither set a price for sugar nor offer a bonus. This being the case, there is said to be no likelihood of any large acreage in the Chino section next season. Farmers there are reported as saying that they will not put in a crop next spring unless the sugar factories will guarantee a price of $12 as a base, with additional returns for beets with higher than 15 per cent. of sugar. Unofficial reports are that the sugar manufacturers will not meet the demands of the growers unless the government will set a price that will warrant the advance to the growers.

Last season the factories offered the growers $7.50 as a base, which was refused by a majority of the farmers. Those who did raise a crop realized from $9.50 to $11 per ton, according to quality.

Are Weak Nerves and Lack of Physical Strength Holding You Back in Life?

You Must Have Plenty of Iron in Your Blood if You Want the Power and Energy to Win, Says Physician

When the crushing grip of worry, trials and care saps your vitality and keeps you from the full enjoyment of home, social and business life—take Nuxated Iron and watch its strength-giving, up-building effect—it will increase the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, run-down folks in two weeks' time in many instances.

HOME LIFE
BUSINESS LIFE
SOCIAL LIFE

"THOUSANDS are held back in life for want of sufficient iron in the blood," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.,) New York, and the Westchester County Hospital, in commenting on the relation of strong nerves and physical endurance to the attainment of success and power.

"A weak body means a weakened brain; weak nerve force means weakened will power, and like the race horse beaten by a nose, many a capable man or woman falls just short of winning because they don't back up their mentality with the physical strength and energy which come from having plenty of iron in the blood. That irritable twitch, that fit of despondency, that dizzy, fearful feeling—these are the sort of signals nature gives to tired, listless folks when the blood is clamoring for strength-giving iron—more iron to restore the health by enriching the blood and creating thousands of new red blood cells.

"In my opinion the greatest curse to the health and strength of American people of today is the alarming deficiency of iron in their blood. Iron is absolutely essential to enable your blood to transform the food you eat into muscular tissue and brain. It is through iron in the red coloring matter of the blood that life-sustaining oxygen enters the body. Without iron there is no strength, vitality and endurance to combat obstacles or withstand severe strains. Lack of sufficient iron in the blood has ruined many a man's nerves and utterly robbed him of that virile force and stamina which are so necessary to success and power in every walk of life.

"Therefore, I strongly advise those who feel the need of a strength and blood builder to get a physician's prescription for organic iron—Nuxated Iron—or if you don't want to go to this trouble, then purchase only Nuxated Iron in its original packages and see that this particular name (Nuxated Iron) appears on the package. If you have taken other iron products and failed to get results, remember that such preparations are an entirely different thing from Nuxated Iron, which has been used and strongly endorsed by many physicians formerly connected with well-known Hospitals, the Hon. Leslie M. Shaw, former Presidential Cabinet Officer, former United States Senator and Vice-Presidential Nominee; Charles A. Towne, former members of Congress, distinguished United States Army Generals (retired,) Judge Atkinson of the United States Court of Claims at Washington, and others."

In regard to the value of Nuxated Iron, former Health Commissioner of Chicago, William R. Kerr, said: "As Health Commissioner of the City of Chicago, I was importuned many times to recommend different medicines, mineral waters, etc. Never yet have I gone on record as favoring any particular remedy. But, in the case of Nuxated Iron, I feel an exception should be made to the rule. From my own experience with it, I feel that it is such a valuable remedy that it ought to be used in every hospital and prescribed by every physician in this country, and if my endorsement shall induce anaemic, nervous, run-down men and women to take Nuxated Iron, and receive the wonderful tonic benefits which I have received, I shall feel greatly gratified that I made an exception to my life-long rule in recommending it."

Dr. Schuyler C. Jaques, formerly Visiting Surgeon of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, New York City, said: "I have never before given out any medical information or advice for publication, as I ordinarily do not believe in it. But in the case of Nuxated Iron I feel I would be remiss in my duty not to mention it. I have taken it myself and given it to my patients with most surprising results. And those who wish quickly to increase their strength, power and endurance will find it a most remarkable and wonderfully effective remedy."

No matter what other tonics or iron remedies you have used without success—if you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. Nuxated Iron will increase the strength, power and endurance of delicate, nervous, run-down people in two weeks' time in many instances.

Manufacturers' Note: Nuxated Iron, which is prescribed and recommended by physicians and which is now being used by over three million people annually, is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by The Owl Drug Co., Dickinson Drug Co., B. & B. Drug Co., Boswell & Noyes, Sun Drug Co. and all other druggists.

HOW LONG?

How long can Germany survive the terrible drain of losing men?

That has become the paramount question of the war.

The exact figures are War Office secrets; but it cannot be an overestimate to say that, since March 21, Germany has lost 250,000 men taken as prisoners and as many more on the casualty lists, dead and wounded.

On all fronts, the Allies are now capturing Germans at the rate of about 10,000 men a day, and probably killing and wounding another 10,000.

There is peril because of the actual loss of men taken prisoner; there is an even greater peril because of the effect upon morale. Surrender is to the soldier a species of military suicide. It is "catching." It is a twin danger.

In the present conditions faced by the German Empire, the word "missing" after a soldier's name is more perilous to the military future than "dead." The dead do not persuade other men to die; but the men who surrender inspire other men to surrender.

Aside from the morale, the mere loss of man power has created a very serious condition for the Germans. The Kaiser is desperate for men. Man power was never at so low an ebb in Germany.

This condition has been brought about partly by the heavy losses of six months' intensive fighting without cessation. To an even greater extent the shortage of German power has been brought about by the strategy of Gen. Foch. By the bewildering rapidity of his movements and the wide area over which he has scattered his attacks, Gen. Foch has put upon the Germans the necessity of heavily guarding every inch of the line from Palestine to the English Channel.

Until he was given supreme command, the Germans were able to maintain a false strength by suddenly concentrating their forces at one point of the line.

It so happens that the Germans have run short of men at a time unfortunate for them. The whole Teutonic structure in the Near East is tottering to a fall. Were the Germans able to come to the rescue with heavy reinforcements, the crisis might be bridged. But it is certainly impossible for Germany to detach men from the west front to the relief of Austria.

That the Kaiser has always come to Austria's rescue in every previous crisis will make the present failure all the more conspicuous. The German man shortage will have an effect even more unfortunate upon Austria than upon Germany.

How long can the Teutonic powers hold out, losing men by battle and surrender at the rate of 20,000 a day? Suppose that Germany has 2,000,000 effectives—how long will they last?

THE HOME PRODUCT.

America used to depend almost wholly on Germany for potash, but now finds that she has all the potash she wants, to say nothing of Abe. What was once a waste, a nuisance or a bane is now found to be a thing of value and profit. The fumes of mineral vapors, the junk of the smelter and the weeds of the sea are rich in potash. The dust from cement plants that whitened the foliage for miles about and was held to be such a nuisance is now caught and tightly held, for it is almost pure potash. From this source alone over one hundred thousand tons of the stuff are now annually rescued. We will never have to trouble Germany more about our potash supply. To hell with the Kaiser.

A PREMIUM ON PAIN.

If this social insurance measure should prevail, it would be a knock on the friends of Mary Baker Eddy; but it would make a case of rheumatism worth its weight in pink pills. Instead of advertising California as a health resort we would be famous for our invalids. People are prone to magnify their ailments as it is. How much worse then to put a premium on the idea! We of California would be unsufferably bored as well as frightfully taxed. And for what? An economical theory that has already been exploded where submitted to the test of experience.

FAMINE NOTES.

Among other things to worry about at this time is the discovery that there are many Esquimaux families who have never owned an ice cream freezer. Still more pitiful would be the discovery of an American family that did not own a Liberty Bond. Let it be hoped that nothing of that kind will happen.

ON THE JOB.

After this war it won't be necessary for Gen. Foch to advertise in the papers to get a job. They'd be glad to take him on most anywhere.

CHRIST'S GRAY GENERAL.

AS THE tide of battle in the great war turns more and more from doubt and anxiety to the certainty of victory, there looms with startling vividness in the world's imagination the figure of one man whose genius has exceeded that of any other soldier of whom time has made record.

This man is Gen. Ferdinand Foch—the Gray Man of Christ.

This has been Christ's war—Christ on one side, and all that stood opposed to Christ on the other side. And the generalissimo, in supreme command of all the armies that fought on the side of Christ, is Christ's man.

This may seem a strange statement for a secular newspaper to make. But, it is the business of a newspaper to get at facts. If the facts are of a supernal nature, it is still the business of the newspaper to get at them and to record them.

And the fact is that owing to the genius of Ferdinand Foch, the Hun stands at this hour with his back against the wall—a wall that is soon to crash and crumble upon his head and annihilate him forever from the face of the earth.

And the additional fact is that the deeper we question as to who Foch is, the clearer is the answer that in every act of his life and in every thought of his brain he is Christ's man.

If you were to ask him: "Are you Christ's man?" he would answer, "Yes."

It seems to be beyond all shadow of doubt that when the hour came in which all that Christ stood for was to either stand or fall, Christ raised up a man to lead the hosts that battled for Him.

When that hour came in which truth and right, charity, brotherly love, justice and liberty were either to triumph or to be blotted out of the world, Christ came again upon the road to Damascus.

Whoever does not realize this and see it clearly as a fact, he does but blunder stupidly.

There will be a crowding company of critics when the war is ended, and they will all be filled with the ego of their own conclusions. They will attempt to explain the genius of Foch with maps and diagrams.

But, while they are doing so, if you will look for Foch in some quiet church; it is there that he will be found humbly giving God the glory and absolutely declining to attribute it to himself.

Can that kind of a man win a war? Can a man who is a practical soldier be also a practical Christian? And is Foch that kind of a man? Let us see.

II.

IF YOU were to know a man who came home every night with a bag filled with gold nuggets, you would naturally be curious to know where he went to get them.

In the same way, when you see a soldier winning battles you are curious to know from what source comes his genius.

Where, then, does Foch go for the strength and magical power to bring home the marvelous victories he has won and is still winning over Prussia and the unholy alliances she has made to crush the world and drive freedom from the earth?

We have the answer close at home. A California boy, serving as a soldier in the American Expeditionary Forces in France, has recently written a letter to his parents in San Bernardino in which he gives as well as anyone else could give, the answer to the question we ask.

This American boy—Evans by name—tells of meeting Gen. Foch at close range in France.

Evans had gone into an old church to have a look at it, and as he stood there with bared head satisfying his respectful curiosity, a gray man with the eagles of a general on the collar of his shabby uniform, also entered the church.

Only one orderly accompanied the quiet gray man. No glittering staff of officers, no entourage of gold-laced aides were with him; nobody but just the orderly.

Evans paid small attention, at first, to the gray man, but was curious to see him kneel in the church, praying. The minutes passed until full three-quarters of an hour had gone by before the gray man arose from his knees.

Then Evans followed him down the street and was surprised to see soldiers salute this man in great excitement, and women and childern stopping in their tracks with awe-struck faces as he passed.

It was Foch. And now, Evans of San Bernardino counts the experience as the greatest in his life.

During that three-quarters of an hour that the generalissimo of all the Allied armies was on his knees in humble supplication in that quiet church, 10,000 guns were roaring at his word on a hundred hills that rocked with death.

Millions of armed men crouched in trenches or rushed across blood-drenched terraines at his command, generals and field marshals, artillery, cavalry, engineers, tanks, fought and wrought across the map of Europe absolutely as he commanded them to do, and in no other manner, as he went into that little church to pray.

Nor was it an unusual thing for Gen. Foch to do. There is no day that he does not do the same thing if there be a church that he can reach. He never fails to spend an hour on his knees every morning that he awakes from sleep; and every night it is the same.

Moreover, it is not a new thing with him. He has done it his whole life long.

If young Evans could have followed the general on to headquarters, where reports were waiting him and news of victory upon victory was piled high before him, he would doubtless have seen a great gladness on the general's face, but he would have seen no look of surprise there.

Men who do that which Foch does have no doubts. When Premier Clemenceau, the old Tiger of France, stood on the battle front with anxious heart, one look at the face of Foch stilled all his fears. He returned to Paris with the vision of sure and certain victory.

The great agnostic statesman doubted, but the Gray Man of Christ did not doubt.

III.

THE facts, then, in the case are that when the freedom of the world hung in the balance the world turned to Foch as the one great genius who could save it against the Hun; and that Foch, who is perhaps the greatest soldier the world has produced, is first of all, a Christian.

What is the use of listening to materialists in the face of these facts? Where did the man go who brought home his sack of gold nuggets every night? Where does Foch go who brings home a victory every day?

If he goes to the chemists, to the war councils, to the map makers, and to them alone, well and good. That's what the Kaiser and Von Hindenburg and Ludendorff do, and so the materialists would give us their answer.

But that is not what Foch does. He goes to God. He goes to Christ, who turned back Paul on the road to Damascus; to the Nazarene, who raised Lazarus from the tomb; to the Wanderer who went up the dark path to Calvary and hung there upon the tree between two thieves that the sins of the world might be washed away.

Think of this type of man, quiet and as humble as the humblest peasant in the stricken fields of Flanders, with the hopes and the destinies of a whole world in his hands!

Is it not our tradition that such a commander, compared to whom Alexander and Constantine and Napoleon and Caesar stand as corporals in Lilliput, should be inaccessible in his lordly grandeur from the eyes of common men?

And yet, young Evans of San Bernardino, just an every-day American boy from under the shadow of old San Gorgonio, spent nearly an hour with Foch in an old French church, and not even one bayonet was there to keep them apart.

They represented the two great democracies of the world, but there in that old church they represented, jointly, a far greater thing—the democracy of Christ.

IV.

THE war is not yet ended, but Foch has already won it.

The Kaiser prates much of God, but we know that his "Gott" is not the God who gave us Christ as His only begotten Son. You shall search the utterances of the Kaiser in vain to find one single reference of his to Christ, or one appeal that he has made to the Son of God.

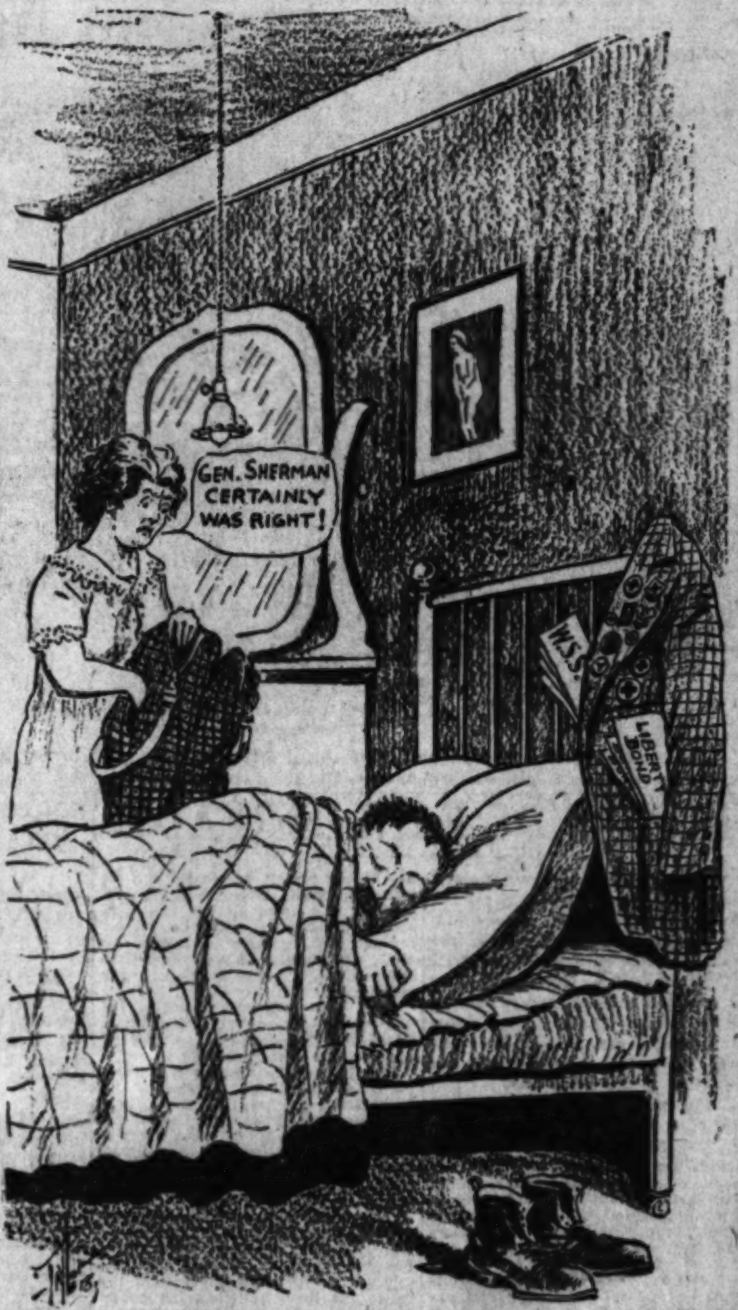
The Kaiser, and that Prussia which he has builded up, have thrust Christ out. Alien is He to the Hun as He was to them that slew Him.

Of Him was the prophecy that He would come to be the Prince of Peace. For such a Prince the Hun could have no longing and no love, because it was foretold that through Christ there would come an end to war.

"For all the armor of the armed man in the tumult, and the garments rolled in blood, shall even be for burning, for fuel of fire."

When, some day soon—pray God it may be soon—the trumpets shall sound the clear, sweet call of peace across a broken world, the victors shall kneel at the feet of Christ, and at the head of all the weary yet rejoicing host shall kneel Christ's gray general, Ferdinand Foch.

His Bit.



GEN. SHERMAN CERTAINLY WAS RIGHT!

CHET SELF-CONDEMNED.

"Nearly all the recent progress of the world in industrial democracy has had its origin in autocratic Germany and had its impulse in Bismarck."

Who said that? A subject of Germany? No, gentle reader. The man who delivered himself of that (patriotic?) remark is a nominal citizen of the United States, a member of the Executive Committee of the California State Council of Defense, chairman of the California State Social Health Insurance Committee, editor of the Fresno Republican; a man who, like his friend, Maximilian Frederic Ihmsen, received not all the education that Stuttgart could give him, but all that his noodle could assimilate; an apologist for Teutonic atrocities, a hater of England and an enemy of Americanism—and, while The Times does not wish to become personal in discussing principles, or the absence of principles, this newspaper does not hesitate to inform the public that the initials of this man's name are Chester H. Rowell.

To say that Mister Rowell has, from the outbreak of the European war, shown decided pro-German tendencies is to express the sentiment of The Times in as polite language as English affords. Our thoughts, translated into strong, virile English, would not be permitted in the mails. If our opinion were written in French it would not be understood by everybody—and this editorial is not intended to confuse anyone. Is The Times condemning Mr. Rowell? Oh, not at all, not at all! "Give a rogue rope enough and he will hang himself"—and that is what Mr. Rowell has done, figuratively, and, it might be said, literally, since the rope he employed is the Fresno Republican, a periodical devoted to the cause of Kaiserism and general cussedness.

If anyone has taken the pains (we use the word "pains" advisedly) to file the issues of the Fresno Republican (which may have been sent him by pro-German agents) he will find in the editorial columns of Herr Rowell's handbull, published since the beginning of the war, a great number of articles that will open his eyes to the Teutonic ideals of the editor. For example, issues of May, 1915, contain four editorials extenuating the sinking of the Lusitania and laying the blame upon the Cunard Line! At other times Mr. Rowell palliated Germany's invasion of Belgium; belittled England's defense of that stricken country; branded our friendship with Britain as "an ignoble peace;" upheld Hans Tauscher, Krupp's agent in America; opposed Belgian, Armenian and Serbian relief; declared British "Navalism" worse than German militarism—and eloquently pleaded for the "humaneness" of using poison gas!

The shameful evidence of Mr. Rowell's pro-Germanism began in August, 1914, when he declared:

> "The crushing of Germany would be perhaps the greatest calamity of all."

Looking over the files at random we find this tender expression of Rowell's unbounded faith in Germany and Germanism:

> "In Belgium it may be that rule from Berlin may be better than rule from Brussels. A German Governor-General could doubtless do better for Holland than could Queen Wilhelmina. German soldiers could doubtless prevent disaster in Paris, Milan and Rome. The efficiency of the German mind sees these things. From imagination to reality is, after all, but a question of political opportunity and convenience."

Read that statement again—and then consider what the efficient German imagination, having become reality, has accomplished, in so far as possible, in Belgium, Russia, France and Italy! The reason Mr. Rowell did not advocate a German Governor-General for the White House in Washington was perhaps not because he did not devoutly desire such a consummation—but because he did not dare give voice to the prayer.

And today, when England is nearer to being a true democracy than ever before in her history; when, indeed, she is a democracy in all but name; when the legislative body is ruled, not by the nobility, but by the people; when suffrage is universal, including women—this is what Rowell thinks of our noble ally (and, remember, "Rowell is an honorable man:")

> "Britain needs to be shaken out of the pernicious individualism which has been paralyzing the nation quite as much in peace as in war. England needs more paternalism in her government."

What does Mr. Rowell think of German "kultur"? "Hear ye him:"

> "The German universities have unshackled the intellects of men. Everything that has made American education comprehensible and practical was imported straight out of Germany."

It is true that Germany has educated a chosen few of her people—BUT FOR WHAT PURPOSE? Let the ghosts of a million murdered babes and ravished mothers arise and answer!

> "Germany has redeemed imperialism by making it benevolent, and mitigated militarism by making its efficiency contagious."

And the rest of Mr. Rowell's proverbs, are they not written in the Fresno Republican from the year of the Kaiser in 1914 even unto far in 1917? Since America entered the war Mr. Rowell has preached pro-Americanism. Is it because he has not the courage now to stand up for the failing Fatherland which he formerly defended? Be that as it may, his former expressions of love for everything German explain his warm advocacy of compulsory State health insurance—a measure devised by Bismarck as the strongest plank in his platform of state slavery of the masses.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

IN DAYS TO COME.

I wonder what we'll talk about when peace is here once more; can we discuss our aches and gout as in the days of yore? Of course the war will be discussed for long years, three or nine; but some day 'twill grow stale and must take in its gory sign. And when war talk has had its day, and has become a crime, can we thrash out the price of hay, as in the olden time? Can you sit down with torpid friend, your back against a wall, and talk, for long, long hours on end, about a game of ball? And will you ever, do you think, wear out your trusty throat denouncing some long-winded gink who'd like to have your vote? I wonder what will be our theme when war's been dead so long it seems much like an evil dream that made a night go wrong. It's hard to think of grown-up gents in all the years to come discussing picayunes or cents, or pups or chewing gum. But doubtless in a little while we'll sing the same old tune, the same old themes will be in style—for we forget so soon! And you will spend a lot of time discussing gnats and fleas; and I will write a noble rhyme about the grocer's cheese. WALT MASON.

THE LANCER.

There is one Yank that I want to have turned upside down and spanked. He has snuffed out the one flame of romance that burned in my low-brow cosmos.

I have always burned secret essence before that portrait of Napoleon with his hand thrust through the breast of his great coat.

But this irrepressible Yank has discovered that Bonaparte had his hand up there scratching cooties.

That picture will never mean the same to me again. I have taken it down from the wall of my house and the wall of my consciousness.

There are other illusions that are going tumbling down before the onslaught of the Yanks.

A lot of the mould and dust of the ages is due to be swept out of Europe by a gust of fresh air from America.

The A.E.F. is the first real bunch of Americans who ever got over there. Europe has been patronized by rich pork packers who lugged around wives who wanted to be introduced at court. It has patronized poor, skinny school teachers from Boston and art students from Newton Center and way stations, who breathed their awe all over the old cathedrals and wept at the spot where Joan of Arc shampooed her hair.

I can imagine the bewildered astonishment which these light-hearted, unappalled, devil-may-care American youngsters in khaki have created.

They don't care a whoop for the old cathedrals and they are much more concerned over their next meal than the various resting places of the late Maid of France.

Jeanne d'Arc doesn't interest them as much as the little French Jeannes and Janes of today.

And in this they are quite right. One level-headed little French girl with her clear-sighted philosophy, her loyal, calculated courage, her penetrating vision is worth all the old historic piles that were ever built.

Youth has astonished the world; but so has old age.

Nineteen has shown that it goes to certain death with a smile. Seventy has shown that it can rise from the scrap heap and move worlds.

Napoleon said, "There should be no general in active service after the age of 60 years. It is necessary to give them honorable places, but places where there is nothing to do."

Gen. Foch is 67. He is the only commander on either side who has shown a spark of military genius—in fact, the only military genius who has been seen in the world since Napoleon's own time.

There is a type of mind which likes to juggle foolish questions like these: Could Napoleon have been a great conqueror in modern conditions?

I like to fuss with this myself.

Not that there is any real doubt abut it!

This war is a severe test upon a commander in the following particulars:

In the ability to handle re-enforcements with great rapidity.

In the perfection of his transportation system.

In the tact with which he handles the great conglomerate mass of Allies and neutrals.

Napoleon gained most of his victories through the masterly way he handled reserves; the rapidity of his transportation and the tact and finesse of his intrigues.

Bonaparte would have been a greater commander today than in his own day.

One of the penalties of living in Los Angeles is having to maintain a sort of free induction into the movies.

The court functionaries who steer pork packers' wives to kings haven't anything on me. My chief mission in life is writing notes of introduction to ladies with soaring ambitions, permanent marcel waves, henna hair and notes from people who ought to know better in the diplomatic corps.

They are willing to become famous for the Red Cross. They want to unselfishly sacrifice themselves and become great Griffith stars for the benefit of the war.

So I give them a note to the illustrious Griffith. Then I get the illustrious G. upon the telephone and tell him that I didn't mean nothin' by the note and not to pay any attention to it.

This is the life! If the office stationery only holds out!

Y'understand I am one of the Liberty Bond lads; we eat oleo out at our house and I have a patch just like Mr. McAdoo's in my pants. So I am for the government all right.

I even like the four-minute men at the movies. Not crazy over them, you understand, but it's all right. I applaud them every time. I like 'em.

But, oh, Mr. Wilson; oh, Mr. McAdoo; oh, Pershing; oh, Congress, isn't there any way we could win this war without listening to the infant prodigies with voices like a loose bolt on an automobile who make patriotic speeches?

We will buy Liberty Bonds until it hurts the Kaiser; but have mercy on us and turn off the infant prodigies!

Please, please, please!

THE LANCER.

Knew How it Could be Done.

"Mother," said little Anthony, "did you tell father I wanted a new bicycle?"

"Yes, dear," said his mother, "I told him, but he said he couldn't afford to buy you one."

"Of course, he'd say that! But what did you do?"

"I told him how badly you wanted it and argued in favor of it, but he refused."

"Argued? Ah, mother, if it had been something you wanted yourself you'd have cried a little and then you'd have got it!"

Patriotic Plank Part of His Platform.

Retrenchment; Against Health Insurance.

ile Theodore A. Bell, independ- candidate for Governor, was re- ing Los Angeles friends and sup- ers at the Alexandria yesterday rnoon, word was received over long-distance phone that the Francisco evening papers were lishing a statement from Secre- of State Frank Jordan to the ct that Jordan will support Bell e race for the gubernatorial job that he intended touring the in the interests of the Bell paign. According to the north- papers, Jordan intends issuing ther statement within a few days ng why he is for Bell and op- ed to Stephens.

Theodore Bell, independent candi- te for Governor, but suspected of mocratic leanings—possibly be- use he has twice run unsuccess- lly on the Democratic ticket— de public yesterday afternoon personally promulgated plat- rm.

His first plank is a pledge that, ring the war period, if I am ernor, I shall place every ounce my personal and official power of the President in the vigor- and triumphant prosecution of war." He adds further: "All th is from the inside, and when ions such as Germany seeks by ary force to impose her will others, there is no alternative to liberty loving people but to roy root and branch the system would enslave the world."

re than half the platform is ed to the exploitation of Mr. 's views on the question of bone- prohibition. He comes out against the bone-dry initiative ment. He throws down the let to the middle-of-the-road itionists by declaring that prohibition movement has d a brood of political hypo- —men who believe one thing profess another." He says t it is the duty of every loyal ifornian to vote to preserve the rds of the State. In this he ue squarely with Gov. hens and his "dry" followers.

Then comes a denunciation of lawmaking. He says "We adding anything to the sum- al of goodness by an endless plication of laws. My idea is to h, teach, teach, not to legislate, islate, legislate."

Mr. Bell declares squarely against lth insurance. He says, would entail a tremendous ex- upon the State, and I do not ve it would accomplish the de- results. This is not time to n fields of experiment and vague ulation. We should seek to en, not to increase the burden of ation."

another plank Mr. Bell says, shall make economy and re- chment the watchword at the State capital." He qualifies this by asserting that he would not cut out the big commissions, but that "we have a large number of smaller commissions that may well be consolidated in the interest of economy."

There is an indorsement of a proposal to have the schools supported wholly by State taxation. Mr. Bell favors an amendment of that kind, saying that it would reduce materially the county tax rate.

Mr. Bell careful avoids all reference to the Democratic party or to Democratic politics in his personally promulgated platform. He says, "In more ways than one I am an independent candidate. Let no person vote for me under any other assumption." He fails even to make the customary declaration that "I am a Democrat." Reading his platform gives no indication as to his political faith. It could as well have been written by a Republican as a Democrat.

Among the omissions it may be noted that there is no reference to the Rominger anti-saloon bill, no reference to the national prohibitory amendment and no reference to the single tax initiative amendment. There is a very patent bid for the support of the Johnsonian following that resented the dismissal of Commissioner Carnahan. In referring to the Blue-Sky Commission he says, "The wisdom of creating this office has been demonstrated by the efficient and universally approved manner in which the law has been administered by Mr. Carnahan."

Do You Know the Meaning of Medals on a Fighter's Breast?

They are not worn, like buttonhole bouquets, for decoration alone. To those who understand they tell a story—what wars the wearer has served in, what acts of heroism he has performed, what skill he has attained in the use of arms.

It is both a DUTY and COURTESY to the men in the service that you should know the meaning of the medals and insignia which they wear. For these honors have been WON with BLOOD, and at the RISK of LIFE. They deserve recognition and appreciation.

POLITICS.

THE WATCHMAN.

TREND OF POLITICAL THOUGHT AND ACTION.

By the Sentry on His Beat.

Here are some cold facts concerning the two candidates for Governor:

While under normal conditions Gov. Stephens would have a walkaway, being the nominee of the party which possesses an overwhelming majority of the votes in California, I do not believe the form chart can be depended upon this time. Stephens will get there; but unquestionably Theodore A. Bell will be a formidable contender.

Gov. Stephens will have the solid backing of the "dry" element; most of the former Progressives will vote for him, as will many leading Republicans and some of the smaller fry. In addition, some Democrats will support him.

Supporting Mr. Bell will be a majority of the Democrats, many of the disgruntled Republicans, notably the rank and file of those who voted for Rolph. The "wets" will vote solidly for him, as will a majority of the liberal element. Then he will draw largely from the laboring classes. This is not because he has ever been a particular friend of that element, but because they would not vote for Gov. Stephens on a bet.

Gov. Stephens long ago declared in favor of a bone-dry State and nation. Mr. Bell has taken issue with the incumbent. He says he is against the ruination of the valuable California vineyards and believes in the Rominger bill.

It is understood that Mr. Bell will have all the money he needs to conduct a rattling campaign, while it is admitted by the Stephens forces that they have no dinero and are not likely to get much.

The contest will resolve itself in some degree into a fight between the liberals and radicals. Many believe the latter are in the majority; but they should not forget that when California voted two years ago on the question of a bone-dry State that the proponents were defeated by a majority of more than 100,000 votes. Personally I believe Gov. Stephens will win, but he certainly will know he has been in a race.

What chance has a candidate for any office got until after the 18th inst.? All of them are aching to get into print and hypnotize forbearing audiences with their alleged oratory; but, until the Liberty Loan drive is ended it would be suicide for any of them to talk anything but bonds. In the gubernatorial contest this augurs well for Gov. Stephens because he has already campaigned in every county in the State while Mr. Bell will have but two weeks in which to get acquainted.

The sage (pardon me) remarks of The Watchman a week ago in relation to the deluge of State and city amendments to be voted up at the November election made a hit with one of the leading jurists of the State. Modesty or shyness on his part prompted him to request that I do not use his name. Here is what he says in a letter:

> "Today I have looked over the twenty-five proposed constitutional amendments and initiatory measures to be voted on at the November election. As a result of this cursory examination I want to express my approval of the suggestion contained in your articles in last Sunday's Times, namely: Rather than incur the danger of adopting proposed measures inimical to the interest of the State, in which class nearly all of the twenty-five provisions are included, the safer plan would be to vote against all of them. While as to faith, hope and charity it is said the greatest of these is charity, so with equal truth it can be said that as to the recall, referendum and initiative, the worst of these is the initiative, since it provides a potent means for cranks and charlatans at a time when the thoughts of the people are absorbed with war matters, to put over measures some of which are for purely selfish ends and others of which if enacted into law will be far-reaching in their destructive effects upon the prosperity and interest of the State. The only safe plan, in my opinion, is to do what we did a few years ago, when the measures proposed by Gov. Johnson were with great unanimity repudiated."

I subscribe to everything the eminent jurist said. In fact I concur with the verdict of the higher court.

Voters in Southern California as well as in all sections of the State are urged by Mark Requa, United States Oil Administrator, to support constitutional amendment No. 5. If it is ratified the cities and county of Alameda will be consolidated under a system of boroughs, saving the taxpayers $1,000,000 annually. While it applies only to Alameda county the entire State must vote upon the proposition. We of the south are generous enough to help our northern brethren along and as it is considered more or less of a war measure we will give it unanimous support.

A. A. Davis, manager of the Standard Musical and Literary Lyceum Talent, who has known Montaville Flowers, the Republican candidate for Congress in the Ninth District, for many years, has written the following about the forceful author-orator of Monrovia:

> Fair, frank and forceful Flowers, the red-blooded American constructionist is fittingly the "Man of the Hour," and the Ninth District is to be congratulated on its opportunity for his election.

Superior Judge Avery is making a vigorous campaign. I would say he has a reason for so doing. At the primaries he fell 18,000 votes behind the head of the ticket, the head being Judge James C. Rives. If the same proportion obtains on November 5 Judge Avery's prospects of retiring to private practice are excellent.

Superior Judge Houser, who seeks re-election, is an officer of the Iowa State Society, and no doubt will receive about all the votes they can muster. Judge Houser has an excellent record and is deserving of the support of the Iowans and everybody else.

Women politicians are coming into their own. Friday the City Council adopted resolutions commending them for their political sagacity and the same day they won a hot fight at a meeting of the Republican State Central Committee. The committee intended to recognize them by giving them a subcommittee all their own, but they arose with fire in their pretty eyes and said, "Nothing doing." They added, "We are in the majority this year; we will control the election and we want to be on the important committee." It is needless to say that they got on.

Tom Hughes, the veteran political manager, again showed his strength and political prowess when he stampeded the State convention in San Francisco a week ago and forced the election of W. R. Dickinson as secretary. Everybody had conceded that a northern man would get the plum, but Tom kept hammering until he had his way.

But was it Tom Hughes or Gov. Stephens who decided that the Republican party of Southern California is composed of Eddie Dickson, Harley Brundige and Meyer Lissner?

The County Republican Central Committee is working hand-in-glove with the State organization. It now has headquarters at Fourth and Broadway, in the room occupied by the Stephens Campaign Committee. This sort of unity looks good for the welfare of the party. Both factions are pulling together, and both have agreed to support the Republican nominees for all offices. Who would have thought a couple of years ago that such a state of affairs would ever be brought about?

E. V. Chavez, an attorney, who sent out a lot of postcards requesting friends to vote for several of the incumbent Superior Court judges has issued a statement to the effect that it was through error that he mentioned the name of Walton J. Wood as judge. He says he believed Walton J. Wood, who is the County Public Defender, was the name of the judge who presides in Department 13, being Judge J. P. Wood. The Public Defender says he deplores the fact that "Mr. Chavez made this mistake."

SCOURS ARIZONA FOR WIFE.

John M. Mulligan, a shipworker employed at Los Angeles Harbor, is in Arizona making a feverish search of towns and camps for his wife, his 14-year-old daughter and his 2-year-old baby. Several days ago Mulligan telegraphed the Chief of Police at Phoenix, asking that a watch be kept for the girl and baby. Then Mulligan himself went to the Arizona capital, taking with him evidence of the truth of his story.

The shipworker's account is that he had been injured at his work and thus was confined for several weeks to his home. There his wife was visited by a dark-eyed woman, unknown to him, with whom the wife disappeared, this while Mulligan was still in serious condition and when doubts were entertained of his recovery. The young daughter and the child were left. The girl nursed him devotedly through the crisis of his illness and until his partial convalescence, when she and the baby also disappeared. This was nearly two weeks ago. Mulligan insists that his home life had been happy and that he knows no reason for his desertion.

Report to the Los Angeles police resulted only in finding that the wife had gone southward, supposedly into Arizona, and that she had written the daughter to come and to bring the baby. So Mulligan is on the trail, assisted by Arizona police and detectives, with hopes for finding his family and of learning why he was abandoned.

RED CROSS INSTITUTE WILL BE ORGANIZED.

TRAINING OF WORKERS FOR HOME SERVICE PLANNED BY STATE UNIVERSITY.

In accordance with the plans of the department of civilian relief of the American Red Cross, a six-weeks' institute of home service will be held at the University of Southern California, beginning October 28. Similar institutes are being conducted by great city universities throughout the country.

The purpose of the institute is the immediate training of workers for the home service of the Red Cross. This service consists in visiting, planning for and assisting the families of our own and our Allies' soldiers and sailors. Trained workers and executives who can apply the funds of the Red Cross economically and efficiently are greatly needed.

The Los Angeles institute will be directed by Prof. E. S. Bogardus, head of the department of sociology at the university. The course will consist of three parts—lectures and study, field work, and personal conferences. A staff of lecturers is being made up of specialists actually at work in social service. Among the topics treated are: the normal family, health, home economics, child welfare, the racial equation and money relief.

Field work will cover organization of the agency, study of records, case work and recording and supervision. Miss Katherine Woodhead, secretary of the immigration department of the Y.W.C.A., will be supervisor of field work.

It is understood that membership in the institute will be limited to twenty-five persons. Candidates should make application on blanks secured from the local chapter, and send these to Dr. Bogardus, the director, at the university.

Upon satisfactory completion of the work prescribed, Prof. T. J. Riley, director-general of civilian relief at Washington, will issue a Red Cross home service certificate to the successful candidate.

Money Pasted on His Body.

Tolie Circello, thirty-five years old, a button maker, of No. 206 Bergen street, Newark, N. J., never had faith in banks. He always carried his money in his clothing, as the police discovered last night when they searched him after he had been arrested when seen talking with two small girls in the West Side Park. Sewed upon his underclothing, pasted on his body and otherwise secreted about him, the police discovered $2000 in bank notes.—[New York Herald.

AMERICAN CASUALTIES IN FRANCE.

[OFFICIAL GOVERNMENT DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Two army casualty lists today carry 1091 names, 233 killed in action. Two thern Californians are included—Robert D. McArthur, Jr., No. 890 East Fifty-second place, Los Angeles, of wounds, and Fred Tripp, San Jacinto, returned to duty, previously reported missing in action.

Renewed assurance that American casualties are being made public as rapidly as received from Gen. ing was given by Gen. March today at a conference with the Senate Military Committee. He said the Department is behind about 15,000 names in announcing minor casualties, reports of which are brought by courier, but the lists of dead and seriously wounded are cabled and given to the public with the possible delay.

Discussion of the subject was brought up by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, who insisted that the de- ment was holding up the names unnecessarily.

There was nothing, Senators said after the conference, to indicate the extent of the American casualties battles now raging.

The first list is classified as follows: Killed in action, 155; missing in action, 200; wounded severely, ; died from wounds, 69; died from airplane accident, 1; died of accident and other causes, 10; died of , 20; wounded, degree undetermined, 3; wounded slightly, 1; prisoners, 7; total, 761. Buy Furniture The Peck & Hills' Way

Attention! Hotel and Apartment House Owners!
You will find furniture specially built to answer your requirements—priced so economically that it has resulted in our being awarded the furnishing contracts of some of the largest, most exclusive hotels and apartment houses in Southern California.

Carpets and Rugs
Our Rug and Carpet Department is full of interest for those seeking the best in floor coverings at the right prices. All the reliable makes in Wilton, Velvet, Axminster, Body Brussels, Tapestry Brussels, etc., are carried in the widest variety of handsome designs as well as linoleums and matting.

There is just one reason why so many buy furniture "the P. & H. Way"—and that is:
BETTER FURNITURE for LESS Money
Hundreds have come to our Los Angeles plant simply to see for themselves if our combined manufacturing-distributing methods actually DID produce worth-while savings.
That they were more than satisfied is attested by the hundreds of homes in this city furnished, either wholly or partially furnished "the Peck and Hills way." In the first place, we purchase in vast quantities. That means tremendous savings right there.
The raw materials are transformed into furniture of the very best, most artistic type—so well made that P. and H. products bear a reputation for high quality wherever good furniture is used.
Then we combine the producing and distributing ends of the furniture industry under one roof in our Los Angeles plant. That means the elimination of every unnecessary expense—every waste motion.
The consequent savings that such methods make possible are passed on to the buyer—these savings are too obvious to be ignored.
"The Peck and Hills way" of selling home furnishings is simply the result of applying commonsense methods, gleaned from 22 years' experience in the furniture business.

DONATES AMBULANCE.

Orange Union High School Provides Funds for Vehicle; Other Donations Purchase Seven More.

Through the instrumentality of M. M. Fishback, principal of the Orange Union High School, the students of that school have raised $1600, which has been donated to the Ministry of War of the French government, through Lucien N. Brunswig, for the purchase of an ambulance. The ambulance will have a metal plate bearing the words: "Orange Union High School, California."

This makes the eighth ambulance given to the French army through friends in Los Angeles and vicinity this year. The first was donated by Mrs. Bartlet Shideler and Miss Alice Lunkenheimer of Pasadena. Citizens of El Centro gave the second one, and the third was financed by funds collected in Hollywood by Mrs. Pioche Robinson and Miss Bessie Chapin, while the fourth was the gift of the faculty of the State Normal School. The fifth was secured through contributions of the student body at the State Normal School, and the sixth was from the student body of the Los Angeles High School. The seventh was donated by the Santa Monica High School.

Mr. Brunswig has promised the French high commissioner to complete a section of twenty ambulances through donations. A regularly organized society here is working to accumulate pennies, nickels and dimes for this purpose.

ALLOW HARBOR BUILDING.

With assurances received from United States Shipping Board officials that every assistance will be given toward having declared as war essential work the construction of habitations for shipyard workers, the turmoil in building circles at the harbor over the order that no building permits should be issued until the nonessentials section of the War Industries Board had given approval, is subsiding.

While the refusal of the building department to issue permits at the harbor resulted in throwing nearly 1000 men out of employment, those who have given the matter careful consideration now see a silver lining to the cloud that looked so dark. A careful study of the circular issued by the War Industries Board, upon which the order requiring a Federal permit before building material and permits could be secured, reveals that it was intended to promote building essential to the prosecution of the war instead of to retard it by conserving building material and labor.

The order provides that no Federal permit whatever is required in case of buildings or roads built by or under contract for the Emergency Fleet Corporation, the army or the navy, the Industrial Bureau of the Department of Labor or the United States Housing Commission. Conferences with representatives of the Shipping Board and exchange of telegrams with departments in Washington has brought assurance to the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce that as soon as the usual formalities are complied with, and the need of houses for shipyard workers is shown, there will be no trouble in getting permits for the work.

September would have broken all records at the harbor for building had not the order put a stop to the permits. As it was, there were 108 permits issued at the San Pedro branch office of the building department, with aggregate valuations of $248,568. This was 34.3 per cent. of the building for the entire city of Los Angeles.

LISTED DEAD, MAY LIVE.

Marginal Note by Censor Gives Hope to Parents of Private Albert D. McArthur.

A marginal comment by the censor who passed a letter from Private Robert D. McArthur, Jr., written the day the soldier was reported dead of wounds, is the basis of his mother's hope that her boy still lives.

Private McArthur wrote home on July 31, mentioning that he was on kitchen duty, but saying nothing to indicate that his company, F of the One Hundred and Seventeenth Engineers, was to participate actively in the fight that day. The censor, however, added a line saying that Private McArthur was wounded in the leg.

Later an official telegram stated Private McArthur was severely wounded on July 31. Today his name appears in the casualty list as dead from wounds. His parents have made telegraphic requests for an investigation.

Private McArthur formerly worked for the Southern California Gas Company. His parents live at No. 890 East Fifty-second place. He was 22 years old and was born in Kansas City.

SHRINERS DEPART.

Imperial Potentate and Retinue Loud in Praise of Local Hospitality.

Declaring that Southern California is the most hospitable place in the United States and Potentate "Billy" Bush a prince of hosts, Imperial Potentate Elias J. Jacoby of the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, bade au revoir to Los Angeles, leaving for Phoenix, Ariz., yesterday afternoon on his tour of temples of the order. The Imperial Potentate and members of his party were given a farewell luncheon yesterday at the Hoffman Cafe, at which the visitors declared that Southern California had given them a welcome they would never forget. Mr. Jacoby was especially generous in his praise to Potentate Bush and members of Malaikah Temple for all the kindnesses shown the visitors. Present at the luncheon yesterday in addition to the visitors were Potentate Bush, Leo V. Youngworth, Henry G. Krohn, F. B. Silverwood, George E. Nagel, David Martin and other members of Malaikah Temple who have been active in the entertainment of the visitors.

MUST FINISH HUN, SAYS GIBSON.

Declaring that not even what he saw in Belgium in the early days of the war gave him the realization of the awfulness of the Huns' devastation, which his present visit to France has brought, Hugh Gibson, son of Mrs. Frank A. Gibson of this city and at present an attache of the American Legation at Paris, has written a letter to his uncle, William F. Marshall of Monrovia, in which he points out how necessary it is for the United States to throw in its whole weight to "put an end to it—and an end that will be an end."

The letter, which was received by Mr. Marshall on Friday, is dated at Paris and tells of trips with Herbert C. Hoover, United States Food Administrator, and of calls on Gen. Pershing. He describes vividly scenes in the wake of the retreating German armies, the destroyed villages and the great piles of captured enemy guns and other war munitions. After expressing sympathy for Mr. Marshall, who had undergone an operation, which removed both his eyes, Mr. Gibson writes, in part:

DAYS WITH HOOVER.

The past few days have been pret- for a flying visit and I attached myself to him as office boy, interpreter and factotum. We saw and talked with all sorts of persons who are doing things and went on a hurried trip to the French and American fronts.

We went into Chateau-Thierry soon after the Germans were driven out and had breakfast with the French general commanding there. That means that we got up at the Monrovia-like hour of 5 and raced all the way. After seeing something of the cussed way the Boches had smashed every scrap of furniture and personal belongings in the place and made it unfit to live in, we set out for a general cruise through the freshly evacuated country.

We went through the Belleau Wood on foot and saw where our marines had distinguished themselves in the long fight while the Germans were held up on that line. No matter what the papers at home have said about them, it cannot be exaggeration for they were splendid beyond all praise. What the French think of them is shown by the fact that they have changed the name of the wood to The Wood of the American Marines. The French Food Minister was with us as well as a troupe of other French officials.

THE BOOTY OF WAR.

We swung round a big circle seeing Boureschos, Vaux, La Fere and a lot of the other villages that you have read about in the papers from day to day during the fighting and then struck out along the south bank of the Marne to see the country which the Germans tried so hard to hold when they effected their crossing. It looked to a superficial observer as though both armies had begun by throwing away everything they owned, for the whole countryside was littered with cannon, piles of ammunition, rifles, machine guns, helmets, and every sort of equipment.

There were rows and rows of German cannon, big and little, and swarms of grimy, grinning French and American soldiers busy getting them ready to bark against their former owners. The Boche did not stay very long on that side of the river, but he succeeded in making a pretty mess of it while he was there and while he was retreating. The little villages were smashed to kindling and hardly any of the civilian population had returned to see what was left of their homes. Perhaps it was just as well, for there was not much to find and those that were there did not look very happy or hopeful.

But it is astonishing to me that you never hear a whimper from any of these people. They are serious with a good deal of right for they have been ruined and many of them have lost members of their families, but they go back to work without any complaint and try to put things to right again. But they do look grim and their love for the Germans is not increasing by leaps and bounds.

TO BE NO "NEXT TIME."

The people who have been through this part of the war are not the ones who will care to talk about peace until the German has had a lesson and has been cured of the thought of starting anything of the sort over aagin. The German papers have not yet got over talking about what they are going to do next time, but the people who have had a taste of Kultur don't intend to have any next time. They have lost everything they can lose this time except their poor lives and they know that life won't be worth living until they are free from the awful threat of this sort of thing coming on again.

I used to think that I felt pretty strongly about this before I came back this time, but since I have been seeing the swarms of refugees pouring into Paris and the hunted look of those plodding back to their ruined homes I feel that I never realized before how awful the whole thing is and how necessary it is for us to throw in our whole weight without calculation to put an end to it—and an end that will be an end. This sounds like preaching, but I get wrought up and have to pour it out.

For lunch we stopped with the great Gen. Gouraud, who commanded the armies on the Rheims front. He is a simple, kindly man with an arm and a leg missing as his contribution, but what there is left of him is better than anything the Boche has been able to put against him. He showed us how he had forestalled the Boche and beaten him. It was by the use of brains and appealing to all that was best in his troops. It won't stand writing now but it is a great story to tell some time.

We rolled on from there through a lot of country behind the lines filled with transport and long lines of trucks filled with soldiers going into the trenches and those coming out for their rest, provision trains, munition columns, and everything that goes with keeping up a big army. It always looks like complete anarchy, but it works out right somehow, and the troops are fed and supplied with munitions and whatever else they need just about as well as though it were done in a more orderly fashion.

WILD AUTO RIDE.

That day we ate heartily of the French army food and did upwards of 200 miles in military cars. They gave us a fleet of Panhards driven by military chauffeurs, each with a soldier beside him to do nothing but sound the horn. I have done some pretty good scorching in my time, but never anything so wild as this.

The day after that we went down to the American general headquarters so Hoover could have a good talk with Gen. Pershing. And by bedtime we were back in Paris after a wild night ride.

We got back in time to see some of the bombardment by the new (German) big guns. They are much advertised, but their bark is worse than their bite. If the German thinks he is creating a panic, he is badly mistaken and is wasting a lot of hard work. He doesn't have much better luck with his air raids. A lot of people go down into the cellar and stay there while the raid lasts. That is the sensible thing to do. A great many of the brave or lazy stay peacefully in bed and don't know anything and if they don't get hit they sleep peacefully. Frightfulness is a good deal of a failure from a distance. If we can increase our delivery of frightfulness, I think the German will laugh out of the other side of his mouth, for his mentality is not the sort that can make a joke out of being bombed.

MORE OPTIMISTIC.

People on this side of the water are more cock-a-whoop than they have been since 1914. It is not that they think it's all over, for they know that there is a long pull ahead of us in all probability, but the recent movements have shown them that we have kick left in the Allied armies, and then, too, they see that the Americans are coming over in sufficient force to be a big element, which the Germans cannot meet.

It is splendid the way our fellows have taken on over here. They get on with the French like a house afire, and in some way or other they manage to make themselves understood. They like the French and the French like them.

"The Hunted Look of Those Plodding Back to Their Ruined Homes."

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

DENTAL PROGRESS

"The fear of pain is responsible for thousands of people neglecting their teeth."

The idea of the "ethical" dentist who refrains from advertising is founded on the proposition derived from the medicos that advertising is fakery. This no longer applies.

We are living so fast, and inventing so fast, and there are so many of us, that to advertise is not only a convenience, but a necessity. He who does not advertise is left to the spiders, the cockroaches and the microbes. And this applies to dentists as much as to druggists and dry goods dealers.

What the world needs is more publicity, not less.

He who has nothing to advertise is a dead one, whether he knows it or not.

But the man who advertises now must be able to produce the goods. When he surprises a customer he must surprise him by giving him more than he expects.

Exaggeration, misstatements and misleading propositions lead straight to the bankruptcy court.

My ambition is to serve an intelligent clientele in the best possible way.

"The safest and best method I have found of making all work on the teeth painless is by means of my local Analgesia. Anaglesia is not a relative of cocaine, morphine or any other dangerous drug. It is practically harmless to men, women and children. It is simple and easy to apply, one of the secrets of its success being in the method of administering it.

"Through the use of Analgesia I can control the sense of pain in any particular tooth I wish: For example, if you should come to me to have a sensitive tooth filled, I would apply a few drops of Analgesic to the gum, and after two minutes you could not feel the slightest twinge of pain. You would stay wide awake all the time and retain full control over yourself, yet you could not feel any pain.

"Analgesia enables the dentist to prepare a sore or sensitive tooth for filling or crowning, to remove a live nerve, to cut off and grind the teeth and to extract or treat teeth without causing a particle of discomfort. No matter how sensitive the teeth or how difficult the work, Analgesia gives you absolute freedom from pain.

"I realize that to many people the term 'painless dentistry' means nothing. Everybody knows that charlatans have advertised painless dentistry ever since the discovery of ether. Of course, lots of people were fooled by these schemers, and when a dentist comes along with the real thing the public is skeptical and has to be shown before it will believe.

"That suits me perfectly, for I like nothing better than an opportunity to demonstrate my painless method to persons who are skeptical. If you could sit in my office for a few hours and watch the stream of patients entering and leaving, you would soon decide that I have been pretty successful in convincing people that my Analgesia is all I claim it to be. My practice is the largest in this city, and scores of patients are treated by myself and assistants each day. Surely I could not acquire this enormous practice unless I really and truly had something of merit to offer my patrons.

"In years gone by, any dentist who extracted teeth painlessly advertised himself as a 'painless dentist.' Extracting teeth is not all there is to Dentistry.

"When I say that Analgesia makes dentistry painless, I refer not merely to the extraction of teeth, but to filling and crowning and all other dental work as well. Every dentist who employs gas or cocaine can pull your teeth painlessly, but when it comes to drilling out the cavity of a sensitive tooth for a filling, removing a nerve or grinding a tooth for a crown, it is an entirely different story."

"The bravest man alive is a coward when it comes to visiting the dentist. Dread of suffering is a natural instinct with all of us, and no one can be blamed for wanting to avoid terrible agony in the dental chair.

"People of a nervous temperament and those whose nerves are upset by the least suggestion of pain, will find Analgesia a blessing, indeed. Think what a relief it must be to walk into a dental office without fear, knowing absolutely that you will not have to endure a moment's discomfort.

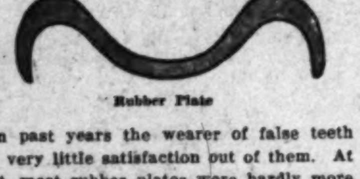
"The advantages of painless dentistry over the old methods are many. In the first place, it saves the time and nervous energy, both of the patient and the dentist. It enables the dentist to do his work in a more thorough manner, owing to the patient's quietude when free from pain. It makes it possible to straighten crooked teeth with perfect ease, to treat diseased and abscessed teeth and to perform the most difficult work on highly sensitive teeth that could not be done under ordinary conditions without causing unbearable suffering.

"Consider, too, what a great thing Analgesic accomplishes in overcoming children's fear of dentists. Pain affects the sensitive nerves of a child far more than it does a grown person. For this reason, if for no other, parents should not force their children to endure torture in the dental chair, when it can easily be avoided. I have never seen a child or a grown-up, either, who was afraid to return to my office after having one tooth filled."

Improved Metal Plates

NATURAL PLATES

Metal Plate



Rubber Plate

In past years the wearer of false teeth got very little satisfaction out of them. At best, most rubber plates were hardly more than chopping blocks, and as for appearance, anyone could tell at a glance that they were "store teeth." About all a person could do with them was to chop up his food so that it could be swallowed without choking him, but there was no way of grinding it up.

Dentistry has so perfected the art of working metal that you can now get a plate which, for all practical purposes, is just as good as a set of natural teeth. The new metal plate is constructed so that the wearer can chew with a grinding motion instead of the up-and-down chop peculiar to the old rubber plate. Furthermore, Metal Plates are free from the offensive odor all rubber plates have.

Metal is a perfect conductor of heat and cold; therefore it keeps the gums healthy, and prevents them from shrinking.

Very few people know why a rubber plate becomes loose and wobbly after it has been used a few months. The reason is that the rubber plate does not carry off the heat generated under it, but stores it up, with the result that the tissues become shrunken. The shape of the gums and roof of the mouth are altered, and the plate no longer fits properly.

My new metal plate is so moulded that a more permanent suction is obtained than is possible with rubber. This, together with the extreme thinness, helps your speech and prevents the whistling noise when you talk. The gums are faced with vulcanite or porcelain to match the natural gums, and are carved by hand to give them a likelife appearance.

One of the best features is its extremely light weight. It weighs less than half as much as the average rubber plate, is far thinner and yet practicably unbreakable.

It will usually last a lifetime, where a rubber plate, as a rule, can be used for only a few years at best. It is made to fill out the face and eliminate lines and wrinkles. It makes the wearer look years younger and gives pleasure and comfort in eating.

Perfection in Bridgework

While many opportunities are offered by the dental profession for making beautiful and useful bridgework, there are many failures and disappointments. These are often due to the fact that the patient insists upon economizing to the extent of a few dollars, thereby prohibiting the use of the best materials in constructing the type of work best suited to the individual.

In no branch of dentistry has greater skill and ingenuity been displayed than in the perfection of artificial teeth and bridgework. Thirty or forty years ago the loss of the teeth was considered a grave misfortune, as there were no satisfactory substitutes in those days. It was almost inconceivable that the time would come when woman's beauty could be preserved and in many cases enhanced by the use of artificial teeth.

Thanks to modern dentistry, the loss of teeth no longer means the loss of beauty and youthful appearance. It is now possible to construct artificial teeth that cannot be distinguished from the genuine. In many cases the work of the dentist surpassed the work of nature, so far as beauty is concerned.

Not long ago a wonderful improvement was made over old-fashioned bridgework. Dental science succeeded in devising a bridge that exposes no gold. Prior to this invention bridgework was made unsightly by the vulgar display of gold used in the construction. Only the front teeth had any resemblance to natural teeth, being faced with porcelain. However, this did not conceal the presence of the bridge, because the metal showed at the top and bottom of each tooth, and the supporting teeth had to carry full gold crowns. No doubt, you have seen people with old-style bridgework whose mouths had the appearance of a small gold mine.

The new kind of bridgework permits the restoration of missing teeth without bringing any metal into view. The gold crown or anchor teeth can be done away with, so that the whole set when completed presents an even row of natural-looking white teeth. Even the grinding surfaces of the teeth can be of porcelain, to match the remaining teeth, whereas in the old-style bridgework the grinding surfaces were of gold.

Bridgework is for people who have lost a few teeth and want to avoid the use of a partial plate. The partial plate is often a source of much annoyance, but this new bridgework offers a perfect substitute for the missing teeth. It is attached permanently in the mouth, and there is nothing about it to remind the wearer that he has artificial teeth.

No person who has teeth missing should go about with vacancies in his jaws when he can have full set of teeth that will serve every purpose for years to come.

Our Laboratory

It is a fact not generally known that city dentists make it a rule to do the filling of teeth themselves, and sometimes the extracting. But when other work is required they take impressions and send these impressions out to have the work made up in what are called dental laboratories.

These laboratories, or workshops, employ a large force of men and boys who are known as dental mechanics. They make up the case from the impression the dentist sends them; but, as they never see the patient, their work lacks individuality and proper expression.

Under such circumstances, of course, a good fit, a close match in color, or an artistic effect is the exception. And yet in large cities, fully 90 per cent. of bridgework, artificial teeth, crowns, inlays and regulating appliances are made this way.

We have our own laboratory and the man who makes the plate or bridge may always see the patient, thereby insuring the highest grade of work.

JAPANESE WILL BE HONOR GUEST

Noted Jurist to be at Lunch of Commerce Chamber.

T. Miyaoka has Played Part in Diplomatic Field.

Was Counselor to Embassy at Washington.

By special invitation of the Chamber of Commerce, Hon. T. Miyaoka of Tokio will be the guest of honor at the chamber's membership luncheon tomorrow noon at the Alexandria. Mr. Miyaoka is one of Japan's most distinguished jurists and there is probably no member of the Japanese bar who has a profounder knowledge of both foreign and Japanese law than he.

Mr. Miyaoka graduated with honors from the college of law of the Hon. T. Miyaoka.

Imperial University at Tokio in 1887. He immediately entered the Japanese diplomatic service as attache of legation and was assigned to duty in the department of foreign affairs. In 1889 he was made secretary of legation and was appointed one of the junior counselors of the department. He served in the law bureau of the department until 1892, when he was sent as secretary of legation to Washington, where, at the time of the opening of hostilities between Japan and China in 1894, he was Charge d'Affaires. In 1894 he was transferred to Berlin as first secretary of legation, and remained there for six years.

Returning to Japan in 1900, he was appointed minister resident and served as chief of the law bureau until 1906. In February of that year, when the Japanese Legation in Washington was raised to an Embassy, he was appointed to be its counselor and remained in Washington until March, 1908. During his tenure of office as counsellor of embassy, Mr. Miyaoka was promoted from the rank of minister plenipotentiary of second class to that of an envoy of the first class.

Mr. Miyaoka was the agent of Japan before the arbitral tribunal of The Hague in the house tax proceedings from 1904 to 1905. He has been Japanese delegate to various international meetings, the most recent in which he took part being the opium conference at Shanghai.

Mr. Miyaoka's association with the United States has been an experience of long standing. Even before occupying the important position he held in the Japanese Embassy here, he had acted as secretary to the late Percival Lowell, who was foreign secretary to the Korean mission dispatched to America in 1883; and on his return from that mission the young Japanese was invited to Korea with Mr. Lowell and received royal treatment from the Korean court. This was before Lowell turned his attention to astronomy and became the expounder of Schiaparelli's theory of the existence of intelligence on Mars.

He is held prisoner in a hospital at Bavaria.

Mrs. Rumble says that there are many "orphan" soldiers in khaki who are now in prison camps. She is appealing to Los Angeles women to make their prison days less dreary by writing letters and sending them Christmas packages.

The American Red Cross will forward to such young men, through Switzerland, eleven-pound Christmas packages containing such commodities as chocolate, socks, candy, underwear, insect powder and fruit cake. They can also receive money allowances of from $5 to $15 per month, and can receive any number of letters and postal cards, although they can write but two letters and two cards per month.

TRENCH LIFE LOSING ITS TERRORS.

Men at Front Now Better Equipped, Supplied and Organized; Many Southern Californians Meet One Another; Rain Welcomed by Weary Marchers.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.
Staff Correspondent of The Times.

SOMTWHERE IN FRANCE, Sept. 19.—Soldiers may dread mud, one of the consequences of rain, but there are times when rain itself is welcome. One of these times was when our men were struggling under their heavy packs over hot, dusty roads. The going was tough even for these stalwart soldiers. And then in a large body of men there are always some who are temporarily unfit. They may think themselves sound, but there is some little derangement of the organism. One may have eaten something that has not agreed with him, or another may have taken too heavy a draught from his canteeen before starting. If so, these things are likely to show in the first three or four miles. It is manifested in labored breathing, unsteady knees and a drawn look in the face.

There are comparatively few malingerers in this division. The doughboy has a code all his own, which is to keep going until you drop. The shirker, or malingerer, who feigns illness or weariness so as to gain a ride in an ambulance or truck, is looked upon with suspicion by his fellows.

EXHIBITION OF PLUCK.

But the soldier who struggles and who fails in spite of his effort finds many hands ready to lighten his burden. Many a doughboy was carrying two rifles—one in addition to his own—in order to help a pal make the grade. One fellow—I was unable to learn his name, because he had no breath to spare answering questions—gave a quiet exhibition of pluck. I observed him particularly because he happened to be marching near me. Rather undersized in this collection of huskies, he was bowed under a pack that seemed to have him outweighed. Two miles had not been covered at the 120-a-minute step before he began showing signs of distress. Already he had dropped to the rear of the column. Half way up a hill it was plain that he couldn't make it.

Private Fred D. G. Smith and Private Harry Taitt, Los Angeles men, saw his plight and dropped back. One relieved him of his rifle and another of his heavy trench coat. With this aid he was able to continue, always dropping back, but never dropping clear out. Half an hour after the company had pitched camp for the night, he plodded in, lifting one foot painfully after the other, weary to utter exhaustion, but proud that he had upheld the traditions of the American doughboy. By the next day he had "found" his legs and was going strong at the finish. An infantryman, who will face German machine guns without batting an eye, has a peculiar horror of being unable to keep the pace with his mates on the march.

The second day was bad. Many of the men were "track sore." Blisters had formed and busted, and shoulders were galled. The sun beat down hot, and the dust interfered with breathing. Then there came one of those sudden rain gusts to be seen in France. The drops dashed down into the faces of the men, washing them clean, and it soaked into their clothes cooling their steaming bodies.

REVIVED BY THE RAIN.

It was not a cold, chilling rain, but deliciously cool and refreshing. It was as welcome to these men as a dash of water in the face to an exhausted football player or a breath of fresh air to a suffocating miner. It settled the dust and washed the hard, white roads as clean as a freshly-scrubbed tile floor, while under this bath the tree foliage took on a spring time freshness. Under these conditions marching became a ramble. The men picked up their heads, noted the landmarks and scenery and exchanged small talk with the townspeople as they passed through the innumerable small villages that dot this section of France.

A contest developed among them to see who could be the first to pick out the veterinary's residence as they approached each town. Over here the veterinary is the biggest man in the village. He outranks the Mayor and the Chief of Police. The peasants are long on live stock. There is hardly a family without its cow or horse or pig or sheep, and some of the wealthier own all four. These usually are well bred, and the peasants safeguard the condition of their stock with a jealous air. This is not solely a matter of business with them. They have real affection for their dumb dependents. Let a calf show signs of the colic, a shoat develop some mild malady to which porcine infants are subject, or the family cow show a slight indisposition and there is a hurry-up call for the veterinary. He is on the job day and night, and in the course of a few years he waxes wealthy, as wealth is estimated here.

GETTING A HAIR CUT.

Last night I dropped down to a company barber shop to get an army hair cut. The gent with the shears introduced himself as Private Jack Bennet, late of Gardena, Cal. If anybody had told me a year ago that a Gardena barber would be pruning my locks somewhere in France I would have been inclined seriously to doubt the statement.

Sometimes you get to thinking that the whole United States has just naturally been lifted up and set down in France. Nearly every time you turn a corner you bump into some guy from Los Angeles, or Pasadena, or Azusa, or Downey, or Puente, or Calabasas. Waiting his turn in the barber shop was a strong-necked doughboy with a cauliflower ear. I recognized him as Bob Richards, who occasionally boxed at Jack Doyle's four-round entertainments. Others waiting to be sheared were Private C. W. Gray, whose parents live at Glendora; Private Danny O'Brien, another boxer; Corp. Harold Newton, Corp. Harry Scott, and Privates J. Lorrecq, Grover Keller, Wilfred Littlejohn of Los Angeles, Private M. V. Johnsen and Corp George Reno of Redondo Beach and Private E. H. Dressen of the same city. You get the idea of not knowing who you are going to meet over here if you get out and mingle with the officers and men alike. Sometimes some of these village streets look more like Spring street than Spring street looks like itself today.

Lieut. Gene Reginar says his men never get homesick because they figure that everybody is over here.

OLD DOLLS HELP WIN WA

Over in France, American surgeons are taking torn and mutilated soldiers and, by their wonderful skill and science, are making them over into useful and presentable members of society once more.

Over in Pasadena, Mrs. W. B. Pugh, widow of Maj. Pugh, a veteran of the Civil War, is taking torn and mutilated dolls and making them over into useful members of doll society once more.

Both the surgeons in France and Mrs. Pugh are helping to win the war. For Mrs. Pugh's work is the conservation of dolls, and, what is more, the dolls that are regenerated and rejuvenated and rehabilitated go to the Red Cross and are sold by that organization, the proceeds going to the aid of the soldiers and sailors overseas.

As a doll doctor, Mrs. Pugh is a regular Dr. Mayo of the art. She can take a doll that has wasted away to a tiny pinch of sawdust and hasn't a limb left and reconstruct the hapless toy into a most presentable doll, all without the use of any new materials. All Mrs. Pugh uses are odds and ends, scraps of cloth and accessories that otherwise would be thrown away.

Every doll life that Mrs. Pugh's work saves means that the necessity for manufacturing a new doll from new materials is obviated. the last five months, Mrs. Pugh reconstructed and otherwise longed the life of 125 dolls. apartments at the Harvard, No. North Euclid avenue, Pasa have been a veritable hospital modiste's shop for dolls.

TO INCREASE COAST TRADE

Port Authorities Convention will Discu Changes Caused by War.

With all plans completed and an unusually interesting programme prepared, the fifth annual convention of the Pacific Coast Association of Port Authorities, to be held here next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, is expected to be one of the most successful meetings in the history of the organization. The general theme for the convention will be "Port Problems Arising from Changed Conditions Caused by the War."

Because of the stress of government business in Washington, it will be impossible for Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the United States Shipping Board, to attend. Secretary Clarence H. Matson, who is traffic manager of Los Angeles Harbor, has received a letter of regret from Mr. Hurley.

The primary object of the association is to consider questions of mutual interest to all ports on the Pacific Coast. Much atention will be paid at this convention to the question of building up the industries and water commerce of this coast, both to aid in winning the war and as an after-the-war policy.

Christopher M. Gordon, president of the Los Angeles Harbor Commission, is president of the association, and J. O. Cameron of Victoria, is first vice-president.

FRENCH LIKE TO CHAT WITH OUR SOLDIERS.

LETTER FROM SERGEANT WITH ENGINEERS TELLS OF LIFE BACK OF THE LINES.

Mrs. G. J. Mitchel of Kansas City, who has been visiting Frank N. Mitchel of No. 2537 Foster place, this city, has received a newsy letter from her son, Sergt. Fred Warren Mitchel, of Co. C, Sixth-fourth Battalion of Engineers, now in France. Sergt. Mitchel was in Alaska engaged in engineering work when he heard the call, and sixty days after joining the army he was in France.

The French peasants, he says, are "all very interested in the American soldier and talk and jabber at a great rate asking questions about the United States. The pretty mademoiselles, in their simple homemade dresses and polite manners, all like the soldier boy and are willing to talk and visit as long as he wants to. It is surprising how much one can understand with a little practice.

"The Quartermaster Department buys fresh vegetables from farmers and merchants in the country, and issues them as part of our rations. The company kitchen is run just about like a railroad camp cookhouse is—and as I've run lots of these, it seems sometimes that I'm home again, back on the job in British Columbia."

WITH STORY OF SEA CROSSINGS.

Angeleno Tells of How Our Men are Protected.

Has been Eleven Times Across Atlantic in a Year.

Says U-Boat Peril is Now a Thing of the Past.

"If the citizens of Southern California could see and hear half of what I have seen and heard since the war began, the Liberty Bond allotment for this section would be oversubscribed in less than a week," said Douglas Mackinnon, signal quartermaster, United States Navy, yesterday. He is in Los Angeles on a thirty-day furlough, visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Mackinnon, No. 2749 West Eighth street. Mr. Mackinnon was in the navy before the war started and this is his first furlough since hostilities broke out between America and Germany. He played his part in the battle at Vera Cruz and wears a Mexican campaign badge as a souvenir of that occasion.

"I have been across the ocean with convoys eleven times since the war started and the things that I have seen will be a nightmare to me the rest of my life," Mr. Mackinnon continued, "but, thank God, the U-boats are about quelled. Now they only pick on unprotected schooners. Occasionally, of course, they attack an American convoy, but they can't get away with it. Of course, every ship in a convoy is armed, but it is the big cruiser in the lead that the U-boats dread—those great vessels armed with 24-inch guns, including aircraft guns. Sometimes these cruisers cut a U-boat practically in two and I have seen Germans struggling in the waves following such an attack. Yet our ships dared not stop to pick them up; it would have made the ships targets for torpedoes.

"Yes, I'm glad to be back in old Los Angeles, but it doesn't look much like war out here. You should see New York—soldiers and sailors everywhere, bands playing every day, flags flying, the rivers packed with big transports ready to go out, and passenger ships converted into transports, and a martial air everywhere."

Douglas Mackinnon,

Dandruff a Cause of Cancer.

Of all causes, so far as skin cancer is concerned, is dandruff, says the New Orleans Medical and Surgical Journal. It falls from the scalp, and lights on the ear, eyelids, nose, cheeks, lips and face, and if there is ready a scaling spot, or a thickening, or a wart, a mole or a gland ready to receive the dandruff scale, it keeps this spot alive with activity and it goes on to form a skin cancer. Probably 60 per cent. of skin cancers are due to this cause, and many a cancer has been prevented and may be prevented by curing the dandruff or by preventing it.

MUST REPORT INFLUENZA.

Victims Here will be Quarantined to Prevent Disease's Spread.

In a communication to Dr. J. L. Pomeroy, county health officer, the State Board of Health holds that under Section 2979 of the Political Code influenza is made reportable and cases are to be isolated in this State. This means that all cases reported will be quarantined to prevent the spread of the epidemic which has swept over the East.

The few cases that have appeared on this Coast are of a mild type, Dr. Pomeroy stated yesterday. The greatest fear is of pneumonia following the attack of influenza. The State Board of Health says that the spread of the disease to the Coast appears inevitable. The malady is diagnosed as old-fashioned grip. It is hoped to check the disease in this city and county by promptly quarantining all cases brought to the attention of the authorities.

Maj. Marshal Hale,
Who is in charge of one of the Red Cross zones overseas.

TO END NEXT YEAR.

Brother of Local Man, Now in France, Makes Interesting Prediction Regarding War.

J. M. Hale of the J. M. Hale Company has just received interesting news from his brother, Marshal Hale, who is now a major in the Y.M.C.A. service overseas. Maj. Hale writes that he is now organizing one of nine zones, and that in this work he is being ably assisted by J. B. Coulston of Pasadena and Lionel Hargis of San Francisco.

"The spirit of the American soldier is wonderful," writes Maj. Hale. "I have seen lots of wounded men, but never a one but who had a smile and was anxious to recover so he could get back and at the Boche again. You can't do too much for and give too much in support of our men and the Red Cross nurses."

Maj. Hale predicts that the war will come to an end in 1919, but declares that the task is no easy matter.

Don't Neglect Your Family.

When you fail to provide your family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy at this season of the year, you are neglecting them, as bowel complaint is sure to be prevalent, and it is too dangerous a malady to be trifled with. This is especially true if there are children in the family. A dose or two of this remedy will place the trouble within control and perhaps save a life, or at least a doctor's bill.—[Advertisement.

For Skin Disease IT Is Wonderful

Mrs. Katherine Reed of Los Angeles, Completely Healed by D.D.D.

Los Angeles, Cal. March 13, 1918.

Dear Sirs:

I wish to write a few words of praise for your wonderful medicine, D. D. D. For eighteen years I suffered with my left hand which I had burned with lye and which would not heal. There wasn't a thing in the market which I hadn't used and did not help me, until some friend recommended your wonderful medicine. At first I hesitated to use it, as I tried so many things, but I finally decided to try it and am glad to say that it has healed my hand completely and I can't praise it too highly.

MRS. KATHERINE REED.
418 S. Pecan Street.

D. D. D., the liquid wash, has become a household word. It has proved itself a remarkable remedy. If you are a sufferer from skin diseases, this remedy will not disappoint you. It has stood the test and today is the master preparation for all skin diseases. The Owl Drug Co.

How to Rid the Skin of Objectionable Hairs.

(Aids to Beauty)

A simplified method is here given for the quick removal of hairy or fuzzy growths and rarely is more than one treatment required: Mix a stiff paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every hair has vanished. The simple treatment cannot cause injury, but care should be exercised to get real delatone.

CURIOUS ABOUT M___L___?

It Stands for the Best Cold, Cough and Catarrh Medicine Ever Discovered, Which Is

MENTHO LAXENE

Mentho-Laxene has been on the market eight years. It is a concentrated compound of healing, soothing, curative extracts to be mixed at home with granulated sugar syrup —a full pint—or it may be taken in doses of ten drops in the "raw" state by those who do not like sweet syrup.

The very first dose brings wonderful relief in head or chest colds of children or adults. Every bottle sold is guaranteed to please or money back by the Blackburn Products Co., Dayton, Ohio.

It is economy to make a full pint. Much cheaper than buying ready-made cough or cold remedies—besides, you cannot buy a more effective medicine anywhere. One bottle will last a season for most families, and it checks or aborts a bad cold if taken promptly. Every well stocked druggist supplies Mentho-Laxene. BROADWAY, FOURTH AND HILL.

FOE HELMETS TOO COMMON.

So Many Captured They're No Longer Prized.

Los Angeles Engineer Writes of Some Souvenirs.

Shells Bursting in Germany Pleasant to Watch.

Somewhere on the Champagne front, in the wake of the fleeing Hun, Co. E of the One Hundred and Seventeenth United States Engineers has recently been enjoying a hard-earned rest. For nine steady weeks and on three separated fronts they worked without a let-up, following the advancing infantry and pulling roads into shape right behind the advancing infantry.

Most of the men in the company are from Los Angeles, and while their comrades, 10 per cent. at a time, are visiting Paris on leave, the others write home of the interesting and exciting things they have experienced.

A letter received from Corp. Robert W. Hamsher, formerly a stenographer with the Standard Oil Company, by Miss Fern Honts of No. 4015 Dalton avenue, tells about a diary found on a German officer taken prisoner in a near-by sector. The last three entries were as follows:

"Friday—The troops fighting the Americans are no good. Will put shock troops from the Prussian Guard in their place and give the Americans a good lesson.

"Saturday—The American artillery is amazingly accurate.

"Sunday—Mein Gott!"

Monday he was captured.

There are plenty of steel helmets lying around Corp. Hamsher says. They are the first thing Fritz got rid of in his mad rush.

HELMETS NO RARITY.

They are not popular as souvenirs, however, because the engineers have lots of hiking to do, and everything they have is carried on their backs. "German helmets will probably be common over there, anyway," he adds. Other souvenirs are to be obtained, and he writes that he is sending a German gas mask by the next mail.

The Germans in their retreat destroyed bridges and broke up roads to hinder the Allies' advance as much as possible. "And when a six-inch shell hits a road, it takes quite a little work to make it passable again," Hamsher says.

He describes one particular night, when they were laboring knee-deep in mud, and between the roar and whistle of shells was heard a plaintive crying. During the flare of the next star shell a nondescript kitten was seen among the wreckage of a building, the only living thing that had escaped the Germans. The kitten mewed sadly and was pitiably glad to find a friend.

SHOOT AT GERMANY.

Two of Corp. Hamsher's pre-war chums are in the same company. They are Sergt. "Jerry" Lowell Foutz and Corp. Ralph Edmundson. Before war was declared they were to be seen nightly in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium practicing flips, handstands, and doing other acrobatic stunts.

Two former Los Angeles High School men, Private Herbert S. Swanson and Corp. Tracy Fulton, are also with Co. E of the Engineers. Private Swanson, in a recent letter, says:

"Some of our pleasure during the day is seeing our shells burst in Germany. Every once in a while we can see things go 200 or 300 feet in the air and then smoke for a long time afterward."

He describes how the bombing planes that make nightly excursions over Germany drop colored flares and rockets on their return so they will be recognized as friends and adds that the night before he counted twenty-two airplanes maneuvering at one time.

FORMER NAVY OFFICER SECURES MANY BONDS.

INVESTS SAVINGS IN SECURITIES: WOULD RETURN TO SEA SERVICE.

John Jaconovich, once a chief petty officer in the United States Navy, who is trying to see service again, is one of those to put his idle dollars to work to win the war. He is a Jugo-Slav by birth, but a citizen of the United States. He has taken $1650 in Fourth Liberty Bonds.

Mr. Jaconovich has a good record for service and comes of a notable fighting family, his father, a major-general in the Montenegrin army, having been killed two weeks before his birth. He enlisted in the Naval Militia and was later transferred to the navy. He has made five trips across the Atlantic and wears two service stripes, each representing six months' service in the war zone. He was in the navy sixteen months. He was decorated by King Peter with the Serbian Cross, and the King of Montenegro decorated him with a service medal and the war cross.

Mr. Jaconovich, who speaks ten languages, is anxious to get into some service again, having been given an honorable discharge because of physical disability for a condition his physician, Dr. E. C. Manning, says is now eliminated. He will endeavor to be inducted into the service.

EDWIN PARTRIDGE DIES IN THE EAST.

News was received here yesterday of the death of Edwin Partridge of this city in Schenectady, N. Y., on the 4th inst., of pneumonia. The body will be brought to Los Angeles for interment.

Mr. Partridge for several years was chief clerk of the traffic department of the Southern Pacific, and was widely known and highly regarded in railroad circles. He took an active part in the Liberty Loan and other war activities in Los Angeles, and last May volunteered his services to the government. On the first of September he was called to Schenectady to be superintendent of transportation of the Army Reserve Depot.

He leaves the widow and two children; his parents, who are now visiting in Los Angeles, and a brother and three sisters in Oklahoma.

STUDIOS.

FOX COMING WEST.

GENERAL EXODUS FROM NEW YORK TO BEGIN AT ONCE.

By Grace Kingsley.

According to reliable word just received from the eastern Fox studios, it appears that the whole Fox staff will shortly begin to emigrate from the Fort Lee, N. J., studios, to Hollywood. It is expected, in fact, that William Fox himself will pay California a visit this winter.

The vanguard is represented by beautiful Madaline Traverse, who has already arrived, and who will commence work tomorrow on a picture with story by Adrian Johnson, directed by Frank Beal, and with the popular Charles Clary as her leading man. The story is a modern one, and Miss Traverse is having an array of beautiful gowns made for it.

"I have been in the West only once before — with Rose Stahl in "The Chorus Lady," when I played the showgirl—so everything is new and lovely to me out here," said Miss Traverse the other day. "In fact, Mr. Fox has been so generous in offering me the finest opportunity of my career that I feel as if I am beginning life all over again. No, I don't know that I shall take a house. I'm very comfortable at the Hollywood Hotel—and when I have a house I find myself living for my furniture. In other words, a house is too great a care. I've always wanted to live where I could be near both the sea and the mountains—so I'm perfectly happy, and you may be sure I'll put my best self into my work."

Regarding the Fox plans, it is expected that Theda Bara will make one picture in the East and will then return to California, with her director, J. Gordon Edwards. The Lee Kids, among the most famous children on the screen, if not the most famous, are scheduled to arrive within a few weeks, their director, Arvid E. Gillstrom, being expected here within the next two weeks. Evelyn Nesbit, accompanied by her son, Russell, will probably make her next picture in Hollywood with James Kirkwood, formerly Mary Pickford's director, directing. Virginia Pearson, who has worked constantly at the Fort Lee studios since signing with Fox, will come West within the next two months, in all probability, with her director, Charles Bradin. George Walsh is coming back, and will bring a director well known to the West, none other than Edward Dillon, formerly with Triangle here. William Farnum is to make only one picture in the East, and will then return to Hollywood.

MAYBE THERE WAS A METHOD IN MADNESS.

When Kitty Gordon, United Picture Theater star, who is producing at the Brunton Studios in Los Angeles, one day last week trustfully left that studio bound for a hospital location where she was to be "shot" as an army nurse at the front for her hospital scenes in "The Nurse's Story," her film version of the war novel by Adele Bleneau, she did not know that the institution at which they arrived was a psychopathic hospital. Wallace Worsley, the star's director, took pains to conceal this fact, so that she might not object to a location which was, in other respects, ideal.

So they suggested that she remain alone in her closed car while the lights were taken into the building and everything made ready. She was deserted even by the driver, and while sitting alone in the car Miss Gordon beheld a respectable-looking elderly lady approach and without ado flatten her nose against the door of the car and peer in. The star would have thought it merely an exhibition of bad taste had not the lady proceeded to climb in the driver's seat and try to start the car. By this time Miss Gordon was thoroughly frightened. Just then an attendant spied the lady and came to escort her away, and she submitted without protest. But first she paused and spoke to Miss Gordon:

"You're in pictures, aren't you?" she asked. The star nodded, and her visitor continued: "Well, if some as lives in here had their rights, they'd be picture stars, and some picture stars'd be living in here."

SHE'S GOING TO DO HER OWN REPAIRING.

Now May Allison is going to become a mechanician. The dainty Metro star is determined to know everything there is to be known about a gasoline engine, so that the next time her car breaks down she won't have to enlist the services of a mere man to discover whether there's something the matter with the carburetor, or whether a spark plug has worked loose. Miss Allison is really in earnest about her new venture. She has arranged to spend one evening a week at a big garage and motor repair shop in Hollywood as a pupil in mechanics. She will don overalls and get them all soiled and greasy when she crawls under cars to find out what makes 'em go. One thing she insists upon, however. She will wear gloves to protect her hands.

The particular event which caused Miss Allison to make up her mind to be on speaking terms with all the queer little wheels and things in her machine occurred the other night, when, having finished a scene for "Thirty Days," which scene was taken in the foothills of Hollywood, she was returning to the city. It was then that her car stopped and refused to start again; the road was a fairly lonely one, and she had to walk half a mile to a telephone, leaving her car alone. When she came back a hobo was trying to walk off with the machine, and while he hastily abdicated when he saw her coming, she felt mightily unhappy in the half hour which intervened before a man arrived from a garage to fix up her car.

DIDN'T LEARN IT OUT OF ETIQUETTE BOOK.

Ruth Clifford, Bluebird star, and Elsie Jane Wilson, her director, are just plain mad at each other. The reason is that Miss Clifford fell down, both literally and figuratively, in a scene of "Home James," her latest picture, the incident resulting not only in Miss Clifford's emerging with a bloody nose, but drawing down upon herself the reproaches of her director for wasting film.

It happened in the climatic scene of the picture when Miss Clifford rushes to meet her sweetheart who appears at a ticklish moment.

"Hurry, now hurry, Ruth!" admonished Miss Wilson in rehearsing the scene. Then came the shooting of the scene. When Al Ray, leading man, made his entrance, Miss Clifford turned and made for the door. Tripping over the edge of a rug she still heard ringing in her ears the words, "Hurry, hurry!" And with a last effort the star, eager to please her director, hurled herself forward, expecting to land in the arms of Ray. But the juvenile had been directed to remain standing in the doorway, and so Miss Clifford struck the floor nose-tip first. Ensued the blood-letting and a mad rush out of the set for a brief "weep."

"Now, I'll tell you why I just couldn't hurry to meet Al," explained Miss Clifford to Miss Wilson later. "I didn't want to tell you before, but do you think it's quite proper for a young woman to rush across the room into the arms of her sweetheart who stands in the doorway waiting for her? Now, if I were directing this picture I'd have Al rush over to me!"

JACK KERRIGAN WILL PLAY DAVIS STORY.

Jesse D. Hampton has just purchased, through Edgar Selden, the rights to Richard Harding Davis's most popular and successful play, "Soldiers of Fortune." The price is said to be the largest of any recently paid for a play or story.

Mr. Hampton has secured "Soldiers of Fortune" for J. Warren Kerrigan, and promises that the picture will be a notable achievement, with Kerrigan in Robert Edeson's original stage role. The picture is to be a seven-reeler, and will be released through the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation. It will be produced at the Hampton Studios in Los Angeles immediately after the filming of "Come Again Smith," F. McGrew Willis's picturization of John Blackwood's play, "Come Again Smith."

NEARLY LED TO THE SOCIAL, WAS ELTINGE.

Julian Eltinge has a lot of fun these days, working on location, since he is frequently taken for a woman when he appears in his beautiful feminine togs. The other day the "Over the Rhine" company was at work in a small town between here and Santa Barbara. Eltinge having a few moments to spare, strolled down the beach. He looked unusually beautiful, that day, he says, due to having on a sport suit of pale blue with saucy little hat to match.

Down on the beach he met a youth, obviously country bred but not in the least backward. The youth pursued, and while Eltinge pretended to run away, he let the young man catch up with him, and thereafter the two strolled along together chatting pleasantly, Eltinge using his "other" voice. Finally the young man asked if he might take Eltinge to an ice-cream festival that night, and Eltinge consented. They fixed up a meeting place, and that night Eltinge was on the spot, but dressed in male attire.

"Howdy?" he said to the country swain when the latter approached, all dolled up like a horse.

"Why I—I had a date with a lady!" stammered the youth.

"Well, you aren't going to meet her, 'cause I got a date with her myself!"

The boy wanted to fight, and El-

OLIVE DOESN'T LIKE LO THE GENTLE OX.

If you ask Olive Thomas, Triangle star, what her favorite pet is, she will probably reply, "an ox," and then hit you. The reason is because the fair Olive has been required in her current picture, "Blood will Tell," to drive a pair of oxen.

To say that the former Follies beauty was frightened is putting it mildly. These scenes were taken on the Triangle's big ranch in the Santa Monica Mountains, and fortunately Olive had plenty of room in which to handle the big beasts, as she frequently got her "gees" and "haws" twisted. It was not without considerable argument that Director Borzage persuaded Miss Thomas to trust her precious life on the big wagon drawn by the oxen, and it was hard to convince her that you don't drive oxen with reins, as you do horses.

"It was a scary experience," said Miss Thomas, "because we were on top of a high hill. At one time it seemed as if those awful creatures were going to topple me over the cliff, but my director sat in his machine, and when he saw us too close to the edge, once or twice, he drove in between me and danger. Some director!"

PHILHARMONIC COURSES.

BY JEANNE REDMAN.

L. E. Behymer, the well-known impresario for Los Angeles and the Southwest, returned last week, after having spent eight weeks in the East searching for the most desirable artists, lecturers and opera to be presented to California patrons of music. He may well be pleased with his success, for in a long and distinguished career as impresario, in no other season has he been able to present so many American artists. Singers and instrumentalists, public speakers and opera stars will be in Los Angeles during the winter.

He tells us that throughout the entire East, music is having a tremendous vogue, in the cantonments, in community sings, outdoor opera, concerts and recitals—vocal and instrumental—every form of music is receiving its legitimate degree of credit. The President has said:

"The man who disparages music as a luxury and nonessential is doing the nation an injury. Music now more than ever is a present national need. There is no better way to express patriotism than through music."

There will be three Philharmonic courses as usual this season—with prices for season tickets remaining the same. Each course will include seven concerts by famous artists—vocalists and instrumentalists of distinction.

TUESDAY EVENING SERIES.

The Tuesday evening series will be opened by Anna Fitziu, the American soprano, and Andre de Segurola, the well-known Spanish basso, in joint recital, on October 22. Anna Fitziu is one of the American singers whose success both at home and abroad has been distinctly worth while. De Segurola has for many years been the leading basso of the Metropolitan Opera Company, one of their most popular artists.

The programme will be divided into two parts, the first half given over to operatic arias and duets, and the French and Spanish songs, the second half devoted to a charming French musical sketch which has been written for and dedicated to the two artists. A joint recital is always a popular innovation, but doubly so when given by two such artists as Anna Fitziu and Andre de Segurola.

John McCormack, the always popular, will be the second artist on the Tuesday series, coming November 5.

Of the younger generation of pianists, Ethel Leginska, who will be heard for the first time in this city on November 26, is a pianistic interpreter of rare intelligence and unbounded charm. Delicacy and taste, personality and temperament, coupled with idealism, give her methods a Paderewski-like impressiveness, a theatrical charm which holds an audience.

The third artist on this Tuesday series will be May Peterson, Tuesday evening, March 11. America has had in this artist a soprano who has shed glory upon her native land. Her great success at the famous Opera Comique in Paris was heralded on this side long before she returned in 1915, when she made her debut in recital, being immediately engaged as soloist for three concerts with the New York Philharmonic. Her voice is extremely sweet and beautiful in quality, of great purity and evenness of timbre.

Anna Case, the fifth artist on the Tuesday evening series, has been called "the miracle girl of the Metropolitan." Her extraordinary rise in a few short years from obscurity to a position of pre-eminence in the world of music, is a remarkable achievement. Everywhere she is applauded and loved whether she is singing in opera or concert.

The admirable qualities which make Louis Graveure, the distinguished Belgian baritone, a prime favorite, are already well known and appreciated in Los Angeles. His singing has charm and a certain finesse which make him always welcome. The evening recital is scheduled for Tuesday, April 8.

Mabel Garrison, the American coloratura soprano, closes the Tuesday evening series, April 15. It is difficult to imagine a superior artist; her comprehensive knowledge of varied styles and the polished skill she displays in song interpretations have made her famous in America. It is a voice of great beauty and color.

THURSDAY EVENING SERIES.

The Thursday evening series, with the exception of John McCormack, of whom we cannot hear too much, presents an entirely different list of names from the Tuesday series. McCormack opens the course November 7, followed by a joint recital of Yolando Mero, pianist, and Lambert Murphy, tenor, on November 14. Mero is considered the successor to Carreno; her musicianship, temperament and originality, reinforced by great personal charm and beauty, have distinguished her above other women pianists of the generation.

Lambert Murphy is another American to be proud of. A singer of rare polish and intelligence, with commanding knowledge of varying musical styles, he has been accorded a most desirable place in the world of music.

Eddie Brown, of whom so much has been written, will be heard for the first and only time on Thursday evening, December 5. He will be the only solo violinist of the season.

The fourth concert of the Thursday series will be a join recital by Lucy Gates, coloratura soprano, and the Trio de Lutece. Gates is already well known here, while the Trio de Lutece, which includes George Barrere, flutist; Carlos Salzedos harpist, and Paul Kefer, a violoncellist of reputation, will be heard in solos and trios and accompanying Miss Gates, making in all one of the novel programmes of the year.

Who has not been enamored of the intimate, ingratiating art of Yvette Guilbert, the famous French singer-actress? She returns for one recital on the Thursday series, February 6.

Josef Hofmann, February 20, has been called the supreme master of the pianoforte, and well may he be so acclaimed.

Mme. Frances Alda, dramatic soprano of the Metropolitan, will close the Thursday evening series March 27. She has not been heard here in two years, but her singing at that time will be recalled with much pleasure.

MATINEE SERIES.

For the benefit of the many out-of-town patrons of music, the Saturday afternoon series will be continued as usual. This year it will include recitals by Anna Fitziu and De Segurola, October 26; John McCormack, November 2; Rudolph Ganz, pianist, November 30; Josef Hofmann, February 22; Florence Macbeth, January 7; Louis Graveure, April 12, and Mabel Garrison, April 19.

On Thursday, October 10, the box office at Trinity Auditorium will be opened to new subscribers. As the single ticket sale for the recital by Fitziu and De Segurola will open October 17, and the single ticket sale for John McCormack on October 21, season ticket patrons are urged to make their reservations before these dates, thereby avoiding standing in line.

CAMERA CLUB WILL TEACH PHOTOGRAPHY.

FREE COURSES PLANNED AS NEW UNDERTAKING BEGINNING NEXT MONTH.

Classes of instruction in all branches of photography will be inaugurated by the Southern California Camera Club, beginning on November 9. The classes will be held at the club's rooms, 522 Wilcox Building, on the evenings of the second and fourth Thursday of each month.

Complete instructions will be given in the use of cameras of different types, in exposures, development, printing, enlarging, color processes, portraiture, composition, etc. The director of the school is David Sheehan, rotogravure expert of The Times, who will be assisted by a number of practical photographers.

The course is designed to be useful not only to beginners, but also to advanced amateurs who are likely to have become "rusty" in branches in which they have not been continuously active. While the classes are not connected with any government war work, persons planning to enter the service of the army as war photographers will be specially welcome. There will be no charge whatever for the courses.

SCREEN.

PICTORIAL REVIEW.

BRILLIANT NEW PHOTOPLAYS NOW BEING FLASHED.

Alhambra.

"Pershing's Living Bridge," another big war feature comprising an official United States government film, "Our Bridge of Ships," Gen. Allenby's "Capture of Jerusalem," the splendid work of the British tanks on every sector of the front, and many other unusual happenings where the fighting is thickest, is the attraction at the Alhambra for a week beginning today. Ever since Gen. Pershing sent his message across the seas right after his arrival in France with the first Rainbow Division, in which he told Americans "to build him a bridge of ships to France," our nation has, through the splendid co-operation of its great army of workers, been building ships at wonderful speed, and these activities are shown in detail in "Pershing's Living Bridge."

Grauman's.

Think of Douglas Fairbanks in the role of a tramp and knighted "The Watermelon" by his fellows. It will be more than a treat to see Doug in his latest Artcraft Photoplay, "He Comes Up Smiling," coming to Grauman's tomorrow for one week. The story of the screen version is based on the farce of the same name written by Byron Ongley and Emil Mytray, which was produced with great success at the Liberty Theater, New York City, September 16, 1914, with Douglas Fairbanks in the stellar role. "He Comes Up Smiling," was heralded in New York as the most amusing and effectively staged photoplay in which this famous exponent of the screen has ever appeared.

Clune's Broadway.

Wallace Reid, in each new production, has enhanced his reputation for versatility. He has portrayed successfully the society man, the athlete, the western hero, the soldier, and now he comes as the hobo in Clarence Buddington Kelland's big moment, "The Source," which comes to Clune's Broadway today. A cast selected from the best of the Paramount forces supports "Wallie." It includes Ann Little, Theodore Roberts, James Cruze, Noah Beery, Raymond Hatton, Charles West, Charles Ogle, Nina Byron and G. Butler Clonbough.

Tally's Broadway.

Alice Brady in her newest feature, "The Death Dance," a picturization of the story by Marie Eve, is to be the attraction at Tally's Broadway next week. The plot of Miss Brady's latest picture hinges about a dance which a Spanish dancer performs in a Broadway cafe. Damia, the character which Miss Brady portrays, is that of a famous dancer who is dining in the cafe. Miss Brady's execution of this dance is certain to call forth unlimited praise from her admirers, for they have never connected her with professional dancing, and to see her performing a difficult Spanish dance will be a real novelty to them.

Clune's Auditorium.

In "The Temple of Dusk," which opens at Clune's Auditorium tomorrow afternoon, Sessue Hayakawa, the great Japanese actor, is seen in a role that best becomes this favorite of the silver sheet. The love and devotion of a Japanese youth for a child who has been left motherless when a baby, and his final sacrifice to save the baby's name from disgrace, forms the basis of the simple story, but the beauty of the settings, the little touches of pathos and the exquisite photography lift the whole far above the average feature. There are many dramatic moments, and the suspense is relieved here and there by comedy sidelights. Hayakawa is supported in this picture by an unusually clever cast, including Jane Novak.

Quinn's Rialto.

Auspiciously with the fall opening at Quinn's Rialto, Geraldine Farrar, supported by Herbert Rawlinson, makes her appearance today in "The Turn of the Wheel," a play of today which affords her a role replete with dramatic possibilities and opportunities to wear the many magnificent gowns that Farrar so well becomes. In relief to the dramatic element is a Tox Mix Sunshine comedy that is one of the funniest pictures made in months. Also Mary Pickford and D. W. Griffith are shown opening the fourth loan drive in Central Park and there is a splendid view of the vast crowds.

Miller's.

William Farnum's name has become associated with film plays of power and great dramatic intensity. Therefore, the patrons of Miller's will be delighted to know that his great picture, "Riders of the Purple Sage," will be shown there for a week beginning today. Adapted from Zane Grey's famous novel of the same name, it tells a story that breathes all the ruggedness, virility and vastness of the great West in the early pioneer days, and affords Farnum an exceptional opportunity to portray those sterling qualities of manhood which have made him pre-eminent among stars of the screen.

Superba.

"The Lure of Luxury", is the enticing title of Ruth Clifford's newest Bluebird photoplay, which opens at the Superba today. It is a problem play, showing how a young girl is swayed between love without riches and riches without love. One man offers her the wealth of Midas, the other the love of a Romeo. To marry the man she loves will mean dishwashing and drudgery; to marry the other means limousines and lacy lingerie. Which does she choose? The answer is to be found in the photoplay, and she makes her choice after a climax that is gigantic, a denouement that is colossal.

Symphony.

"Three Mounted Men," the latest western melodrama to star Harry Carey, Universal's ace of the saddle, comes to the Symphony this week, heralded as even a better picture than "Hell Bent," which broke all attendance records at the Symphony several weeks ago. Action is the MUSICAL.

MATINEE MUSICAL CLUB.

CELEBRATED TENTH BIRTHDAY LAST THURSDAY.

By Antony Anderson.

It was a very beautiful and inspiring meeting—the first session of the Matinee Musical Club, held at Gamut Club auditorium last Thursday, which also marked the tenth anniversary of the club. It might have been taken for a meeting of the patriotic sincere women of Los Angeles, for Mrs. Marshall Stookey Anderson, president, in her stirring opening address, struck the note of patriotism and brought home more clearly than ever the importance of the work before the women of America. Mrs. Anderson also gave a general outline of the musical and educational work which the club expects to accomplish this year.

L. E. Behymer was honor guest for the occasion. He gave a very impressive talk on the necessity and influence of music in this war, and said that "music will conquer the world." His remarks were deeply significant and convincing, and emphasized the truth that there is something higher than mere commercialism—and that is the spiritual which all men are recognizing and of which music surely is a part.

Mrs. J. T. Anderson, special guest, was unable to be present, but Mrs. Berenice Johnson came in her stead and talked on the Fourth Liberty Loan in an effective and witty manner. It is safe to say that every club woman will manage in some way or other to own at least one bond of this issue, after Mrs. Johnson's remarks.

Ben F. Field also talked impressively on the present Liberty Loan, and brought the life of the other side just a trifle closer by displaying a German helmet just received from his son in France.

A musical programme was given by the Stearns-Gregg Trio and John Smallman baritone, accompanied by May Orcutt. The young women of the trio work well together and their lovely numbers were well received. Mr. Smallman's voice is rich and free, his enunciation clear, and he presents his songs in an artistic manner.

After the programme a birthday cake was cut by Mrs. James Henry Ballagh, who, with seven other women, ten years ago organized the Matinee Musical Club. The club's present membership is 350. Mrs. Olney and Mrs. Davis, two charter members, were also present.

Muratore Coming.

Music lovers of Los Angeles will have an opportunity of hearing one of the world's greatest tenors on the fifteenth of this month, for on that date Lucien Muratore, the celebrated French artist, will give a concert at Shrine Auditorium, along with Georges Truc, soldier pianist, and Alexandre Debruille, soldier violinist, as associate artists. Lina Cavalieri, who, in private life is Mme. Muratore, will also be very much present at the concert.

This will be the first concert the great singer has given since his return from the battlefields of Europe, where he and Mme. Cavalieri entertained wounded soldiers. His first public appearance was in San Francisco, and his second at Berkeley.

Muratore will offer the following selections as his part of the attractive programme: The Aria from "Werther," "Pourquoi me Reveiller" of Massenet; the Berceuse from "Joselyn" of Benjamin Godard, and Enlevement of Charles Levade; Arioso from "Pagliacci" ("Vesta La Giubba") of Leoncavallo.

Alexandre Debruille will give the Polonaise of Wieniawski and the Rondo Capricioso of Saint-Saens, and George Truc will render the Etude of Saint-Saens, a brilliant concert composition in waltz rhythms.

U.S.C. College of Music.

On Tuesday evening, October 8, Miss Margaret Dick, contralto, Miss Elisa Jamgochian, piano, and Emil Sassina, violin, all advanced students of the college of music of the University of Southern California, will apear in programme before the Parent-Teacher Association of the Micheltorena school in Hollywood.

The first students' recital of the year was given at the college of music, University of Southern California, last Thursday afternoon, in the college studios at No. 3201 South Figueroa street. The affair was well attended. In addition to the valuable experience of public performances, the student finds in them an opportunity for gaining practical familiarity with the music of other branches represented outside of the student's specialty. Miss Lillian Cummings, contralto, and Miss Ruth Marie Smith, both new members of the faculty of the college of music, assisted.

Farwell Community Chorus.

The Farwell Community Chorus meets in Symphony Hall each Friday evening. It is under the direction of Mme. Gloria Mayne. It is announced that a number of prominent soloists are affiliating themselves with the work. Wadsworth Harris, a protege of the late Mme. Modjeska, entertained the chorus last evening at his home. At each sing a programme of the best mixed music will be presented. Next Friday evening Clara Frances Mabery, mezzo soprano, will give a group of songs, and Cecil Fanning has announced his intention of being present and of teaching the chorus a new number.

How Yankees Fight.

The American forces in France have won tributes of all kinds to their character and courage. A description by one of their commanding officers of their conduct in battle further illustrates the fine quality of their morale in action. In a private letter giving an account of the present offensive the officer says:

"The indifference to danger, patience in suffering and general worth of the American soldier are above praise. Linemen repaid telephone lines under gas and shell; stretcher bearers go through it—four were killed by one shell recently."

This is the supreme trait of the soldier, the capacity for fighting as part of the day's work and with contempt for its dangers—a stage of discipline supposed to be attained only by years of militarism. Yet here it is manifested by soldiers new to the art of war, but who have been made competent for it by native intelligence and the self-reliance to which they have been inured in peace. If the country was proud of its soldiers before they crossed the sea, it now has a thousandfold cause for pride in their conduct under fire.—[New York World.

STAGE.

MOROSCO TO MASON.

PLAYS AND VAUDEVILLE OF THE COMING WEEK.

Morosco.

Oliver Morosco will today present at the Morosco one of the season's most delightful and enjoyable shows, Edward Childs Carpenter's romance, "The Pipes of Pan," which has been a sensation in New York and which at its first western presentation should prove as big a knockout with local players as it has been in the East. "Pipes of Pan" is the story of an artist and his love for the woman who spurned his love twenty years ago for the money of a stern business man. It is a poem in play form, and as whimsical a product as the author's first success, "The Cinderella Man," which ran at the Morosco here for five consecutive weeks.

"Pipes of Pan" is the love romance of two intelligent people, and it should find ready acceptance with local playgoers. The cast includes Florence Malone, Richard Dix, Marion Vantine, Dora Mae Howe, Joseph Eggenton, James Corrigan, Lillian Elliot, Wilfred Young, Lou Holley, Robert Lawler and many other Morosco favorites.

Pantages.

Serrano's Spanish dancers, direct from Spain, will be the unusual feature at Pantages next week, beginning with Monday's matinee. It is said by Mr. Pantages to be the biggest and most expensive act in vaudeville, there being thirty principals, dancers and singers in the troupe, together with a ballet and chorus. The act carries its own musical director and stage crew. The Spanish dancers come to Los Angeles after a tour from New York to Minneapolis direct over the Pantages circuit, and will continue for fifteen weeks more to St. Louis, after playing through the Southwest and Texas. In addition to this feature, the bill contains still another unusual vaudeville act which comes from the Winter Garden in New York, "A Mile a Minute," in which the most exciting race ever shown on the stage is presented. Other good acts are in the bill.

Orpheum.

Every act on the Orpheum bill opening Monday matinee, October 7, is new save one. The new topliner is perhaps one of the most unique offerings ever made on a stage—a complete play in six scenes, without any scenery. It is proffered by Emily Ann Wellman, whose former attempt in that line was a tremendous success, well recalled by all Orpheumites. In this case, Miss Wellman has taken a big theme—"Where Things Happen"—and elaborated it into a real story from the front; has created characters and surroundings, but has done it all by use of lights, a few "props" and atmosphere. She visualizes her surroundings by means of suggestion, and succeeds in making it most convincing. As all the parts are masculine, Miss Wellman does not appear personally, but an excellent company carries out her thought and makes of the play one of the most daring concepts of stage history, as well as a most thrilling drama of the greatest of all subjects today. Another dramatist who does appear in person is Wilfred Clarke, farceur and actor of parts, who will present "His Real Troubles." A third feature act is the dancing divertisements, presented by Alla Moskova and her corypheer, headed by Boris Petroff. The Leightons return with "The Party of the Second Part," and their bum minstrels. Lou Holtz is "Father Joy's Boy." The Misses Shaw and Campbell will present some charming musical moments, and the Eddy Duo, man and woman, who are wire artists, will hand out some startling thrills. Robert T. Haines and his company in "The One Way Out" will be the only act retained from this week.

Burbank.

A bill that outclasses anything staged by the Burbank during the fall season, will be offered during the coming week, starting today. It will consist of eight features, four motion pictures, and four vaudeville acts.

The movie attractions will be "Honor's Cross," starring Rhea Mitchell and Herschel Mayall, the latest screen scream of Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran; latest views of the war in the Universal weekly, and the new novelty called "Photoville," showing vaudeville on the silver sheet. Kimko, presenting an attractive novelty; Dupree and Wilson, songsters; George F. Morey, "musical" ventriloquist, and Harry and Louise La Mont, "Two Beach Nuts," will be the vaudeville turns.

Hippodrome.

Vaudeville and picture fans are highly interested in the launching of the new policy at the Hippodrome starting tomorrow, when a five-reel feature picture and the usual six-act vaudeville bill will be offered at the same old price of admission. Anyone going to the Hip hereafter will be sure of seeing two complete shows in one evening's entertain-

FAIRBANKS'S BOND SHOW.

BY TRUMAN B. HANDY.

All roads lead to Doug Fairbanks's famous house in Beverly Hills this afternoon.

He's giving "the greatest show on earth" for the Fourth Liberty Loan, and Bennie Ziedman, his first-and-foremost, announces that said loan will be enriched at least $100,000 when the tickets are all sold and the money counted.

A hundred real cowboys will yip-yip up and down the Beverly hillsides. The foremost athletes of the Coast have been arrayed against each other. The affair starts at 2:30 o'clock.

To gain admission to the show you must buy at least one $50 bond. Aside from such a charge, there is no other admission price. Mrs. J. M. Danziger and Mrs. Harry Dana Lombard will sell you flowers and refreshments, and the proceeds from their sales will go to the Boyle Heights Orphanage.

Dorothy Gish, Kathleen Kirkham, Winifred Kingston, Blanche Sweet, Mildred Harris, Marjorie Daw and at least thirty other luminaries will sell flowers for Liberty Bonds. The Hollywood and Beverly gardens have suffered a heavy toll, and the blooms will be auctioned for the defeat of the Kaiser.

And James W. Gerard, ex-Ambassador to Germany, the man who hurled the American defi at the Kaiser, will be there, and probably speak.

As a special recognition of Doug's efforts in behalf of the loan through the efforts of G. G. Greenwood of the Hollywood Liberty Loan Committee and John W. Perrin of the Twelfth Federal Reserve Bank district, the first $50,000 worth of fourth loan certificates have been secured for distribution this afternoon. They are being sent from San Francisco by special messenger, and presage by several weeks Los Angeles's regular bond allotment.

The Submarine Base band is by no means in quarantine. They will play this afternoon, and they promise you a good time. And Bud Duncan, the diminutive, will clown, and Marin Plestina, the heavyweight wrestler, offers $100 in bonds to any one who can throw him.

Two airplanes will fly overhead and essay some stunts extraordinary.

The whole affair, with its airplanes and bucking broncos and pretty film stars—and Doug himself, is extraordinary. And it will cost you at least one $50 Liberty Bond.

Painting the Salmon.

Red is the preferred color for salmon flesh. It is the "dog" salmon's misfortune to have meat of a dirty grayish hue, so that it is almost unmarketable.

Recently, however, a fish dealer in Boston made a delightful discovery. It was that some salmon-colored paint (which he happened to be using for painting a truck) would transform a dog salmon offhand into a fish of the most expensive variety.

The way it worked was really remarkable. It appears that the stuff was a coal-tar product, and when freely applied with a brush so saturated the meat with dye as to give it a fine salmon-red tint clear through.

Unfortunately, the local health authorities, lacking appreciation of the fine arts, seized the fish and the paint and shut up the studio.—[Philadelphia Ledger.

NEW WASHINGTON.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WASHINGTON (D. C.) Oct. 2.—The capital of the United States is in process of a profound and complete change. It is not merely the superficial transformation so patent to every observer—the overflood of population, the shortage of street car space, the mushroom growth of small restaurants and grocery stores—but a real change from within, and is part of the change which is taking place at the core of American life.

In one way or another the impression has gotten abroad that the two really cosmopolitan cities of the United States are New York and Washington—New York because it is the Goshen for almost all the rest of the country and a Canaan for the distressed and adventurous of almost all other countries; Washington—well, Washington because it is "the seat of Federal government, the residence of the President, the Secretary of State and foreign envoys."

As a matter of fact, Washington never was much of a city for its size. New Orleans, San Francisco, Chicago, and even Philadelphia, Baltimore and Cincinnati might have laid claim to more cosmopolitan distinction than the capital. In a way, Washington was metropolitan; but it was also provincial. Washington was never, of itself, progressive or staid, fast or slow. In these things it followed the spirit of the nation, and if sometimes it also followed the spirit of the world, it was only because the nation followed. Washington lends itself as readily, almost, to a change in party denomination as to a change in departmental regulations. Old faces disappear, are missed awhile and forgotten, new faces come, are remarked awhile and accepted.

Yet, Washington, for all its changeableness, was never without a character of its own. Tradition is the strongest factor in the personification of cities, and Washington has plenty of tradition. It is rich in historical memories—of the panic when the British took the city, of the stormy, sometimes bloody debates of abolition times, of the tense days and nights when the soldiers of McClellan watched the Potomac and the Rappahannock. These memories meant much to the Washington of a few years ago. In those days trolley cars were without flat wheels and seldom crowded. Automobiles were fewer and well behaved. Night life began at ten minutes past 7 and ended at 10:30 or thereabouts.

In those days each white newcomer to Washington found social classification awaiting him. He was a "Congressional" or he wasn't. In the latter event he was a "departmental," a "civil service person," an "embassy person," a "Georgetowner" or a layman. It was said then that much bad blood and vendetta existed among these various little cliques.

The old "Gawgetown set"—supposedly formed of the sons and daughters of exiled first families of the Confederacy—would have nothing to do, it was said, "with any of the government crowd." The army "set" was reported at bitter social strife with the navy. The "Congressionals" and the "Cabinet" contested hotly for supremacy. The laity—representatives of typewriter corporations, lobbyists, students, press correspondents and others not directly connected with the government, struggled along as best they might. Most of this was sheer nonsense, but it formed a background for a good deal of harmless gossip.

The visitor emerging from the Union Station was startled by the quietude and essential serenity of it all. Rush and bustle was nowhere; excitement—the excitement of Park Row and Dearborn street—apparently did not exist. It was a good thing, this calm, the visitor thought, as from the steps he watched the clear light of morning playing on the Capitol dome. Laws for a hundred million people should not be made under the neurotic stimulants of hyper-civilization. After all, the visitor told himself, thankfully, the jazz band is not America.

He met his Congressman and noted that something in the latter had taken the place of the nervous energy which had distinguished his campaign. Later, over a comfortable julep at the Willard or elsewhere, the Congressman assured him that the Republicans or the Democrats—as the case was—had overshot their bolt and were doomed.

Most of all Washington was young—young with the clean-cut, well-tempered, methodical animation of the rural youth of solid circumstance. In the same sense America was young.

Should the visitor to Washington now pause on the steps of Union Station to regard the sunlight on the Capitol dome it is likely that his contemplation will be interrupted or disturbed by a jostling from someone behind or in front of him. He will have a vague feeling of being somehow out of place. The first touch of this feeling comes to him as he leaves his crowded train and follows the stream into the train shed. Stern determination seems stamped on every face he encounters. All seem to have a job to do and are steadily intent upon doing it. Somehow this seems to be no place for one who has no particular job to do. Soldiers are everywhere; smart, nicely-groomed soldiers, going home on furlough; tired, bedraggled soldiers on their way back to camp; grim-looking soldiers with bayoneted rifles walking about as military police.

Physical change was also evident in the big service hut of the Y.M.C.A. and the barracks built on the vacant areas about the station. Still this was not all.

The visitor decided not to use a taxi. There seemed something sinful in using a taxi now. He followed a crowd aboard a street car. Something had changed even about the street cars. It seemed as though they had changed their air of dispassionate efficiency for one not unlike that he had seen on the faces of the people inside the station. The street cars bore the scars of battle; but they bore them well.

The conductor could not have been more than 18. He had no uniform but a battered cap. But when he spoke he spoke as a man, and his voice had in it the ring of authority which expects obedience.

"Right aboard," he shouted, "Hop up there. C'mon, le's go."

He gave the bell rope two vicious jerks. The car started forward with a swift suddenness. The motorman clanged his bell incessantly. Through the windows the visitor saw automobiles swarming about them everywhere, sounding their sirens as they went. People were moving in all directions, and it was evident that each of them was going somewhere and knew it.

The visitor returned his gaze to inside the car and listened for a moment to conversations. He heard

OUR CALIFORNIA PLAYGROUNDS

I love the Southland's breast of bal
And drink to Flora in the breez
That wakes the aisles of gum a palm,
By San Diego's summer seas.
Life's golden wine upon the lees.

The mystic gardens of the sea,
By Catalina's magic isle,
Again in vision come to me;
Her mermaid's wistful eyes o
guile,
The baffling wonder of her smile.

In waving forests, submarine,
I see beneath our gliding boat,
In robes of rose and Lincoln green,
The white limbed naiads rise and float,
From moveless deeps to tower and
moat.

Los Angeles, thou pilgrims' camp,
'Twixt two eternities, today
Your genius rubs his mystic lamp,
And conjures health and love and play,
With richer treasures than Cathay.

Thou favorite playgrounds of the sun,
That kisses last your kindly shores,
Your ocean tempered seasons run,
To claim each solstice, one by one,
And toss old winter out of doors.

With fruit and flower in every clod,
Potentially, in loving trust,
Whence, fragrant from the hand of God,
Pygmalion's tearful sadness must
Woo Galatea from the dust.

A-near the haunts of lynx and stag, Fair Santa Barbara's homes are planned;
A crescent round of mount and crag,
Old nature's great cathedrals stand,
A background to her placid strand.
Here, rich and poor through nature finds,

Above earth's sham and persiflage,
The true democracy of minds,
The brothers of the golden age,
Wrote large across life's heritage.

DIES IRAE.

Thou art weighed in the balance, O
Kaiser,
And wanting thy weight has been found;
The days of thy kingdom are numbered,
The thread of thy fate is un-wound.
On the wall of thy tottering palace
The finger of God writes thy doom,
For nations marshalled in battle
Are building tyranny's tomb

Divine right of kingship no longer
Enslaves the soul of mankind.
Imperial pomp with its splendor
Has rendered thee callous and blind.
Thy heart is hardened as Pharaoh's,
Thy mouth filled with blasphemous boasts;
Soon will the Red Sea of God's anger
Engulf with its billows thy hosts.

Thou hast made this world a Ge-henna
And crucified man by thy creed,
In vain wilt thou plead for man's mercy
In the hour of thy bitterest need.
But thy people, when humbled, O
Kaiser,
Will peacefully dwell by their hearth,
When a league of nations with honor
Shall rule o'er this war-sickened earth.

BEACH YOUTH SAYS WAR WILL END SOON.

PRAISES FRENCH WOMEN FOR TREATMENT OF AMERICAN SOLDIERS.

William Avril, a Santa Monica Beach man, now in France, laughs at the idea that war can continue for two years more, as somebody had evidently suggested to him.

In a letter written to his father and mother and dated August 25, young Avril says: "The guess of two years more of war is surely wrong. Thousands of German prisoners brought behind our lines during the past weeks were suffering with wounds and all showed lack of medical attention. They cannot stand the 'gaff' from us young fellows for another two years. It is simply impossible."

The soldier has a good word for the French women, who are glad to do all they can to mother the homesick men. He also writes that a motherly old lady at the Salvation Army hut sews on buttons for the boys and sees to it that the lads have enough to eat.

"Yesterday the Salvation Army had hot pies," writes Avril. "They sold them for 10 cents. But if a man has no money, he can eat and have hot coffee or chocolate just the same. The Salvation Army folks are wonderful, say all the men, but the world will never know or give them credit for the self-sacrificing work they do."

Society in the Camera's Eye.

Miss Collins, who is president of the Patriotic League, has been visiting in the East since early summer, but plans to be home shortly to take up her work again. At present she and her future mother-in-law are in Annapolis, where Miss Collins' fiancee, Ensign Corbin Corbin, is stationed. Mrs. Adams is planning to take her children to Panama soon to join her husband, Lieut. Adams. Miss Marsh has been elected treasurer of the Patriotic League. Miss Wood will leave shortly for Bishop's School in La Jolla to complete her senior year there.

A DEBUTANTE'S LETTER.

On Board Yacht Delight, Oct. —.

May dear:

I shall begin this letter "somewhere on the Pacific," but end it on terra firma. For we are voyaging to San Diego in a sailing vessel for which there is no wind and temporarily leaving the world behind. The sun is smiling blandly and there are no cares beyond the question whether the provisions will hold out if the wind doesn't come up. And we have several adorable bachelors and a husband on board, to say nothing of a phonograph and John Masefield's sea poems. We feel very nautical and have given up the struggle to keep our hair in curl. We have exchanged courteous salutations with the patrol boats. We have impressively opened our chart and studied it with furrowed brow. My cabin, a white and gold affair with rose pink draperies, is altogether seductive. From its hatch I can hear the skipper giving unintelligible orders about jibs and standing by the engine and port sides and starboards and fo's'ls—and wafted remarks anent jack-pots and sweeteners and straight flushes. But none of them are my responsibilities.

We have satisfactorily dissected all our friends back home and left them barely enough character to pilot them through the Liberty Loan campaign. We have told each other the story of our lives and we are still friends. We have married off or divorced everybody we can think of and settled the outcome of the war to everybody's satisfaction. Your Betty has essayed to cook an omelette in the "galley," sat on the engine in the process, and produced scrambled eggs inadvertently. She has also won the scorn of the ship's cook, who felt he could have done quite as well as that anyway. We have petted Allen, the only member who took a seasick remedy—and succumbed to the tortures of Neptune in insidious mood. We have compared the competitive charms of Walter's and Niel's soporific melodies and judged their respective alibis.

And now we are threading our way into San Diego harbor and mooring near the yacht club, and the crew are getting into their shore clothes and looking incredibly beauish.

Later. When the sun went down we hied us ashore for dinner at Hotel Coronado. The little cockleshell of a dingy provided a wild element of danger and a watery grave seemed perilously near. But only the good die young. At Coronado we espied many friends, chiefly and particularly one Senior Lieutenant Frank Simpson of Los Angeles fame, now commander at the naval air station, whom we later heard negotiating with a frisky widow for indiscreet letters. She said she had always wanted to write some and she would. She probably will. He and four other lieutenants, including E. Summers Petersen, occupy a little house all to themselves in Coronado and seemed to have solved the problem of right living. We investigated it and found a jumble of literature in evidence—technical naval books—and sex psychology, a treatise on love and marriage—amongst them.

At the hotel also we found Mr. and Mrs. Stokes, recently of Santa Barbara, who are here on a visit from China. They are such a jolly couple. Amy Busch, soon to be a bride, is also down there in the company of Doreen Kavanagh. But there really does seem to be a scarcity of scintillating maidens, and young married women and the widows have a gorgeous time of it. Mr. and Mrs. Ned Bowen have a house there on Sea street, and Mrs. Bowen recently hied her to Los Angeles for a new wardrobe for which she will certainly have ample use. Larry says that there is one real charm which widows have over maidens—they don't prattle early in the morning. Who can have tried to flirt with him before breakfast?

Back in town again. Never mind how we got here, dear, its a hectic story. But we did arrive in time to help celebrate the birthday of the Alvarado-street Red Cross Shop, and hear dear little Mrs. Hancock Banning make her parting speech on her resignation. She shed a little tear or two. Both she and Mrs. J. M. Danziger, who resigns also, have worked so very hard and made themselves so infinitely beloved—to say nothing of raking in fabulous profits for the Red Cross. After a rest they are going to travel round the country establishing like shops in other cities. In the meantime Mrs. Harry Lombard and Mrs. Laughlin will reign in their stead. Mrs. Lombard adores her old clothes department, and was proudly announcing the imminent arrival of a new and stylish stock, sent by Mrs. Kirk Johnson from the East—a whole trunk full of lovely dresses. And she had previously told Mrs. Lombard to invade her Beverly home and annex any dresses she found there. She felt like a burglar but was willing to burgle in the good cause, with shimmering results. Little Mrs. Faulkner, a mite of a woman, who is the adamant financial nabob de luxe, was avariciously bragging of a bumper day's trade and shaking her pretty curls delightedly.

Next Thursday, the 10th, they are going to have a dazzling oriental day at the Chapter House in charge of Mrs. Carl Johnson, who has been in the Orient and will be a stickler for faithful details. She is going to exhibit some wondrous costumes and there will be songs in Chinese and Japanese and piquant dances—the whole the brilliant idea of Mrs. Carter, who is responsible for that day's lures.

Spencer Kennelly has gone to Washington, where he will receive a commission to go to Siberia, and Mrs. Kennelly will be an interesting war widow for a spell.

I hear Mme. Simone Puget is doing prodigious things at Santa Barbara in the intervals between her merry bathing parties on the beach. They do say she looks quite as adorable in her bathing suit as in those captivating widow's weeds. She romps and plays ball with Lieut. Singer, to the infinite joy of all beholders. Santa Barbara adores her, even the women. Capt. Llewellyn is up there, too, with his family. He, you know, is a Boer War hero, and was with the "starving Eighth"—the regiment that somehow got missed by the commissary department. He was once so hungry that he and Lord Locke scrapped for a stray piece of orange peel, and his Lordship won. Lieut. Longburne is still at Santa Barbara, a valuable social adjunct, with men so very scarce. The Redmaynes have taken a new house on San Leandro lane in Montecito, and Mrs. Redmayne has been in town on a jolly furnishing expedition. Maj. and Mrs. Capes made a decided social hit up there, but are now back in Pasadena for the winter.

At the Motor Maids' Emergency Relief Corps' street dance last Saturday they had any amount of fun. Douglas Maclean, Mary Pickford's leading man, sold the ice cream and Robert Morton, in his new ensign uniform, consumed eight plates of it. He, you know, stands six feet four inches, and looks most impressive. Any number of impressed husbands who had gone most reluctantly to the event, had a frisky evening and are clamoring for more.

The candidates for justices of the peace all appeared before the Woman's City Club last meeting, and goodness, they were washed and brushed up. There was a reckless show of ostentatiously-clean collars and new ties, and obviously recent shaves. And it was quite touching to see the anxiety of the various wives in the audience that hubby might make a good impression. Mrs. Brain was piloting Judge Richardson through the terrors of a club luncheon—her hubby, you know, has gone to war since he lost the Sheriff candidature, so she was a little triste.

Michael Connell has put his foot down on Mrs. Connell's intention to sponsor both the "Birdcage" and the Enlisted Men's Club—one or the other, but not both, says he. So the birdcage will have to get along without her, for she will never, never desert the sailor boys.

There is one thing I have noticed, cherie—all these class A Los Angeles women who are doing such effective things in war work, scorn the use of all cosmetics, and their complexions are all their very own. You can't find a trace of make-up on the faces of any of the front rank women, Mrs. Banning, Mrs. Danziger, Mrs. Connell, and so forth. It helps in insuring the unqualified devotion of their aides—the outward and visible sign of their innate sincerity.

It is interesting to note how socially popular the screen actresses are nowadays, and how proud the men are to be seen with them. Do you remember four or five years ago, before these ladies were fashionable, what scheming was necessary amongst our gay bachelors to meet them quite by accident, don't you know? Now they walk into the cafes with them with frank and open pride, the selfsame men who were once so timid in exhibiting their preferences. The picture queens still favor just a soupcon of make-up.

Goodness, there goes the door bell—and I haven't powdered my nose for hours. So long, cherie.

Your nautical BETTY.

OUT-OF-TOWN SOCIETY.

PASADENA.

Many more Pasadena people have returned from the shore and other summer places the past week and have reopened their town houses, so that nearly everybody is back in town now. Renewal of social activities has not been so perceptible, however, as war work is claiming so many people and elaborate entertaining is not being done.

Nevertheless there is no prospect that the winter in Pasadena will be a dull one. With the army balloon camp just outside the city and Los Angeles and its harbor naval stations nearby, there will be many social affairs designed for the entertainment of the young men in service.

Week-end dances at the Hotel Maryland resumed last evening, and the military and the younger society set of Pasadena, as well as the hotel guests, were present in large numbers for the inauguration of the fall season there. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bridegroom's uncle and was witnessed only by a small group of intimate friends. A Windfall of Wonderfully Good Suits Tomorrow

That Will Make You Look Pretty—That Will Make You Brace Up
With New Life to Face the Coming Winter
—That Will Save You Money

—To every woman and young woman of Los Angeles who has need yet to supply her winter wardrobe, this is a direct message. It is to say that the inspiration for us to assemble such a large and unusual collection of new fall suits is the remarkable September business just finished. Women are buying new clothes these war times. They are buying all they need, and they are buying now. They realize that they must have new things to make them perk up and help them earn more that they may buy bonds and give to the Red Cross, etc.
—This collection is even greater and finer than we have had in pre-war seasons.
—There are so many good things that it is impossible to speak of them all, but

Here are Some of the Best Values You Will Find Monday

—Broadcloths, both plain and fancy tailored models. Some with long straight lines, others semi-fitting. And both blouse and loose effects. All are very well lined.
—Velours, mixtures and mannish materials and gabardines with fashion touches that include plaited and gathered coats and new belts and girdles.
—Colors are black, tan, beaver, myrtle green, grape, burgundy, helmet gray and taupe.

Two Good Coat Values
—Bolivia Coats at $35
—And Salts' Plush Coats at $37.50

—Both of them are hard to get at any price and both of them are selling for a great deal more at other stores.
—Either of them may be had with or without fur trimming, so that women who have their own furs may use them to good advantage.
—Good New York Store coats start as low as $19.75.

Still the Jersey Dresses Come

—And they seem to be prettier each day at their $25, $29.75, $32.50 and $35 prices.
—They have "tube" skirts. They have tunics. They are embroidered and they have collars of satin.
—Jersey persists in being one of the foremost fall materials.

Among the Better Dresses

—One will find very exclusive tricollettes with fringe trimming, otherwise rather simple. $45 and up.
—Splendid Georgette dresses in new autumn colors.
—Poiret twill tailored frocks, $42.50.

Why Not Choose Your Hat Where "Becoming" Doesn't Mean "Expensive"

—It is hard sometimes to associate such fine hats as the New York Store shows with low prices. But when you can buy a splendid little velvet hat trimmed with ostrich for $10 or $12.50, or a hat and veil combination for $15 it certainly can be said that New York Store millinery is inexpensive.

Mark-Down Dress Section

—Beginning tomorrow, in a portion of the mezzanine floor, next to the elevators, there will be assembled all broken lines and broken sizes, samples and odds and ends taken from our regular stocks or anything that for any reason at all is desired cleared away.

—Any woman who has a desire to save can easily make both sides of her dollars count here.

—Tomorrow's mark-down bargains are worth looking into.

At a small informal party, with which Mrs. H. M. Daley of Walnut entertained recently, announcement of the engagement of her sister, Mrs. Alma V. Chapman, to M. M. Palmer of Pasadena was made known. A marriage of interest to their many friends in this city and the East was that of Miss Cecile Woods, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Woods of No. 625 North Garey avenue, Pomona, and Guy Renford Lewis of Kansas City, Mo. The ceremony, which was solemnized Tuesday at 7 o'clock in the presence of the immediate family and a few close friends, was lovely in its simplicity, all appointments being in yellow and white. Music for the occasion was furnished by Miss Ruth Short, selections before the ceremony being "At Dawning" and the march from "Lohengrin," while strains from "The Love Song" were played softly during the marriage service. The bridal couple were unattended, and, descending the open stairway, took their positions in the living-room beneath a beautiful wedding bell of white roses. Rev. J. Harvey Deere officiated, using the ring service. The bride presented a very lovely appearance in her wedding gown of Georgette crepe over white silk, with trimmings of white satin and beads, her bouquet being a shower of bride roses. For her going-away costume she chose a lovely French blue georgette crepe over apricot silk, with a long coat and French blue hat to match. The romance of the couple began during school days in the East, and was unknown to any by but intimate friends. Mr. Lewis is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Lewis of Kansas City, and arrived from that place last Friday to claim his bride. Miss Woods is well known in this city, and has many friends who admire her for her quiet, unassuming disposition. After a short automobile trip the couple will make their home in California.

ACTRESS TELLS SECRET

A Well Known Actress Tells How to Darken Gray Hair With a Simple Home Made Mixture.

Joicey Williams, the well known American actress, who was recently playing at the Imperial Theater in St. Louis, Mo., made the following statement about gray hair and how to darken it:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home, at very little cost, that will darken gray streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1-4 ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost, or any druggist can put it up for you. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look 20 years younger. This is not a dye, it does not color the most delicate scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

Diamonds

A good diamond has not only a permanent value, but a value which when judged by past experience steadily increases. The purchase of a diamond if made with discrimination, is an investment in the truest sense of the word—a definite, tangible saving.

We show only perfect diamonds of the finer blue qualities—gems which in years to come should steadily increase in value. We now feature in particular, numerous solitaires in fancy and unusual mountings, including exclusive productions from our own shops.

Patriotic decorations were used in the spacious rooms. From a portrait of the son, Vernon, now in service in the navy en route overseas, a large flag was drawn over the fireplace, and bouquets of gorgeous red roses and geraniums were used. Following the devotional and business hour, a talk on "Our Work in This War" was given by the teacher, Mr. J. T. Canady, games and music occupied the time and delicious summer refreshments were served.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all the stomach, liver, and bowel poisons before breakfast.

To feel your best day in day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

ELOQUENT SPEAKER WAS TONGUE-TIED.

WHEN CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW ATTENDED UNVEILING OF HIS OWN STATUE.

Citizens of this place saw Chauncey M. Depew stand tongue-tied in the presence of his own statue a few days ago, says a Peekskill correspondent of the New York Tribune. Modesty overcame him at the crowning moment of his eighty-four years. He just couldn't talk about himself.

The occasion was the unveiling of a heroic bronze statue of himself in Depew Park, presented by him to Peekskill, his birthplace. Senator Depew, the living orator, had promised to dwell personally and intimately upon the life, character and associations of the man Depew who was represented by the chiseled figure of metal. He said he would tell the whole story about himself and not spare the feelings of the village which gave him birth.

An upbound train brought many New Yorkers from financial, political and railroad circles.

Senator Depew returned to his boyhood home by limousine. He said he was born of rich but honest parents, who got the Depew estate from an ancestor, who got it from an Indian in 1685. It came down from the Huguenot du Puys, and is now a part of Depew Park.

The infant Chauncey grew up on the farm, and it was down the steep meadow path leading to the railroad station that he had his running jump into life. He already had a gold watch, a frock coat and a hearty appetite. All he needed for entire success were a few railroads, a seat in the United States Senate and a stack of banquet tickets. These came later.

Then, as a dramatic climax to a long career, he came back to his own place to present his perpetual likeness to the descendants of his old-time neighbors. The ex-Senator was expected to tell all this, but he didn't. He and the statue faced each other in equal silence.

The statue is an eight-foot full length bronze, supported on a pedestal of millstone granite quarried in the neighborhood. The figure stands with outstretched arm and forefinger, in an attitude of pronounced alertness, as of a man pointing a stranger the way or a toastmaster holding aloft a glass at a banquet.

Mr. Depew and the statue faced each other, the former Senator smiled knowingly. "Oh, what I know about you!" said that smile. Finally Mr. Depew found his voice and began to speak.

Peekskill was the subject of Mr. Depew's dedicatory address. Peekskill and the rest of the world—with not a word about himself.

The only personal note of the ceremony was sounded by Sanford R. Knapp, a boyhood friend of the Senator. "I remember well the first time I ever saw Chauncey," said Mr. Knapp. "I went with my mother to call at the big house on the hill, and there he was in his cradle. I looked him over and said to myself: 'That boy's certainly going to be a hummer.'"

Mr. Depew complimented Mr. Knapp both on his memory and his prescience. "On the day mentioned," he said, "Knapp wasn't more than one year old himself."

Waiting for the Climax.

Eddy, little Bobby's playmate, was asked by a motion-picture company to pose for them. Later, when the picture was produced, Bobby went to see "him." Eddy played a very thrilling role of escaping from the pantry with a glass of jam just before his "aunt" went in search of him.

Bobby sat through the show, eying his playmate a little jealously, and then every day that week found Bobby spending his nickels for a front seat.

The manager of the show, becoming curious, asked the reason, and Bobby replied: "Some day that woman's gonna ketch 'im, an' I wanna to see the fun."—[Film Fun.

The Magnetism of the Living Room

Fondness of home is one of the most commendable traits of human character. It should be encouraged by making and keeping the home attractive.

As the magnet, the heart of the home, it is especially important and essential that the living room be inviting.

And particularly now, the approach of longer evenings suggests fireside gatherings—the real enjoyment of home and friends. Surely, if a new davenport, a new easy chair, a new living room table, a new floor lamp or reading lamp or a new rug will contribute to the magnetism of the living room, its acquisition should not be delayed.

Whatever your requirements may be and however modest your price limitations, you will economize by taking advantage of the superior selections, the splendid values and the sincerely helpful service offered by the "California."

It is a generally accepted fact that the "California" shows the newest, most attractive, and most desirable home furnishings in Los Angeles and actual value comparisons will invariably favor the "California."

No matter whether she is heart and soul in war work with not a minute to call her own or whether she is "carrying on" in her accustomed niche, every woman is able to accomplish more if she knows she is well and smartly shod. Economy is the slogan for patriotic Americans this season, but that does not mean shabbiness. The conservation program of Government regulations demands economy, practicability and style and from time immemorial real artistry in clothing has meant graceful lines, not elaborate fussiness.

Let this world-wide struggle for liberty bring also to the American woman the rebirth of standards of simplicity in her clothing and in her surroundings.

WOMEN'S WORK AND WOMEN'S CLUBS.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

Innovations are the order of the day in clubland. At the opening of the Friday Morning Club, Friday, Madame President announced numerous innovations—and in the course of her address declared that she was sorry for people who could not change their minds and move with the times, since they would become either discontented or useless.

One must certainly have a facile and flexible mind to keep abreast of the times, but this makes it rather exhilarating than otherwise. Really the precious old times were not so perfect that any one need break one's heart about preserving them.

At tomorrow's meeting of the Ebell Club, for instance, Mrs. Mathew Robertson, the president, will ask the club to change many of its rules and traditions. For one thing, the question of rejoining the State Federation will be debated, and for another, the club is to be asked to forego its barriers of exclusiveness, and instead of limiting membership to 1550, as heretofore, to open wide its doors to all comers of good standing.

Woman's City Club.

Tomorrow the Woman's City Club will hear the various candidates for the State Senate present their qualifications for the office, and candidates for the State Superintendency of Education will also be present. Before the meeting Mrs. J. A. Osgood, Parliamentarian, will conduct a course in Parliamentary law, beginning at 10:30 a.m. Luncheon will be served in the Hamburger Cafe at noon, and the programme will begin at 1 p.m.

Hollywood Woman's Club.

The Woman's Club of Hollywood held its first meeting of the year Wednesday, Miss Jessica Laurence, the new president, presiding. Miss Laurence reduced her persidential address to a few happy words of welcome, and a reminder of the valuable opportunities for service which awaits the club. Two government speakers were heard on the Liberty Loan campaign, and Mrs. Jacob Stern, the club's Liberty Loan chairman, was able to report concrete results. Miss Charlotte Wadsworth has presented the club a fine new flag.

Caliste Conant Hudson gave a programme of character song stories which proved very popular. The music section will meet on Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday is California authors' day, beginning with a luncheon at noon. Mrs. Mary Austin will give the afternoon programme.

Legislative Council.

The Woman's Legislative Council will hold its semi-annual meeting Friday and Saturday at the Westminster Hotel, beginning at 10 a.m. The president, Mrs. A. E. Carter, of Oakland, will preside, and many delegates are expected to attend. The three legislative measures of the council will be drafted in concrete form and submitted for the approval of the conference. The executive board will meet Thursday at 10 a.m.

Travel Club.

The Los Angeles Travel Club will resume its regular weekly meetings tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in Brackett Hall, Brack Shops, with "president's day," at which time Mrs. Harold Gilman will give her message for the coming year, and members will respond to roll call with accounts of their summer travels.

Signor G. Piuma will deliver the introduction to the year's study of Italy in an address upon "Uncle Sam's Italian Sons." Miss Dorothy Kirkland will render several selections from Italian composers upon her 'cello, accompanied at the piano by Miss Helen Chute.

Suffrage Anniversary.

The Million Club will be responsible for the celebration of the seventh anniversary of woman's suffrage in California. The affair will be held Wednesday at 4 p.m., at the Alexandria, when a big birthday cake will be a piece de resistance. Mrs. E. R. Brainerd is to be special guest of honor in recognition of her State chairmanship of the Woman's Liberty Loan Committee, and Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz, the club's president, will be in the chair. Gov. Stephens will make an address, and Mrs. Martha Nelson McCan, who was a recent guest of Maude Allan, the dancer, in London, Eng., will also be heard, in her capacity of government speaker. Other speakers will be Miss Mary Foy, Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher, R. W. Pritchard and Dr. Jessie Russell.

TECHNICAL MEN ATTEND THROOP

Preparing to Help Uncle Sam in Expert Service.

Regularly Enrolled Soldiers on Detached Duty.

Barracks, Mess Hall, Drills Flavors Military.

Approximately 300 student soldiers, potential army engineers and technical experts for Uncle Sam in various capacities, are at their studies at Throop College of Technology, Pasadena, at the end of the first week of the fall term.

The school opened at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning with the significant inaugural of the Student Army Training Corps, the War Department's official branch of the military establishment for the younger men, and of which Throop is one of the duly-accredited colleges.

Ordinarily the enrollment at Throop is in the neighborhood of 190 to 200, but this year, as a Student Army Training Corps college, and, therefore, an adjunct of the army, the enrollment is 300. All the students above 18 years of age and otherwise qualified are regularly enrolled as soldiers of Uncle Sam on the detached duty of continuing their education until called to active service, and their board and room is paid by the government.

BARRACKS COST $27,000.

Barracks and mess hall, costing $27,000, have been erected on the Throop campus, or are in the process of erection by the government. The new mess hall was finished in time for meals on the opening day, and yesterday the contractor building the barracks informed President J. A. B. Scherer that these buildings would be ready for occupancy a week earlier than anticipated. The barracks will be occupied a week from Monday. Meantime the regular college dormitory and a large tent are serving as temporary quarters for a large number of the students.

Uniforms for all the students have not yet arrived, but are expected in a few days. They are issued to the student soldiers by the government just as to the army men in active service. With its barracks, mess hall, its drill and all that, Throop has a distinct military flavor this year, yet it is not altogether new to Throop. There has previously been military drill there. Throop was an Officers' Training Corps college.

LEEDS IN COMMAND.

The military commandant at Throop is Capt. Charles T. Leeds, U.S. Army Engineers, and his aides are Lieut. Carrol D. Billmyer, Lieut. Sumner N. Mering and Lieut. Roy D. Johnson. These officers have begun their military instruction of the Throop battalion, and the boys are all hard at work at their technical studies, all of which have a place in the fitting of the student soldiers for army engineers and technicians.

In the course of an address Tuesday on the campus, following the oath of allegiance to the flag, the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," the prayer by Rev. Leslie E. Learned, rector of All Saints' Church, and the reading of President Wilson's message to the student soldiers, Dr. Scherer, president of Throop, said to and of these enlisted college men:

"Soldiers of the United States Army, students of Throop College of Technology: This is the brightest day the world has seen for more than four years. Our boys over there have proved worthy of their sires and their grandsires. They have got the Hun on the run. They are fighting as though the war were to be over by Christmas. We here must prepare as though it were to last twenty years. They are 1,500,000 strong over there; today, over here, 150,000 new men are standing as you are standing at this moment on the campuses of American colleges and universities pledging allegiance to America and undertaking, particularly in the technical schools, to provide Uncle Sam's army precisely those trained officers of which he tells us the army is most in need. It is a great day for America. It is a great day for you."

IN THE STUDIOS ON THE RIALTO.

tinge was about to accommodate him just to keep in trim, when Fred Balshofer, Eltinge's director, made his appearance.

"Aw, boys, call it off!" he said. And they called it off.

Then the youth took another look at Eltinge, and became the most sheepish-looking swain in the world.

COULDN'T FIND THE PLACE TO PAY FINE.

For having a movable spotlight on her automobile, Gladys Brockwell, Fox star, was arrested last Saturday night while on her way to Hollywood from Balboa, where she had been making scenes in her new photoplay, "Quicksands." So on Monday, with the summons of arrest, she returned to the little burg. The first official looking place she saw in the town was the firehouse. So she glided into the firehouse in a blaze of glory, which was somewhat extinguished by the firemen on duty telling her to go to the City Hall to pay her fine. When she arrived at the City Hall, the only persons to be seen were a woman and a baby.

"Where is the judge?" asked Gladys of the woman. "I was arrested for having a movable spotlight on my automobile."

"The judge?" said the woman. "Why, he's marching with the Home Guards in the Liberty Loan parade."

"Well, where is the city marshal?"

"Oh, he's a member of the Home Guards, too, and he's in the parade."

"Well, where is the policeman who handed me the summons?"

"Marching with the Home Guards," said the woman.

"Well, how can I pay my fine?" asked Gladys.

"You might leave it with me," answered the accommodating soul, and Gladys gave her $5 and her card. And she hopes the judge will be satisfied with it and not send the United States Marshal after her.

EDDIE RICKENBACKER BROKE EARDRUMS.

Now comes word that Eddie Rickenbacker, famous Los Angeles boy, who recently became a flying ace in France, has been in a Paris hospital suffering from broken eardrums. Priscilla Dean, Bluebird star, got a letter to this effect only the other day.

"Hello, my California Sunshine!" says the letter. "Your letter and photographs received. Gee, I'd give some years of my life for just one week in dear California—but no, I must stay to the finish, for there's lots to be done.

"Have been in a Paris hospital with broken eardrums, which have given me some trouble. Will probably be in for a few weeks more. Gee, I wish you were here to nurse me a week bit!

"Hello to mother and all the boys and girls. Write when convenient.

"As ever,

[Signed] "RICK OF OLD."

The envelope containing the information of the disabling of America's high-powered birdman bore the stamp of the United States Military Postal Express Service in one corner and an inscription in the opposite reading, "Officers' Mail. O.K., E. Rickenbacker, First Lieutenant," showing that the intrepid airman censors his own mail.

STAGE WOMEN NEED WORKERS TO KNIT.

The Stage Women's War Relief, which has been doing magnificent work in this city, now sends out word that while the institution is in excellent shape financially, with an income of $250 a month clear of expenses, that it has need of workers in the workrooms at present, and sends out a plea that actresses connected with the motion pictures and with the local stage devote as much of their time as they can to this work.

The newly-opened tea room at Grauman's Theater promises, thanks to the generosity of Mr. Sid Grauman and the stage women, to be a huge success.

The canteen to be given by the relief today at the Mason will have as its hostess, Miss Daisy Robinson, with Misses Rita Huston, Violet Phillips, Mary English, Roxana McGowan and Grace Mossman, and Mmes. Wilfred Lucas and Ralph Lewis assisting her. Guests of honor will be Madlaine Traverse, Thomas Jefferson, Colleen Moore, Vivian Martin, Vola Vale, Jane Novak, Harry McCoy, Elmo Lincoln, Lila Lee and Miss Ingliss. Through the courtesy of Col. Bray one full act from the Orpheum will be presented.

Christie Still with Us.

Contrary to announcements in certain eastern publications that Charles H. Christie, manager of the Christie comedy plant, is en route East, this busy film man continues to have all he can do in Los Angeles right now in the interest of the Fourth Liberty Loan and with his seldom leisure moments given over to the affairs of the Christie plant.

YANKS IN FRANCE THRIFTY.

Three million dollars, saved by American soldiers in the war zone of France, have been transmitted free of charge to relatives, friends or creditors in America within the last six months. Almost half was sent in July and the first week of August, when the ever increasing force of Yankee soldiers began to understand fully that the transmitting of their money from the extreme front to their homes, free of all charge, was the latest friendly service offered by the Y.M.C.A. National War Work Council.

The system, which the Y.M.C.A. inaugurated as only one of its phases of service to the soldier, is simplicity itself. A soldier in the war zone wishing to send money to someone in America, hands the cash to a Y.M.C.A. secretary with the address and leaves the rest to the Red Triangle.

Although the bulk of the remittances are sent with no comment, a few are accompanied by explanations, one man writing that his remittance was to pay his tailor, while another sent his insurance premium. One soldier sent 75 cents for a box of candy for his sweetheart.—[New York World.

For Liberty

Our Liberty Bonds measure our love of country. And, Breathes there a man with soul so dead, who never to himself hath said, this is my own, my Native Land."

The Liberty Loan is more than loaning money to the safest borrower on earth.

It is more than raising funds to finance a mighty army to Victory.

It is the awakened spirit of Free People, rising in power, to prevent the forces of evil from threatening ever again the dominion of Peace on Earth.

But to buy Liberty Bonds, until we reach the high happiness of a clear conscience, requires more than imagination and desire.

Achievement is reached only by action. We deserve according as we do, and for men and women who decide and act, the world reserves its richest rewards. The Liberty Loan can call—can put its unseen hand upon your shoulder, and with voice in your ear whisper "COME." But you—yourself—must sign the card for your bonds.

Up then! Decide! For shame if you wait to be solicited. Go! Go in the morning to some bank—any bank. Speak up—like the Free American that you are—and say: "I want my Liberty Bonds."

NESTOR GONE.

A Look at the Life of Frank L. Dingley, Dean of All the Busy Editors.

America lost one of its great phi- phers and philanthropists when nk L. Dingley, editor of the Lew- (Me.) Journal, passed on, a days ago. He was the dean the active editorial fraternity of United States, having been ing editor of the Lewiston nal for the astonishing period of -seven years, a contemporary of Bryant, Dana, Watterson, and Otis, his career begin- with the Civil War. And to very last days his work was as of Dingleyesque virility and as when he was at the noon- of his life.

Frank Dingley was certainly one God's prodigies—gifted with a religious capacity for work, a religious vision, a prodigious skill his tools. He always lived and eight years ahead of the Time; on taking another advanced post thought he had the pleasure of the belated Time occupying ground from which he had just moved forward. Unafraid of his logic, he drove on and on and reached every Hindenburg line of economics and theological conventionalism, as he came to it. His life work, as he so often ex- it, was to battle for justice and cause; to protect the masses against the classes; to tear the husks religious dogma and get at the kernel; to vitalize religious teaching and to knead it into economics, and to make the church a safe place to walk in.

He loved his kind and his kind loved him. His brotherliness was his great outstanding characteristic —to serve, his foremost ambition. The men and women he has helped, legion. His funeral was a won- derful demonstration of popular af- fection. He not only preached the way, the truth and the life—he lived it. That was the shining beauty of the career of this brilliant journalist, this chosen seer and prophet, this never-quitting doer of things, this distinguished preacher of rational righteousness, author, eloquent speaker and successful business man, who daily and faltered not until -eight years had crowned his of happy achievement.

Here was a human being, such a delightfully human being, that could walk with the noble immortals and hold high converse with the mighty —and they could share the joy intimacy and profit by it.

One of the rarest lights of the world has gone out in the passing of this inimitable spirit. He was born in New England as the of his day. He had all Emerson's justice and sanity, coupled with a titanic, bold, epi- grammatic originality that re- called Thomas Carlyle. The writer of these lines doubts if any of the great writers with whom he has been compared—if any of these had the fecundity which crammed Frank Dingley's works with apothegms and esprit. He was not only a fount of gladness; he was a bubbling fountain of deep-welling cleverness, a writer and talker at once more spontaneous and more polished than his journalistic compeers.

His native State is another Maine which was when Dingley was born in it, for Frank made her cattle classics and fanned the legends her country villages into world- famed romances, weaving the charm his wit and fancy through the of her rustic life. He found sermons in stones, tongues in trees, laugh in a lobster trap, a good story in an old plug hat, an edi- torial in a fishing smack, books in running brooks, posey in a pump- vine—and a paragraph in every- thing. He was one of the first American journalists to discern the commercial value of the lowly little local item.

On his last visit to Los Angeles, a man, thinking to put a poser him, asked: "Mr. Dingley, why the whale throw up Jonah?" quick as a flash, he replied: "Sorry, the whale threw up Jonah because Jonah was like you, a hope- reactionary, and the whale found him spiritually indigestible."

The Times, in its appreciation of this great and loveable soul, thinks it well worth while to quote from the biographical sketch of Mr. Ding- ley written for the Lewiston Journal by Mr. Arthur G. Staples, who suc- ceeds him as the principle editor of that widely-known newspaper. Mr. Staples has few peers as a felicitous writer, on the press of today.

In the course of his sincere and splendid eulogium Mr. Staples said:

"Mr. Dingley had peculiar and orig- inal notions in newspaper manage- ment and writing. He cared much for lively and picturesque writing and for stories that had a unique flavor. In this he was like Dana of the New York Sun. He, himself, wrote with great amplification and with epigrams, and he favored it among his young men, thus making it the custom of the paper. Mr. Dingley was early under the influ- ence of Thoreau as a stylist and fol- lowed it for a time; but he had his own style—unlike that of any other writer for the daily press, for how- ever he wrote, he could not keep his wit in bonds. Even in religious matters this was apparent. In his Sunday Night Talks there came to be less and less of the Bible and more and more of practical life as he grew older. He began life as a religionist. His devotion to the church was of public knowl- edge and comment. But as his faith and his belief in an infinite being and loving God grew stronger and stronger, chastened by sorrow and burdened by years, he de- veloped a religion of daily practice and a zeal for righteousness that was shown more in deeds and less in words. Thus he became a most liberal Christian student of the times. To this end he studied all religious problems, read all heresies, studied the pragmatism of James, the cold materialism of Nietsche and the agnosticism of Haeckel, and came out of them with renewed faith and confidence in God and a Heaven above. He studied the Scrip- tures unceasingly. His observations on them—especially on the Old Tes- tament, were a privilege to hear. He knew Abraham, Isaac, Moses and all the prophets and patriarchs, as men of today, and he char- acterized them with such subtle an- alysis, such ripe learning, such keen insight that the writer has, again and again, after an hour or so of absorbing interest in his talks, be- sought him to write of these Old Testament types as he had talked— sketches of them as men, as we and blessed or cursed with heavenly virtues and frailties.

PRICE-CONTROL PLAN ADOPTED.

No Food Profiteering to be Allowed by Government.

Maximum Charges are Fixed for Retail Grocers.

Closer Co-operation Between Dealers Suggested.

Stringent measures are being taken by the Food Administration to prevent food profiteering, price boosting and food hoarding. Maximum percentages of retail grocers' profit have been established by the United States Food Administration at Washington, and, in accordance with the ruling, it is announced that any dealer who sells on a higher basis than such percentages is violating the rules and liable to prosecution.

In all cases the retailer is required to base his cost on his actual invoice purchase price without regard to the market value of the goods at the time. The percentages are maximums, not minimums, it is announced. A dealer may sell his goods as cheaply as he desires, but he can by no means exceed the maximum price.

The retailer is permitted to add no charges whatever to the invoice cost of the merchandise plus freight or cartage to his store. He will be required to post a daily bulletin of fair food prices in a conspicuous place, to substitute the daily item in the newspapers. Every dealer is required to post his cost and selling prices on two varieties of fresh vegetables, and the same on fruit. The Food Administration permits him to choose his own fruit and vegetables and to change the variety or grade each day if desired. Also, he can make the change any time during the day if the supply runs out, although not otherwise.

OUTLINE OF THE PLAN.

The following, the policy of the new price control plan, has been outlined by Ralph P. Merritt, Federal Food Commissioner for California:

"The price of foodstuffs to the public is a matter of common interest to the distributor, the government and the consumer. The great majority of distributors have been loyally co-operating with the government, and have been selling the staple food products within the margins of profits authorized by the Food Administration, but the dealer in foodstuffs who exacts an unreasonable profit brings disgrace to himself and to others engaged in similar business, and breaks down the efficiency of the government's work in winning the war.

"The consumer, however, must be brought to a realization of the following facts:

"First, that the Food Administration is not a price-fixing organization, but has the authority to regulate reasonable margins of profits.

"Second, the price of food generally will justly increase in proportion to increasing cost of production and increased cost for producer and consumer, because of war conditions.

"Third, that there are certain legitimate costs of retailing upon which the consumer must be educated.

THE PRICE PLACARDS.

"It is for the purpose of carrying out this policy that the Food Administration has adopted the plan of having each retailer of groceries, fruits and vegetables, post in his own store a placard in accordance with the plan herein announced. However, for the first few days it will be necessary for the retailer to make a special point of discussing some of these problems with his own trade. All dealers who have heretofore been patriotically assisting the government will be glad of this opportunity of closer co-operation, and of proving to the public the character and cost of services which he is rendering.

"The complaint of the public is largely directed to the cost of perishables, namely, fruits and vegetables, and in many cases the complaint is justified. Fruits and vegetables are not licensed and are the non-perishables, but at the same time they are governed by the reasonable profit rule, and each retailer must be in a position of defending his own sales when requested to do so by the Food Administration or consumer. This new plan casts no reflections on the integrity of the retail trade as a whole."

TOP PERCENTAGES.

A list of the maximum percentages is as follows:

Wheat flour	$1.20 bbl. or 1c lb. in less than mill pkgs.
Rye flour	Same as wheat flour
Corn flour	16 to 20 per cent.
Cornmeal	16 to 20 per cent.
Corn grits and hominy	16 to 20 per cent.
Oatmeal and rolled oats	20 to 25 per cent.
Barley flour	16 to 20 per cent.
Rice flour	16 to 20 per cent.
Edible starch	20 to 25 per cent.
Rice, Blue Rose grade	20 to 25 per cent.
Granulated sugar	1c lb.
Beans, dried	20 to 25 per cent.
Lard, bulk	3c to 5c lb.
Lard substitutes	16 to 20 per cent.
Evaporated milk	16 to 20 per cent.
Canned corn, standard	25 to 30 per cent.
Canned tomatoes	20 to 30 per cent.
Canned peas	25 to 30 per cent.
Canned dried beans	25 to 30 per cent.
Dried fruits—raisins	25 to 30 per cent.
Corn syrup, cans	20 to 25 per cent.
Eggs	6c to 7½c per doz.
Butter	5c to 6c per lb.

To arrive at retailer's selling prices, when any of the percentages as above are desired, use the following method: Subtract from the unit 100, the percentage to be used; thus, if 25 per cent. is desired, subtract twenty-five from 100, leaving seventy-five. Using seventy-five as a divisor, divide the cost, which we shall assume to be $1.50 per dozen, by seventy-five, carrying the same into two decimals will show $2.00, which will be your selling price. You will notice that the difference between the cost of $1.50 per dozen and $2.00, thus obtained, is 50 cents, or 25 per cent. on the selling price.

Tin plate in the shape of continuous rolls, like tar paper, instead of in the shape of flat sheets, as at present, is now possible. A power-driven soldering press has recently been designed for joining and soldering the sheets into a continuous strip for roofing purposes. One man can operate the machine, hooking the sections of tin plate together and operating the solder and flux on the seam. The capacity is four seams a minute or twenty boxes of tin plate a day. It is claimed that by use of this machine a better and more durable seam can be made than by hand, and one that will be solid and uniform on both sides, the solder penetrating and welding all parts of the seam. The economy and convenience to the roofer from the tin plate roll thus produced need not be pointed out. The process of roofing with tin becomes identical with that of roofing with tar paper rolls.

MINISTERS TO MEN IN KHAKI.

Y.M.C.A. has Secretaries on All Troop Trains.

Explain to Recruits Life in Military Camps.

Singing Helps to Ward Off Homesickness.

More than 50,000 enlisted men were ministered to on east-bound troop trains by Y.M.C.A. secretaries during the past month, according to reports made to the State Executive Committee of the California Y.M.C.A. The largest movement of trains in the history of the State—fifty-eight trains, which recently left Camp Kearny for an Atlantic port—was accompanied by fifty-eight Y.M.C.A. secretaries. A similar service, it is announced, is already being maintained on all the troop trains carrying newly-drafted men to Camp Kearny and to Camp Lewis.

The Y.M.C.A., it is stated, will endeavor to have a secretary on each train that carries the new selectives from California cities to Pacific Coast training camps. These men will be in uniform, and will not only conduct a regular programme of activities while en route, but will explain to recruits something of the life they are to lead in a military camp. The troop train work has become so important that a special department has been organized, with Eaton T. Sams, special secretary of the State Y.M.C.A., in charge.

STOP TO SWIM.

Eight trains a day left Camp Kearny for seven days running. Each train was equipped by the Y.M.C.A. with a phonograph and records, writing paper, envelopes, magazines, books, games and other conveniences required by the men en route. The train stopped at stations where the men marched to the local Y.M.C.A. and used the plunge. Entertainments were arranged by the Y.M.C.A. secretaries aboard the trains, and in every possible way the men were cheered and their needs were looked after.

W. H. Wallace, assistant State secretary, who recently accompanied a trainload of California recruits to Camp Lewis, stated in his report to the State Y.M.C.A. that the secretaries were able to render invaluable service to recruits.

So that it might give drafted men an intelligent idea of what awaits them in camp, the War Work Council of the California Y.M.C.A. has issued a folder in patriotic colors which it distributes free to all men on troop trains. The entire service of the organization is placed at the disposal of the enlisted men, and a cordial welcome to camp is extended.

DRIVE OUT HOMESICKNESS.

Not the least service which the Y.M.C.A. troop train secretaries perform is that of driving away homesickness. It is stated that singing has become a part of practically every Y.M.C.A. secretary's equipment for his work. One of the principal objectives of this troop train programme is to keep the boys from slumping into homesickness immediately upon breaking home ties.

With someone on board who is capable of leading in songs that cheer and inspire an entirely new atmosphere is created throughout the train. A singer and a party of assistants frequently march from coach to coach singing "Over There," "Yankee Doodle," "Joan of Arc" or "America" and other songs. Sometimes the boys line up outside of their coaches at a station and sing their songs. Frequently the secretary has them put on an athletic game of some sort during the ten or fifteen minutes at a station.

In this way thousands of the boys are entertained during a period of two or three days required in going from home to the camp, or from camp to port. The Y.M.C.A. has hundreds of secretaries engaged in camp work, practically all of whom are available for this type of work. During the coming weeks plans are being made to extend and intensify the troop train programme, the aim being to provide each train with a secretary properly equipped to promote various activities.

EDUCATIONAL.

Yale began its 219th year with an enrollment close to 2500, of whom only about 300 are in the university's non-military group. The other 2200 are registered in one of the many branches of the national service, and before the year is over their number will probably be increased to 6000. Yale's military work this year takes various forms. There is at the university the only college artillery unit in the country, the college is the army laboratory center and its naval unit is the largest so far established. All departments of the university are on a military basis.

Enabled to graduate some eight months earlier than they expected when they entered the institute, 155 members of the class of 1919 at Massachusetts Institute of Technology are being forwarded their diplomas. This shortening of their course has been made possible by continuous work winter and summer.

The women's college in Brown University opens with an enrollment of 226 students. Of these sixty-seven are freshmen. In addition two students are expected from France, sent over by the French government in conjunction with the American Council on Education to complete their education in this country.

Although Brown University has become essentially a war college, the old liberal arts course at the women's college will remain unchanged except for the addition of courses in war and reconstruction work.

The women's college will adopt the three-term schedule arranged for the university. The first term will close December 21 and the year will end on June 21.

Under conditions unique in its history, the University of California opened September 30, virtually an institution for education in the ways of war. Newspaper extras announcing the virtual surrender of Bulgaria were received just as the ceremony was begun, and there was a demonstration.

President Benjamin Ide Wheeler devoted his address of welcome to the discussion of the motives of this country in entering the war and in emphasizing the great part those who heard him will be called upon to assume in world affairs.

More than 8000 students and men in uniform will use the campus during the coming semester, according to President Wheeler's announcement.

History in a new form, to be pursued in a study of the nations with a view to the establishment of mutual understanding and good will among them, is advocated by Clarence D. Kingsley, agent of the Massachusetts Board of Education, to take the place of the subject as now presented in most schools.

In order to save fuel there will be no heat in any of the Smith College buildings during the month of October. The college opens with what will probably be the largest freshman class in its history.

Columbia University, at the request of the War Department, is starting an emergency course in engineering for students entering from high schools who have had the usual entrance requirements for engineering schools. This emergency course, embracing civil, electrical, mechanical, metallurgical and chemical engineering, will extend over two years of four quarters each.

Reveille at 6 a.m., first classes at 7:15 o'clock and a ten-hour programme of daily work were part of the new changes announced by President Faunce of Brown University in the chapel exercises which marked the opening of the university on a war basis.

The annual founders' day exercises at Wheaton College are to be held on the afternoon of Saturday, October 19. The address will be given by President William Allan Neilson of Smith College.

Every pair of the new plyers is subjected to a 10,000-volt insulation test.

Why Are They Then Baptized for the Dea

Elijah the Profit Has Ministere the American Continent.

By Dr. James E. Talmage

Of the Council of the Twelve, Church of Jesus C Latter-day Saints; Salt Lake City, Utah.

In one of his letters to the Corinthians Paul, the Apostle, discusses the resurrection of the dead, which was a subject of contention at the time of his writing. Having shown that through the Atonement of Jesus Christ all mankind shall be eventually redeemed from bodily death, the scholarly Apostle asks: "Else what shall they do which are baptized for the dead, if the dead rise not at all? Why are they then baptized for the dead?" (1 Cor. 15: 29.) As the question is put by way of finality and climax to the preceding argument and is without explanatory comment, we must conclude that the subject involved no new or strange doctrine; but to the contrary that the people both understood and practiced the ordinance of vicarious baptism by the living in behalf of the dead.

To Nicodemus our Lord declared in such plainness as to preclude dispute: "Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the Kingdom of God." (John 3:5.) That this new birth comprises water baptism by immersion, as was at that time being administered by John the Baptist, and the higher baptism of the Spirit, which Christ Himself came to give, is evident from the scriptural context. Note the incisiveness of our Lord's affirmation that without baptism man cannot enter the Kingdom of God. No distinction is made, no exceptions are implied. The indispensable condition is applicable to all men whether living or dead.

Nicodemus, though a scholar and a master in Israel, failed to understand the full import of our Lord's words, and in seeming bewilderment asked: "How can a man be born when he is old? Can he enter the second time into his mother's womb, and be born?" (Verse 4.)

With at least equal pertinency it may now be asked: How can a man who has died without baptism be baptized? Can he enter the second time into his body of flesh and be immersed in water? The answer is that the living may be baptized for the dead. No one who accepts as a Atonement of Jesus Christ all humankind can cons the efficacy of vicarious which one person officiat of another, provided, of the labor be done by div ment.

In the last chapter of the ment the prophet Malachi condition of the last days precedent to the second Christ: "For, behold, the that shall burn as an oven proud, yet, and all that shall be stubble; and the cometh shall burn them Lord of hosts, that it shall neither root nor branch." 4:1.) NOVELTIES, IDEAS AND PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

By Olive Gray.

Up-to-datest:

The tam, with crown in pointed shape, a la Chinese mandarin effect. This crown may be of plain velvet to match the brim, or it may be composed of jets or rich embroidery.

The many-tailed shoulder cape of dark brown fur, or the coatee of fur in gray, or brown, which gives the final cachet to the season's costume.

To give to your living-room the last touch of winter cosiness by means of well-shaded lamps. The color scheme in lighting has more to do with hominess than has any single feature in the house.

War-like toys which not only give practice in skilled aiming, but which arouse inventive genius in the child while he is at play.

Now is the time to buy:

Fourth Liberty Bonds.

The smart velvet hat for all-season use.
The capacious hand-bag for Christmas carrying-home.

DO YOUR CHRISTMAS SHOPPING NOW!

The Shoe's Sole Aim.

It would almost seem as though the sole aim of shoes just now is to be practical. Heels are becoming so accommodatingly large and able, there is no extreme in height of boots, and few freaks are seen in color combinations. As to cost—well, the government promises to take a hand at that. The new colorings, the dark browns and tans and grays are lovely and go well with the autumnal tints in clothes. Black, for sometime quite out of it, has again returned to favor. In fact, shoes have apparently decided to become conservative and less a loudly dominating note in dress, than for several seasons past.

EARLY CHRISTMAS BUYING IS OUR GOVERNMENT'S REQUEST.

A Poor Policy.

As it is poor policy to allow one's wardrobe to run down at the heel—and every thoughtful woman knows this to be true—so it is equally false economy to permit one's home to become shabby or neglected-looking. In the end, there is more waste than when everything is kept up by the purchase of a little at a time. Not only is this true, but when neglected, home is robbed of its best meaning, and the values are lost, which should be an inspiration to all members of the family in going about their work. The trite old saying: "There's no place like home," may have an inverted meaning, if home becomes a place of chaos and unrest, the reverse of what it should be. The watchful eye which supplies rejuvenation, ere its need is perceptible to the casual glance, is that which provides the clear refreshing stream to the home life, as the running springs renew the life of mountain brooks and rivers. Home should be a source of rest and renewal, not only physically, but to the heart and soul; and it can be so only when all wear and tear—all friction and all unloveliness are held strictly in abeyance. The home which can maintain this standard, is a sure haven of rest and inspiration, not only to the family living there, but to those allowed to visit it. And such inspiration is more than ever needed, now.

MAKE CAREFUL, PRACTICAL LISTS FOR CHRISTMAS.

Hallowenery.

The spookish holiday is due this month, and it will, doubtless, arrive as promptly as ever. Young folk must have their fun, whatsoever the times; for let us not cease to remember that youth comes to each but once. The novelties are as clever as ever, for the celebration of Haloween, and the same rule applies which applies to Christmas gifting That of buying early, for stocks are limited, and "first come first served" means that the last may miss the very things they want.

LIMIT YOUR EXCHANGES BY THOUGHTFULNESS IN BUYING.

Looking Light.

It is declared that, clad in a certain make of corset, even though you may have more "phat" than you really wish to have, you not only feel smaller, but that you "look light." One of the pseudonyms applied to this corset is "Sveltline." If that does not tempt the overplus of figure to figure herself into a corset of this make, I can't think what would do so.

CARRY HOME YOUR CHRISTMAS PACKAGES FROM THE SHOP.

A Conservation Measure.

We cannot carry knapsacks, or ammunition, guns, or canteens with the soldiery, but we may do our part for our government by carrying, too. We have been asked to carry home packages from the stores and shops. This is demanded as a conservation measure, since the government has decreed that no extra help be taken on by retail establishments, to assist in Christmas trade, and that no hours be added to the day's length at these stores. Thus porting should be our portion. Along with early shopping, with the limitation of exchanges and with the rule for practical purchases for Christmas, we should willingly adopt this measure.

SEND ALL PACKAGES BEFORE NOVEMBER THIRTIETH.

Novel Under-Beauty.

Silk underthings of beige are the latest novelty. Displayed first, by that big store out Seventh street, where the latest and most exclusive clothes novelties are likely to appear, these new bits of lingerie loveliness, a genuine Parisian fad, are embellished with fine laces, flowers and ribbons in orchid tints and are so alluring as to threaten a revolution in fine underthings.

First on Fashion's Lists.

Shoes are more than ever pointed.
Skirts are somewhat longer.
Smocks are no longer of the simple peasant type.

Heavy Japanese crepe can be used for the heavier smocks.

The knitted ribbon sweaters are usually black or dull blues.

Some of the most charming capes have deeply fringed collars.

Fine tatting finds its appropriate place in a baby's best dress.

If one wears feathers upon one's hat they should be uncurled, or in some odd fancy.

The latest French blouses have little apron effects in front.

For the sports suit one does well to choose blue Hawaiian cloth.

Autumn chooses as one of its new skirts decided bell-like lines.

The large hats now worn have wide brims and big, low crowns, or very high ones.

Dark blue denim makes a durable and comfortable camping costume.

A delightful hat, poke shaped, is made entirely of interlaced ribbon.

Slip-ons made of jersey cloth are taking the place of many a sweater.

Cravenette tan duck is a most suitable material for a fall sports coat.

A delightful suit is made of gray checked wool material, has a shawl collar of seal and the coat has a narrow hem of same.

A rich Chinese coat or slip-on of blue and black embroidery may very appropriately be worn over a slip of black Georgette crepe.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a Glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers You.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

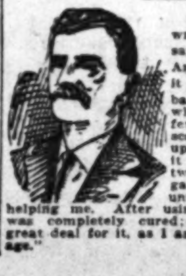
Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

Killed By Poisons

All scientists agree that poisonous products in the blood are eliminated by the kidneys and liver. The kidneys act as a kind of filter for these products. When the kidneys are changed or degenerated, by disease or old age, then these poisons are retained in the body. If we wish to prevent old age coming on too soon, or if we want to increase our chances for a long life, Dr. Pierce of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., says that you should drink plenty of water daily between meals to flush the kidneys. Then procure at your nearest drug store Anuric. This Anuric drives the uric acid out. Scientific men have learned that in gout, also rheumatism, poisonous uric acid crystals are deposited in or about the joints, in the muscles—where inflammation is set up.

If we wish to keep our kidneys in the best condition a diet of milk and vegetables, with only little meat once a day, is the most suitable. Drink plenty of pure water, take Anuric three times a day for a month. An-u-ric is many times more potent than lithia and dissolves uric acid as hot water does sugar.

You can obtain a trial package of Anuric by writing Doctor V. M. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., enclosing 10 cents.



Marion J. Leister writes: "I want to say in reference to Anuric that I think it is wonderful. My back was so bad when I stooped a few minutes I could scarcely straighten up. I don't think it was more than two days after I began taking Anuric until I saw it was helping me. After using one package I was completely cured; that's saying a great deal for it, as I am over 60 years of age."

"It's Easy To Make Your Wrinkles Vanish"

By Making the Pores Smaller, the Texture of the Skin is Remarkably Refined and Wrinkles Vanish Quickly.

By Valeska Suratt.

IT WILL come as a startling revelation to every woman how remarkably easy it is now to remove wrinkles by the very simple commonsense process of making the pores smaller. Wrinkly skins are nearly always coarse in texture. The cell-tissue is debilitated and sags. The skin loses its vigor and the pores are enlarged. Now, by causing the pores to become smaller, the texture of the skin is quickly refined. The cell tissue becomes invigorated, the pores "come together," the skin "braces up," and the result is quickly seen in the disappearance of wrinkles impossible to remove by any other method known. This result is easily brought about by using eptol, which can be secured at any drug store in two ounce packages. There is enough in each package to last a long while, even by using it generously. It is exceedingly economical and produces results that can be quickly seen, in fact this method has proved to be a sensation wherever tried. The eptol also rejuvenates the skin and makes it plump and vigorous. It will make you look years younger.

GLORIOUS.—A hair-root developer of extraordinary strength which forces hair to grow in great profusion is found in the use of beta-quinol. This compound is absolutely safe and far surpasses the results of any other hair treatment you can use. It is an intense hair-root nourisher, and as a result compels the growth of hair as long as there is any root left at all. You can now have a real hair grower at less cost than you pay for the usual hair treatments that often fail to produce the results desired. From any drug store you can obtain a one-ounce package of beta-quinol, an oilless liquid. This is mixed with a half pint of bay rum and a half pint of water. By liberal use of this you should very quickly see a tremendous difference. Hair will stop falling, and bald spots will fill in. The hair will become long and vigorous. Try it.

TROUBLED.—You can "wipe off" superfluous hairs now with your finger, and you can have done forever with the old drudgery and irritation of skin due to present methods of removing hair. A few drops of a wonderful liquid makes every hair seem to melt away into nothingness and leaves the skin gloriously clean and soft, without a sign of having used anything at all for removing superfluous hair. Simply moisten the hairs with sulfo solution, which you can obtain from your druggist. The hairs will seem to just roll off, loose from the skin. It is so easy to do compared with the old methods, with their objectionable odor and "fixing" to do beforehand. The styles of today with the transparent gowns and low cut waists absolutely demand the use of a superfluous hair remover. This formula can be used with perfect safety on the most delicate skin. It is as easy to use as applying a face cream and just as safe. In fact, it is now a real pleasure to remove superfluous hairs.

ELIZA M. S.—Many scalps have the pores almost completely sealed up owing to the fatty substances and scales accumulating around the hair stalks, "smothering" hair vigor. Ordinary soaps cannot entirely remove them. What is needed is a "dissolver." A teaspoonful of eggol will do this in a few moments, leaving the scalp absolutely free, and cleaner than you could ever have it with soap and hard scrubbing. For twenty-five cents you can get enough eggol in the original package to last for a dozen or more shampoos. It will wonderfully improve the growth and appearance of your hair.

ANNOYING.—There is hardly anything quite so remarkable as the results accomplished by the mixture given below for beautifying the skin. Under its influence the skin takes on a most unusual baby-like purity free from blemish, and transparent. Ask your druggist for a one-ounce package of zintone. This is easily mixed in a half pint of water, adding one tablespoonful of glycerine. You will accomplish the desired result by using the resulting cream very freely and very often. The zintone will make over a pint of this unequaled beautifier. Soon you will notice that your freckles will disappear. It will also remove that grainy appearance of the skin. After a time the complexion will be a uniform tint; it will clear wonderfully and take on the tint of a rose-petal, without a defect. If you will use it faithfully and liberally you will not fail.

GERMANS ORDERED TO SHOOT STRETCHER MEN

MEDICAL JOURNAL TELLS HOW EFFORT IS MADE TO INSURE THAT WOUNDED DIE.

In the issue for August 24 of the British Medical Journal, the official organ of the British Medical Association, is given an account of the latest atrocity attributed to the Germans. Apparently the use of liquid fire to torture prisoners, as reported, was approved by the German high command. The copy of the Journal has just been received by Dr. Cecil E. Reynolds of No. 616 Bixel street, this city.

The article has the caption "The Blackguard Nation" and says:

"The German army, which we are often told is one with the German people, is filling up the cup of its iniquities. A month ago an order was found to have been issued directing troops in the advanced line to shoot stretcher parties collecting the wounded, not so much with the idea of killing them, but, as was explained, to ensure that the wounded were left out so long that they would be beyond the reach of the surgeon's art. In this way it was sought to diminish Allied activities."

The article goes on to say that the Ministry of Information has given out details of gross outrages committed by the Germans upon British prisoners and wounded in March. It was said a stream of liquid fire was turned into a trench where were lined up sixteen men, ten of whom were wounded. Only a few of the men escaped alive.

COMING EVENTS ON THE SCREEN.

keynote of the melodrama, with vital gripping heart interest between the star and his leading woman, Neva Gerber. Carey does all manner of daring horseback stunts.

Victory.

Lillian Walker, who startled movie circles when she was starred in "Lust of the Ages" recently, and Frank Keenan, acknowledged to be the screen's foremost character actor, will be featured on the coming week's bill at the Victory, starting this Sunday. "The Embarrassment of Riches," is the starring vehicle of Miss Walker. Eastern critics have given this picture their stamp of approval. "The Public Defender," one of those tense melodramas that fairly vibrate with action and sensational climaxes, is Keenan's offering to the double programme.

Palace.

Feature films at popular prices—that is the policy of the Palace in a nutshell. For this week the management has booked a big programme, with William S. Hart in his latest screen offering, "Riddle Gawne," as the headliner. Roscoe Arbuckle has a wonderful time in "Fatty's Wild Night," and there is much hot stuff in Chester Conklin's comedy, "The Tamale Army." "Oh Bobbie, How Could You" is the latest from the Christie lot.

Garrick.

"The Eagle's Mate," a vivid Western melodrama of primitive passions, and starring Mary Pickford, will head the big double bill at the Garrick this coming week. Charlie Chaplin in "1 A.M.," his famous laugh fest, in which he is the only character, will be the added feature on the programme. "The Eagle's Mate" is the tale of the hills, of men who make their living outside the law, primitive men in whom rebellion at restraint seems the natural consequence of the rarified air they breathe.

De Luxe.

"Bound in Morocco," Douglas Fairbank's most entertaining screen story, is the attraction at the De Luxe for this afternoon and evening. In this, his latest big fun feature, "Doug" smiles his way through some thrilling adventures in faraway Africa. There are many wonderful scenes in this play, the artistic side of the production being one of its most pleasing features. The harem scene is most realistic, many of the most beautiful girls of the Southland taking part.

YOWLING RELIGION LATEST HUN MANIA.

SUPERMEN NOW INDULGE IN WEIRD OUTBURSTS—BUT JUST WAIT A YEAR.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 15.—Weird outbursts of religious mania are reported from many parts of the German empire.

The commander of the Nineteenth Army Corps at Leipzig has found it necessary to prohibit meetings of a sect known as the "Little Flock," which originated at Meerane. Its head is a weaver named Hain, whom his adherents address as "holy father." He poses as the Messiah, and pronounces "sentences" from his "judgment seat," from which he "separates the sheep from the goats."

The new "Messiah" has achieved some measure of popularity by his attacks on the established clergy on the ground that they draw stipends, while, he says, the apostle, Paul, never did; neither does he, himself. The "Little Flock" craze, it seems, has spread to such an extent in Saxony, especially among impressionable young people, that the authorities have had to interfere.

Many extreme Pan-Germans have given way to a kind of heathenish mysticism. They openly propagate a revival of the pagan worship of the ancient Teutons, including offerings to Wotan.

A more modern offshoot of this queer movement is headed by one Ludwig Neuner, who definitely renounces Christianity on the superfluous plea that it is "foreign to the German ideal." Family life is out of date, says Neuner, and all children should be charges of the state. For prayer Neuner proposes the following substitute, which the Roman Catholic Germania appropriately calls a "prayer ersatz," or substitute.

Bodily and mental "uplifts" movements every morning, baths, deep breathing, song and dance, reading of valuable poetry, contemplation of truly artistic objects of art, training of will power by auto suggestion, etc.

The Roman Catholic Bavarian Courier suggests an additional movement, tapping of the forehead morning, noon and night.

FOREIGN POSTCARDS NEEDED FOR THE WAR.

[BY A. P. CORRESPONDENCE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Old picture postcards and photographs of France or Belgium of any of the territory now occupied by the Germans are needed by the War Department, according to an open letter written today by William Guggenheim, chairman of the Army and Navy Committee of the American Defense Society, to the American people. This letter, which is written at the request of Maj. A. G. Campbell of the military intelligence branch of the War Department, reads:

"I urge patriotic Americans to forward any picture postcards, photographs and prints of any of the towns and of the country now occupied by the Germans in Belgium and Northern France to the American Defense Society, at No. 44 East Twenty-third street, New York City, from where they will be sent to the War Department, as they will be of value to our officers abroad, who can familiarize themselves with the appearance of localities toward which they are advancing, which will undoubtedly be a distinct aid in military operations.

"I especially urge people who have traveled abroad and who have collected postal cards to carefully sort these with a view to their being used by the War Department. Written description of the territory already mentioned will be of considerable value."

"For six years we have used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in our family and feel we could not possibly do without it, especially for the children." (From a letter to Dr. Caldwell written by Mrs. Earl Cowell, Cement City, Mich.)

Children become constipated as readily as do their elders, and the result is equally distressing. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is ideal for children because of its pleasant taste, positive, yet gentle, action, and its freedom from opiates and narcotic drugs.

EDITORIAL CAREER OF FRANK DINGLEY.

We doubt if it ever will be surpassed—57 years and six months' service on one newspaper. As he wrote in January, 1918: "From April, 1861, to the dawn of 1918, I have been uninterruptedly in harness, identified as actively in editorial work when on foreign journeys as when present in the sanctum. Whether riding a camel in the pilgrimage from Jerusalem to Jericho, or from Jericho to Damascus, coursing by the Nile in a sedan chair, or riding a hobby-horse amid the ruins of Ephesus, Athens and Rome, I have ever been accustomed to use my note book."

He was a patron of music and art. He collected a beautiful gallery of pictures, most of them bought abroad under the supervision of Franklin Simmons. He was continually helping young musicians. But comparatively few years ago he found a young and talented girl in Auburn who had no piano but a small toy. The information came through a member of Mr. Dingley's family. Mr. Dingley bought the girl a piano and gave it to her and she became a distinguished musician.

He loved all mankind. He was democratic and fond of making new acquaintances along the friendly road. He never set out to travel that he did not make friends immediately with the man next to him. He was on the alert for stories and experiences. He had a notebook always at his hands. He never walked home from his work without passing more or less felicitous conversation on the way. He never got into a street car that there was not fun immediately over his general talk and banter. He knew workmen by the thousands. He made a specialty of talking of their affairs with them. He liked sports. There never was a more persistent baseball fan in America than he. If he ever missed a game it was not his volition. He was an ardent yachtsman. In 1896 he built a fast racing sloop yacht with which he cruised the Atlantic coast for a number of years from Newport to Bar Harbor, and with which he won many races in regattas at Portland and elsewhere. Years did not lessen his interest in anything. He was as keen on the outcome of the world's series of baseball in 1917 as anyone in America. He never lost any vital concern of his life. News appeared to him just the same at 78 as it did at 18. The only difference was that wrongs intrenched seemed to him of greater outrage in the latter days.

There never was an hour in his life when Mr. Dingley would accept public office. He was well fitted for it. He was a powerful, nay! a most magnetic and emotional public speaker. He would have made one of America's most renowned pulpit orators. But he had a decided objection, in principle, against an editor having anything to do with public office. He considered public office incompatible with his higher duties, intrusted as he was with the sole care of the editorial opinion and policy of a newspaper. He was assailed in public; he was attacked in private; he was expostulated with by his friends; he was threatened, he was besought by letter and by private interview to change his political course. He stood firm and smiling. He felt that he was custodian of a great public trust. He knew no guidance but his convictions, "Do right and fear not," said he. He felt that he was placed as he was for public good.

THE HELPING HAND.

"How far that little candle throws his beams!
So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

Public school girls from 6 to 10 years old in Washington, D. C., like their mothers and elder sisters, are knitting for soldiers. They are busy making woolen blankets. Each child knits one or more squares of wool of seven inches. They are sewed together, and it takes seventy such squares to make a complete blanket. Many children average one or more squares a day. When completed the blankets are of average size, and our boys may use them as comforters or as coverings for their shoulders or legs.

One hundred and eighty cases of surgical dressings and other Red Cross preparations for hospital service have been shipped to Siberia by the Hawaiian Chapter of the Red Cross Society, the first of the kind shipped to the new American and allied base in the Far East. The cases make up a total of sixty-five tons of steamer space and is given a ship's manifest value of $60,-[illegible].

So many collations of sandwiches, coffee, etc., have been served to trainloads of hungry troops passing through Lynchburg, Va., by the patriotic women of that southern city that the army, out of a sense of gratitude, has dubbed the place "Lunchburg."

Women physicians took an active part in caring for the wounded at Chateau Thierry, according to a letter made public by the American Women's Hospitals. The letter was written by Dr. Jean Howard Pattison, a member of Hospital Unit No. 1 of the American Women's Hospitals. This unit was the first military hospital established in France by American women. It was announced that for her services at Chateau Thierry and at Meaux, Dr. Pattison was commended by Lieut.-Col. William Darrach, Consulting Surgeon, Forty-second Division, and Maj. John F. Spealman of Field Hospital No. 161.

Even the Indians of New Mexico are helping the Red Cross, W. G. Field says, in the Red Cross Magazine: "There appeared in Santa Fe some of the few surviving Cochiti Indians, bringing with them their war bonnets, dancing moccasins, their paints, their ceremonial blankets, and strangest of all, their Kachinas, the grotesque, highly painted doll images that play a most important, mystic part in ceremonial dances. They said: 'We have come to dance for you here in your palace of the Governors. We do not want money for it. We want you to make much money and give it to the Red Cross!'

"Next night, with the moonlight flooding the court yard, they gave their weird, beautiful Cochiti ceremonial dance. Out of love for the Red Cross they had broken their traditions and traveled weary miles to add their mite to the cause."

"LITTLE THEATER CLASSIC."

Also Fielding's "Tragedy of Tragedies"—Short Stories by Edna Ferber—Other "Short" Stories, Verse and Various Things.

BY GORDON RAY YOUNG.

"Little Theater Classics."

SAMUEL A. ELIOT, JR., who is closely identified with Little Theater activities, has in volume one of this series adapted certain classics to the intimate stage. The serious drama workers, to an appreciable extent, have taken their drops and buskin into the Little Theaters and are trying to cultivate in our public an appreciation that was instinctive in the Elizabethan.

Something valuable—valuable in a large way—may evolve out of this earnestness; though at present with magazines and newspapers to read, vaudeville and motion pictures to enjoy, the public patronizes—in so far as indifference may be called patronage—the serious drama more as a duty than through an instinctive response. But if the oracular Past may be trusted, there is every assurance that the stage, the spoken drama, will endure and again find some flourishing form. Its vicissitudes have been many. Church and state have persecuted its followers. But not even the fulgurous wrath of medieval Rome could suppress the stage, which endured precariously. In England, after some four centuries of Mysteries and Moralities, it culminated in a half-century of the most brilliant dramatists ever known in any "age or clime."

Side by side in the "Little Theater Classics" (Little, Brown & Co.,) Mr. Eliot has placed an adaptation of a Coventry Miracle Play with Marlowe's "Faustus," which is followed by an arrangement from Beaumont and Fletcher's "Coxcomb." This, in a way, gives a microcosmic glimpse of the root, towering growth and leafy tracery (ornamentation) of the Elizabethan drama. To a public unfamiliar with its inestimably rich heritage, that dramatic period is represented almost solely by "Shakespeare."

The robust simplicity of the Mysteries, the naturalness, the awkward flutterings in verbal beauty, were the forerunners of the dramatic splendour that followed. The Christmas Miracle, from "The Pageant of the Shearmen and Tailors"—presenting the birth of Christ and the fury of Herod—is a good example and rewards something more than curiosity. It has dramatic value; rudimentary perhaps, but dramatic nevertheless.

It would have been satisfying if this first volume could have been entirely filled with old English plays. It would have been fitting, too. But Mr. Eliot's purpose has not been to give the student a handbook, but the Little Theater a repertoire. The other two plays offer a contrast: one is an adaptation from Euripedes's "Hecuba," and the last is an arrangement of comedy from Sheridan's "St. Patrick Day."

People who are not so very averse to, and even those who shy at, the printed drama are likely to find more enjoyment than they expect from this "Little Theater Classics." Personally, I doubt if the Little Theaters will ever be much other than sanctuaries to keep the prosceniums burning until some now imperceptible but growing influence gathers form and makes the stage once more powerful and important. But then, there is something of sacredness in bearing out of obscurity such plays as these for a careless and indifferent generation.

"The Tragedy of Tragedies."

Andrew Lang comlained that he did not care for Henry Fielding as a satirist, yet George Saintsbury has told how for thirty years—or something of the kind—he had returned with enjoyment to "Jonathan Wild the Great" (which Lang specifically disliked;) while Lamb and Hazlitt found much joy in his satire, particularly in "The Tragedy of Tragedies, or the Life and Death of Tom Thumb the Great," and critics in one way and another have fought it out until Fielding is pretty solidly established as the greatest satirist of the language—excepting Swift.

Incidentally, it is remarkable that the man who is ranked as the second satirist and the very first novelist of our language, should be so little known. Comparatively few people of even literary pretenses have read "Tom Jones;" practically none, other than the studious, are familiar with the dramatic satire, "Tom Thumb," which James T. Hillhouse has recently issued in an admirable edition through the Yale University Press.

"Tom Thumb" first appeared in two acts, and was instantly popular. It was rewritten into three acts, the plot complicated, the humor increased, and shooing satire at some forty-two rather popular and fairly contemporary plays, enjoyed a distinguished success on the stage and in pamphlet form. Many editions of the revised play have appeared. It was adapted to the comic opera and the burlesque amplified to slapstick jigging, having all the numerous slain characters arise and cheerfully dance at the close of the last act. But Mr. Hillhouse apparently is the first to make a reprint of the original first edition. This is included with the better-known version, and shows, for one thing, how brilliantly Fielding—no doubt thrilled by popular approval—remodeled the original and comparatively simple play.

One can enjoy "Tom Thumb" in almost any edition. It hits the blood-and-thunder-but-oh-so-serious tragedy familiar to all, and particularly to those who have looked into Dryden's plays and others of his period. It hits at bombast and pomposity, and with daring ingenuity Fielding plucked lines and phrases from numerous plays popular in his day. But full enjoyment and appreciation are had only under such guidance as Mr. Hillhouse offers. He illuminates obscure references, and gives an exhaustive study of the play and its purpose. "The nature and the period of the plays burlesqued, and the method with which Fielding worked out a comprehensive burlesque of the heroic plays are developed in the third chapter; and conclusions here drawn are supplemented and enforced in the notes, in which Fielding's allusions and references are checked, and the correspondence between 'The Tragedy of Tragedies' and the plays it assails is established as far as possible for further quotation."

Tom Thumb returns from the war with "millions of giants" tied to his chariot, and the King proclaims a holiday to welcome him. Both Princess and Queen love Tom Thumb. Count Grizzle loves the Princess Huncamunca and threatens civil war when she is awarded to the great hero. The King becomes enamoured of a captive giantess. The situation is quite dramatic. Grizzle rebels, but the valiant Thumb kills him and goes off to breakfast. Just as the royal family is celebrating this victory, comes the bearer of evil news: A cow met Thumb in the street and swallowed him! And when the Queen rewards the bearer of such ill news by stabbing, wholesale slaughter is precipitated.

It is exceedingly gratifying burlesque.

"Cheerful—By Request."

Why the publishers should carefully avoid indicating that a book of short stories by Edna Ferber is not a novel, is no compliment either to them or to the public. One is willing to sell as "Chapters" what the other, presumably, is reluctant to buy as separate and unrelated stories. Anyway "Cheerful—By Request" (Doubleday, Page & Co.,) contains a dozen stories of unusual entertainment, most of which reach out with little furtive gestures toward the somber. They are "popular" stories laudably trying to be something more, something deeply human, sympathetic, penetrating and oftentimes succeeding unusually well. Many of them have a certain "sameness," which is the more conspicuous because Miss Ferber's effects and characters are sharply made. Homely women, conscious of their defect, but wistful, is a favorite theme. It appears in "The Eldest," a pathetic story; in "The Hooker-Up-The-Back," which has something more of a plot than usual; in "The Guiding Miss Gowd," and in "Sophy-As-She-Might-Have-Been:" and, excepting that Josie Fifer is crippled rather than homely, in "Cheerful—By Request."

"The Woman Who Tried to Be Good" is perhaps the most distinctive, and a strong story told with much skill. Miss Ferber has narrative dexterity, and a pronounced, vivifying faculty of characterization. She is at her best with women, as "The Gay Old Dog," "The Tough Guy" and "Shore Leave" show. "The Girl Who Went Right" is typical of her most entertaining work, and also of the remarkable familiarity she seems to have with the duties and psychology of her characters, whether they be salesladies, floor clerks, hotel housekeepers or the family drudge.

"My Erratic Pal."

Alfred Clark in "My Erratic Pal" (John Lane Company,) purports to give in sequence the poetical efforts of a friend who, after numerous experiences in love and out of it, went to war and was killed. If that were actually the case, some charity might be extended the inadequate judgment that thought these verses worthy of permanent form and public attention; but it is probable that the form is merely a device with which Mr. Clark modestly wished to usher some things of his own into print.

The verse is sophomoric in feeling, and scarcely better in expression. With the help of notes we who read are supposed to be able to follow a sort of progression in the "pal's" life. He is not fortunate in love affairs, not felicitous in writing of them. He leaves England for New Zealand and is happy with one whom he calls "Mate." She dies, and he is quite embittered. War breaks out and he goes. The best the book offers is some racy humorous verse written from the Egyptian viewpoint; though one is almost inclined to be generous when these simple and sincere lines seem to stand as an apology for the volume:

"I am no poet, damn it, no!
Therefore, my fancies ever go
Without a word to clothe them.
Naked and shivering they hide,
Within the caves where dreams abide,
And proper people loathe them."

FIRE.

(The Cave Man Speaks.)

Thou art the Bubble
Blown from the lip
Of her who is Night!
Thou art the blossoms
Caught in the hair
Of her who is Night!
Thou art the Far One—
He who gets up
Out of his bed
Covered with clouds;
Rises and stands
Naked and strong,
Brave on the hills.
Leapeth to win
Swiftly the top
Of that which is sky!
Thou art Big Tooth!
Thou art the Roarer
Made like a mountain,
Whose legs are as trees,
Whose footsteps are thunder—
The sound of thy voice,
When there is noise
With falling of water
Out of the sky,
Thou art all that hath wings,
Thou art all that I see
In her who is mine,
Holding the small one
Close on her breast!

BOOKS AND AUTHORS.

Ghosts and Crooks.

Carolyn Wells, who, on the occasion of her marriage last spring, was acclaimed as the author of a hundred books, has not allowed matrimony to interfere with her productivity. The "hundred and oneth," "The Room With the Tassels," just published by George H. Doran Company, furnishes an ingenious mingling of the ghost story and the detective story—a combination warranted to make the reader call for another light and shut the door into the dark hall.

"The Caravan Man."

"The Caravan Man," by Ernest Goodwin, is a welcome expression of humor and romance from an English writer new to America. It smacks nothing of war and troubled times, but is all of romance, love and natural gaiety. Unlike most new authors, Mr. Goodwin has remained discretely in the background. As his work reached the publishers through a manuscript agency, they are completely in the dark as to the author's position and history. Houghton Mifflin Company hopes soon to give information concerning Mr. Goodwin's career and literary experience.

Bessie Beatty.

Bessie Beatty, whose experiences in revolutionary Petrograd are told in "The Red Heart of Russia," just published by The Century Company, comes naturally by her taste for the storm centers. Though she was born in California, she is a member of an old Irish family, most of whose members have seen service as officers in the British army and navy. Miss Beatty has one brother in the United States army and another in the British service in India. Sir David Beatty, the British admiral in command of the grand fleet, is a relative.

Ambrose Bierce.

Now it is learned that Ambrose Bierce, who mysteriously disappeared in 1914, was last seen on the ill-fated ship on which Lord Kitchener and his staff sailed from England to some northern port in 1916. Boni & Liveright, who are publishing in popular form four or five volumes of Bierce's best work, recently offered a reward for information that might lead to the discovery of his whereabouts. Many clews have been given, but all have proven false, and it may be well that Bierce and Kitchener met their ends together. "Can Such Things Be?" a volume of Bierce's best stories of the grotesque and unreal, will be published in October.

"Yesterdays in a Busy Life."

"Yesterdays in a Busy Life" is the title of a new book by Candace Wheeler to be published immediately by Harper & Bros. In these pages she tells the story of the ninety-odd years of her full and interesting life. She married at 16, and during her life in Brooklyn and in her Long Island country home knew many artists of the early American school, and in her later journeys through Europe met many well-known men of the Old World. In her new "Yesterdays" she tells tales concerning many of these famous people with whom she came in contact; among the most prominent being Peter Cooper, James Russell Lowell, Mark Twain, Alma Tadema, Du Maurier, Thomas Hardy, Robert Browning and William Cullen Bryant.

"Dere Mable."

"Dere Mable" has caught on! The publishers, Stokes, report that 175,000 copies of this book are already in print, with the demand steadily increasing. While both the author and the artist, Lieut. Edward Streeter and Corp. Bill Breck, respectively, are sinking their identity in the fighting "over there," the inimitable rookie of their creation is still sounding his trumpet loudly and successfully "over here."

Second boarder: Oh, I don't know. I have an idea that our landlady could fill his place and give him cards and spades.—[Life.

JOYCE KILMER.

Robert Holliday is Appointed Literary Executor and Plans Monograph.

It is announced that Robert Cortes Holliday, the biographer of Booth Tarkington, author of a new book of essays, called "Walking-Stick Papers," and active in New York for a number of years as an editor and journalist, has been chosen by the family as the literary executor of Joyce Kilmer. Mr. Holliday has been continually and intimately associated with Kilmer throughout his writing career, and doubtless knew him better than anyone else outside of his immediate family.

Upon taking his degree of A. B. at Columbia University in 1908 Joyce Kilmer returned to New Jersey and began his career as instructor of Latin at the Morristown High School. He married and became a householder. At the conclusion of a year's teaching, however, he tore up the roots he had planted and, against the warnings of many well-wishers, advanced upon New York to conquer a wider fortune.

The rapidity and brilliance of his success have altogether obscured his very democratic beginning. His initial occupation in the city was that of retail salesman in the book store of Charles Scribner's Sons, a dignity which he wore with humorous grace for exactly two weeks, when he became an editorial assistant in the work of preparing a new edition of the Standard Dictionary. At Scribner's a close friendship was at once formed between the youthful poet and another then unpublished writer acting at that time in the same capacity—a friendship which was never diminished by the numerous shiftings of Kilmer's fields of activity, the multitudinous, diverse and ardent interests which he acquired in an ever-mounting measure, and the steady addition of numberless friends of all classes who eagerly yielded him their devotion.

It was rather a friendship which was continually cemented by increasing and closer bonds. It was a part of Kilmer's spirit to make his first friend in his literary life a sharer as far as was possible in each new success of his own. One among many instances of this was his contriving, by his influence with the editor, to work his friend into a position somewhat rivaling his own at the period (1912-1913) when he was the bright and shining star reviewer for the New York Times Review of Books. The regular Tuesday lunching together of the two friends when their offices were widely separated became, at least in their own fancy, an American literary institution. The two were united in all the symbols of affection between men. This friend was godfather to Kilmer's daughter Rose; and Kilmer was his friend's best-man at his wedding. At seasons of rejoicing and of adversity the Kilmer house was to his friend as his own.

It is therefore the fitting and logical thing that he who among all of Joyce Kilmer's friends owes him the greatest debt of friendship should now formally take up, with jealous regard for his memory, the literary affairs of the much loved poet and very great patriot. In testimony of this, and pending the consummation of legal formalities, the following statement by Mrs. Joyce Kilmer is published:

"Oak Bluffs, Martha's Vineyard,
"Massachusetts.

"I know from his references to the subject to me that it was the desire and understanding of my husband, Joyce Kilmer, that in the event of his death Robert Cortes Holliday, whom he regarded as his oldest and closest friend, should act as his literary executor. This is also my wish; and I want today, August 22, 1918, formally to charge him, Robert Cortes Holliday, with full power and authority in all matters pertaining to the literary property of my late husband, Joyce Kilmer.

"ALINE KILMER."

With a view to their use in a biographical monograph which he is preparing, Mr. Holliday requests the privilege of examining any letters of Kilmer's in the hands of those outside of his own acquaintance. These will be safeguarded with the greatest care while in his possession and will be returned to the lenders as soon as practicable. Or typewritten copies of such letters will be equally appreciated. Such letters, and all communications relating to the literary interests of Joyce Kilmer, should be addressed to Robert Cortes Holliday, 68 Seaman avenue, New York City.

TYPICAL ENGLISHMEN?

There is not, outside fiction, any such thing as the typical Englishman. In real life our loyalties go by towns and counties. Mr. Hardy may seem to hate life; but it is not less clear that he worships Dorset. No man has understood what patriotism means until he has heard a son of Devon explain the superiority of Lorna Doone to any novel that was ever written. Americans are often struck by the high prices paid for first editions of Harrison Ainsworth; but that, in sober truth, is only a determination of Lancashire that he shall not be outbidden by Dickens or Thackeray or Eliot. Every inhabitant of Birmingham tends to confuse Mr. Chamberlain with the deity; and certainly in Rochdale English history began with the birth of John Bright. It is admittedly dangerous to decry Marie Corelli in the streets of Stratford; and if Lichfield now is a little wan and battered, the statue in the market place reminds you where Dr. Johnson's real affections centered. English national character, in sober fact, is but a feeble generalization from more local types. The real people are the weavers of Lancashire, the miners of Durham, the fishermen of Cornwall.

ABSENT TREATMENT

BY EUGENE BROWN.

"The difference between 4 and 40 per cent. is a lady bartender," exclaimed the Old Resident as he passed through the swinging door of one of our flossy Florence Wilson groggeries. Within a buxom [illegible] with a baby stare was deftly blending a malted milk highball with a Shasta fizz and wondering what name to endow this [illegible] but refreshing creation of [illegible] head and brain.

"Call it a kickless cocktail," advised the old man, as he strained the sample through his tonsils.

"Isn't he the wonder, though?" [illegible] the girl sweetly. "Springs it on you before you can get your breath. That's four of them he's had since breakfast. If they were the old [illegible] kind we'd be betting which way he'd fall, but this way he's good as long as his money holds out."

"That's liable to be for some time," returned the old man more cheerily. "Possibly you notice that I haven't got my feet on the rail and yelping for everybody in the place to come up and gargle their throats. It was that dinky little percentage of alcohol that raised the devil with the Americans and made them the wild men of the world. That snifter was all the difference. It wasn't the saloon that made the treating habit so much as the little stinger in the stuff they sold. Now that they have only the near-beer shops even a movie queen behind the bar won't make a man loosen up his roll. He'll stagger in and get his buttermilk and then waddle on to his family without loosening the rubber band on his bundle. It was the old highball and chain that fastened the treating habit on a man. He didn't follow it at the mineral springs. Tommy Burns was dead right when he sang: 'Oh wad some power the giftie gi'e us, to duck and run when ithers 'skee us.'"

"That wasn't Tommy Burns," interrupted I. "That was Paddy Ryan."

"Well, I knew it was one of those fellows," resumed the pioneer. "But no man behaved anywhere else like he did in a saloon. Supposing I met you at 3 o'clock in the afternoon down by Silverman's and I'd say: 'Let's go in and have a little shirt.' So we go inside the store and step up to the counter. Then I'd tell the clerk to set us out a couple of shirts. Before they had time to wrap them up you'd say: 'Have another shirt.' So we'd take another, and while we were waiting around I'd start off with: 'It's a long time between shirts; this one is on me.' So we'd go on buying shirts for one another and telling funny stories for an hour, and finally you'd say: 'I can't stand any more shirts; give me a necktie this time.' Then I'd laugh and about this time Johnny Cline would drop in and I'd tell him about it. Then he'd laugh, too, and bellow: 'Tell you what we'll do, we'll take a plug hat, all round, and then we'll all go home.' After we got the plug hat I'd think I wanted a fedora and then you'd remember about a funny kind of sombrero you saw in Mexico. So we'd open a fresh case of hats. What would your wife think to see you come staggering home at curfew with a load of seventeen shirts, half a dozen plug hats and four bell-a-dat neckties?"

"She'd think I was a man hattin'," [illegible] I, with a wry face.

"But that you get shot at sunrise," exclaimed the pioneer in feigned disgust.

"That isn't much worse than being half shot at sunset," retorted I. "Let's have another ice water."

"There we go again," remarked the old man and I was just explaining that the treating habit had gone out when the sure-fire saloon with its 21 per cent. kick had been put out of business. When there's only about 2 per cent. of alcohol on his palate a man will buy for his wife and family, but when it gets up to about 47 per cent. he wants to buy for everybody within shouting distance and he doesn't care what he buys as long as it's booze—that is if he's an American. If he's an Englishman he will buy for himself and if he is a German he would wait for some careless American to do the buying. But America was always the spendthrift republic and it was in the saloon that this national trait was permitted to run wild. The minute that a man got a [illegible] center under his belt his voice began to carry. Now that we have [illegible]-blooded soakeries in our midst a lot of people who used to spend a lot of time and money irrigating their throats are saving up and buying Liberty Bonds. When a man has no more inspiration than a nickel's worth of near foam he doesn't care whether his neighbor is thirsty or not. At that I know some of these next-of-kin saloons that are making more money than when they were running old style. Their rent [illegible] and help items are cut way down and they have found a regular and reliable trade with a comfortable profit in it. Sometimes we have an attractive skirt behind the bar—like Evangeline here. She doesn't [illegible] so much as a member of the [illegible] Union and while she is [illegible] some hero is also on guard [illegible]. That helps all round. [illegible] will you kindly draw another bucket from the hydrant and [illegible] the gentleman a song."

"Seeing how you sports is such thoroughbreds I might give you a [illegible] of our latest ballad: 'The Face [illegible] Door,'" said Evangeline as [illegible] to put the glassware in [illegible].

Then she tearfully warbled:

"A [illegible] girl tapped at the bar-room door;
Her eyes were heavy and red;
She raised her voice to a pitiful [illegible]
And these were the words she said:
'Fill up the growler quick, mister,
We ain't no time to lose.
There isn't a sniff of a drink in the house,
And mamma must have her booze.'"

There were four verses and when the girl had finished the Old Resident was wiping his eyes. He took me by the arm.

"Let's go across the street and get [illegible] hat," he exclaimed in a voice [illegible] husky with emotion.

Nobody Sticks.

The janitorship at the city library is begging, and it is a job that pays $60 per month. In the past [illegible] months thirteen different parties have started to take care of that job. Every one of them has suddenly disappeared, and when finally located they had secured better employment somewhere else. Finally a stranger was induced to try the job. Being hardly dressed suitably for a position of that kind, he was furnished a new suit of clothes. He worked a half-day and disappeared without even asking pay for his services.—[Independence (Kan.) The Seamstress

It ain't no wonder that a good many folks is a little woozy in the head these days. My land, what the folks what intertains at the theayters don't think up ain't worth thinking.

Looks like to me that some of it must of been done whilst they was a having nightmares or something . . . Ma'm? Why, what I mean is that they is so different from natural, mose of 'em, that you fergit you are a real human being and ever haff to git up and wash dishes and git breakfast and go out to sew or anything.

Well, last night Isabel Pearl and me went to a real theayter, not no movie, a real theayter, where, if you was up clost up enough you could reach out and touch 'em alive. They was all kinds of live things. I didn't know what to call some of 'em what did all kind of jumping Jack tricks and shut up same as a knife and doubled under. They was a lot of that kind, all different. One of 'em was all got up to look like a skeleton, same as one I saw my father have what was a doctor. The man had on black clothes and a skeleton painted on him, and he looked for all the world like one of these here devil's darning needles what everybudy is afraid of to death. My land, if one of them things was to get on me I think I'd die that night, whether it hit me or not.

Well, then they was a woman what walked on stilts same as we do on feet. She didn't sing or talk, but every onct and a while she would make a little squeak like a monkey, same as the girls what ride bareback in a circus most always does.

Well, then they was another man looked like he'd taken too much to drink a long time. His nose was that red and he talked like it, too. He recited poetry all mixed up, and next to him come two plum fools. These was a skinny man and a old girl trying to act young and singing such soppy songs that all the fools in the audience got soppy.

I says to Isabel Pearl, "Jest look a yonder at that couple sorter at the back."

The man had his arm around the back of the seat and they both looked like dyin' calves. And they was a young couple what was jest as spoony; but ain't it funny, everybody wants to laugh when they see old people in love, and it looks like to me that nobudy minds 'em when they are young. That's right hard on the old folks, ain't it? . . .

Ma'm? Oh land, no, Lonny and me (that's my husband,) got so used to each other long ago that we don't make no more turtle-dove eyes at one another now.

Well, then, they seemed to be another right pretty girl that didn't have nothing to do with the rest of them skeletons and things what wore auful pretty clothes, and she certainly could sing. Well, she had a drapey gray curtain in the back of her, and all them clothes, some red and some all colors, looked awful pretty. I think she must of had right good eyes, because she didn't blink atall when a great big light come up and hit her in the face. She sang right pretty songs, and she had yellow hair, auful yellow—made I reckon. The prettiest singing she did was when she sung right loud and then, way up high sung them dim little notes what sounded like they come out of the ceilin. . . . Ma'm? Why she wore one of them new red dresses, kinder dull like, sorter brick dust, and sorter like claret wine. It had long thin sleeves and was trimmed in fringe and ruffles.

But, my land, she come out and sung the sweetest song about "Cherry Blossom Land," and wore something what looked most like a Jap kimono and wasn't it. Yet and still had all the colors. It looked some like a lamp shade and some like portierres, and a good deal like a opal set in a ring and a good deal like the rainbow when its soft and got a cloud in front of it. My land, I never did see such colors, pink and purple and turquoise blue and Eyetalian green and Chinese red and Quaker gray and yellow and orange and white, and everything you could think of.

Ma'm I should say not—it didn't look like no crazy quilt. I think that dress must have been painted on her. It couldn't of been sewed by nobudy.

Well, then they was a man what come on what didn't have nothing to do with her, neither. He was plum spooky, that man was. . . . Well, he took eggs out of bags and hats when they want none in 'em. I told Lonny that and he said: "Melia, you ain't had nothing to drink, have you?"

The idea! When he knows I ain't never even tasted the stuff. Then this man sent a woman through a glass winder without taking out the glass, and then—oh, my land! you'll think I'm tellin' you the biggest whack ever was if I don't stop.

Well, I haven't decided whether them things is good for a budy or not. But Isabel Pearl says that it is all good for the imagination and that we'd all be living sticks and walking lumber if we didn't have some recreation, and didn't see what queer and different things was on the inside of other folks' heads. It keeps us from thinking we are crazy.

Died Beside His Master.

Maj. St. John Quarry, of the Royal Berkshire Regiment, who was killed recently in action, had a large black dog which was his constant companion, and even accompanied him to the outpost position when he was going up the line. The dog followed Maj. Quarry to the attack in which he was killed, and then returned to the major's dugout. Finding his master was absent, the dog traced him back to the spot where he had fallen, and was shot by a sniper beside his master.—[Our Dogs.

LET HIM LIVE.

As long as the flowers their perfume give,
So long I'd let the Kaiser live;
Live and live for a million years
With nothing to drink but Belgian tears;
With nothing to quench his awful thirst
But the salted brine of a Scotchman's curse.
I would let him live on a dipper each day,
Served from silver on a golden tray,
Served with things both dainty and sweet,
Served with everything—but things to eat.
I would make him a bed of silken sheen.
With costly linens to lie between,
With covers of down, and filets of lace,
And downy pillows piled in place;
Yet when to its comfort he would yield
It would stink with the rot of the battlefield,
And blood and brains and bones of men
Should cover him, smother him, and then—
His pillow should cling with the rotten clay—
Clay from the grave of a soldier boy;
And while God's stars their vigils keep,
And while the waves of white sands sweep,
He should never, never sleep.
And thru' all the days—thru' all the years,
There should be an anthem in his ears,
Ringing and singing and never done,
From the edge of light to the set of sun,
Moaning, and moaning, and moaning wild,
A ravaged French girl's bastard child.
And I'd build him a castle by the sea,
As lovely a castle as ever could be,
Then I'd show him a ship from over the sea,
As fine a ship as ever could be,
Laden with water cold and sweet,
Laden with everything good to eat.
Yet scarce does she touch the silvered sands,
Scarce may he reach out his eager hands—
Than a hot and a hellish molten shell
Should change his heaven into hell.
And tho' he'd watch by the wave-swept shore,
Our Lusitania would rise no more.
In No Man's Land where the Irish fell
I'd start the Kaiser a private hell,
I'd jab him, stab him, give him gas,
And in each wound I'd pour ground glass;
I'd march him out where the brave boys died,
Out past the lads he crucified.
In the fearful gloom of his living tomb
There is one thing I'd do before I was thru'—
I'd make him sing in a stirring manner
The wonderful words of "The Star Spangled Banner."

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too, You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful. This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

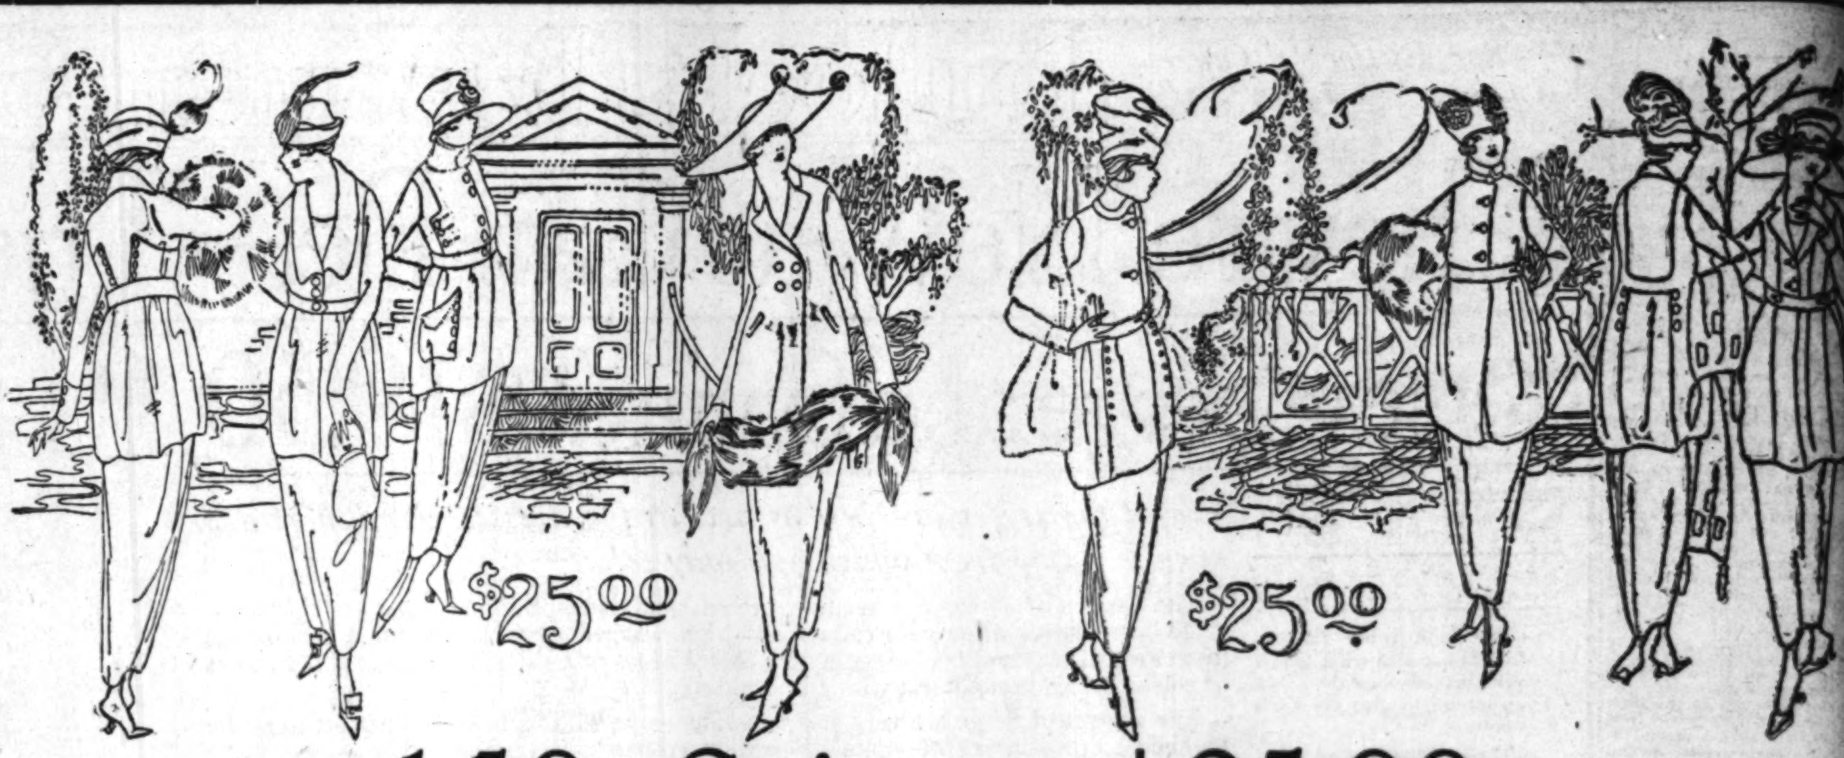
Washing Won't Rid Head of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.



150 Suits at $25.00

—Too good to say much about them. It is not the desire to create an overdemand—there are but 150 suits and such suits as these, are, to say the least, not common at the present status of costs—

—150 of them—of Gabardine—Poiret Twill—Mannish Stripes and Mixtures—copies of model garments that were ever so much higher in price—natty tailorish suits with that important air that is of character and individuality.

—in shades of Navy, reindeer, plum, Delphine blue, green, black, gray mixtures and stripes—and sizes 35 to 44.

—Those who know Bullock's and the standard of style and value that obtains in Bullock stocks and the sincerity of dealing that is the accompaniment of that standard—these will not be the ones to underestimate this offering—Will you? $25.00—

P. S.—No matter how high the market may fly it will never deter Bullock's from making constant and continual search for the unusual—in your interests. And results will ensue—which witness these $25 suits—3rd floor.

—"Six Thousand Million Dollars!"

—that's the size of this 4th Liberty Loan—

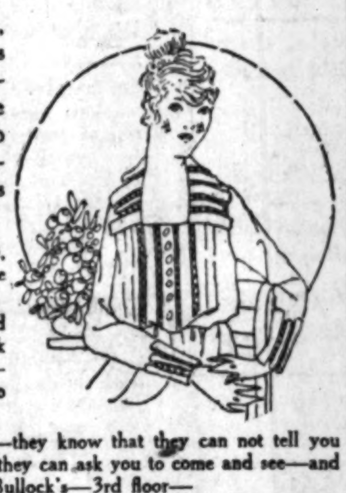
—Have you subscribed $200?—Can you, with sacrifice, loan your government $200—at 4¼% interest?—If you can and you don't, are you going to be satisfied?

—Let your conscience look you in the face—and then buy bonds—all the bonds you can buy, and don't delay.

—There is a deal more to these blouses than the fact that

They Are Hand-made

—In fact "hand-made" merely serves to establish them in their position of distinction—



—They are charming, dainty, exquisite affairs, as "mind-made" and "art-made" as they are made by hand by those who must simply love "thinking" blouses as well as "working" them—

—Of Georgette, mousseline, crepes, chiffon, silk, voile, lace and net—

—With fagoting — and drawn work and Spanish work —and real lace—and frills—and buttons—and in, oh, so many effects.

—Words simply run away—they know that they can not tell you what these blouses are—but they can ask you to come and see—and this they do—Monday, at Bullock's—3rd floor—

—It is as though they had gotten together deliberately, these Frocks (as they did, a few from "here," others from "there," in the lists of regular stocks,) and determined to just upset expectation and precedent and many things.

—It's a way garments have at Bullock's, where lines reach certain limitations as to variety and size—a regrouping invariably occurs—and a repricing.

—Perhaps this repricing and regrouping is especially emphatic—If it is—regard it so—but be sure not to underestimate and miss their opportunity on Monday—

—Tailored frocks of serge — all for misses and women of slight and slender figure—navy, Beige, taupe, smart plaid in conservative styles—with irregular tunics, broad girdles, fancy and tailored blouses. Collarless necks and other characteristic features—

"Keep Up the Christmas Spirit."

—Nothing is more closely linked to the Spirit of Justice for the oppressed—of Enduring Peace and Good Will on Earth, for which our Country and our Allies are fighting, than the Spirit of the Holiday Season.

—If we cannot see fulfilled by Christmas our wish that the boys "Over There" will be out of the trenches, we can at least carry the Christmas spirit to them in the trenches.

We can, through Holiday Greeting Cards, make them realize that every one of us at home is thinking of them gratefully.

Send Messages of Cheer to the Men in the Service—remember those going to the Front must be in the mails before November 15th.

Calls you by name and tells the object of your visit without asking a question. Names enemies and friends. Tells whom and when you will marry; if the one you love loves you; whether wife or sweetheart is true or false; how to influence any one you desire, even though a thousand miles away. Develops personal magnetism; causes speedy and happy marriage with the one of your choice. Gives advice on all matters of business. He gives more satisfaction, more encouragement, more success, more help, more facts than any other psychic. He is worthy your confidence.

REMOVES EVIL INFLUENCES.

Do you find the one you have bestowed your affection and trust upon acting cool and indifferent? Has a rival or obstacle of any kind crept between you and your future home, or has misfortune assailed the quietude of your happy home? COME TO THIS GIFTED MEDIUM and find help.

THE PROFIT

is life's sunshine, conscious power, magnetism to attract and strength to hold. It's not so much in what I tell you as it is what I do for you by my special influence, that I put forth in your behalf to overcome all your sorrows and troubles so that you can have the power to win your greatest desires. What good is a psychic's advice unless they are able to lift you out of your troubles, worriments and bad luck? None whatever.

I will accept no fee unless you receive perfect satisfaction.

The only member of INDIA'S MYSTIC BROTHERHOOD to ever visit this country. First in America to introduce this MYSTERIOUS ART employed by PROPHETS of OLDEN TIMES. His remarkable disclosures are pronounced "PHENOMENAL" by thinking people who have consulted him. Any clairvoyant can tell your name, the past and present. If wives, husbands, sweethearts or friends are true, or false, and many other things of more trivial importance. All these things the SAND GAZER tells at a glance. What you want is to be successful and make the most of a life that is passing ALL TOO FAST. To get what your Creator promises, you must know your strongest points. A REAL OPPORTUNITY—

If you are going to purchase a used car, YOU OWE IT TO YOURSELF to see our stock of over SIXTY USED CARS. You will not be treating yourself right if you take it for granted that the first car you see is the one to buy. Compare our values, compare our GUARANTEE, compare our standing in the automobile industry with others and do not overlook the fact that we are NOT speculators in used cars—then make your selection.

A FEW SUGGESTIONS.

CHANDLER SIX—

TOURINGS
CHUMMY ROADSTERS.

You do not dare to purchase a CHANDLER until you have investigated the REBUILT—REFINISHED—FULLY GUARANTEED—ones that we are offering at a range of prices from $800 to $1800 on TERMS. You cannot respect yourself as a wise purchaser unless you at least learn about these values and what CHANDLER SERVICE and CHANDLER GUARANTEE will mean to you for the next year to come. Our business has been the marketing of CHANDLERS since they were first placed on the market. We know practically every Chandler owner and we know quite a bit about the manner in which he has taken care of his car. We will not accept a used CHANDLER in exchange on a new one if it has been abused. We do not have to. We cannot secure all the NEW CHANDLERS that there is a demand for, so you may rest assured that we are particular about the used cars we accept in exchange. If you do not believe this, try us out with some car that is not up to standard and see how quickly we refuse it. We are not independent, but we are careful of our reputation and we do not want to be forced to offer a poor used car for sale.

CITRUS MARKET REVIEW.

High prices, light offerings and a very strong undertone featured the California orange market this week. The quality and condition of the bulk of the offerings were generally desirable, and the demand left little to be desired.

Advices from the East state that the demand for oranges has been stimulated by the urgent call of the government for oranges in the hospitals. A steady call is also reported from the Quartermaster's Department.

Averages in the auction markets have ranged all the way from $6 for fruit showing age and not in the best condition, to $11.55 for best grades of well-known brands.

F.o.b. quotations are on a basis of $7.50 to $8, according to grade and sizes.

It is estimated that there are between 300 and 350 cars of Valencias remaining for shipment and as these will all be marketed before the Florida fruit arrives in any quantity, continued high prices are looked for.

Reports on the new crop in Southern California districts remains unchanged and the prospects are for early fruit from some districts.

In Central California the consensus of opinion among crop estimators is for not over 25 per cent. of a normal crop. Sizes will run large, probably 75 per cent. 126s and larger in many districts. One or two of the best districts are expected to produce as high as 40 per cent. of an average crop. The cause of the short crop is attributed by some growers to frost damage in May during the blossoming period and by others to excessive hot weather during several days in June. As a result of the heavy run of large sizes, considerable coarse fruit will result.

LEMONS.

With the cleaning up of stocks on hand, the light supplies of foreign lemons and the Spanish influenza epidemic, California lemons are again in demand and prices are showing an upward trend in all markets.

Supplies of old stock in storage are all cleaned up but all lemon houses have an accumulation of sweated fruit in storage, because of recent low market conditions which necessitated light shipments, and this stock together with increased pickings will provide an adequate supply of lemons for the October demand.

F.o.b. quotations are on a basis of $4.

All cargoes of foreign lemons in port have now been cleaned up and there are no other cargoes in sight. It is thought that the old crop of foreign lemons is now pretty well out of the way and as the new crop ordinarily does not begin to arrive in the United States until about the first week in December, California lemons should have clear sailing for the next two months.

ENEMY DEFENSE SMASH LOWERS CORN PRICES.

RENEWAL OF PEACE TALK ALSO HAS BEARING; OATS STRONG; RIBS UP.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Progress in the smashing of German defense lines made the corn market today average lower and so likewise did a renewal of peace talk. The close was heavy, ¼ to 1¼ down, with November 1.29½ to 1.29⅝, and December, 1.28⅝. Oats gained ¼ to ⅝ and provisions finished irregular, 5 cents off to 12 cents advance.

Sharp watch of war developments, especially in France and Belgium, shut out all other factors in the corn market except peace tactics and the need of week-end adjustment trades.

Scantiness of offerings seemed to be chiefly responsible for the firmness of oats. Seaboard call was slow, but industrial demand quite keen.

Liberal shipments sent provisions upgrade most of the session. At the end pork sagged owing to weakness of hogs.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Close: Corn, November, 1.29⅛; December, 1.28⅝. Oats, November, 70⅝; December, 71. Pork, October, 37.00; November, 37.25. Lard, October, 26.87; November, 26.20. Ribs, October, 23.22; November, 23.12.

Ha! Ha!

"I am calm," is the message Von Hindenburg sends to the German people to quiet their apprehensions. There is nothing quite so calm as a heavyweight Prussian military idol all out of breath running to save his life.—[Pittsburg Dispatch.

COUNTRY HAS PLENTY FLOUR FOR FAMILIES.

PRO-GERMAN PROPAGANDA IS RESPONSIBLE FOR HOARDING OF FOOD IN EAST.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—In spite of repeated denials by the Food Administration a rumor which has all the marks of German propaganda, is being circulated among Chicago housewives relating to the flour regulations. It has two versions, one that no wheat flour will be sold after November 1, and the other that after October 1 substitutes must be purchased pound for pound with wheat flour.

The obvious effect of the rumors is to induce hoarding of flour and the obviousness of the lie is found in the fact that if it can be spread effectively and cause hoarding to a sufficient extent it may compel the Food Administration to adopt some form of flour rationing in self-defense.

Unless hoarding on a wide scale is started the present regulations requiring the purchase of one pound of substitute for four pounds of wheat flour will continue in force indefinitely.

"The government is satisfied that the supply of flour is sufficient with reasonable use, to last until the next harvest, under the present restrictions," said Reginald Lenfesty, chief of the flour section of the Food Administration. "It has not even fixed a limit on purchases by a family except to say that they shall be reasonable. It is expected consumers will buy flour and substitutes combined in the same quantities they were accustomed to buy flour in pre-war days. It is on this demand that estimates have been based."

NEW FLOUR URGED.
[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—Advent of the new "Victory mixed flour," which contains the required 20 per cent. substitutes, was announced here today by the Federal Food Administration of California.

The flour, which is standardized according to set formulas, will be sold at the same price as pure wheat flour. It will be labeled "Victory mixed," and when it is used no substitutes are required. The labeling of any other flour product as "Victory mixed" is prohibited.

There are no restrictions regarding the quantity of the new flour which may be bought at one time.

The flour will be manufactured in the following combinations:

Wheat and barley flours: Four pounds of wheat to one of barley.

Wheat and corn flours: Four pounds of wheat to one of corn.

Wheat, barley and corn flours: Eight pounds of wheat to one each of barley and corn.

Wheat and rye flours: Three pounds of wheat to two of rye:

Whole wheat: Entire wheat or graham flour or meal to contain at least 95 per cent. of the wheat berry.

Pure wheat flour may still be purchased at the ratio of four pounds to one of substitutes, but the use of "Victory mixed" is urged.

COMMERCIAL.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

The market showed considerable activity yesterday and nearly all varieties of fruits and vegetables moved rapidly, selling at high levels. Tomatoes and potatoes have sustained quite a slump in the past few days owing to the large quantity of poorly-graded stock offered. The recent rains and the preceding hot weather did considerable damage to the tomato crop and it is expected that they will take a further drop next week.

The percentage of the supply of steers has been about one-third less than the supply of cows, and of the steers offered only a very few were of good grades. An active demand for coarse meat such as chucks, plates and rounds placed the prime cuts in the background. The wide-spread of prices of rounds and triangles was caused by the general poor quality of most of the offerings of both cows and steers. Trading in bulls was about the same as in previous weeks. A few medium bulls sold for cutting and the bulk of them for sausage, with very little change in prices.

Receipts at the Los Angeles Produce Exchange yesterday were as follows: One hundred and two cases of eggs, 900 cases of Petaluma eggs, 27,900 pounds of butter, 39,300 pounds of cheese, 1867 sacks of potatoes, 660 sacks of onions, 25 sacks of sweet potatoes and 20,739 boxes of apples.

AUSTRIAN PREMIER QUITS.

Political Upheaval Threatens Dissolution of Dual Monarchy.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 5, 6:15 p.m.—Baron von Hussarek, the Austrian Prime Minister, has resigned, according to a dispatch from Zurich, Switzerland, to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

Baron von Hussarek handed his resignation in the name of the entire Cabinet to the Emperor on Friday. It will be officially announced, the dispatch says, after a successor to Von Hussarek has been found. The new Premier, it is added, possibly will be Prof. Lammasch, one of Austria's foremost peace advocates, with whom negotiations are under way to bring about a great pacifist demonstration.

Reports from Swiss and German newspapers indicate that a great political disturbance is going on in Austria-Hungary. According to the Vossische Zeitung's Vienna correspondent, the German parties in the Reichsrath are sending leaders to the Emperor to urge federalization with self-determination for the German races in Austria. The correspondent adds that Count Czernin and representatives of the constitution parties in the upper house also are going to urge the Emperor to adopt a similar course.

The Budapest correspondent of the Vossische Zeitung reports that Premier Wekerle has requested Count Julius Andrassy to enter his Cabinet with Count Albert Apponyi and Count Stephen Tisza. Count Andrassy, however, will only consent to enter a coalition Cabinet on condition that Count Tisza be excluded and wishes the participation of the Karolyi party and the Social Democrats. No common platform yet exists and it seems there is much opposition to a coalition government.

BERNE (Switzerland) Oct. 5.—Baron Burian, the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister has declared to the Deputies of the German nationalist group that the internal conditions of Austria demanded a revision of the constitution, according to the Nouvelle Presse Libre. The fundamental terms of the revised constitution, he declared, should be an agreement between the various Austrian nationalities. Thus far, the newspaper adds, the Czechs and Jugo-Slavs have refused to collaborate in the proposal to revise the constitution.

The HAGUE, Oct. 5.—Holland has not invited the belligerents to negotiate for peace, it was declared by the Foreign Office today. There is not a word of truth in the statement of the Berlin Tageblatt to that effect, the official announcement states.

The Vienna correspondent of the Tageblatt was quoted in an Amsterdam dispatch of Friday night as declaring that Austria-Hungary had requested Holland to invite the belligerents to take part in peace negotiations and that Holland already had sent out the invitations.

AUSTRIA WITHOUT FLEET.

Only Two Modern Battleships Left, is a British Expert's Statement.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Austria-Hungary has at the most only two modern battleships left, she having lost a large number of small craft and now Durazzo, the advanced base of her depleted fleet, has been rendered useless, writes the British naval expert, Archibald Hurd, in the Daily Telegraph. Continuing, he says:

"Durazzo, practically dominating all one side of the Adriatic, was to the Austrians what Zeebrugge was once to the Germans. No effort had been spared to make it an impregnable port which would be valuable to the Austrians as a base of military forces of the quadruple alliance in Albania and in addition be a pistol aimed at the Allies.

"In this scheme of attack, provision had been made by the Entente naval forces for the co-operation of the American submarine chasers, of which quite a number have been working in the Mediterranean. It was an irony of fate that whereas the Germans boasted of the damage their submarines would do to the Americans, it was the submarine chasers of our friends which traveled about 4000 miles to deal with the German partner at his very gateway.

"The American seamen will be cordially congratulated by their comrades in the other Allied navies on the destruction of two Austrian submarines.

AMERICAN BOATS AID.
[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 5.—A contingent of twelve American submarine chasers played a brilliant and novel part in the Durazzo engagement. This chaser squadron effectively spread a screen around the big ships engaged in the bombardment to protect them against submarines. The Americans were under a heavy fire, but had no casualties. Capt. G. P. Nelson and Lieutenant-Commander P. H. Bastedo commanded the squadron. A large percentage of the officers and men were of the naval reserve, and reports of the operation praise their work highly.

The Americans definitely sank one submarine and damaged and probably destroyed another.

After the engagement they escorted a British cruiser, which had been hit by a torpedo, safely to the base from which the expedition started. An enemy hospital ship also was taken in charge for examination.

Throughout the bombardment and when the forces were approaching the harbor the chasers circled swiftly around the big ships. A report received here says that the men had a good time and evidently were pleased with the success of the first achievement of this character the chasers had attempted to work. Heretofore they have been patroling, dropping depth charges and firing on enemy submarines.

State Supreme Court Decides Railroad Rates Were in Violation of Short-haul Provisions.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad Company was directed to return approximately $25,000 in excess freight rates, with interest, to shippers in the San Joaquin Valley and elsewhere, by the State Supreme Court here today in a decision which said that the collection of this sum was in violation of the short-haul clause of the State constitution.

The suit was brought by the California Adjustment Company, assignee for approximately 15,000 separate claims for excess rate returns developing in 1912. The company claimed the railroad charged a greater rate between Oakland and San Francisco and San Joaquin Valley points than it did between San Francisco and Los Angeles.

The constitution states that a short haul cannot exceed a long haul rate. The decision was written by Associate Justice William G. Lorigan

HUN PEACE OFFER IS VIEWED WITH SUSPICION

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 5.—Army officers about San Diego viewed with suspicion the peace offer of the Germans. One officer high in military circles, whose name may not be used, said: "It's most likely merely another Hun trick to gain time. The Central Powers' troops, pressed to the limit on all fronts, have only one thing to which to look forward—the early approach of winter, which will slow up the Allied attack. If they can stave off the crushing blows we are administering daily, they will have the chance to recuperate during the winter. That may be, and probably is, the motive behind the request for an armistice."

The greatest excitement was caused here by the report that Germany is willing to accept President Wilson's peace conditions. Officers and enlisted men in the city on the usual Saturday liberty gathered about the lobby of the U. S. Grant Hotel and on the streets reading the news and discussing it.

GERMANS HEAR MORE OF AMERICAN TROOPS.

PERSHING'S ARMY NOW IS TAKEN VERY SERIOUSLY BY THE TEUTONS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 4.—The Americans are filling a continually growing amount of space in the battle narratives of the German war correspondents. The former semi-contemptuous references to their scanty numbers or fighting spirit are now rare. They are being taken very seriously.

Both Schuermann and Dr. Koester, who write for the Frankfort Gazette and the Berlin Vorwaerts, respectively, report, on the testimony of German soldiers themselves, that the Americans are cool and daring in attack, although at times over-zealous, and despite losses will come on again, so that the Baden, Wurttemburg and Alsace-Lorraine troops who opposed them in the recent Argonne fighting reap extra praise for holding out as long as they did.

One Baden regiment is reported to have performed what is claimed to be the remarkable feat of "for a moment causing a whole American division to waver," and was only stopped by fresh American reserves and the advent of sixty battle planes.

The American attacks, wherever they occur, are represented as failures by these correspondents. Schuermann says that the latest he hears is that Metz—whose new governor, Lieut.-Gen. Lequis, was appointed yesterday—is to be a Christmas present for President Wilson.

TALES OF HEROISM BY AMERICAN MEN.

PRIEST GOES OVER THE TOP TO ADMINISTER TO BADLY WOUNDED SOLDIERS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

WITH THE BRITISH FORCES IN FRANCE, Oct. 4.—Other stirring stories of individual cases of heroism are now available. Father Frank Kelly of Albany, N. Y., went over the different tops with the men in one day and administered to the badly wounded. He finished the day with his hair white.

Lieut. Ford Terry, formerly a New York public accountant, was with his platoon in advance of the American barrage when the Germans came in from the flanks and forced the Americans to take shelter in shell holes. Corp. Arthur Leader of New Jersey offered to go back through the barrage for help, but the lieutenant refused to allow him to sacrifice himself.

Soon Terry split his men into groups of three and they started to fight their way back to their own lines. They climbed from the shell holes and through the use of grenades gradually forced their way back and reached their lines just as other advancing Americans came smashing through.

On the way back to their own lines, Terry's men saw a dead American captain lying in a shell hole. He had five empty cartridges in his pistol and there were five dead Germans lying almost on the outer lip of the crater.

Twenty New Yorkers who were giving theatrical performances were with the division when it went into action. They immediately formed themselves into stretcher bearers and carried off many wounded under heavy shell fire. Some of them were Sid Mercer, Russell Brown, James Fallon, Stanley Stanley Wood, Harry Gri Roach and Edward Craw

Among the prisoners the Americans during th was a New York German mediately offered to wounded to the car. He and joked with the A speaking excellent Engl had a diary written in Eng

FACT AND COMMENT.

"The night is far spent; the day is at hand! Every dollar subscribed to the Liberty Loan brings peace a little nearer."

This was the comment of Lord Robert Cecil, Minister of Blockade and Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs of Great Britain, when he was recently invited, with others in high government positions in this and the Allied nations of Europe, to give expression to his views concerning the significance of the Fourth Liberty Loan in the United States. The words seem to bring the situation a little nearer home than almost anything else that has been said on the subject.

Peace of the kind that the organized civilizations battling against the modern Huns propose and intend to have is at last definitely in sight. It is in the distance, it is true, and there are many bloody leagues to be traversed and many soul-trying months to be endured before it is within our grasp, but the crisis of battle has already been passed. The Hun is on the downgrade and he can never hope to regain the power of successful offensive.

Sooner or later—it may not be until next summer, or it might be in the next month—the victorious armies that are bearing in on the faltering enemy will smash through to a decisive triumph, and Germany will in her turn be forced to suffer the agonies and humiliation of a military invasion. No one knows just how long it will take to completely subdue the murderous hordes who went plunging through peaceful Belgium in 1914, but the whole world, including the arch-criminals of Berlin, is aware that it is only a question of time. And upon the ability of Uncle Sam to borrow quickly and without any difficulty the last red cent needed to organize, arm, equip and feed the millions he is throwing into the conflict depends, in a measure that only those who, like the British statesmen, are in close touch with events can realize, the length of time it will take to finish the job.

What It Means.

Peace such as the United States and its comrade nations at arms are fighting for means everything to the people of this and other lands. It means an end to the saber-rattling and the "Me und Gott" posturings of the self-styled "William the Great" and his chinless offspring. It means that the peace-loving nations of the world will be able to get together and draw up agreements that no outlaw nation will ever again be able to treat as scraps of paper. It means that nations in the future will be permitted to work out their destinies without having to live under constant dread of an invasion of their rights by autocratic criminals like the Kaiser and his fellow-plotters of Austria, Turkey and Bulgaria. It means the righting of old wrongs of the past. It means, furthermore, the stamping out of the world of the kind of anarchy that has been introduced by Prussian-bought and owned thugs into Russia—and this is not the least of the blessings that peace will bring.

The kind of a peace that is now being slowly but inexorably forced upon the enemy will insure a permanent development and prosperity in this and other countries. The necessity for maintaining gigantic military establishments for the very preservation of their lives has long ground down the peoples of Europe. The crushing of the forces that have been terrorizing the world will free the nations from this burden, giving them an opportunity to devote themselves wholeheartedly to commerce, agriculture and industry. The United States, it is now realized, has been living in a fool's paradise of fancied security for years before the war lord sprung his brutal surprise on the world. The peace that will follow this war will bring the security without which no permanent and uninterrupted progress is possible.

We of the home front can hasten and must hasten the coming of this peace. We have it in our power to shorten by months the bloody business that is taking the bravest and best manhood of the nation. By lending our money on unmatchable security to Uncle Sam, we right here in Los Angeles can help to forward the day when our own and every other community in the United States can resume the normal commercial and industrial activities that spell progress and prosperity. We have no other possible use for our money which could be as important as these.

Buy Bonds! Dig deep and keep on digging! An early, victorious peace in this war is the greatest blessing and the greatest investment that it has ever fallen to the lot of a mere dollar to help purchase in all the history of the world.

FOR SALE—

$10,000 UNDER VALUE

A BANKER'S NEW 11-ROOM WHITE CEMENT HOME WITH RED TILE ROOF COSTING $25,000 FOR $15,000.

In the heart of Wilshire district, on a big east front lot, a Chicago banker built a really magnificent residence. In spite of fast rising sale price of such houses, and the absolute embargo on building, he insists on selling at once for business reasons. Note carefully these few details—but see the house.

Large stately center hall and grand staircase, lighted by a beautiful large Tiffany window in art glass on the broad landing, making a glow of cheerfulness. Extra large living-room, luxurious library, each with fireplace, very handsome front dining-room, all three in SOLID selected PERUVIAN and Juana Costa MAHOGANY, hand rubbed. The sunny bright breakfast-room is a delight and the very modern kitchen and pass pantry have every modern convenience. The wide homelike front porch and the private pergola porch are sweet with fragrant flowers and vines. There's a billiard-room in the basement, gas furnace and large Instantaneous water heater.

Upstairs are FOUR large bedrooms with canvased hand-painted walls, two superb tile baths, SLEEPING PORCH and also two large open porches. Large lighted closets, linen cabinet and finest fixtures throughout.

The maid's room and bath are on first floor, the garage is for 2 cars and like the entire house is CEMENT on METAL LATH, not plaster.

Seven beveled plate mirrors and finest Tiffany lighting fixtures are among the many features which make this home most beautiful and attractive.

Examine every inch inside and out and you would say that this fine residence had been finished last week, so fresh and perfect is every detail. Only the velvet lawn, the verdant shrubbery and many choice plants show that nature has had at least a short time in which to add her charm to the designers.

See this wonderful home by appointment with my exclusive agent at once, as there is a certain advantage in buying this week, not mentioned in this advertisement.

More About This MAN IN TEXAS
Who Advertised:
"AM I CRAZY?"

He offered 10 acres of his lands to every family who would plant and come into his plantation while he retained the intervening lands to those improved.

How would you like to come onto one of our subdivisions, here in Los Angeles, of close-in city lots, three to six to each family, with street work all in and paid for and all city conveniences, and because of your residence upon part of the tract practically earn and create a half or full acre home for yourself right close to your business. I want a number of such families at once on the most wonderful opportunity ever encountered in your lifetime and which may never occur again.

IF YOU

fail to answer this notice you miss one of those rare occasions that seldom confront you.

You probably have not realized your own value.

You have counted yourself as zero in the financial column and omitted the item of greatest value (yourself) in the calculations. You always add value to real estate around which you reside and you possess a citizenship asset of $3000 per family, even if you have drawn your last dollar from bank for Liberty Bonds. You can spend this and buy a close-in garden home with it, if you know how to use it.

It's our business to show you, without cost or obligation on your part, whatsoever.

Over 2000 Los Angeles families have already proved this in our 14 years of co-operation on this line.

Call week days at 2 p.m., Sat. evenings, 8 p.m.

GOOD FARM LANDS
IN CALIFORNIA.
U. S. GOVERNMENT
IRRIGATION PROJECT.
UNCLE SAM'S PET PROJECT,
A PROVEN SUCCESS.

Thousands of acres now in growing crops and our UNCLE SAM furnishes the water for about 20,000 acres of these lands. We are pioneers in this section and sell good farms, improved and unimproved under the project and adjacent.

No. 12—10 acres of choice soil, fine for alfalfa, corn or garden truck, has been farmed, close to town, under U. S. government irrigation. $125 an acre, easy terms.

No. 9—About 479 acres, adjacent to the project, fine loam soil, adapted for alfalfa and fruit, will grow fine wheat or barley without irrigation. This is a fine pumping plant proposition, with low water lift. This land has been farmed for years and produces as much as 16 sacks of wheat to the acre without irrigation, and with irrigation you can get two good crops per year and you can buy this tract now at $75 per acre, easy terms.

No. 10—40 acres improved under the project, all fenced. 14 acres in alfalfa, balance land plowed, small house, barn and outbuildings. An ideal dairy proposition, and close to a good modern town. Only $175 per acre. Easy terms.

No. 2—STOCK AND GRAIN RANCH, PLENTY OF FEED.

You will never find a better all round combination stock and grain ranch, about 4400 acres, total, estimated 650 acres choice grain and alfalfa soil, about 400 acres moist alfalfa soil, will grow great crops without top irrigation, plenty of timber, fenced, has a six-room house, barn and outbuildings. Should carry 2000 head of sheep or 600 head of cattle the year round. Located on a fine road in a well improved section, not far from a good town. There is a special price on this ranch for a few days at $16 per acre, but the price will be advanced to $20 per acre if not sold within a limited time. It is a snap, buy at $16 an acre. Please do not class this ranch the same as a dry range, for this ranch is a sure money-maker. If you can handle this proposition, call or correspond with EASY MONEY FOR MR. WARD.

YOU CAN DO WHAT HE DID.

About 4 years ago Mr. Ward paid us $2800 for a piece of virgin soil at Chowchilla. He built a 3-room shack and a small farm, planted a few acres of peaches and a few acres of alfalfa, reserving some ground for double-cropping. His crops paid for the land in a short time, and last month he sold his place for $9300.

You can buy a piece of land as good as Mr. Ward's at the price he paid, improve it and sell for a larger profit.

A very little money starts you under our farming payment plan at Chowchilla. You can make big money easier and quicker at Chowchilla than anywhere else in California.

BUSINESS INVESTMENTS—

I HAVE BEEN GRANTED "LETTERS PATENT" by the United States and Canadian governments. A "million-dollar corporation" owning one of the most modern manufacturing plants (just completed) located in large eastern industrial center, was specially organized for the purpose of acquiring all my rights to the American patent and now hold my deed to same. More recently my application for patent was allowed by the Canadian government.

I am in the market to make a safe, sane and satisfactory sale of the Canadian rights. Will deal whole or part. When alert "wise men of the East" stake hundreds of thousands in gold coin on a western man's idea, it gives the stamp of "class distinction" to the invention. I do not need money, the American patent has placed me far and beyond any necessity. I will consider prime beet, bean or general agricultural lands now producing at right values, or a legitimate offering in the citrus belt. On an acceptable suggestion will assume or pay difference in cold coin. Prefer dealing direct with principal on whole territory, but will split and consider suggestions ranging from twenty thousand upward. The "INVENTION" is the latest element in the "AUTOMOBILE" world. Address V, box 249, TIMES OFFICE.

MOVING PICTURE PRODUCTION REDUCED TO an exact business basis; investment safeguarded with no chance for loss; a director nationally known who never made an unsuccessful picture; a play pronounced by leading critics one of the best of Westerns, which are the big money-makers; a price practically agreed upon for the finished picture at more than treble the cost of production. We will prove this to you. It takes $10,000 for 90 days and we share 50-50 in the net profit after returning your investment.

BUSINESS CHANCES—
Of Many Kinds.

MANY A MAN HAS BEEN ABLE TO ACQUIRE A fortune from a certain line of business that another would not be able to earn his salt at, and the fellow who could not succeed consoled himself by trying to make himself believe that it was simply bull-headed luck that made the fortune. Business men as a rule don't bank very strong on luck, they know different; they know that whatever a man's calling may be, the road to success is not strewn with roses; they would not part with their experience in their particular line for a great deal, and yet these same men will often make the mistake of attempting to tackle some other fellow's business, thinking they can get away with it just because they have been successful in their own line; now our business is buying and exchanging business propositions; businesses for property and property for businesses; we think we have been successful, because we have been at it here for six years, and those six years have been the hardest six years in this business that the world has ever seen. To be able to have a snug sum put aside for an income tax, to have paid our bills promptly, and earned out money on clean, legitimate business deals, are some of the reasons to think we have been successful. Now do you get the idea we are trying to convey through this ad? No matter what your proposition may be in the way of a business, we can handle it; but just a minute now before you make a bee line for my office. BUSINESS CHANCES—
Of Many Kinds.

ESSENTIAL INDUSTRY—
"SHIPBUILDING PROFITS ARE LARGE."
You now have an opportunity of sharing in them and HELP WIN THE WAR by joining as a stockholder in the newly organized California corporation, TERMINAL WAYS & MACHINERY CO.,
whose plant and shipyards are located on main channel and turning basin at LONG BEACH, near the Craig yards and drawbridge.
An investment now in its 7 per cent. PREFERRED SHARES with the opportunity to participate in larger additional profits will provide you with a safe and attractive income for the future. Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board says: "Let no man who owns a shipyard be apprehensive about his business after the war. He will be busier than ever for many years to come." Our initial contracts secured and some boats already delivered. Money needed to enlarge and extend our present plant. Only a limited number of shares remain unsubscribed. NO TIME TO DELAY. Write for full particulars or call at our Los Angeles offices, TERMINAL WAYS & MACHINERY CO., INC., SUITE 811 MERRITT BLDG., Broadway at Eighth st.

I HONESTLY BELIEVE YOU COULD LOOK California over from one end to the other and not find another proposition like this one, and believe me, the man who buys it gets one hundred and twenty-five cents for every dollar invested, to say nothing of the good will which we ask nothing for; good will is worth nothing in a great many cases, but the good will of a store which has been established ten years in a fine city about fifty miles from Los Angeles, and can absolutely show a net profit of 30 per cent. on the investment, ought to be worth taking for nothing; it's a dry goods and specialty store; the owner is leaving the country, and if you have the money and are really interested in knowing more about this exceptional business opening, get in touch with me at once. The investment is about $15,000; he also has another one at about $10,000, and they are both for immediate sale. Might consider some terms to the right man. RATTRAY, 1003 Title Insurance Bldg.

Reliable, energetic man who can guarantee sales and carry stock of $500 to $2000, depending on demand, can secure exclusive territory and will easily net $10,000 this year. No special experience necessary.
Will also furnish carburetors for other cars in about 60 days.

THREE KINDS OF REVENUE.

BY CHAPIN HALL.

An interesting suggestion has been made in connection with the discussion of the needed reform in the tax inheritance laws of California by a correspondent who would relieve the hardship imposed upon many estates by the necessity of paying the inheritance tax in cash by permitting its liquidation in kind.

Instead of compelling the administrators to convert the estate into money, frequently to its great and permanent detriment, he would have the State and nation accept in payment of their claims a pro rata of whatever the estate consists of. Thus, in the case of the Miller & Lux estate, they would accept the pro rata in land and cattle at its appraised value. When an estate consists of stocks and bonds, a pro rata of such stocks and bonds should pay the inheritance tax, and so on.

The suggestion is rather an attractive one, and could doubtless be worked out upon some feasible line so that the sacrifice of an estate to pay tax demands in a community of which the estate does not consist could be terminated. When the matter is brought before the Legislature next year a provision of this character should find a place in the revised law, which it is hoped will be adopted in place of the present inequitable statute, which is the means of keeping within other jurisdictions several large fortunes and many desirable citizens who would otherwise maintain more than a transient residence in this State.

Los Angeles is asked to loan the Federal government approximately $43,000,000 to aid in the prosecution of the war. A vast sum, almost a staggering sum, to be assessed against a community of this character, and yet when we look upon it by way of comparison, scarcely a drop in the bucket.

This country is spending about $30,000,000 a day, so that the entire Los Angeles quota would run the war—our part of the war—not quite a day and a half. That seems little enough to do. On the other hand, if the supply of funds from this country were to be cut off, the army would fall to pieces like a house of cards, and the whole fighting structure would collapse. The funds of the United States are in the hands of the many, and it is to the many that the government must look to "put over" the big loan.

There is plenty of patriotism, and nearly everyone is subscribing, but the lesson that the committee is continually attempting to drive home is the magnitude of the sum required. It is not so much that everyone must loan, but that everyone must loan twice as much as they did the last time, or twice as much as they expected to. It is the only way in which to sustain our thirty-six hours of the great war.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Lowest prices for the current movement were made in the course of today's short session by some of the iron and steel stocks associated in the popular mind with the war division.

The movement extended to such recent favorites as shippings, motors, oils, tobaccos and specialties of the character represented by Industrial Alcohol and Distillers and extreme recessions of 1 to 2½ points.

United States Steel manifested all the heaviness of preceding days of the week, although closing at a nominal loss. Rails were irregular at the outset, but improved later on Canadian Pacific's jump of 2¼ points, almost half of which was soon canceled.

Coppers and numerous secondary specialties, as well as miscellaneous issues influenced by pools, declined fractionally to two points, heaviness prevailing at the active close. Sales amounted to 235,000 shares.

The enormous credit demands resulted from the Liberty Loan drive were reflected in the weekly bank statement, actual loans and discounts expanding by slightly more than $130,000,000, and actual excess reserves showing a shrinkage of about $10,000,000, leaving total excess reserves at the low level of $36,700,000.

Bonds as a whole were unaffected by the moderate unsettlement in the stock market, Liberty issues being again extremely active and decidedly stronger for the most part. Total sales, par value, aggregated $4,450,000.

Old United States Bonds were unaltered on call during the week.

TWO HUNDRED POINTS NOW COTTON MAXIMUM

NEW LIMITS APPLY TO MOVEMENT OF 200 FROM EITHER HIGH OR LOW.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—A new rule adopted today by the Board of Governors of the New York Cotton Exchange reduced the maximum limit on daily fluctuations from 300 to 200 points. The higher limit had never been reached, but on several occasions there have been fluctuations of 250 points. The modified regulation applies to a movement of 200 points from either the high or low prices of the day itself, or as compared with the closing bid of the previous day. Action by the exchange authorities followed conferences with members of the Committee on Distribution recently appointed by the War Industries Board. The new rule takes effect at once. Range:

SALE AT PUBLIC AUCTION
to the
HIGHEST BIDDER, OF THE COAL AND ASPHALT DEPOSITS, LEASED AND UNLEASED, IN THE CHOCTAW AND CHICKASAW NATIONS, OKLAHOMA, BY THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT.

There will be offered at public auction to the highest bidder at McAlester, Oklahoma, on December 11, 12, 13 and 14, 1918, the coal and asphalt deposits, leased and unleased, underlying the surface of 441,107 acres of the segregated mineral land in the Choctaw and Chickasaw Nations, Oklahoma; 339 unleased tracts aggregating 328,276 acres, will first be offered for sale and next 128 leased tracts containing 112,831 acres. The coal is bituminous and semi-bituminous, mainly of low volatile bunker coal for steamship use, high grade domestic coal, railroad steam coal, high-grade blacksmith coal and coking coal; seams averaging 4 feet thick, with an average dip of from 10 to 15 degrees, outcropping at the surface and extending to a vertical depth below the surface estimated to be 2300 feet at the deepest part of the basin. Practically all of the tracts offered are located near cities, towns and railroads, many being crossed by railroads, making them easily accessible and attractive for mining purposes. The surface is already sold, only the coal and asphalt minerals will be offered for sale. Leased lands will be sold subject to any existing valid leases thereon. No preference right given except to lessees of leased tracts and the State of Oklahoma as to the coal and asphalt underlying State Penitentiary grounds. Government retains supervision over all leases and mining operations until full payment of such purchase price is made and deed issued, when supervision terminates. No person can acquire more than four tracts of 960 acres each, except where such person, firm or corporation has such tracts under existing valid leases. Bids must conform to tracts as advertised. No bids for fractional parts considered, nor for less than advertised minimum price. Bids may be made in person, by mail or by authorized agents; 20% of each separate bid must be accompanied by bank draft or certified check payable to D. Buddrus, Cashier. Terms 20 per cent. in cash at time of sale, balance four equal installments, payable in one, two, three and four years from date of sale; 5 per cent. interest per annum on deferred payments. Full payment purchase price may be made at any time when deed will issue. Local office at McAlester, Oklahoma; main office, Muskogee, Oklahoma. For descriptive lists, literature, free of charge, address Mr. Gabe E. Parker, Superintendent for the Five Civilized Tribes, McAlester, Oklahoma. The United States Government sends out no advertising or exhibit cars to advance or exploit the sale of Indian lands. All such concerns are private enterprises in no wise connected with the government.

MICHIGAN IS TOO SPEEDY FOR CASE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ANN ARBOR (Mich.) Oct. 5.—Michigan was too heavy and too speedy for Case, and opened its football season here this afternoon with a 33-to-0 victory over the [illegible]. [illegible], a substitute, called in to take Usher's place at fullback, featured the Wolverines' play, making three of the five touchdowns and kicking three out of five attempts at goal.

Dunne, the Michigan right end, blocked an attempted forward pass by Case in the final period. Breaking through left end he caught the ball as it left McCune's hands and with a clear field ahead of him, scored the fifth touchdown.

COLLEGES AGREE ON COMPENSATION.

The Kansas Intercollegiate Athletic Conference has drafted rules relating to the payment of all referees and officials for the coming season. Major officials, referees or umpires in football games are to receive $25, while the minor officials will receive $15, in addition to expenses. All officials in basketball [illegible] are to receive not more than $10.

ABOLISH SCRIMMAGE BUCK IN RUGBY.

Following closely upon the action of the Ontario Rugby Football Union in abolishing the scrimmage buck, the Toronto High School Rugby League have adopted a similar rule. The abolishing of the scrimmage buck seems to be one more way to help do away with mass plays in Canadian Rugby football and to make the play more open. It tends to produce more spectular Rugby, and is also better for the spectators to watch.

Their War Gardens.

Planted by the French, cultivated by the Germans, eaten by the Yankees—that is the history of many a bean, many a tomato, many a carrot gathered this month between the Ourcq and the Vesle. Sweeping over the fertile Tardenois in late May, the Boches found the gardens all hopefully planted, and their soldiers were detailed to tend the rows of vegetables which they fondly expected to eat at harvest time. Amid the great welter of things it pained them to leave behind was this juicy crop of garden truck, and that is why fresh celery and new green peas have graced many a Yankee mess on the Vesle front.—[Stars and Stripes, France.

CLASS B TRUCK A WONDER.

Standardized Army Truck is Too Costly, However, for General Use.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DETROIT, Oct. 5.—Predictions that the class B army truck would be the ideal commercial vehicle after the war are not shared by some experts in the truck world. In the opinion of E. C. Shumard, chief engineer of the United States Motor Truck Company, of which the company is manufacturing more than 1000, it would hardly be an ideal commercial truck because of the cost and proportions. Mr. Shumard says, however, that he does not think there is a commercial truck built that will compare with the class B for the purposes for which it is intended. He has made very careful observations of the class B truck, covering many months and over a section of the country which proved the truck to be remarkable in many ways. The testing routes of the company are such that motor trucks are severely punished in their trial trip.

Mr. Shumard says there is little to criticise in the government truck and very much to commend. He was present at one of the first gatherings of engineers at Mr. Meyer's office in Detroit, and at that time was not certain regarding the chances for success with a standardized truck as outlined by Col. Drake and Col. Brittan. He felt that to develop an entirely new truck would require so long a period of time that it would be impossible to get such a vehicle into service of the army at a time when they would be useful, and did not realize the possibilities of co-operation and unlimited government powers under high pressure. Mr. Shumard said it had been the experience of every truck man that time would be required to prove or disprove the correctness of components, and that there was ever danger of discovering errors after thousands had been built. His fears of lack of energetic co-operation and of unselfish devotion to purpose among the engineers proved groundless, and every engineer in the business freely offered his services, and many gave their entire time or half of their time. All entered into the designing of this truck with enthusiasm and with a set purpose, and the result was a truck as nearly perfect for the purpose as could be produced. All engineers gave up their pet ideas when they did not meet with the approval of all, and while some mistakes were made, all of these were promptly corrected, causing very little delay in production.

The rivalry that has existed in the automobile industry between the Ford and the Willys-Overland interests promises to spread to the farm tractor field, and the battle in this new line of endeavor is attracting widespread attention. Henry Ford gained the jump in the auto field by his wonderful standardization system and quantity production methods, but he will not have a monopoly on this advantage in the tractor business, as his rivals will proceed along the same lines.

In the purchase of the Moline Plow Company, the Willys-Overland has, in the opinion of good judges, done more to solidify its manufacturing position by securing a permanent outlet for its immense factory capacity than by any single step it has ever taken.

The tractor business is in its infancy. Production last year was 55,000. This year it will reach 125,000, and next year, if material were forthcoming, it would total at least 500,000, since demand is practically unbounded. While the tractor is highly essential in war time, its need both in this country and in Europe to increase food supplies after the war will be acute. The farmer is finding the tractor indispensable in combating the shortage of labor. The feature about the new amalgamation of automobile and tractor interests is that the Willys-Overland is securing a well-developed tractor proposition. It is already second only to Ford in point of production. It is reported that the Studebaker corporation is in line for additional war orders totaling several millions. When these contracts are closed, the company will take its place among automobile manufacturers with $50,000,000 or more of government business. It is understood the new business is principally for chassis. War Department plans indicate that the Studebaker will soon become one of the large shell manufacturers. Its shell orders already aggregate more than $20,000,000. A list of industries is being prepared by the Motor Truck Committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, which will comprise those industries of the nation important enough, or, in other words, essential to be considered legitimate motor truck purchasers. This list of industries will guide motor truck manufacturers and distributors in their sales of trucks to consumers.

MOTOR INDUSTRY DOING WAR WORK.

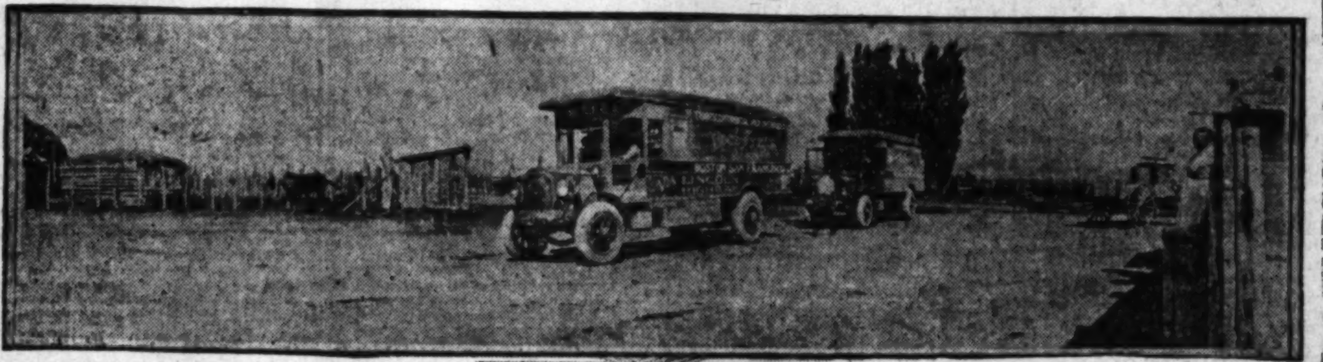
[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—With government contracts on hand exceeding $800,000,000, the motor vehicle industry is rapidly being converted to war work according to reports read yesterday to the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. Some plants are operating on a 25 per cent. basis of government work, while others have turned over their entire facilities.

Passenger car production is giving way to manufacture of ambulances, airplane motors, tanks, tractors, firearms and other articles for the war programme, the reports said.

A review of the gasoline and tire situation indicated ample future supplies for all essential motor car driving.

TRANSCONTINENTAL TRUCK TRIP A BIG FEAT.



By crossing the continent from Boston to San Francisco in twenty-two days, two heavy-duty trucks, a Packard and a White, have written a new chapter in the history of motor-truck transportation.

These were the first heavy trucks to be driven from ocean to ocean and were sent out by the Goodyear Rubber Company to demonstrate the feasibility of heavy-duty trucks for long-distance express service when equipped with pneumatic tires.

WELL LOADED UP.

Each truck was loaded with its capacity of three tons and under the direction of M. D. Scott, superintendent of motor-truck transportation for the Goodyear company, the convoy of two trucks and a Packard twin-six scout car left Boston on September 1 and three weeks later rolled into California with the cars and the drivers in the pink of condition.

While the machines had to negotiate all kinds of roads from pavement to desert trail, they had no mechanical trouble and only three tire changes were made. The big 44x10-inch cord pneumatics on the rear wheels showed little evidence of the strenuous service which they had rendered and looked as though they would be able to negotiate the return trip.

FAST AVERAGE.

As far west as Cheyenne, Wyo., the trucks were driven day and night, as each car has two drivers with comfortable sleeping quarters for the relief pilots. Up to that point they were able to average fifteen miles an hour running time, but on account of the poor roads west of that point and several weak bridges through which the big transports crushed, a general average of thirteen miles an hour was made for the entire run. After a few days in San Francisco the trucks were driven to Los Angeles and then to Phoenix, Ariz., by way of the Santa Fe Trail.

From Boston to Akron the trucks carried cotton fabric to be manufactured into tires, and from Akron a load of airplane tires and parts was carried to San Francisco for the government. At Phoenix a capacity load of baled cotton will be picked up from the Goodyear 35,000-acre cotton plantation and delivered to the mills at Goodyear, Ct.

NOT NEW CARS.

Both of the trucks are a part of the regular fleet of heavy-duty vehicles used by the Goodyear company on their Akron-Boston express line, which has been in operation continuously since April of 1917. On this run of 1540 miles for the round trip the trucks make the trip in from five and a half to six days and maintain a regular schedule beating regular express time on the railways and delivering the cargoes at less expense. They run day and night, stopping for meals and fuel only.

In the fleet are two five-ton trucks, which are equipped with the largest size of pneumatic tires built, 48x12 inches. With this equipment the cars are able to make twenty-five miles an hour on good roads, while the three-ton type, such as were sent out here, can make thirty-five miles an hour and will roll along an ordinary dirt road at twenty and ride easier than the ordinary touring car.

A REVOLUTION.

Mr. Scott foresees in the use of pneumatic tires for trucks a revolution of motor-truck transportation and a change in truck construction to meet with the new conditions of fast express service. While the convoy was able to negotiate the Lincoln Highway, he expresses the opinion that it would not be feasible to operate a transcontinental express line across the continent with the present road conditions, but reports extensive work being done on the Lincoln Highway, which will eventually make it a practical route for such a project.

The huge casings on the rear wheels excited much interest from crowds that gathered around the trucks at every stop and their inquiries elicited the information that each casing weighed 147 pounds and carried 140 pounds to the square inch, of air pressure. The tube alone weighs twenty-four pounds, being heavier than a front tire on a Ford.

With the cushioning effect of the air, the trucks respond very slightly to the jolt of chuck-holes, and as a consequence there is very little road shock carried through the springs to the chassis or motor.

The reduction of wear and tear on the truck and the faster speed permissable on account of the pneumatics will, in the opinion of Scott, make motor trucks pratical competitors of the railways in handling express and fast freight over long distances.

Writing Motor Truck and Tire History.

Here we have the big Packard and White trucks which recently completed a transcontinental journey and are now bound back to Akron on their return trip. The lower photograph shows the huge size of one of the Goodyear tires used to transport the heavily loaded machines across the continent. The upper picture was taken on a desert ranch in Wyoming.

MOUNTAIN LIONS MUST WATCH OUT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 5.—Forest Supervisor J. R. Hall of the Santa Barbara Forest Reserve is in on the big lion hunt being planned by Deputy State Fish and Game Commissioner Jake Barnett of Ventura. "Exterminate the lions and the mountains of California will become a hunter's paradise, so plentiful will become the deer. Every ranger is enlisted in the big drive. Every county in the State should unite, and one systematic campaign would end the creatures," he said today.

Juan Romero, old-time hunter, states that but for the lions the mountains would be filled with wild turkeys. "The State some years ago spent a fortune trying to introduce the wild turkey of Mexico into the San Bernardino Mountains, and the birds were all killed off by the lions. They are killing the mountain sheep, also, which are always protected by the law," he says. Romero is writing John Brown, Jr., pioneer hunter of San Bernardino, to organise the pioneers for the drive.

Packard Truck Proves Master of Continent

The wonderful stamina and mechanical excellence of Packard worm-drive trucks has been strongly demonstrated once more by a transcontinental trip from Boston to San Francisco over the Lincoln Highway.

Using a three-ton truck loaded to its capacity, the trip was made in twenty-two days. Pneumatic tires helped to make this fast time possible.

No mechanical trouble was experienced, as no other work than changing three spark plugs had to be done.

This Packard was one of the fleet used on the Akron-Boston Express line and had made several 1500-mile round trips before starting for the Pacific Coast.

The truck, homeward bound, passed through Los Angeles en route to Phoenix, via the Santa Fe Trail, where it will pick up a capacity load of cotton to be delivered at Goodyear, Conn.

For certain, rapid and economical transportation you should use one of the seven, right sizes of Packard trucks. From one to six-and-a-half tons capacity—all of the same design.

One of their many economies is the successful use of distillate as a fuel.

Fuel Salesmen Requested to Observe Hours.

Some Motorists Have Already had Experience.

Asking the co-operation of the members of the oil industry and the public at large in the movement to conserve man power, D. M. Folsom, director of the Pacific Coast division of the Fuel Administration, has announced that all sellers and distributors of gasoline and engine distillate, without exception, have been requested to limit their sales to the hours between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. The appeal is being made in all States of the Pacific Coast section, including California, Oregon, Washington, Arizona, Nevada, Utah, Idaho and Hawaiian Islands. The limit of hours of service will work no inconvenience on the gasoline and engine distillate consuming public, requiring only a little forethought in order to secure their requirements.

With the public o-operating with the oil companies and making their purchases only during the hours suggested by Mr. Folsom, it is pointed out that a large reduction can be made in the number of employees needed in the distribution of gasoline and engine distillate throughout the Pacific Coast States, and these men released are made available for national service.

Mr. Folsom acted at the suggestion of the Pacific Coast Petroleum War Service Committee, which has been considering the problem of conserving man power for some time, following the appeal of A. C. Bedford, chairman of the National Petroleum War Service Committee, Mr. Bedford stated in a recent communication to the western body that two essentials were to be kept in mind in taking steps to meet the national emergency, first,

"That every man within the draft ages whom it is possible to dispense with should be spared for military service," and second,

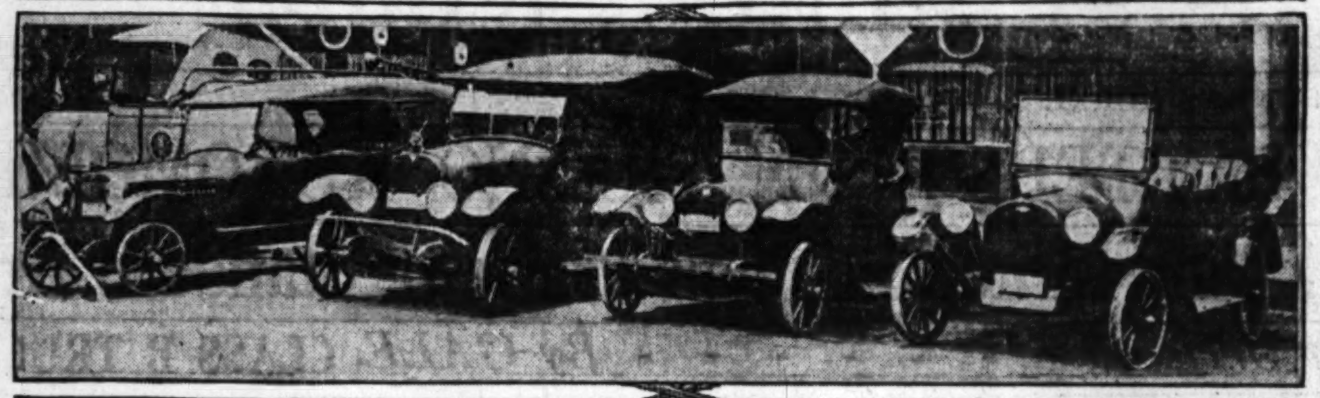
"That the vital importance of the oil industry to the successful carrying on of the war requires the retention of an adequate force to maintain the industry in the highest state of operating efficiency."

GET BLANKS AND IDENTIFY MOTOR.

The identification bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California will gladly furnish all car owners, whether members of the club or not, with a special identification blank designed to balk the operations of the motor thief who endeavors to disguise the cars which he steals. A number of Southern California motorists lose their cars each year because they have neglected to keep a proper record of part numbers and other peculiar marks of identification.

DEALER-SAILOR NOW BLUSHING BENEDICT.

A war-time romance was brought to light last week when Miss Ocy Lee and Mr. Homer Atterbury of Fahy Atterbury Company were married. Miss Ocy Lee, a society belle from Indianapolis, was spending the summer on the coast where she met Mr. Atterbury, and their friendship was speedily turned into a very pretty romance. Mr. Atterbury is at the Naval Training Station at Los Angeles Harbor and expects to be called away at any time.



How Does this Look for One Night's Work on the Part of Thieves?

Here are four machines lined up in front of the Automobile Club of Southern California and photographed by Detective Powell of the club theft bureau. They were all taken from the downtown streets in one night and stripped of everything movable.

IMPERIAL VALLEY GETS NEW AGENCY.

H. F. O'Byrne, of El Centro has been appointed Imperial Valley representative of the Apperson line of standard and anniversary cars by E. H. Philbrook, the new wholesale representative of the Los Angeles Apperson factory branch. O'Byrne is one of the best known motor car dealers in the valley. He has been identified with the business successfully for several years and is thoroughly acquainted with the trade. Formerly an exclusive one-line dealer, Mr. O'Byrne represents the change in policy that is now denoting the business of the subdealers throughout this part of the country. He says the performance of Apperson cars in the valley has made them decided favorites with users there. The eight cylinder airplane type of motor has abundant power to meet every demand in the section of the country that is more exacting of automobiles than any other.

AUTOMOBILE REALLY IS VERY ESSENTIAL.

BUSINESS IS BOOMING IN MOTOR FACTORIES AND INDUSTRY RATES HIGH.

"The programme of manufacturing automobiles is going along in accordance with government wishes. No one of any importance in the government has any idea that the automobile is not a real necessity, I am informed, and now the automobile industry stands better in Washington official circles than it ever has," stated Al G. Faulkner, distributor of the Marmon.

"Today the greatly enlarged plant of Nordyke & Marmon is working at high-tension speed on government work. As to what the immense plant is doing nothing is given out. As regards to Marmon, closed and open jobs, however, I am able to state that we shall be in a position to make deliveries promptly, at least for the present. Our custom-made closed jobs are evidently growing in favor in every section of the country, and particularly in San Francisco and here."

CONNECTING ROD BEARING.

The owner is sometimes puzzled to know just how tight to make the connecting rod bearing. In general it may be said that if this bearing is tightened so that the connecting rod by reason of the piston weight will barely fall over from the vertical position when the bolts are fully tightened up it is correctly adjusted.

To Get at Bolts.

In some instances a nut is so placed that it is extremely difficult to reach with a wrench. Often this may be obviated by reversing the bolt, whereby the nut is brought within easy reach.

ROAD REPAIR IN ONE MAN'S HANDS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 3.—An entirely new plan for caring for county highways has been adopted by the Board of Supervisors, with the appointment of County Surveyor A. C. Fulmor as road superintendent. For this work Fulmor will receive a salary of $1300 a year, bringing his total salary up to $2800. He will have full charge of the county's system of highways, and will be responsible to the board for their repair. Heretofore each Supervisor has looked after the roads in his own district, but the board has come to the conclusion that if the cement highways are to be maintained the responsibility for their condition must be more definitely placed.

MOTORIZED FARM NUMBERS GROWING.

Ranchers are now learning the advantages of tractors for cultivation and in the operation of power machinery of all kinds and following this will come the awakening to the fact that the light weight, economical motor truck is also an essential to transportation and at that time the passing of the horse from the farm will be complete. Already in Southern California are a few completely motorized farms, according to W. O. Gates of the Gates-Kelley Automotive Company, the Smith Form-a-Truck representatives. This country is learning the big advantages of mechanical aids on the farm and a commercial vehicle such as the Smith Form-a-Truck, made by combining a passenger car chassis with truck frame and wheels, will round out the equipment.

PROBABLY WILL BE PLENTY OF TIRES.

The fact no reduction in the importation of rubber has been suggested makes it appear there is not to be any permanent decrease in the production of motor tires, reports J. B. Wood, the Century-Plainfield tire distributor. A movement is on foot throughout the country to reclaim rubber from used casings and tubes and this will permit manufacturers to maintain something like normal output. The large reserve of Para rubber gum the Century-Plainfield Tire Company has had on hand has not made the use of reclaimed rubber necessary, but all manufacturers are now experimenting with the possibility of this source of supply.

PLENTY OF SPARES FOR ALL MACHINES.

Any fear in the mind of automobile owners that the government would shut down on the manufacture of spare parts may be allayed for the War Industries Board has given instructions that the manufacture of these is to continue as heretofore, according to information just received by Stanley W. Smith of Smith Bros., distributors of the new Briscoe. For this reason parts will be made as heretofore and distributors will be able to furnish them from their service departments.

TIRES AREN'T VERY EASY TO SECURE NOW.

"The majority of automobiles built today should be good for many years of service. Cars can be kept in service and give a good account of themselves for an indefinite period providing the owners give them the proper attention," said L. S. Rounsavelle of the Pacific Rubber Company, distributor of Horseshoe tires. "Tires are not so plentiful, as the motorist is beginning to realize. There were some who paid little attention to the news of the reduction in output, and said: 'Oh, we'll get ours, all right!' Well it is just some of those fellows who have found out that the getting of just what they want is not such an easy matter."

SPARE-TIRE THIEF BUSY.

Unusual activity on the part of the tire and accessory thief is reported by Detective John Powell of the theft bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California. The Auto Club sleuth warns motorists to protect spare tires adequately, or else bid the rubber a fond adieu. The latest practice on the part of the crooks consists in driving a car with one or two spares several blocks away from its parking place and helping themselves to whatever movable property can be found on the machine. Thirty-four by four-inch tires are especially popular with the thieving gentry.

Recently a pair of crooks succeeded in removing an expensive top from an automobile standing in the downtown district, this feat being accomplished in broad daylight. Much of the pilfering could be avoided if everyone would lock his car securely upon leaving it at the curb, many careless persons still persisting in leaving their keys in the lock.

WATCH THE TIRES TO SAVE TROUBLE.

One of the factors which sets tires apart from the general run of merchandise is the fact that the conditions under which a tire delivers its value are not only exacting, but very obscure, says Mr. M. M. Robertson of the C. Fred Thompson Tire Company, distributor for Mason tires. A safe and sane driver brings in a tire worn down to the fabric after a few hundred miles. The tire comes before the adjuster and he sees in a second that one of the major crimes against tire mileage has been committed against it, having been applied to a wheel badly out of alignment—a condition which will sometimes run a tire out in fifty miles.

STANDARDIZATION IS HELP TO MOTORISTS.

One of the biggest wastes in this industrial nation is due to a great lack of standardization. The tire manufacturers, for instance, have been content to make special sizes for the convenience of a few consumers. The steps taken by the government in doing away with the many different sizes and standardizing on six sizes only will be a wonderful help to the public and especially to the dealer, says Mr. F. H. Osler of the Osler-Racine Rubber Company, because as it is now a dealer in order to carry a complete stock must have a large storage place as well as have a large sum of money needlessly tied up.

HERE'S A HINT TO PRESERVE CASINGS.

Shift your tires occasionally from the forward wheel to the opposite rear wheel and vice versa, is the advice given by Clarence Ferguson, vice-president of the Lichtenberger-Ferguson Company, factory distributors of Norwalk tires. "I make it a rule," says Mr. Ferguson, "to shift my Norwalks every 1500 miles and am convinced that this results in longer mileage. The slant of the roadway causes tires to wear more on the left side, but by changing to opposite sides this wear is equalized so that both sides receive equal wear in the end.

CAR'S APPEARANCE TELLS ABOUT YOU.

"The make or the style of a car may or may not reflect the standing of its owner, but if its surface is brightly polished and otherwise it is well cared for, that to my mind gives one a line on certain characteristics of its owner," remarked W. H. Damon of the Damon Specialty Company, manufacturer of Nonolio polishes for automobiles. "The owner who gives his car his personal attention generally indicates that he is attentive to details and that he believes in making the most of an investment."

OIL LEAKAGE.

An obscure cause for excessive oil consumption is found in the rear crankshaft bearing. If looseness of the fit of the shaft in this bearing develops the oil is able to work its way out. When excessive oil consumption makes its appearance this is one of the places to look for the cause of the trouble.

LOCKING BOLTS.

Spring washers should never be used in connection with connecting rod ends or with main bearing bolts because these washers have a habit of snapping in two on occasion, thereby leaving the nut loose. The best method of locking these parts is with castellated nuts and split pins.

AUTOMOBILE CLUB HAS NEW OFFICES.

The clubhouse being erected for the Santa Monica Bay District Branch of the Automobile Club of Southern California is completed. All members of the auto club are urged to make themselves at home at this new branch office when driving in the Bay District. This office, located in Santa Monica, is in charge of H. T. Brantley.

LEARN NEW SIGNALS AND AVOID TROUBLE.

The recently approved "common sense" code of arm signals is being used by many progressive motorists. The Automobile Club of Southern California urges that all who drive observe the three simple signals which are as follows: Arm extended upward—turn to the right; arm extended horizontally—turn to left; arm extended downward—slow down or stop without turning.

LOCAL CARBURETOR ORDERED BY EAST.

The Atlantic Refining Company of Philadelphia, one of the largest corporations of its kind in the Atlantic States, after a six months' test of Master carburetors, has placed an initial order for fifty of the Los Angeles manufactured device to be shipped by express, according to E. M. Chandler, sales manager of the Master Carburetor Company.

CAREFUL WITH THE CHAINS.

Tire chains improperly or carelessly applied cause considerable injury to the treads of tires. Care must be taken in applying the chains that the rounded side of the links lie on the rubber, with the rough clinched ends of the cross chains toward the road.

TELLS 'EM ABOUT IT.

Attorney Ivan T. Kelso of the legal department of the Automobile Club of Southern California recently addressed the traffic squad on "The Right of Way." Mr. Kelso is regarded as one of the foremost traffic authorities in the south.

SLEUTHS WATCH CLUB CARS.

That arch-enemy of the automobile and accessory thief, the Automobile Club of Southern California, has delivered another straight right to the solar plexus of the "Gas Raffles." The Auto Club has employed a corps of uniformed watchmen to patrol the downtown district during the theater hours, inspect the cars of members and aid them in parking. The service is unique and timely and is expected to result in a marked decrease in the stealing of machines as well as the pilfering of tires, robes and other small articles of value.

Each machine bearing the Auto Club emblem is inspected by the club's watchmen and a card attached to the steering wheel advising the driver of any minor troubles or infractions of city ordinances which have been noted.

The following items appear on the service card: Flat tire, leaking top, leaking radiator, leaking gasoline, rear light does not shine on license, car standing more than two feet from curb, car standing between sign and corner, car standing within twenty feet of fireplug.

LIBERTY BOND CAMPAIGN HOT.

Various Branches in Torrid Competition.

Last Year's Record Falls by the Wayside.

Quota Surpassed in Each One of Agencies.

This has been Liberty Loan week in all Don Lee branches throughout the State. The salesmen in all cities have worked on teams, and inside the organization there has been in progress a contest for the Liberty Loan championship. Each department has contested against each other department, and also branch against branch.

In total amount subscribed, every branch has gone over its quota, San Francisco leading in total amount with $17,800, against a quota of $10,950. Los Angeles with a quota of $8000, has passed $9200; Oakland has $4150; Pasadena, $3200; Fresno, $2100, and Sacramento, $2000, for a grand total of $38,450. This is exclusive of Don Lee's personal subscriptions in the various cities.

This is $10,000 ahead of the last Liberty Loan drive, and there will be a still further increase. The subscriptions range all the way from one $50 bond to five $1000 subscriptions, and one of $2000.

It is the intention to make the Don Lee organization 100 per cent. throughout California, and this will be done with the return of a few employees this week from their vacations. Already in most of the branches every man and woman in the building has subscribed.

ON WASHING.

The car should never be washed in direct sunlight. If the operation is not carried out in the garage the vehicle should be in the shade while being washed. The direct rays of the sun striking on water causes heating, which tends to dull the finish. In the same way the hood should never be washed while it is hot, as directly after a run.

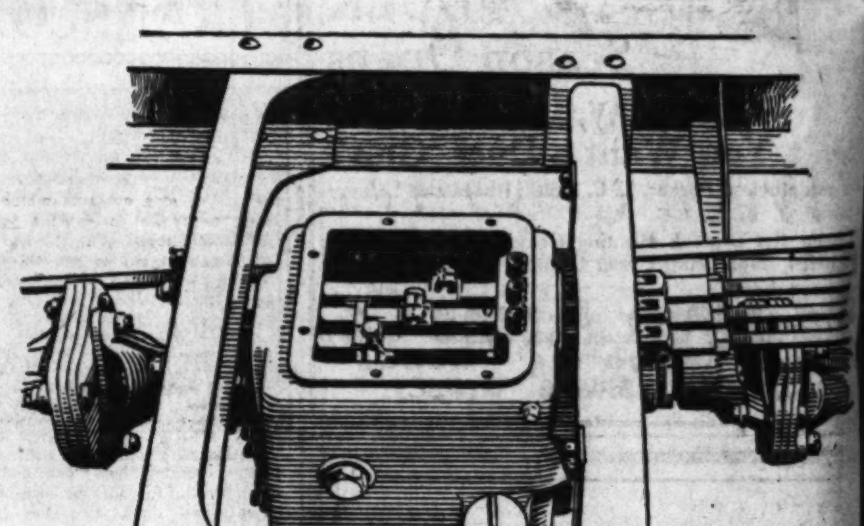
Has Your Truck a Four-Speed-Forward Transmission?

All Morelands Have With the Exception of the Model 17-A

Your Truck Equipment Must Have Four Speeds
Ahead to Operate Successfully in the West



One of the most necessary features of good truck building demands the installation of a four-speed-forward transmission, suspended amidship.

Variable western climatic and road conditions make it absolutely essential for you to operate trucks having this type of design.

The four-speed-forward transmission affords complete power control at all times, a range of gear ratios to meet any condition, and eliminates all drive shaft trouble which may be traced to drive shaft length.

The three-speed-forward transmission mounted in conjunction with the power plant, is antiquated and is not favorably looked upon except in the very small capacity models and cheaply constructed vehicles.

A Moreland four-speed-forward transmission is suspended amidship and is a massive assembly of the finest gear designing and cutting in the industry. It is the selective sliding gear type, with Timken bearings throughout.

We will prove to you the necessity of the four-speed-forward transmission for successful truck operation in the West.

Closed Cars More Popular Nowadays for Long Journeys.

MAKERS HELPED BY GOVERNMENT

Passenger Cars not Declared Nonessential.

Output will be Reduced, but not Eliminated.

Officials Help Builders to Complete Cars.

Increased shipments of inclosed models of Oakland cars that have been received recently by the H. C. McVey Company are one result of the determination of the government to help manufacturers with their output. Contrary to reports that have been spread throughout the country that passenger car making has been declared a nonessential industry and would have to cease January 1, the truth is this branch of the business has not been declared nonessential. The basis for the report probably lies in the fact that producers have been advised to be in position to put their plants on 100 per cent. war basis by the first of the year.

"Many automobile makers have been at a loss to complete their cars that already were made up but lacked one or two parts or something in the nature of equipment," explained Mr. McVey. "The government has asked all manufacturers to submit inventories of the stock of parts and supplies on hand and they will be permitted to continue manufacture on the basis of 50 per cent. of the output for the corresponding period of 1917. Steel that will not be necessary to complete that proportion of the output will become available to the government for any purpose desired. Those makers who have not necessary supplies on hand to continue their production will be supplied with them.

"We did not get any Oakland inclosed models for an extended period and the factory explained that certain parts were lacking. These might have been small things, such as window shades, rollers, hinges or upholstery material. Now that the government is bringing about an equitable distribution of all kinds of supplies among the manufacturers there is no further delay and the completed cars are being shipped to us in quantities so that we now are prepared to make immediate delivery of sedan, coupe, town car and touring models."

Giving Her Time and Her Machine to the Government's Use.

Mrs. R. E. Whitley is one of many Los Angeles women giving their automobiles for the use of government officials. Mrs. Whitley's nifty Chandler Six has burned up many a gallon of gasoline in the service.

GIVES TIME AND MACHINE.

Valuable service to the interests of the nation at war are being rendered by Los Angeles unit of the Women Emergency Drivers, who are devoting their time, energies and use of their automobiles to officers representing branches of the government for whom no transportation provision has been made. Much of the time is devoted to investigating espionage suspects and in helping run down those persons who by words or deeds are seeking to interrupt the prosecution of the war. Through lending and driving their cars these women are accomplishing big things.

Among the women car owners prominently identified with the work in Los Angeles is Mrs. R. E. Whitley, of Van Nuys, who uses a Chandler sedan in the work. When Mrs. Whitley purchased her car she had no thought of some day devoting it almost exclusively to the interests of the country as now is the case. At that time, she desired that it be finished in green, and upon her husband asking what shade of green she preferred, she removed a jade bracelet from her arm and told him that was the color. Accordingly the painter was instructed to match the jewels in the finish of the car.

In the year she has been driving the Chandler sedan, Mrs. Whitley has covered almost 15,000 miles at the wheel. She has twice driven to the Yosemite and made other long trips. She has become so attached to it that she personally takes care of it and has learned how to make adjustments with the skill of a trained mechanic. At that, though, she says the Chandler has given no serious trouble despite its constant use.

SAVING ON TIRES QUITE PATRIOTIC.

The great shortage of rubber in this country makes the conserving of our tires one of extreme importance, says Mr. Wade of E. F. Wade Tire and Rubber Company. It is the duty of every individual motorist to get the maximum amount of mileage out of every one of his casings.

Every tire that has not been abused can be made to render at the very least an extra 3500 miles. This can be accomplished if a motorist will bring his tires in and have them repaired before the tread is allowed to wear through the breaker strip.

WALT MASON HAS A RIVAL.

Freeman A. MacKenzie says: "One of our satisfied customers who owns a Menominee illustrates his experience in the following rhyme:

"'I drove a horse for a long, long time, through the summer dust and the winter time. I jogged along in my one-horse shay and never dreamed that a better way of locomotion I e'er would find, and Towser trotted along behind. A happy dog was old Towser then, he got acquainted with dogs and men; and found fine bones on the right of way, the while he followed the one-horse shay. But Dobbin, the horse, grew out of date, and I bought a Menominee for freight. It covers thirty miles an hour, a thing that throbs with resistless power. Old Towser followed the truck one day, as I rushed along on my trucking way, he kept right up for a trip or two, and then decided he was through, and sneaked back home with a broken heart, and died the death 'neath a one-horse cart. Alas, old dog, 'twas a bitter end for one that long was a faithful friend, but the world hits up such a rapid pace that a dog can't keep up with the race, but must lay him down 'neath the buttercups—and it's true of men just as well as pups — but Menominee trucks are on their way, and will hold the record for many a day.'"

RAIN BRINGS IN LOTS OF ORDERS.

NEW TOPS AND SIDE CURTAINS IN DEMAND FOR THE WET SEASON.

The rainy weather of last week increased the rush of orders for the new roller side curtains which are being turned out for touring cars at the Bentel shops. With the wet season at hand, many owners who have been delaying the preparation of their cars for winter are now hurrying their cars into the shops, according to George R. Bentel.

"We find that the dearth of new cars has caused many owners to continue their present autos in use," said Bentel. "That means they have to be overhauled and refreshed in finish. One of the parts that needs attention first is the top. And it is here where we have made such an impression with our new combination of permanent top and roller curtains. Many sets in use had their first test in the rain of this week. We can trace at least half of the new orders to the rain. Owners who have been fortunate enough to have them installed have been sending in friends anxious to have sets put on quickly as possible. We have increased our working force to capacity."

THIS CAR HAS MANY PECULIAR FEATURES.

HOBBIES OF DESIGNER SHOWN IN NEW MACHINE ON SALE HERE.

"A bundle of hobbies" is the name which has been given to the new Nelson car, the car with the airplane motor, and it is truly appropriate, for in this car, Mr. E. A. Nelson, the great Detroit engineer, has carried out some of his ideas, which have always been hobbies with him in the manufacture of motor cars.

In the first place, this car has an airplane type motor. Knowing that nothing could be better, he had every car hand-painted, for the same reason used chrome vanadium steel, and also stuck his syphon-feed system up in the nose of the radiator, where it might keep warm, and set the valves where they would never need to be adjusted. He uses his own idea of a rear end construction by having a case within a case protecting it, and also has the brakes on the inside protected from dust and oil, while the adjustment is from the outside.

DISTILLATE IS A POPULAR FUEL.

The use of distillate as a fuel is becoming a pronounced habit with Ford owners in California, according to an official of the California Sales Company, distributor of the Holley vapor manifold for Fords, who said: "The number of Fords in Los Angeles county equipped with the Holley manifold is now approaching the 5000 mark. Were it not for the fact that the factory in Detroit is nearing capacity production, it would be impossible for us to equip all cars as fast as they are presented."

ENCLOSED CAR A HIT WITH DOCTOR.

VERY HANDY FOR USE IN VARIOUS KINDS OF WEATHER.

When a car is placed on the market its manufacturer generally has some distinct aim. For instance, when the manufacturers of the Monroe sedan placed their car on the market their desire was to build an inclosed car that would be complete in every detail and at the same time cheap enough for anyone to buy.

Last week the Wright Motor Company, who are now having a sale of these sedans, sold one to a doctor, who readily saw the advantage of having a small car that would give him the same service as the heavier type of inclosed car. These small cars are very economical and are very easy to operate in and out of a small garage, which must be used at most private residences; this together with the fact that these cars protect one from all kinds of weather makes it an ideal car for a man that must be out at all times.

TOO MUCH BUSINESS FORCES A REMOVAL.

Too much business is usually welcomed and not regarded as a bother, especially in war times, but for once it has had a troublesome result. This time business has been so good with the Western Auto Supply Agency that a change of location has been forced which, although a sign of prosperity, is troublesome in mid season. Mr. Baker, Los Angeles sales manager for this company which maintains a string of similar accessory stores throughout the West, has found such a large rush of business that he has moved into larger quarters on Grand avenue near Ninth street and in the meantime thinks it advisable and good business to keep the old store on Main near Twelfth open with the accustomed line of well-established and valuable automobile accessories.

SEDAN THE THING FOR LENGTHY TRIP.

"I never realized that one could encounter so many different kinds of weather in so short a time," said Mr. R. B. Stone in telling Mr. W. D. Dunham, Ford agent, on West Seventh street of experiences in driving his Ford sedan from Chicago to Los Angeles. "One day it would rain, the next day we would be in a sand storm and the next would be just perfect. There was one thing that I certainly appreciated and that was the all-around utility of my sedan. Although I met all kinds of weather conditions my car was always ready to give me the maximum amount of comfort."

PUMP WEAR.

The continued action of the impeller of a centrifugal water pump or of the gears of a gear pump frequently causes wear in the pump. In case a considerable space develops between the impeller and the pump casing the power of the pump is largely reduced. The only remedy for this condition is to install new parts in place of the worn ones.

INCLOSED CAR DOES THE JOB.

Remarkable Trip Made by a Local Motorist.

Goes Nine Thousand Miles Without Trouble.

Tour Takes in Twenty-three Different States.

Having traveled through twenty-three States for a total distance of 9928 miles, L. G. Yankey and his aunt have returned to Los Angeles, after completing what is probably the longest tour ever made in an enclosed car by a local motorist. Their experience is all the more meritorious inasmuch as it was not in the nature of a professional demonstration, but simply a motor tour in the common acceptance of the term. The journey was made in a new Franklin sedan, purchased from Ralph Hamlin, the Southern California Franklin distributor.

Thousands of miles the Franklin sedan was driven over mountain roads and unimproved highways. It penetrated to little-traveled sections, but at all times proved equal to every emergency. Not one bit of mechanical trouble was encountered and in negotiating the 9938 miles, 515 gallons of gasoline were used, or an average of 18.1 miles for every gallon of fuel.

Upon leaving Los Angeles, the first point of interest visited was Yosemite Valley. From there the long trek across the continent and back again began. Salt Lake City was reached over the Lincoln Highway and then the Franklin penetrated the heart of the Rocky Mountains all the way to Yellowstone National Park, passing through Idaho and into Wyoming. Rain and unpleasant weather was encountered in the park, but the argonauts were not deterred. Upon leaving the park, the sedan was routed across Montana to Bismarck, N. D. The trail then led through South Dakota to Minneapolis, St. Paul and Chicago.

St. Louis became the next objective and from there a side trip was made across Missouri into Kansas. Returning to St. Louis the route was across Illinois, a part of Indiana to Louisville, Ky., thence to Nashville, Tenn., and on to Atlanta, Ga. The Franklin was driven 200 miles farther into Georgia, then back to Atlanta, and the homeward journey began at that point. Coming back to the Pacific Slope, the itinerary included Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and home again over the National Old Trails road.

LOOKING FOR LEAKS PREVENTS TROUBLES.

As soon as a decrease in air pressure of more than ten or fifteen pounds is noticed in a tire, something besides adding more air should be done. It is time to look for leaks. The most common cause of leaks, according to Manager N. Bershon, of the Bershon Tire Company, distributors of McNaull and Victor-Springfield tires in Southern California, is the valve of the tube, which should be inspected first. To ascertain whether it leaks, moisten the top of the valve stem and see if a bubble arises. If it does, you should tighten the "valve inside," or moisten the rubber washer with a drop of oil, which will expand the rubber and sometimes stop the leak. If this doesn't stop it, get a new "inside."

SALVATION FOR ALL MOTORISTS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—A "substitute for gasoline," invented by Henry T. Caulett of Trenton, N. J., was tested here today at the Automobile Club of America and will be given a road test within a few days. It was said that today's test showed the substitute developed "a relatively higher horse power than gasoline." Caulett said he could produce the substitute for 35 per cent. less than the cost of gasoline.

Carrying Thermos Bottles.

Thermos or vacuum bottles are peculiarly liable to fracture from the jolts and jars of travel. These bottles should be carried with the top end downward, and so held that they will not move sidewise.

NASH TRUCKS
Nash Quad Chassis, $3600
Two-Ton Chassis, $2440
One-Ton Chassis, $1875
Prices f.o.b. Los Angeles.

THE shortage of high grade motor trucks has intensified the large demand which exists for Nash trucks.

Consequently every single Nash truck which the factory is still able to produce is eagerly sought for by buyers.

Nash trucks are particularly adapted to present day hauling service because they are equipped with M & S automatic locking differentials. The driving wheels cannot spin. As long as either wheel has traction, the truck will drive itself ahead. This saves fuel and tires. It lets Nash trucks get through where other trucks without this important feature cannot go.

We can make reasonably prompt delivery of a few trucks for necessary commercial use to immediate buyers.

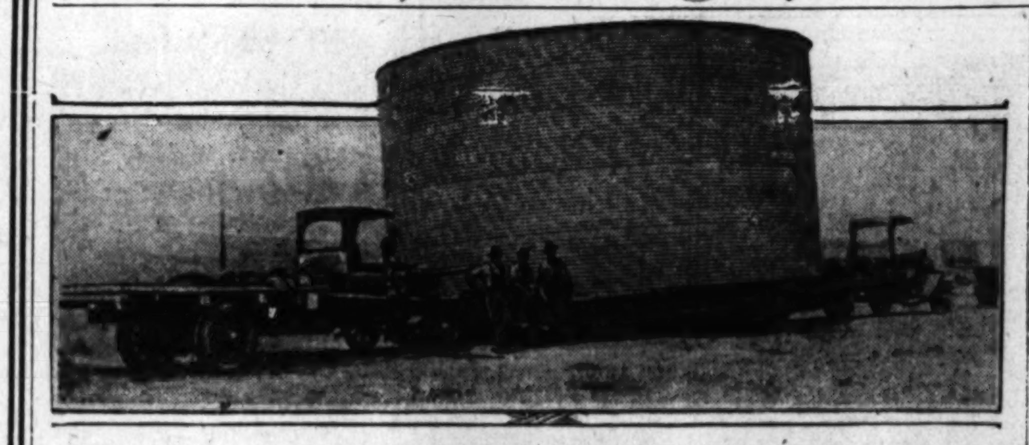
Two Trucks Haul Mighty Water Tank up Steep Grad



How is this for a Little Load to Carry on Your Trucks?
This is a fourteen-ton water tank being hauled up a 12½ per cent. grade by two four-ton Moreland trucks which have the tank slung between them on a cradle. Looks like a real demonstration of what the Los Angeles-made trucks can do.

GIVE USED CAR A CHANCE.

The man who buys a second-hand car—and there will be many of them this fall—generally fails to realize after he gets the car that it is not quite ready for a lot of hard work without any attention whatever. It should be assumed when a second-hand car is purchased that the previous owner was none too attentive despite the pleadings of the argumentative dealer to the contrary. The other owner felt during most of his ownership of the car just about the way you feel when you get the car—like running it and not fussing with the mechanism. However, the wise possessor of a newly acquired second-hand automobile will treat it as though it never had got any attention at all.

To begin with, drain the oil from all compartments—engine, clutch (if not of the dry running type,) transmission and rear axle. You may have been told that fresh lubricant was put in, but that should not stop you. Nor should the comparatively slight expenditure for oils stop you either. Lubrication of a second-hand car is a very important matter. Before refilling the cases with fresh oil clean them out thoroughly with kerosene and clean cloths.

Then go over the whole lubricating system of the car. Examine all grease cups and notice if they need refilling or cleaning or both; clean out all oil holes and squirt clean oil into them. Repack the universal joints, and, in fact, pay such strict attention to the whole lubricating system, including a packing of the steering gear case and steering connection, etc., that you can say positively that the car is properly lubricated.

This done, the next step is to make sure that all parts are cleaned and adjusted as well as possible. You might go over the engine first and tighten every nut and bolt you can see; adjust any moving parts, such as fan belt, valve tappets, etc., that may require it. See that outside parts of the engine, such as generator, ignition unit, tire pump and other auxiliaries, are tightly mounted in place.

Clean all terminals with cloth and tighten the cable ends in place. Really the best plan is to give the engine a good cleaning before any work is done, but some prefer to make adjustments and then clean. If you have not access to a garage equipped with a compressed air and kerosene sprayer to clean the engine, go carefully over the unit with a cloth moistened with kerosene. Get all the parts clean and dry.

Next attend to the underneath parts of the chassis, such as the clutch, propeller shaft and universals and the axles. It is a good plan to go at the more important units first, taking the braking and steering system to begin with. Take up as much slack as you can in the steering connections, and take up on the brakes if necessary. Have all these parts pretty well cleaned of dirt, and if the steering joints are uncovered get a boot for each one and prevent further rapid wear.

If the clutch operation is to your satisfaction and the moving parts of the clutch control mechanism have been properly cleaned and oiled, do not try further to improve the clutch operation. The universals cannot be treated any better than by giving them a good cleaning and packing with grease.

The rear axle gears may hum and if this is quite noticeable to the passengers it may be overcome and should be overcome by adjustment. If not familiar with the work do not attempt it. It means a loosening of the collars on each side of the differential and the shifting of this entire unit toward the driving pinion. This reduces the back lash between the driving pinion and the bevel ring gear.

Tighten all springs, clips, body bolts, and examine the frame for split rivets which should be replaced immediately. Adjust the front wheel bearings and check up the front wheel alignment right away and not after the misalignment has caused noticeable tire wear. If the rims seem to be badly rusted in places remove them and repaint.

Many owners who purchase a second-hand car find that after the top is used once it is not better than a covering of blotting paper. Though one should really test the top to see if it leakes this usually is not done and no thought is given to the top until the car is taken out in the first rain. Waterproofing compounds may be obtained at any good supply store.

A cleaning out of the gasoline line and a general going over the body will put the used car in about as good condition as possible.

THE WORK BENCH.

For the man who wants a movable work bench, an excellent idea is to fix rollers or casters to the legs on one end and a pair of handles at the other. In this way the bench may be trundled about like a wheelbarrow, and yet when it rests on all fours is perfectly firm and gives a solid base for work. It is a good plan to place the vise and tool drawer on the end of the bench without wheels and also to put a ledge around the edges to keep tools from falling off when the bench is being moved.

HERE'S A LESSON FOR ALL DRIVERS.

TIRE COMPANY TELLS WHAT IT DID WITH A CARELESS MAN'S CASING.

From its agent in Skidmore, Mo., the United States Rubber Company has received information which shows the possibilities of additional service to be secured from tires considered only fit to be scrapped:

"Some time ago a 34x4 United States Nobby Tread casing was sold to us by one of our customers, who told us it had been run about 6000 miles, when it was punctured several times. Rather than bother about a worn tire, he sold it to us for 50 cents.

"We repaired the punctures and sold the tire to another customer, who conducts a livery service with a light car. This second customer placed the repaired tire on his car, ran it 8000 miles and then sold it to a junk man for 72 cents. If that wasn't a business proposition for the second customer and Hooverizing at the same time, we don't know what is."

SPRUNG CAMSHAFT.

In case a camshaft becomes sprung or twisted it will alter the valve timing to such an extent that the whole operation of the engine will be thrown out of gear. The cure for this is straightening in a special machine, so that the owner will have to rely on the service station to do the job.

WORK HARD FOR VICTORY.

"Because Bulgaria has quit and Turkey may do so before long is no reason for us to be overelated. For that reason we must push that much harder. There is an immense job ahead of us, and no one can tell when the end will be," declared P. H. Greer of Greer-Robbins, distributors of the Chalmers and Hupmobile.

"I have just received a letter from a 'dollar-a-year' man who at first had only arranged to give several weeks to the government to aid in the organization of certain work. He is now so thoroughly absorbed with what he has in hand that he intends to give his whole time to Uncle Sam until the end of war.

"Despite recent successes, he informs me that the government is going ahead with plans for the future that call for immense energy in the handling of tremendous tasks. In his own department he has work laid out for one year ahead. He tells me that we must all buy more Liberty Bonds than we ever have, if it is so that we can. The transportation problem is one that calls for the marshaling of almost unheard-of resources, and in this labor automobile and truck manufacturers as well as individuals are constantly overcoming new difficulties and making better records."

Hupmobile and Chalmers owners in person and through the medium of correspondence pay tribute to the wonderful economy of these cars, and frequently one who thinks he has made a better average than others recounts what his car has accomplished.

TRUCK PARTS COST LESS.

For the first time since the commencement of the war, Smith Bros., distributors of Peerless automobiles and trucks, has been advised of a reduction in the cost of truck parts. In the case of crank shafts the reduction amounts to almost one-half.

"This is due to the large volume of work the Peerless factory is turning out for the government and the stabilizing of the cost of raw material by Uncle Sam. These two important factors enable the company to produce at lower cost and it is giving the distributors the benefit of the reduction. Accordingly we shall make the same reduction to our customers and I know it will prove a pleasant surprise to them in these days of rising prices.

"The Peerless company, since the beginning of the war, has raised the price of the Peerless eight only 15 per cent. Although it has been manufacturing almost exclusively for our government only of late, it began turning out a vast number of trucks and cars for the Allies shortly after the war commenced. This volume of production has enabled it to secure material at a favorable figure and consequently the raise in price of the Peerless eight has been only as dictated by necessity," said Stanley W. Smith.

TRAFFIC STUDY NEEDED.

"Recently the government conducted a campaign, tied up with its Thrift Stamp campaign, to 'save the thoughtless dollars.' Its theme could be applied to any individual and industry—the motor truck industry not excluded. Today," says M. D. Bixby, local manager of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company, "we have built up an elaborate system of motor-truck haulage. Inter-city travel has lost its novelty—it has become a commonplace.

"And yet, with all its careful planning, with its extensive routes and schedules, thousands of truck owners are throwing dollars and time away because they have not given that same fine consideration to congestion. Truck owners are making three and four big trips a day when they might make four and five. Here is how congestion is destroying truck efficiency—or handicapping it.

"In every city there are spots where congestion is heaviest. Maybe it is at a market place, a ferry, a bridge, a street link between two sides of a city. At some time of the day congestion reaches the peak and a truck caught in the jam may lose an hour moving three or four blocks. Yet if the truck operator had arranged his route so that it passed that place an hour earlier he would have gone through without difficulty and loss of time.

"Federal highway officials have been giving this phase some study of late and have been asking cities to compile census showing the density of traffic at certain hours and have urged truck owners to take advantage of this service and thus increase their volume of business and efficiency.

AUTO TRAVEL ECONOMICAL

It cost S. W. Sawdon and his family, of Manteca, exactly $21.67 to make a trip from their California home to Hoquiam, Wash., and return. This, of course, was exclusive of personal expenses, and represented the amount expended in oil and gasoline for the Chevrolet touring car in which the "outing" was taken.

Mr. Sawdon had occasion to travel to Hoquiam on business, and thought it would be a favorable opportunity for the entire family to visit a married daughter living in the Washington metropolis. At first it was thought the best way to travel would be by train, but the expense proved enormous at "war-time" transportation prices.

Finally it was decided to buy an automobile, and Mr. Sawdon made the choice, a Chevrolet, which he purchased from Lucky McFall of Manteca. The next day the start was made, and from there on there was not a hitch in the schedule.

"At first I thought all this stuff about the way the Chevrolet could climb hills was only talk," said Mr. Sawdon. "But in a short time I realized it was my fault; I didn't give the machine enough credit, and was always too ready to shift gears long before I had to. We used up just eighty-eight gallons of gasoline and three gallons of oil in 2293 miles. The gas cost averaged 22 cents a gallon, while the lubricant figured at 75 cents. We certainly saved money, for the Chevrolet is running better than ever, and is getting even more economical as it becomes 'broken in.'"

TRUCKS HAUL HUGE TANK

New possibilities are being evolved daily in the realm of transportation by the motor truck. Probably one of the most noteworthy tests of strength and power thus far recorded was staged recently when two four-ton Morelands hauled a huge fourteen-ton tank up a 12 per cent. grade.

In days gone by the moving of such a bulky load as this fourteen-ton tank would have proved a problem demanding serious study on the part of contractors. But with the motor truck solving every transportation problem that has been placed upon it, the necessity of increased motive power for the expeditious handling of all kinds of business be-

Barney Oldfield Tells Motorists About Coming Changes.

AIRPLANES AND MOTORS.

War will do Much to Develop the Modern Automobile Engine.

BY BARNEY OLDFIELD.

I have been asked a great many times in the past few months whether I believed that the airplane is destined to exert any marked influence on the future trend of design in the automobile field. To that question I must give an emphatic "yes". The average man would probably say the same thing, simply because he realizes that the power plants of the two types of vehicles are not totally dissimilar beyond that he would have no reason for his belief. I will try in this article to explain briefly just where I believe the airplane is likely to exert its influence in shaping the automobile of the future.

For the airplane to contribute to the development of the automobile is simply repayment of an ancient debt. It was the successful development of the automobile engine that made possible the successful flight of the airplane some fifteen years ago. Sixty years ago the British scientists had solved the secret of flight, but were unable to put it into practice simply because they lacked the engine to propel the plane. Only a year or so ago an American aviator flew the plane built by Langley, in which a modern engine had been installed. So in the beginning the airplane was made possible by the automobile, and now it is about to pay its debt.

In airplane practice the designer has striven for three essentials: Economy of weight, economy of fuel and maximum power. The original airplane engine was practically an automobile engine lifted out bodily. This served for the early flutterings, but the designers have gone a long way since then. They have found methods of reducing the weight and fuel consumption, of increasing the power, and they have made remarkable progress in carburetion and ignition efficiency and particularly in lubrication. This latter has been one of the real problems of the airplane designers. Now every one of the improvements in engine design for aircraft use is going to be copied later on by the automobile engineers. In the aircraft engineers' campaign to reduce the weight of their power plants they were forced to do much experimental work with the metals at hand, which were just the same as those that the automobile engineers already had. The metallurgist working with the airplane engineer has found how to make steels of strength far beyond anything that was thought possible before. In that way he has achieved the economy of weight, which was one of his problems in the beginning.

In the search for more power the airplane engineer has found out how to increase the power, at the same time that he was decreasing the weight. To this factor is due much of the present-day plane's marvelous ability to climb.

In the matter of producing economy of fuel, the airplane designers have wrought what might almost be called a miracle of mechanics. An airplane might be a marvel of efficiency in other respects, but if it consumed more than a given maximum of fuel, it would be useless for flights, since so much space and weight would have to be devoted to the gasoline that the rest of the machine's virtues would be worthless. The modern military planes fly at rates varying from 100 to 150 miles per hour, and have a cruising radius of anywhere between 500 and 600 miles. Therefore it is evident that the fuel-economy problem has been solved. Will not the automobile engineers seize on the knowledge that has been acquired along these lines to give us medium weight cars that will give twenty-five or thirty miles per gallon?

In their quest of added power, the airplane engineers have learned many things in regard to crankcase rigidity and efficient gasketing. To get increased power with decreased weight, it was necessary, as we have noted, to obtain much higher compression than is used in automobile power plants. The development of an absolutely leak-proof method of gasketing is a feature of airplane design that will be certain to be copied into the automobile power plants of the tomorrow after the war is won.

Another particular in which the airplane engineer has carried automobile practice to an advanced point, is in achieving compactness of design. It is a self-evident fact that the plane engine must take up just as little room as possible. The automobile engineer has never been quite so circumscribed in the area of his plants, and naturally he has used all the room available. After the war, when our designers really get a chance to work out new power plants embodying the knowledge achieved during the great conflict, we shall have automobile engines compact beyond anything in use today.

For airplane service, a maximum accessibility of parts has been desirable, and the designers have devoted considerable attention to producing this condition. Perhaps we shall also see this lesson reflected in the automobile power plants of the future.

In many ways the designer of airplane engines has had a more difficult job on his hands than any that ever confront the engineer evolving a power plant for the automobile. He has had to reduce weight, add power, reduce fuel consumption and solve a lubrication problem far more difficult than that of a power plant of a road vehicle. In one particular, however, the aircraft engineer has had a great advantage over his brothers in the automobile field, and that is in the matter of expense. The automobile engineer has had to keep the factor of expense in mind always. Even if he knew that a certain kind of steel would give him just the results he desired, he could not use it if the expense involved interfered with the price that was to be set on the finished vehicle. On the other hand the designer working on an airplane engine for the military use of one of the government's at war, need not consider the matter of expense for a minute. He can experiment with metals endlessly until he finds just the one suited to his purpose, and then use it regardless of cost. This situation undoubtedly explains some of the remarkable advances in design and construction that have been made. Even after the war our automobile engineers will never be able to disregard this factor of cost, but they will use the lessons learned by the plane designers just the same.

It is not too much to say in summing up that the automobile engine of the future will be smaller, lighter, relatively higher powered, consuming less gasoline, more efficiently lubricated, and all this because of the efforts of the airplane designers. There will be other improvements beside these, but these are the principal ones, and on them we may rest our case.

Barney Oldfield: I have a 1916 Ford with two nonleak rings in top of pistons. Nos. 1 and 2 seem to pump oil. Is it possible that the rings are fitted too tight? I have air holes in valve cover plates, but that does not seem to help. The engine carbonizes rapidly and heavily. Will you help me out? JOHN H., Buffalo, N. Y.

It is possible that rings have been improperly fitted. When you refit the rings measure the cylinders and pistons and see if there is any variation in bore and diameter. The cylinders, if badly out of round, would cause the trouble. The carbonization is due to the oil burning. How is the oil level?

Barney Oldfield: I am annoyed by my car spitting at low speeds, but she runs fine at thirty and thirty-five miles per hour. Please suggest a remedy. J. H. C., Philadelphia.

For spitting at low speeds I would attend to the carburetor first, the fuel feed second and the ignition third. Too rich a mixture might act all right at high speeds, but not at a low speed.

Barney Oldfield: Do such cars as the Chevrolet and Dodge, which have a storage system for starting and lighting, use a magneto? Does the engine take its current from the battery or from the generator. If the battery goes dead how can you run your car? L. S. E., Warren, Mass.

In such battery systems as you mention there is no magneto, but simply a storage battery and generator, with a distributor from which the current goes to the various parts which use it. The generator, when running fast, supplies current for the lights and ignition and sends what is left over to the battery to charge it. A magneto is an entirely separate attachment and is not used on many cars using the battery system, such as the Dodge and the Chevrolet. If you remove the storage battery you can connect dry cells for starting and the generator can be made to feed when the engine runs fast. If the battery goes dead on the road you can keep going by running the engine fairly fast so the generator supplies ignition current. Write the Auto-Lite Company, Toledo, O., for one of the instruction books on the Chevrolet system.

Barney Oldfield: I have an Overland truck which is in fine repair and which has been giving good service. Recently, however, we have had to take from a half to an hour and a half to start it. No matter how much we crank, it is the same. We have carried it to several garages, but the next morning it balked the same. Maybe you can suggest a remedy. A. L. H., Norristown, Pa.

Usually in such mysterious cases the trouble is in the wiring. Check this up carefully and I'll bet you will find a short or an open circuit somewhere. Vibration makes the contact at times and then it is easy to start. Then the connection is loosened and you can crank for a week and it will not start. Check up by laying the plugs on the cylinders and turning by hand to see if you get a good spark.

Barney Oldfield: What do you know about the Roof sixteen-valve overhead cylinder heads? Would this give more power? With a Bosch high-tension magneto what would cause the motor to heat? When should it get the spark? When the piston is clear up or when it just starts down? S. AUTOS, Ford, Pa.

The sixteen-valve head will give some more power. It is successfully used in racing. If you think the heating is caused by poor ignition it is because the spark advance is not enough. On advance the spark takes place a little before the piston reaches dead center. On retard the spark occurs after the piston has passed center.

REMOVE THE OIL.

Almost every car owner today knows that oil or grease is very bad for rubber, acting as a solvent and destroying the material. When grease or oil gets on the casing, either of them can be removed by a rag saturated with gasoline. While gasoline is a form of oil, it evaporates so rapidly that when used in small quantities, it does not harm the rubber.

Little Things Like Cyclones Don't Bother this Family Party.

This is the Liberty Six owned by Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Goodrich of this city, who recently completed quite a lengthy trip in it.

CAR SURVIVES CYCLONE.

Leaving here on July 20 in their Liberty touring car for a transcontinental trip, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Goodrich of this city have just returned after passing through some interesting and unusual experiences which are given to few people to encounter.

Going out over the old Santa Fe Trail and striking fairly good roads for the trip, Mr. Goodrich on the tenth day out pulled into Topeka, and one of the first things he did there was to give some assistance to a party of nine persons crowded in one car who were going to a dance.

When he arrived on the scene their car was bottom side up, with all four wheels in the air, and yet not one of the nine had been hurt. After hooking on to his car with his skid chains, the party went on to the dance.

From Topeka the Goodrich party drove to St. Paul, Minneapolis and back, and both the going and return trip was made in hail and rain and miles of mud. Those who have been in Kansas will appreciate what Kansas mud really is.

Shortly after leaving Topeka on the return trip, Mr. Goodrich pulled into the wake of a cyclone, and one of his most unusual experiences was meeting another Liberty car, which had received the full force of the cyclone, and, after being rolled over and over, sideways and endways, for over a mile by the tornado, and having fenders, top, windshield and almost the whole body torn off, the plucky Liberty was being run into Topeka under its own power.

While the eastward trip had been a pleasant one, the return trip was 75 per cent. mud and rain, and in two or three places cloudbursts had absolutely obliterated every trace of the road, and for miles the Liberty party had to make its own road.

In spite of the fact that in one day they had forty-one miles of low-gear work, and every day a considerable amount of it, they averaged fifteen and one-half miles to the gallon of gasoline for the 6000 miles and more and only six gallons of oil were used.

This is the second Liberty which Mr. Goodrich has owned, and after the wonderful performance of the car on this trip, no greater booster for this car can be found, which, according to Lynn C. Buxton, is saying something, for many fine testimonials have been received regarding the Liberty.

SUIT HOLDS UP ROAD BUILDING.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 3.—There will be no Porterville-Woodville county highway until after the war. Controversy over the routing of the highway, which has resulted in an injunction suit against the Board of Supervisors, made it impossible to file application for a permit for the construction within the legal time limit. As a result, the State Highway Commission has notified local contractors that they have found it necessary to disapprove of this construction until after the war.

However, the injunction suit, which was filed in the name of Dan Cattaneo of Poplar, and in which it is sought to prevent the Board of Supervisors from making any change from originally-announced plans, will be brought to issue in the Superior Court next Monday.

GOOD ADVICE FOR ALL MOTORISTS.

GASKET CUTTER.

The man who does all the work about his car will find the little device known as a gasket cutter of great help to him. It is almost impossible to cut an accurate gasket with a knife or scissors, but with the cutter these little necessities may be made with absolute accuracy. A cutting blade is carried on this device on a sliding bar, so that any sized gasket may be obtained.

JACKET REPAIR.

A neat repair of a cracked water jacket may be made in the following way, provided the crack is so small that the water merely seeps out. The interior of the jacket is thoroughly cleaned out and filled with a solution of sulphate of copper or blue stone. This leaks out through the crack and in so doing deposits a thin film of pure copper that seals the crack.

WATER LEAKS.

In engines that are provided with a plate on the side to facilitate work on the interior it is not uncommon to find that water is escaping here in spite of the rubber and fabric composition with which it is sealed. As a general thing this condition may be remedied by simply painting the plate with shellac or red lead and then screwing it tightly into place.

PITTED VALVES.

The average car owner does not seem to realize that grinding will not cure a badly-pitted valve head and seat. In cases where this condition exists, the valve should be removed and smoothed down on a lathe or valve reseating tool, and the seat should be similarly treated before the two are placed together for the grinding that will give them perfect contact.

CURING GRABBING.

It has been found that thin strips of rubber installed beneath the leather of the cone clutch generally serve to eliminate the grabbing which is one of the most annoying traits of this part.

VISE USEFULNESS.

Not only is the heavy vise a valuable part of the garage equipment for its obvious service, but it may often be advantageously used for straightening out bent parts. In doing this care should be taken to place the part to be operated on in such a way that the pressure comes against the support of the vise, as this obviates severe strain on the outer jaw and screw thread.

EASY ON THE CLUTCH.

One of the very commonest mistakes in driving is the "riding" of the clutch, which perhaps a majority of operators indulge in. If the foot is kept constantly on the clutch pedal, even though lightly, the action causes rapid wear of the clutch thrust bearing, and clutch slipping. If the clutch is of the cone variety, the facing is worn excessively, while in the disclutch in oil the extra heat tends to thin the oil, and permits grabbing. Drivers should keep off the clutch except when it is to be operated.

OIL CUPS.

Many car owners are finding that oil cups may be substituted for the grease cups commonly used in many locations on the chassis, with eminently satisfactory results. The oil cup need be filled but once a month, perhaps, and it needs no turning down to perform its function. However, where the grease cup is mounted horizontally and an oil cup is to be substituted, some sort of connection will be needed to keep the oil cup straight.

AFTER GRINDING VALVES.

It is possible to tell just how successful the operation of grinding valves has been by the following simple process. Mark the face of the valve all around lightly with a soft lead pencil. Then place the valve in position, turn it on its seat for a few minutes, and remove it. If the entire pencil marking is removed, there is contact all around, but if anything is left, the point where face and seat do not meet is readily apparent.

CLUTCH AILMENT.

If the sliding member of the clutch is rusty, it will give the effect of a grabbing member. The rusted portion will prevent the clutch's engaging gradually holding for a fraction of a second, and thus forcing a quick engagement. The operator often believes that the trouble is due to poor facing or worn engaging members.

CARBURETOR TROUBLE.

When the engine runs jerkily the obvious cause is carburetor trouble. To locate the trouble prime the carburetor and watch for dripping. If there is no dripping the trouble lies between the tank and the float valve. If there is free dripping, the trouble may be looked for between the float valve and the engine cylinder.

MOTOR ADJUSTMENTS.

Adjustments made on the engine while it is cold seldom are satisfactory in actual operation. The engine heats up when running, and the metal expands with the warmth, which nullifies the valve adjustments made when the metal was cold.

CAUSE OF MISSING.

A not infrequent cause of spasmodic engine missing is either moisture or grease in the ignition distributor face. The current passes across the surface of the water or oil instead of pursuing its proper course. It is a good plan to give the distributor a cleaning at frequent intervals.

WATER AND TIRE WEAR.

Wet rubber cuts much more easily than the same substance dry. For this reason the wise car owner does not try to speed over wet roads where any chance thrown sharp stone gets an opportunity to do maximum damage.

DRY CELLS IN WINTER.

Owners who have been using five dry cells for ignition in summer will find it a good plan to couple on two more cells for cold weather use, as the cold subtracts noticeably from the power of these cells.

POLO GROUNDS GAME.

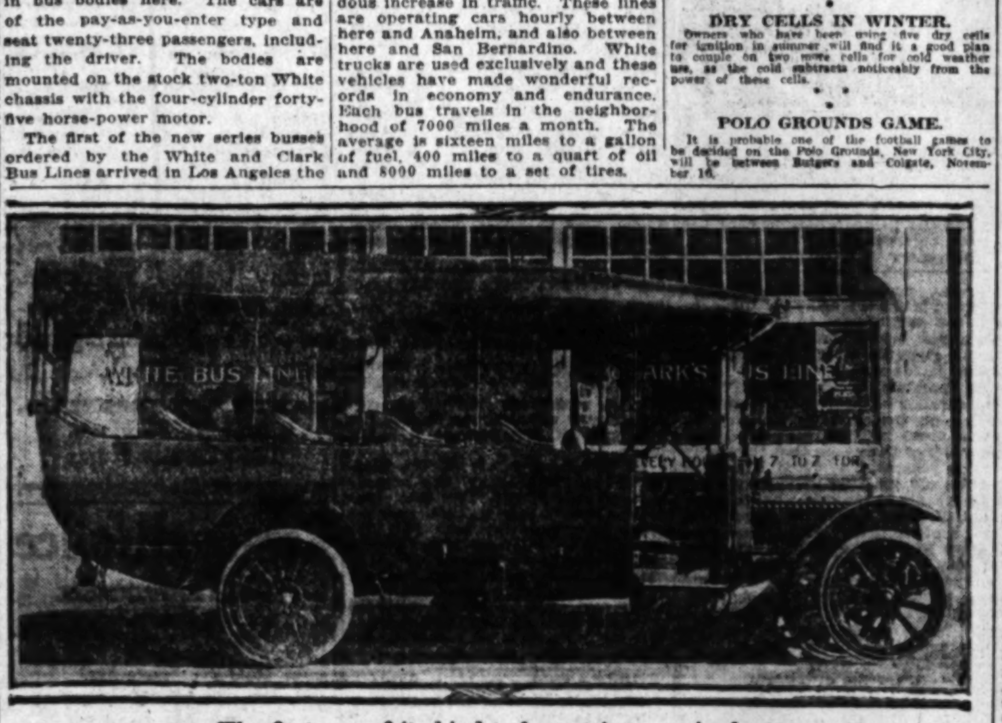
It is probable one of the football games to be decided on the Polo Grounds, New York City, will be between Rutgers and Colgate, November 16.

NEW TYPE OF BUSSES HERE.

Coming head-on with a recent increase in their equipment, the White and Clark Bus Lines announced an addition of ten new White stages. The cars are standard models manufactured by the White Company of Cleveland and offer a new departure in bus bodies here. The cars are of the pay-as-you-enter type and seat twenty-three passengers, including the driver. The bodies are mounted on the stock two-ton White chassis with the four-cylinder forty-five horse-power motor.

The first of the new series busses ordered by the White and Clark Bus Lines arrived in Los Angeles the other day. This new creation is only one of ten to be put in operation here. The construction of these new busses is the same as any railroad coach; the seats set crosswise, with an aisle in the center.

With the new additional equipment these two local bus lines are better fitted to handle the tremendous increase in traffic. These lines are operating cars hourly between here and Anaheim, and also between here and San Bernardino. White trucks are used exclusively and these vehicles have made wonderful records in economy and endurance. Each bus travels in the neighborhood of 7000 miles a month. The average is sixteen miles to a gallon of fuel, 400 miles to a quart of oil and 8000 miles to a set of tires.



The first one of its kind to be put into service here.

This is the new White truck bus which has just been put into service here by the White Bus Line. It has upholstered seats divided by an aisle much like a railroad car.

DEBRIS CLEARED FROM THE RIDGE.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 4.—The Ridge Route between Los Angeles and Bakersfield through the Tejon Canyon has been cleared of the debris caused by a violent cloudburst several days ago, and automobile tourists and stage lines are again using the highway in preference to the longer route, via Mojave and Tehachepi. No less than six automobiles were marooned in the mud that covered the road, and tow cars from the Automobile Club of Southern California were dispatched from Los Angeles to pull the troubled motorists out of the muck.

NORMAL SHORTAGE OF CARS CERTAINTY.

FIGURES GIVEN ON WHAT WE MAY EXPECT IN A FEW MONTHS.

Predictions by experts on motor car production and consumption estimate that there will be a normal shortage in automobiles of 125,000 for the year 1918. This is based on the records of the past, that show that each year the number of cars withdrawn from service approximates that produced four years previous. Approximately 625,000 cars will be retired during 1918, or the number produced in 1914, which gives a deficit of 125,000 for the year, as production will be but 500,000 cars owing to limitations. In 1917, it was recorded that about 542,000 cars were retired, the number produced in 1913.

"For some time the public has heard warnings of a shortage in cars for 1919 and at last this fact has begun to be appreciated," states James L. Irying of the Irving Motor Car Company, distributors of the Cole eight and Elgin six. "Present indications are that there will not be an automobile made after January 1, during the remainder of the period of the war."

SIERRA SPORT IS BEST EVER.

Fish and Game Commissioner on Golden Trout Plants.

Success of Species is Beyond Fish Experts' Hopes.

Big Trout Taking Fly Freely up in Aqueduct Waters.

Fish and Game Commissioner M. J. Connell returned yesterday from a month in the High Sierras, passed mostly in checking up on the success of the State's heavy experimental plantings in spreading the wonderful golden trout, and demonstrating that the steelhead or sea-run form of the rainbow would revert to stream type when placed in lakes without outlets.

Incidentally, the commissioner enjoyed some of the most wonderful fly fishing in his many years experience covering the Rockies, Sierras and northern coastal streams. That the fish-planting work as conducted by California has succeeded in improving upon nature beyond his expectations, or even hopes, is the official verdict.

"For the first time in fish cultural history, we have succeeded in propagating the delicate golden trout from eggs, and instead of the slow planting of mature fish, ten or twenty to a pack can, and at best, perhaps three dozen to a pack animal, we will next week begin upon distributing fry from Mt. Whitney, 2000 to a can. The speeding up of our golden trout propagation by this method means that sportsmen five years from now will find these wonderful fish in every Sierran lake and stream that our experts think to suit their very exacting needs. To assure that every lot is planted to the best advantage after the most careful handling in transit, I gave orders that no shipment should leave Mt. Whitney hatchery without one of our experts in charge, who will personally oversee everything done. Deputy Ober, recognized as the foremost of Sierra experts, will devote his time to this most important work until completed. We will make heavy plantings in Rock Creek, Convict Creek, Mammoth Creek and McGee Creek. Next year, we expect to substitute golden for eastern brook trout in Mt. Whitney operations, and intend with fair luck to hatch millions where we raised some 600,000 this year—enough to demonstrate the entire feasibility of handling them as other trout are propagated, despite the misgivings of many skilled fish culturists, who had failed utterly with golden trout fry work."

"Of the adaptability of the golden trout there is no longer any question. I myself saw them two feet long in Shadow Lake, where we planted them, a few adult fish, five years ago. On the stream, we took trout of six inches, also two-year olds, demonstrating that the fish are propagating naturally."

"Cottonwood Lake's egg-taking station will handle the capacity of the streams for egg production of golden trout next spring, and Mt. Whitney hatchery will become the most unique fish-rearing plant in the world, as it already is the most modern and complete; for it will be the only institution specializing upon golden trout. This year's distribution will be made entirely by motor truck."

Asked how the fishing compared with sport of previous years with which he is personally familiar from maintenance of a summer camp near Mammoth for many seasons, the Fish and Game Commissioner said:

"Wonderful."

"Sierra sport always was good; it is much better than ever and has so encouraged us over the profits of practical fish-planting work that we mean to keep at it until all the streams and lakes, many of which still are barren, are stocked to their limits of maintenance with the finest varieties we know—the golden and native rainbows. The eastern brook and Loch Leven, cutthroats, all did exceedingly well; but the native rainbow outclasses them in gameness and delicacy, while for beauty the rare golden trout is in a class by itself, without equal or even competitors. We caught those fighting rainbow, pounders, two-pounders; a lot we simply presented our compliments to and off they went! No man, and no tackle will hold all those fish. One of our boys got a seven-pounder in Owens' River—I hear it weighs eleven now; but you know, fish are the only thing whose growth goes on after they are dead. That was a Loch Leven. Fishing in the Owens River through Long Valley has been phenomenal. I saw many who were up in the mountains, all telling the same story; fish, fish, no end. We could use but few, so specialized on big ones upon No. 14 flies and the lightest of tackle, getting all the sport possible out of those we saved, and releasing all small or medium trout up to a foot or so."

Word came yesterday from Frank Richmond of El Centro to the Fish and Game Commission that "reports of duck damage, like Mark Twain's death "were very much exagerated." "Truth is," said Richmond, "that the ducks have all left the valley and gone down across the line to the Laguna Salada, which is alive with them. A month ago, the north end of the valley was full of ducks, but at no time were they being shot and left to rot, or fed to hogs as some people reported. There is much feed across the line, and another month will see more birds in the north end of the valley when the northern flight arrives; perhaps sooner."

CRAWFISH SEASON OPENS NEXT WEEK.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 5.—The crawfish season opens October 15. Fishermen are now completing their arrangements for a big catch. A number of camps have been established on the channel islands and hundreds of crates are now ready. Rumors that some fishermen have already put their traps in the water are denied by the best-informed fishermen. In past years the custom had been to catch several tons in advance of the season, and bring them to the mainland on the opening day, but the Fish and Game officers have lately been on the watch to enforce the law. From every report the season will be fairly good.

SWEEPING RULING ON BASEBALL SALARIES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—A sweeping ruling against attempts of major-league baseball players to collect salaries on contracts extending beyond September 1, the date fixed by the government for the suspension of professional baseball, was handed down tonight by the National Baseball Commission, which held such claims to be unjustified and illegal. The decision was announced by President Johnson of the American League, a member of the commission.

a—Better than 9-14.

d—White sets up an interesting problem for Black to play and draw. The Black position looks strong, but is fragile.
e—Only move. 2-7 loses by 13-9; 15-18 loses by 30-25, and 12-16 loses by 28-24.
f—If 28-24, Black can now go 2-7, permitting the shot.
g—White must now be careful about his draw.

BRANNOCK HALL AGAIN A BARRACK.

Under the historic elms of the campus of Central College at Fayette, Mo., lads in khaki are marching with military step to and from classes, a little more brisk and alert than students have marched in years past, says the Kansas City Star. The sound of the reveille now arouses them, as it does the population of the town. It summons them from dormitories, recently converted into barracks according to government regulations, to the assembly, their setting-up exercises, and mess.

The old elms looking down upon companies of youthful men at drill seem to whisper in surprise at the change of scene. Ninety years ago they lent their shade to sons of the first settlers of Howard county, who toiled up the path to the "little red college" on the hill, many of these boys later becoming leading men of the State.

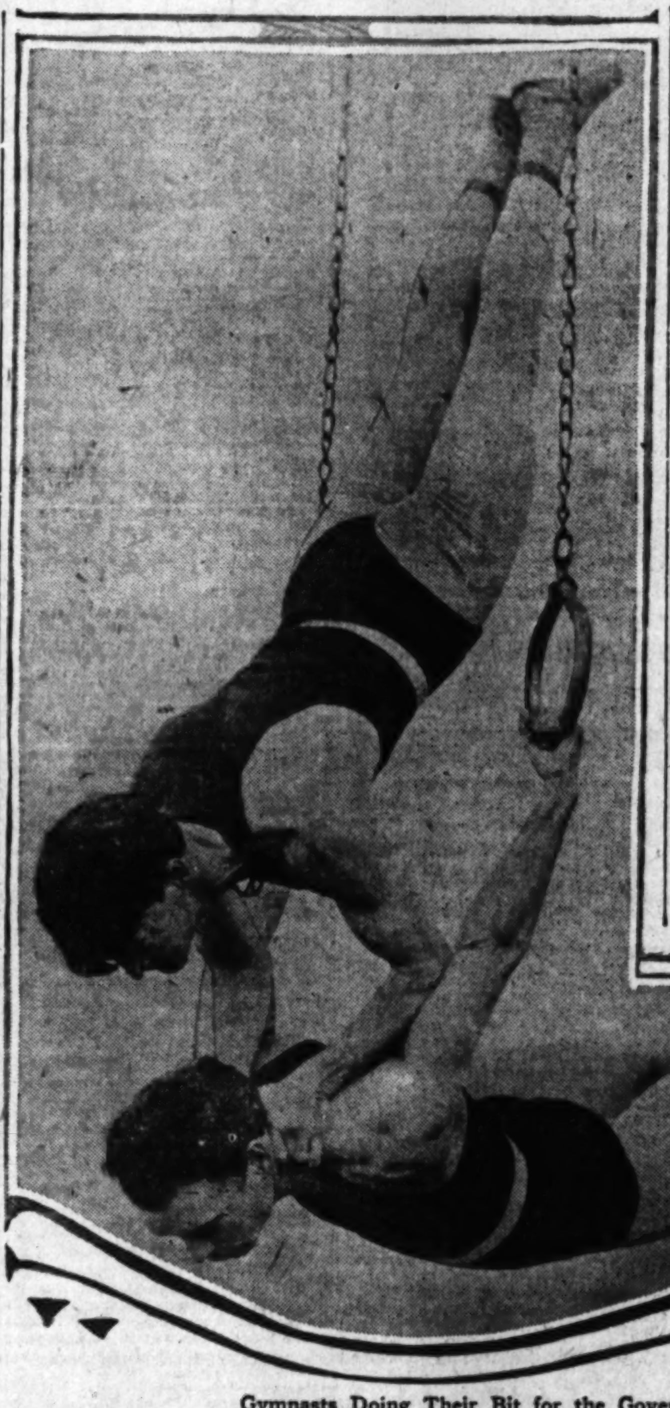
The college has recently been made one of the S.A.T.C. (Student Army Training Camps) of the State. Several hundred boys of 18 and more will receive army training there, with their college tuition and all other expenses paid, except those of textbooks, and a salary of $30 a month.

Brannock Hall, a large dormitory, one of the historic buildings of the State, will serve as a barrack for the soldiers, and it is not the first time it has been used in this way.

During the war, when Bill Anderson, the guerrilla chief, and his bushwhackers, were chastizing northern sympathizers in Central Missouri, Col. Odon Guitar used the building, known then as Central Academy, for headquarters of his company of Federal militia. The building at that time was comparatively new, and Col. Guitar quartered a number of wounded soldiers in the spacious stone-lined gallery on the third floor and stabled his horses on the lower floor. Most of the furniture of the place was destroyed by the soldiers, who enjoyed, as a pastime, jumping their horses through the windows, which then reached nearly to the ground, hurdling desks as they raced down the long chapel room and out the other end of the building, down the hill to where a number of log cabins served as other barracks.

And then one day, when most of the men, under Maj. Reeves Leonard, were scouting in the woods of Howard county, Bill Anderson and his men rode into Fayette. With him as leaders were Quantrell, who had refused command of the attack on Fayette, because he did not deem it wise; Poole, Stuart, George and Tom Todd. When news of the approach of the guerrilla band was brought into town by a breathless rider, the storekeepers around the little square of the old Courthouse closed their doors, drew their wooden shutters and barred them, and sought safety in their homes. Although the town was a "southern town," and a boy of 15, Hamp Watts, who still lives in Fayette, rode close by Anderson's side as his mascot, as he did throughout the war, dressed in black velvet, on a fine horse, people were afraid of the guerrilla chief and a probable battle in the streets.

A number of the band under Quantrell made three desperate assaults on the academy building, in their usual reckless manner, losing so many of their men that they were finally persuaded to desist. The walls of the old building still carry some of the scars of the bushwhackers' attack, although it has been completely modernized. Had Anderson known how few were the defenders of the place, and many of them wounded men, he probably would have massacred them in cold blood, as he did soldiers at Centralia a day or so later. After twenty of his men had been killed and a large number wounded he withdrew his forces.



Gymnasts Doing Their Bit for the Government.

It would take a whole lot of money and mebbe something else to tempt the sporting editor of this great religious daily to do what either of these gents are doing, but Gleason (top) and Glass, both members of the L.A.A.C. and both former national champions on the flying rings, have been giving exhibitions of their skill free for the soldiers and sailors. Today they are to appear at the big rodeo-athletic programme given by Doug Fairbanks on his estate in Beverly Hills. Admission—your signature and initial payment on one more Liberty Bond.

NO USED CARS ON SUNDAY.

The undersigned representative used car dealers of Los Angeles have agreed to close their respective places of business all day Sunday, providing the majority of downtown used car dealers agree to do likewise.

They believe that six days a week are sufficient for business, and that one day's rest a week is absolutely necessary for the retention of good health, mental poise and the development of "pep," which is so necessary a factor in the selling of automobiles.

They add "we are a long time dead. Let's get our pleasure and our enjoyment as we go along, not living for money-grabbing alone. Let those who desire to remain open consider the fact that by so doing they force to remain open in self-protection those of us who wish to spend our Sundays with our families, in much-needed recreation, and in mental and physical relaxation.

"Be a good fellow, a good neighbor, and sign this agreement. By this co-operation we gain a day each week, for it is sound logic that if people cannot buy a machine on Sundays they will buy during the week—for they must have them.

WATER DOGS PLAN CORKER.

The big swimming meet to be held in conjunction with the Liberty Fair at Exposition Park will be the first of the extensive programme of sports to be held during the two weeks. Great interest has been shown to date by aquatic experts from all parts of the State and one of the best programmes ever seen in the south is sure to be the outcome. Several Southern California championships will be fought for and the balance of the programme will be filled with snappy events.

There are two events for women—the fancy diving from the ten-foot springboard and the 100-yard dash. Both these are Southern California championships and will have many entries in them. Miss Thelma Finn won the 50-yard dash for women held at the Los Angeles Athletic Club recently for the Southern California championship and every other girl in the South is out to beat her in the big event.

Swimmers and divers from the Naval Reserve, Submarine Base, Balloon School at Arcadia, March Field at Riverside and Norman Ross may put in appearance from the North Island Flying Field at San Diego. The San Diego Rowing Club has already signified its intention of walking off with the best events of the meet but the local boys say different. Vance Veith will have his water hounds out, as will Frank Rivas of Venice. Redondo Beach and Long Beach will both be represented.

Many swimmers from the local high schools will be on tap, as they are back now from their summer vacations and rearing to go.

The best feature of the entire meet is that the winners will be privileged to take Thrift Stamps in place of medals if they so desire. The first place will pay $5; the second, $3, and the third, $2 in stamps. It is needless to say that most every prize will be given in Thrift Stamps.

The meet is under the supervision of the following committee: Sam Smoot, Guy Sylvester, Vance Veith, Mr. Jennings and L. A. Henry, chairman.

The Untold Tales.

More often than not, when the runners bring back word from the battlefield that a town has been taken and the communiques flash the tidings to a waiting world, it does not mean that a specially stubborn citadel has fallen.

The town is named specifically so that anxious watchers from afar may know how considerable the advance has been. The town is singled out not necessarily because its capture meant the toughest job of the advance, but just because it has a name.

So you hear much of the regiment that took Sergy, the brigade that took Seringes, the men that took Fismes. You do not hear so much of those who took Hill 230 or Hill 212, of those who stormed this gun-bristling grove or that ominous river bank, who stormed and held yonder railroad embankment or that ancient vineyard which proved no less forbidding a fortress because it was nameless.—[Stars and Stripes, France.

His Schemes Characterized.

A correspondent of the New York Sun points out that "Potsdam" spelled backwards gives two very urgent words of warning—but the Kaiser is quite a spell backward in heeding them.—[Boston Transcript.

DOUG'S SHOW IS ON TODAY.

Beverly Hills Carnival Opens at Two Thirty.

One Liberty Bond will be Price of Admission.

Hoop it up by Attending and Being Real Yankee.

You can buy your bonds at the gate and you can augment the supply by taking on a half dozen good men and true—if you are strong enough—at the Douglas Fairbanks Liberty Bond Carnival this afternoon at Beverly Hills.

Al Treloar of the L.A.A.C., has offered a fifty dollar bond to anyone who will duplicate his feat of tearing three packs of cards in half with his fingers. Noah Young, a strong man of the club, will also give a bond to anyone who duplicates a stunt he will do. Young is the champion weight lifter of the world, and if you don't eat too large a dinner, Sunday, you might take him on. And Edwin Goodman, who juggles some 400 pounds of weight with his feet, also offers to wager his fifty-dollar bond that no one else can do the same. You might try that. All these gentlemen, however, expect the claimants to superiority to kick through with fifty if they prove to be in error. So you had better practise up Saturday night before speaking.

Bob MacGowan, who stands 6 ft. 7 ins. in his working clothes, is the first to come forward bravely and take up Plestina's wager of $100 in bonds to anyone who can throw him inside of fifteen minutes. Bob is a brave lad.

Charlie Keppen, who is managing the programme, has lined up a lot of talent, who will compete with the yip-yipping cowboys for popular favor and attention.

Two of the most daring flyers from March Field will make things exciting overhead by doing sensational aeronautical feats over the field all during the show.

Bucking bronchos, with the king-pins of saddle artists astride them, will do their best to terrify all beholders into believing that the West is still wild and woolly.

Snowy Baker, who arrives in Los Angeles Sunday morning from San Francisco, will referee the boxing bouts. George Retzer will referee the wrestling matches. The complete athletic programme follows:

Starts 2:30 sharp.

No. 1—Glass and Gleason, national champions Roman flying rings.

No. 2—M. C. Long, Indian club swinging.

No. 3—Al Treloar, Noah Young, Edwin Goodman and George Wackerbarth, feats of strength, skill and tumbling.

No. 4—Sheckles and Gleason, hand balancers.

No. 5—Giacomino and Bud Duncan, clowns extraordinary.

No. 6—Marin Plestina, heavyweight wrestler, and opponents, who will receive $100 in bonds if they can throw the giant wrestler in fifteen minutes.

No. 7—Prof. Ito and Japanese boys Judo, Jui Jitsu and broad swords.

No. 8—Bull Montana and John Peterson, wrestling.

No. 9—Walter Miller, world's middle and welterweight wrestling champion, and Clark Conner, Southern California light heavyweight amateur champion.

No. 10—Izzy Glasser and Kid Enoch, four rounds boxing.

No. 11—Jock Malone and Billy Papke, four rounds boxing.

No. 12—Joe Benjamin and Willie Hunefeld, four rounds boxing.

Two U. S. Army exhibition flyers will perform daring feats over the field during the entire show. (By courtesy Maj. Bartheff, March Field.)

George Retzer, referee of wrestling matches.

Snowy Baker, referee of boxing bouts.

George Adair and Billy Coe, timekeepers.

Bennie Seidman, field manager.

Charles Keppen, director of ring.

Elaborate Wild West programme, bucking bronchos, etc.

TIGE, THIS IS THE BEGINNING OF A BIG IDEA

[illegible]
Smithy's ma says most illnesses are a state of mind, but mine was a state of someone else's mind. I knew I was not sick but my ma said I was. My ma being second in command at our house, I had to accept her argument. But I knew I was right and there was considerable satisfaction in knowing it. When we know we're right, that's the time to stick to it.

Skin Blemishes

How to get rid of them

Skin specialists are tracing fewer and fewer troubles to the blood—more to bacteria and parasites that are carried into the pores with dust, soot and grime.

Clear your skin of any blemishes caused by this most powerful and persistent enemy by this effective local treatment. Just before retiring, wash in your usual way with warm water and Woodbury's Facial Soap and then dry your face. Now dip the tips of your fingers in warm water and rub them on the cake of Woodbury's until they are covered with a heavy cream-like lather. Cover each blemish with a thick coat of this soap cream and leave it on for ten minutes. Then rinse very carefully with clear, hot water; then with cold.

Use Woodbury's regularly in your daily toilet. This will make your skin so firm and active that it will resist the frequent cause of blemishes and keep your complexion free from them.

You will find a 25c cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap sufficient for a month or six weeks of this treatment and for general cleansing use for this time. Get a cake today and begin to bring to your skin that greater clearness, freshness and charm you have longed for. Woodbury's is for sale at drug stores and toilet goods counters everywhere throughout the United States and Canada.

Write today for a week's size cake

For 6c we will send you a trial size cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap large enough to last for a week of this Woodbury treatment, together with the booklet "A Skin You Love to Touch," which gives the proper treatment for all of the commoner skin troubles.

For 12c we will send you the treatment booklet and samples of Woodbury's Facial Soap and Facial Powder. Send today to The Andrew Jergens Co., 23 Spring Grove Avenue, Cincinnati, Ohio.

If you live in Canada, address The Andrew Jergens Co., Limited, 23 Sherbrooke St., Perth, Ontario.

Plant These Bulbs Now

It is unlikely that there will be any imported bulbs offered on the market this year. We are fortunate in having an abundant supply of splendid stock of the following varieties of our own growing.

Now is the time to plant for early Spring blooming. They are large, plump, heavy and bound to give good results.

DAFFODILS

BARRI CONSPICUUS—Flower extra large. Perianth soft yellow, cup short edged with orange scarlet.
Per Doz., 60c; per 100, $4.00.

CAMPERNELLA RUGULOSUS — A dainty medium size bloom, rich golden yellow.
Per Doz., 60c; per 100, $4.00.

EMPEROR—The finest of all yellow daffodils, with a large, well-expanded trumpet and extra good stems.
Per Doz., 60c; per 100, $4.00.

EMPRESS—Identical in every respect with the foregoing except in color, the perianth being white, while the trumpet is full rich yellow.
Per Doz., 60c; per 100, $4.00.

GOLDEN SPUR—A very early pure yellow trumpet Daffodil. It comes in some weeks before the Emperor and Empress.

Taft of Sawtelle.

A YEAR or two ago—it does not matter how many months or days it is—an old man named Taft, whose home was in Sawtelle, was gathered to his fathers from out the ranks of the thousands of old men who live in that place, resting from old wars.

For ninety years or more Taft had fought life's battles, and then one day "he fell on sleep" and the place that knew him so long, knew him no more. They laid his body in a quiet grave. His soul winged its flight beyond the tracery of all the stars and reported to the Great Judge.

"Here am I, Taft of Sawtelle," he said. "Let Thy light shine upon me, and deal Thou mercifully with me, O Lord. I have left the house Thou gavest to me and wherein I dwelled so long."

It is, in a way, more than strange that anyone should sit down now to think of this man in the midst of a world turned upside down with strife and butchery and blood. His name is not written in the histories. He was not known outside of California. As the world judges, he was just a common man in a commonplace community. There were no trappings on his shoulders, no ermine robes to cover him.

And yet, there are many who think of him still, and at least one who feels impelled to write about him—those who cannot remember many another who was buried with great pomp, with trumpet calls and the salvos of guns.

And the reason is that Taft's life was an inspiration to all who knew the man. To remember him is to gather courage and strength and faith to fight the hard battles of life; to "carry on" when even it might seem useless and hopeless to do so.

At 70 years of age, when the biblical and proverbial three score years and ten of life had been reached and when man puts off his burdens and seeks the shadowy haunts of rest, Taft saw the whole structure of his fortunes crashing and crumbling about his wintry-whitened head.

All the material success of his life vanished before his eyes as the flame of a candle goes out in a great wind. He stood stripped before the world, worse than poor because he found himself heavily involved in debt.

And, then, at three score years and ten, Taft started life all over again. With a heart of youth he fared once more upon the highway of stern endeavor. In flawless faith and with dauntless courage he set forth to rebuild his fallen fortunes.

And he succeeded. He paid every debt he owed, to the last farthing, and left a modest fortune, besides, which he bequeathed to institutions he had loved and labored for in life and which were devoted to man's betterment.

Countless are the men who reach white hairs only to know that they have failed. Only a few are there who then have the courage to buckle on their rusted armor and challenge the lists again. Yet, there should be many to do so.

Why not? Was not Taft of Sawtelle just a common man made out of the common clay? God rest his bright, blithe soul. It makes the morning sunnier and the night deeper with stars to dwell in memory on his dauntless soul.

For the Land's Sake.

THAT distinguished Californian, Hon. Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, states that there is enough vacant government land to give every soldier a farm when the war is over, and arrangements are now under way toward that end.

While it is not likely that every soldier will want a farm, a great many of them will doubtless take advantage of the offer. Farming is not looked upon with the dread that once attended it. The life is not so tedious and it is very profitable when conducted with good management.

The fact that an agricultural pursuit is now vastly more attractive than it used to be is proved by the large crowds that a tractor show draws. Put a circus and a tractor show on adjoining lots the same day and the circus will play to only half a house.

Important Notice.

THERE is a persistent report that the price of gold is to be sharply advanced in the near future. Gold is following in the steps of everything else that now costs more than formerly.

This being the case, we would advise our readers to lay in their winter's supply of gold without further delay.

The Great Quest.

THE great quest of the human heart is for happiness. Bismarck declared that he had never known twenty-four hours' happiness in all his life. And that makes us feel sorry for him—exponent of the doctrine of blood and iron though he was. Poor devil, what did all his power and fame amount to, since he never knew happiness?

We have all had a taste of happiness at some time or other, and most of us have had full, deep draughts of it. But, it is the most elusive thing in the world. It has come a guest to every house, yet it is a guest that slips away while we sleep. It is a guest that must be entertained with constant hospitality or it will not stay.

"It is not necessary to be great to be happy," said Robert G. Ingersoll as he stood at the grave of Napoleon. "I would rather have been a French peasant and worn wooden shoes. I would rather have lived in a hut with a vine growing over the door, and the grapes growing purple in the kisses of the autumn sun."

Indeed, yes, for one breath of happiness is worth more than all the pomp and glory of the world.

Thank God, happiness is not a thing that must be bought with money. Were this true, the vast majority of human beings on the face of the earth were without happiness. Instead, it is a thing as free as the winds that blow. It is either in the heart or it is not anywhere.

He is a fool and worse than a fool who trades his happiness for any other thing that the world has to offer. If, with a crust you are happy, do not trade the crust for a feast. If you buy a fortune with a penny and lose happiness, you have made the worst of bargains.

Do It.

ARISTOTLE said that the way to learn to do a thing is by doing it. If the saying be applied to the things of the mind as well as to the things done by the hand, great good will come of it.

Suppose you have a day that has the whole stage set for tomorrow's worry and for nothing else. It isn't that day, but the next day that has the terrors ready to be faced, so you will likely spend this preceding day in fear. Well, suppose you don't do anything of the kind, but, instead, spend it in work and by not giving a thought to the next day.

What will be the result? You will face that dreaded morning with a blithe spirit and a strength that you never dreamed you could muster. Try it, sometime. You can do it. And you will say: "I am a strong man and it takes a strong man and a bunch of them, at that, to put me down."

MONTEREY.

Green is the way to Monterey,
And once, upon a wandering day,
With breath of mist and flash of sky,
My feet were where the green way lie—
My soul unleashed, my heart at play,
Upon the road to Monterey.

All in the morning's golden glow
I came by holy Carmelo,
Where whispers still its silvery stream
With voices from an ancient dream,
And where, in haunted silence, beat
The long-hushed tread of sandaled feet.

Dream-wrapped in memory's mystic spell,
I rang the rusted Mission bell,
And called to hill and vale and sea
To give again their dead to me—
The brown-robed priests, the altar lights,
The hosts of dark-eyed neophytes.

Blithe were the green ways then that told
The gladness of the days of old;
From chaparral with flocks athrong,
I heard the Indian herder's song,
And swinging scythes, with laughter blent,
From fields where dusky toilers bent.

Madre de Dios! Keep for me
My dream of hill and sky and sea—
The green ways where my path was set,
The gay guitar and castanet,
And stars that hailed, at close of day,
The sunset roofs of Monterey.

JOHN S. McGROARTY.

Live and Let Live.

IT IS to be hoped that the practice of killing God's creatures for mere sport will grow into disuse. It may be all very well to slaughter "game" to satisfy man's hunger, but, outside of that, we don't see how a man can deliberately take the life of anything that walks or flies or crawls in God's green world.

The most reprehensible "sport" of all is the killing of doves. They are beautiful creatures, and any rancher will tell you that they are the most useful and helpful of any of the feathered tribes. Doves do not eat the orchardist's fruit, they are not in any way destructive. On the contrary, they are invaluable in getting rid of insect pests.

When one understands that in the world of nature a constant warfare is waged by the inhabitants thereof, the one against the other, and that it is all for a purpose, it would seem that man can find other ways to amuse himself than by going out of his own kingdom. If he wants to kill, there appears to be plenty of opportunity to do so in his own wars.

"Live and let live" is a good old proverb that can be advantageously extended beyond its original meaning. Why needlessly put foot on a worm, even?

Dashing It Off.

IT IS often pathetic to see the disappointment of aspiring genius. We have in mind people who rush into an editor's office with a piece of scribbled paper in their hands on which is something written that they "just dashed off." They will say, "I wrote that coming down in the street car," or "I dashed that off last night in five minutes."

They take it rather badly, as a rule, when the editor dashes it off his table and absolutely declines to print it. They wonder why. Well, it is easy to tell them why.

Nothing immortal, or half immortal, in literature has ever been "dashed off." That which is worthy at all to go into print, and especially that which has a right to expect to be seriously regarded and to live for however brief a day, is always the result of thought and careful expression.

In other words, work and time are required. Kipling rewrites his material seven times over before he submits it to the printer's hands. Tasso pondered a whole month between a choice of two words in one line of "Jerusalem Delivered." It is not known that anything in literature was ever "dashed off."

Common Beauty.

THE beauty that may be had out of the common things of the earth is well illustrated by the homes that one sometimes sees in country places in California and elsewhere, a beauty that is all the more emphasized by the contrast in the hideous result of the use of the same common things by others.

You will see in the country places, as you go about, how one man will take the things that are to his hand and build from them a beautiful house. He took the rock and stone, the wood, the sand and the earth that were under his feet. Out of these he framed a rooftree that is a kindness to the eye.

Another man with the same materials threw them together crudely, making a thing that had to go by the name of a house, but which offends the eye that beholds it. The one house cost no more in either labor or money than the other, yet the results are as different as day and night.

The most striking, as well as the most historic instance of what can be done with the common things of the earth, is furnished by the old Franciscan missions of California. They are architectural gems. Yet all that the padres had for material was what they found at hand and under their feet. They had only Indian labor to call on.

While we are at it we might as well put a touch of beauty to what we do, whether it be that we are building a house or a chicken coop, or whether it is madame who is making a gown for herself out of 10 cent calico.

Ma Foi!

WE MAY as well be prepared for it. When our boys return from the war it is not the old, familiar slang that they will regale us with, but with a weird and baffling line of talk that will be half French and half other language.

Their letters should fully prepare us for what is to be expected. They fairly bristle with French phrases used regardless and sans facon, if you know what that means.

There is probably no way to meet the state of affairs that is in store for us, probably, except by acquiring a line of easy French, ourselves, or "French made easy." It is the only way in which we can avoid the laugh that otherwise the boys will have on us.

For the Sake of His Paper.

situation by the light of their mutual interest. The judge put in a well placed word or two. Still Johnson resisted.

"The story is not for sale," he said. "That is all. I must be going," and he started toward the door.

Clancy barred the way. "No you won't," the politician exclaimed. "I'll tie you here until tomorrow night! This election's not going to be upset by any harebrained reporter."

Johnson stepped back a pace, lifting one of the heavy office chairs. The judge shrank from the two, protesting. "Don't make a scene," he pleaded.

"D—n your scene!" cried Clancy.

The man's fighting blood was running now. Johnson saw that. There was going to be a merry time, he thought, and grinned in anticipation of the lead that his story would carry. That is—if he ever wrote the story.

"Clancy," he said, measuring the other with his eye. "I am going to brush this chair over your head. One—two—"

For a second time the judge's door was opened unceremoniously. A rough voice called: "Excuse me, Judge, but I can't wait any—"

The words were hushed on the lips of a big man whose bulk filled the doorway. He glanced at Clancy, the judge, Johnson. Surprise changed to amazement in his heavy face.

Johnson put down the chair weakly and turned a trifle white. Clancy caught this sign of alarm.

"Come in," said the politician, and shut the door behind the newcomer. Turning to the judge, he added: "This is my brother, judge."

Werner nodded, but the second Clancy did not heed. He was gazing at the reporter.

"What are you doing here?" he asked.

Politician and jurist saw Johnson wince. But the reporter shrugged and did not answer.

"Do you know this man?" spoke up the judge.

"Well, I certainly should," replied the warden. "He was one of my boarders for a couple of years—forgery."

Johnson collapsed into the chair that he had brandished but a moment before. Clancy, the politician, sat down and held his fat sides, laughing in a monstrous way. Quickly the judge was himself again. He walked over to the reporter.

"So," he observes, "you are the man who talked to me of right and wrong—and you just out of Joliet. Well, no doubt that is a good place to learn, eh, warden?"

"You bet," was the pompous answer.

The three of them took turns chiding the miserable figure in the chair. Of a sudden the misery passed. Johnson stood up and confronted them, white of face, firm of mouth. Without speech he started for the door.

"Just a moment," said the political boss from his chair. "Give me your word that you won't print the story, and we'll forget about the Joliet affair. Every man makes his little mistakes. Come—give me your word."

Johnson looked him in the eye, and made answer.

"Clancy," he said, "I went to Joliet because— But you wouldn't understand. Then I was pardoned. God help me I was innocent! You are guilty. The story goes!"

"No it doesn't," retorted Clancy. "Not by a—"

But Johnson was the younger and the quicker. He had edged toward the door as they talked. Now, in one bound he reached it, flung the door open, raced through the outer office and dived down the stairs. After him came the two Clancys, the judge crying to them excitedly.

It was three flights to the street. Johnson had the lead. Halfway down he heard the age-old cry, "Stop thief!"

. . . .

Since 8 o'clock Satterlee had glanced at the door of the city room every time that it was opened. Each time he was disappointed. His eye had grown tired from watching the flying hands of the office clock. When the hour of nine had passed he sent a man to find Johnson. Thirty minutes later a second reporter was detailed to the same task. But the hands moved on and still Johnson did not come. At half past ten a boy brought the editor a card. Satterlee [illegible], collected himself together with a start, and looked again.

"What does Judge Werner want?" he asked the boy.

"Don't know, sir," was the reply, "but he said that he must see you."

Satterlee considered. What could this mean? Well—he never had been afraid of any man. So he went to meet his caller. Fifteen minutes elapsed before the editor returned. Then he came in a guise that few had seen him wear. His professional calm had dropped away. Every available man was put to work on a new story. Satterlee walked from typewriter to typewriter, like a captain commanding his ship under fire.

The first edition was almost ready for press when Johnson stepped from the elevator at the twelfth floor, and started through the reception-room. He caught the rustle of a skirt, and a hand grasped his arm.

"Dick," said the woman at his side, "I have waited for you—hours. It is all right. Your name has been cleared. The Governor—"

"Alice, Alice—at last," whispered Johnson, "not now—I must go—"

"Wait, wait—see here. The Governor wrote this letter clearing you of blame. Another man has confessed the forgery. I just reached the city tonight. You were out—wait—"

"Going to the morgue he called for the envelope relating to Werner."

(This picture was posed in The Times office by members of The Times Staff.)

But Johnson had shaken himself free and rushed into the city room. Satterlee looked for the hundredth time toward the door. He saw Johnson, but gave no sign.

Straight to the desk came the reporter and laid the story before his chief. His hand trembled. It was too late now. He knew that Werner would have been there before him. No matter if he stood exonerated. It was an ugly story and would spread. No man could live down such a past, once the world knew.

He took instant and vivid note of the editor, the littered desk, the grimy office. That was a picture for years to come of the time that he had worked on Park Row. Johnson sighed just a bit and went to his desk.

Satterlee was deep in the manuscript, and swiftly the editor read this amazing narrative from introduction to closing line. Such a tale of collusion had seldom reached him. Then he called Johnson. The reporter approached, feeling vaguely that he had done his best, and this was the end.

Satterlee regarded him over his glasses. "Well," he said, "you made good, didn't you?"

"I tried," answered Johnson, surprised. Satterlee turned to the desk, picked up the manuscript, slowly tore it across the center, and dropped the pieces into the waste basket.

"Mr. Satterlee—"

"Never mind; Werner has quit the race. He came over tonight and handed me his withdrawal. There's no use to hit a man who has quit. So we won't print the story. But—what the devil did you do to him?"

"I—ah—interviewed him. Did he—tell you—that—"

"—He was leaving for Europe tomorrow!"

Care of the Body

Many manufacturers and dealers find trade in these preparations—often described as stomach remedies, bitters and tonics—so profitable that they prefer to pay the special tax rather than to change the formulas or to discontinue their sale. In many prohibition States their sale is forbidden, since they are or may be used as beverages."

If you wish to know the contents of these alcoholic remedies you may obtain information by writing to the Bureau of Publication at Washington.

"Incurable" Diseases.

A CORRESPONDENT writes to the conductor of a newspaper syndicate "health column:"

"If blood poison is curable, what procedure is necessary to effect a cure where it has developed into paralysis? Doctors claim nothing can be done."

To this the conductor of the column replies:

"Blood poison that has been badly neglected for many years is not curable. Some physicians think that intraspinal injection of salvarsan is of considerable service in paresis. Others do not think so."

There are many kinds of blood poisoning, but generally it is a polite term for syphilis.

Syphilis is incurable by "regular" methods—by drugging and injecting, and feeding foods that cannot be digested, to "keep up the strength." The worst forms of syphilis are due to drug poisoning.

It may safely be said that 75 per cent. of those who come to be treated by natural methods have been given up as incurable by the "regulars."

The natural method is only taken as a last resort. And this, again because the Nature Cure involves perseverance and self-denial.

But there is no other way.

Mush.

THERE are several objections to the use of mush. In the first place it is not thoroughly salivated, which is highly necessary for the preparation of starch foods. Then again, in this country, mush is usually eaten with cream and sugar. This not only over-stimulates the appetite, but produces acidity of the blood, and the meal ferments, in course of time developing a stomach ailment. That, in turn, may grow into something more serious.

The sweetened mush is one of the main causes of what are known as "children's ailments," all supposed to be necessary, but all avoidable.

When mush is eaten nothing should be taken with it except a little butter. A piece of dry toast or zwieback or cracker may be eaten with it, to encourage thorough mastication.

Over 4000 years ago, in Assyria, they had a law that when farmers were overtaken by "an act of God," such as a severe flood, no interest or principal on mortgages should be collected for that year. How far have we advanced from such "dangerous socialistic fads."

The only rule for a rich man to be healthy is by exercise and abstinence—to live as if he were poor.—[Sir William Temple.

THE REASON WHY

Many intelligent persons fail to understand why one pair of spectacles should be worth more than another. They fail to understand that a difference in the strength of the eyes, or the presence of astigmatic conditions, requires specially made lenses, without which, while the vision may be improved, the health of the eyes is not improved. Only a careful test of the eyes will determine this question. It is better to be right than wrong on such an important question. The correct fitting of eyes calls for knowledge, experience, careful attention and proper facilities. My patients receive this care. Special attention paid to fitting Toric and Kryptok (invisible double vision) lenses.

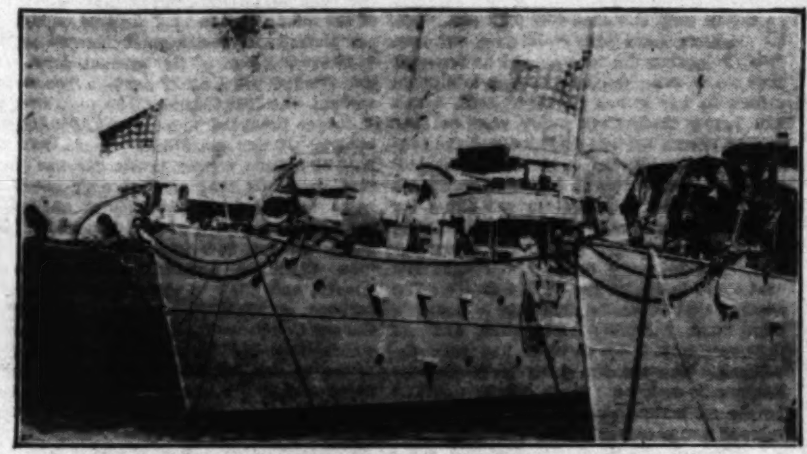
THE FIVE GAME OLD DESTROYERS.

BY CLAIR PRICE.

[This is the remarkable story of five old torpedo boat destroyers that had lain in the Harbor of Manila, condemned as unseaworthy and ordered to stay within the three mile limit. When they were told by the War Department to report for duty in the war zone it seemed an almost impossible task. How they made the long trip to England in record time, and in spite of old machinery, is one of the most unusual stories of the war.—Ed.]

WITH THE UNITED STATES NAVY, AT A EUROPEAN BASE. Sept. 5.—In the gray dusk of 4 o'clock a.m., August 1, 1917, five old American torpedo-boat destroyers slid away from the Torpedo Base at Cavite, Manila Bay, on a hurry-up cruise across the bottom of the world to the war zone. At 9 o'clock a.m., October 20, 1917, these five tin water-snakes slid through the breakwater into His Majesty's dockyard at Gibraltar, proud and dirty and ready to stop cruising.

They had logged 11,008 miles in an actual steaming time of thirty-nine days, fourteen hours and fifty minutes, out of a total elapsed time of eighty-one days and five hours, although they had outfitted for a six months' cruise with enough additional stores aboard the mother ship to last them ten weeks longer—altogether, a cruise which has no equal in the history of destroyers.



Three of them at Colombo.

What made their cruise the more unusual, was the fact that four of the five of them had been condemned as unseaworthy and ordered to remain within the three-mile limit.

On the night before August 1, the five tin water-snakes lay off Cavite just as they had lain on hundreds of summer nights. The only difference from the usual routine was that all leave was up by 8 o'clock, and even that wasn't new. Some of the officers went up to Manila to buy some things in the afternoon and after stopping for a drink around the big mahogany table in the Army and Navy Club, came back to Cavite. There were no farewells. The navy doesn't brandish its orders with farewells. It merely stops at a tobacconist's, lays in a half-dozen tins of cigarettes and goes on down to the landing.

In the gray dusk of 4 o'clock a.m., August 1, 1917, they formed in column with the division commander leading at 400-yard intervals. With Corregidor Light still revolving, they moved out the south channel at fifteen knots and the seas slapped their plates as the lights of Manila diminished astern. As for the crews, they took it for granted that they were off on another cruise to the Southern Islands. As long as they were condemned to the ladylike lassitude of the islands for the duration, one place was about as dull as another.

The Five "Old Ones" are Bound to go to War.

FIVE miles out, the five tin water snakes stood to the south'ard and the captains called their crews to quarters to tell them, in substance, this:

"We shan't see Manila again until after peace is signed. We're going to the war."

What happened then?

"Oh, nothing much," said one of the captains, "except that everybody let out a yell. . . ."

After that, things moved swiftly. They dropped the islands the next day. They shaped a course sou'-sou'west across the Sulu Sea, and early on the afternoon of August 3, they picked up the green hills of British North Borneo. A mile and a half off Kudat Town in Marudu Harbor, they went alongside the collier, one by one, to take aboard their 180 tons apiece.

Three days later, they slid out in column formation, steering west by south for Singapore over a sea as smooth as a frog pond.

At Singapore, they tied up to buoys close inshore and the division commander hoisted his guide-flag and pennant on the mother ship. Between coaling and being feted on the beach, they had their hands full. But five days later, the mother led her little column of tin flivvers out through the Malacca Straits. Before the British occupied Singapore in 1819, the Malacca Straits were infested with some of the worst pirates that ever walked a plank, but now the straits are as safe as Long Island Sound.

The Singapore-Colombo run was too much for their bunkers, so they bore west by south for the Nicobar Islands, a lonely spot which none but surveying ships ever see. Here they anchored a mile off a sandy beach, coaled, and allowed the crew to ramble around the beach in sight of the ships for a couple of hours.

On the morning of August 19, they stood out into the Indian Ocean which, according to Kipling, "sits an' smiles," but which they found to be in such a hilarious mood that they had to take the for'd guns' crews up into the bridge wings.

Early on the fourth day out, the British examination tug picked them up and piloted them through the swept channel into Colombo.

They Arrive at Bombay and Escape the Bubonic Plague.

ON AUGUST 28, they left for Bombay, standing well out from the coast to avoid mines. At the spot marked on the charts as the entrance to Bombay Channel, they waited along with a crowd of freighters from the Persian Gulf, transports from East Africa and hospital ships from Mesopotamia, for the little black sweepers that escorted them through the buoyed channel into a harbor crowded with tankers, transports, barges, tugs, launches and pulling boats. They tied up alongside miles of low black freight sheds in Alexandria Dock, and because there was bubonic plague about, they discarded the usual tin rat-guards on their mooring hawsers, substituted a smear of oil and tar, and ordered the crew to stay out of the native quarter.

At noon on September 6, they left Bombay on the longest leg of the cruise—a 2100 mile run into Aden. At the start, it was doubtful whether they could make it, so the division commander settled on Khorya Moya Bay for a refit, a lonely harbor on the Arabian Coast, located at about nineteen north and sixty east.

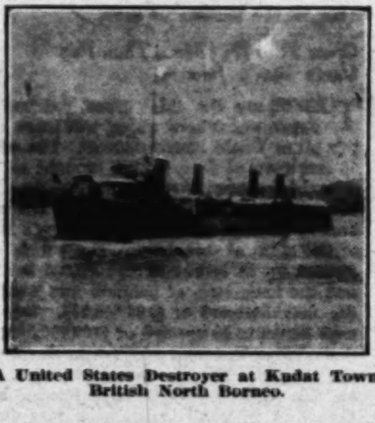
They made 600 miles of the run without incident, but a bad blow which hit them then, split up the little column. One destroyer ran short of coal; another whose bunkers were also running short, lost her foremast; and another broke down completely and had to be taken in tow, with a leaking condenser and salted boilers. So, while two of them proceeded to Aden, the mother ship with her tow, and the other two limping astern, altered course a few points (they were all heading to pick up the coast, anyway) and went into Khorya Moya Bay. Here they repaired and coaled. It is a lonely spot, which no steamer ever sees, with high sand hills and camel trains on the beach. A few officers who ran the surf to bang into a few shore birds with a shotgun, found a few Arab shark catchers and scores of stinking shark rotting in the sun along the sand.

At Aden, the division collected again in a good harbor with buoys in it and coaled from a collier, after which she bade them bon voyage and stood out for Manila. It seems, the wardrooms reflect sadly, that there are still some poor devils stuck in Manila, as completely out of the war as rats on a raft.

They Begin to Get a Little Taste of the War.

HERE, they first ran into the food scarcity, the no-treat system and the war. They could see the flashes of the guns from the decks after night, and when they motored out some fifteen miles to the trenches, they found that the British didn't want to go on into the desert and the Turks didn't want Aden, anyway; so both sides did some banging away at each other in the cool of the evening and then called it a day.

Early on September 19, they started up the Red Sea, and almost at once, one of the five dropped out, with the mother standing by. She had a leak somewhere, for she wasn't making enough water, but her chief couldn't find out where. He worked for five days and nights, snatching a few winks of sleep in a chair or on the fiddley. He found finally that his steam line was blowing badly, but he couldn't get at it on account of the heat. However, he got her through to Suez without a tow; patched up his leak; and four hours later, left with his division for the eighty-five mile run through the canal.



A United States Destroyer at Kudat Town, British North Borneo.

At 1:45 o'clock a.m., September 25, they anchored off Port Said and cleared for action. For the Mediterranean now is a great big he-ocean for men only, with sink-me-quicks in it.

They took down awnings, got all the woodwork off the decks and everything else that would splinter, strung life-lines in their places and overhauled guns. In the matter of a heart-to-heart talk with a Hun, they were, like Barkis, willin'.

They went into the Mediterranean at 4 o'clock p.m., October 1, zig-zagging in smooth weather with no moon, and drawn up in a new formation with the towering 4000-ton mother in the center and her five tin water snakes drawn up around her, the leader dead ahead, two off the bows and two off the quarters. And in five hours they picked up their first allo.

They made His Majesty's dockyard at Malta early on the morning of October 6, without incident. Here they tied up to buoys and coaled from the beach. And every hour the chief came up topside and said he wanted twenty tons more, and they begged him to go below and find the hole in his bunkers. And they worked the Maltese so hard that they struck, and the chief had a fight with one of them and in the end they got a very good tally. But the best tally they ever got was long afterward at Marseilles (they were the first American craft to escort a French troopship,) where they went alongside the dock and the French told them to go to it. The French and the admiralty are still fighting out that tally!

On the morning of October 8 they left Malta for Naples, where the mother ship was to discharge her cargo of rice.

The Old Boats Chase Away a Submarine.

SIX hours out, a foretop picked up a submarine eight miles away and they went to their first real general quarters, with a reception committee of guns ready to wait upon the Hun.

One boat chased him and another sent the allo. You could see him with the glasses, his bow rising and falling in the sea, his awnings up and his crew loafing on deck. And when the first fired one shot at long range, you could see him submerse in a hurry.

At Naples, the mother ship discharged her cargo and some of the officers went up to Rome.

And at 4:00 p.m., October 15, they weighed anchor for the final leg of their long cruise. The next night they ran into the worst blow they had encountered. Two boats each lost a mast and two had boats carried away. But they lived through it, and at 9 o'clock a.m., October 20, they steamed into His Majesty's dockyard at Gibraltar, proud and dirty and ready to wait for their mail to catch up with them. The King's Harbormaster found room for them at the Trot moorings and the division commander went ashore to report his arrival to the American admiral.

"Well," said the admiral, "I suppose you'll want to dock now. How much time will you need before you are ready for duty?"

The division commander hemmed and hawed for a moment.

"How much time will it take the yard to get us 180 tons of coal and thirty tons of water apiece, sir?"

"About ten hours," said the admiral.

"We'll be ready for duty in ten and a half hours, sir," said the division commander.

There are not many two-and-a-half-stripers who enjoy such an opportunity of administering a delicate call-down to an admiral, but those who have say it is a moment to be marked with a white stone.

A Peculiar Tree.

A curious tree stands on the top of Tunnel Hill, Johnstown, Pa., about four miles from town. It is a sugar maple about 100 years old, which has prolonged its own life by grafting a branch into a much younger tree.—[Ohio State Journal.

THINGS FOR EVERY HOUSEKEEPER.

BY RETTA BADGER.

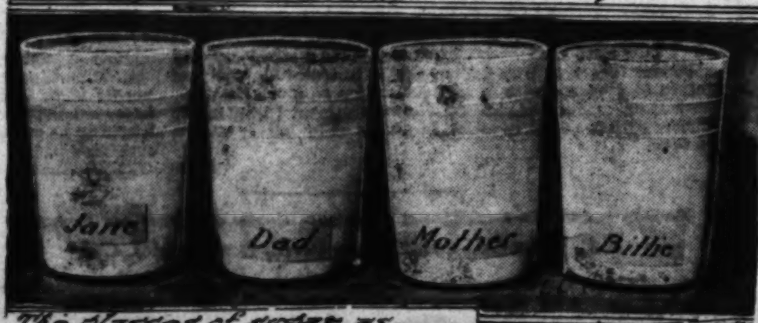
WHO uses the most sugar in your house?

That is a very interesting question, to say the least, these days. It came up in our family and with one accord we all said, "Dad does. Look at the way he piles it in his coffee, two big heaping teaspoons at a time."

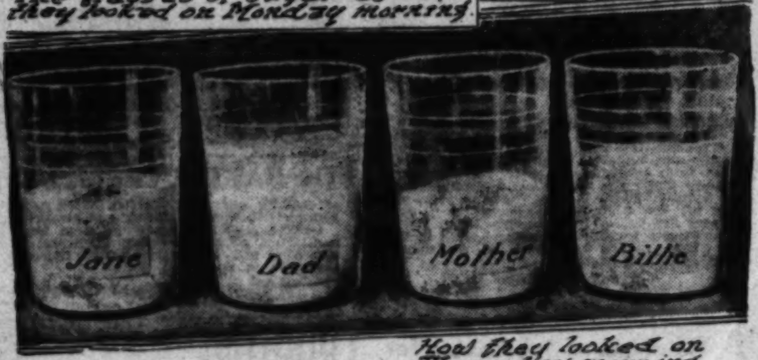
Dad, out of his long experience, didn't say much, while the discussion went on, with everyone else quoting ,what a minimum of sugar he or she used. There was no denying those big teaspoons he had just put in his coffee, and then dad doesn't say much anyway, he just lets the rest of us rave on. Finally we agreed upon this way of settling the discussion:

The next time we bought our allotted two pounds, instead of filling the sugar bowl, as had been our want, we divided it equally into four glasses (there are just four persons in our family) and labelled each glass—one for dad, one for mother, and one each for Billie and little Jane. This amount must last a week. All sugar for cooking purposes and company, was to be taken equally from each glass, but otherwise each one of us was to use from his or her own glass. As all four take lunch away from home this made an absolutely fair division.

All the glasses were put on the table, and Billie began at once to get bids from all the other members of the family for his sugar when theirs should be gone, as he was sure that everyone used more than he did. Mother gave dad a smile that she tried to make sweet and generous instead of patronizing, and said he could have some of hers when his was gone.



The glasses of sugar as they looked on Monday morning.



How they looked on Thursday morning.

One week's supply of sugar, and who used it.

This all took place on Monday morning. By Wednesday mother was scrutinizing the labels on the glasses as if her eyes were deceiving her, and wondering if any of the others would stoop to play tricks on her, but she knew the family well enough to be sure this wasn't so. Dad's glass certainly had a good deal more sugar in it than hers and even the children's were a little fuller. She said nothing then but at dinner when she poured her second cup of tea and looked in the pot to be sure there would be enough for a third if she wanted it, she realized why her sugar went the fastest. She had thought that because she only took a scant teaspoon in a cup of tea or coffee, against Dad's heaping one that she was very economical. She forgot that he didn't drink tea at all, and she discovered that the same thing applied all through the meals. He used more at a time when he did take sugar but ate and drank fewer things that required its use.

Now only the strictest patriotism compels me to tell this little story for I am the erstwhile self satisfied mother of it and there must be other misjudged dads in the world.

AN OUTDOOR WORK BASKET.

Take a small camp stool and remove the canvas seat. Paint the wood, using the elaborate colors and decorative effects now in vogue or a plain ivory or ebony finish as suits your fancy. Staining the wood is even less trouble and will prove pleasing. Now make a large square bag of any suitable heavy material, such as tapestry, chintz, or cretonne and tack two sides with decorative tacks to the top pieces of the stool. Add two stout handles to carry it by, made from the same goods as the bag, and you will have a most convenient work bag or stand. It will prove light and easy to carry when closed, and it will stand steadily in almost any situation when open, and your work will be conveniently in view. The inside of the bag may be fitted with pockets, needle cases, sheaths for scissors, cushions and any little tricks you may desire.

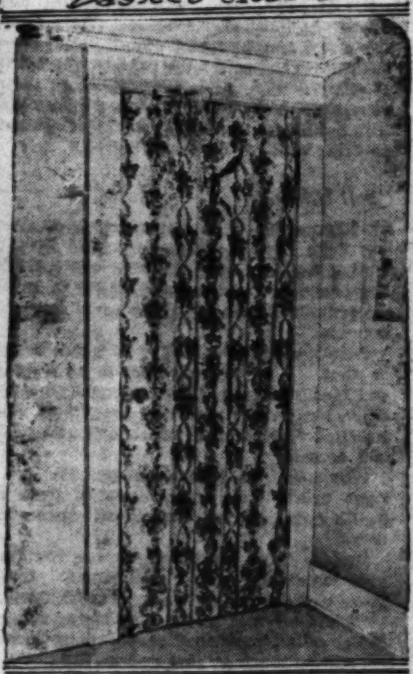
FOR THE OFFENDING CLOSET DOOR.

Very often in arranging the furnishings of a bedroom you wish the closet door were not just where it is, as it makes a long blank space on the wall and throws your decorative scheme out of balance, besides it may not be a very pretty door in itself and therefore not an asset to the room. Taking off the offending door and hanging a curtain in its place is not very satisfactory as the curtain is hard to hold aside while you are getting things out of the closet and cannot be left open for airing purposes as easily as a door.

A better way to cover up the door, and at the same time introduce the color note of your window curtains into another part of the room and thus establish a balance of color, is to cover the closet door with the same cretonne as is used in your other furnishings.

Measure off the length required and find out just where the door knob will come. Cut a small hole just large enough to fit around the stem of the door knob and cut a slit from this hole to the edge of the cloth so that it can be slipped around the knob. When this has been done darn the slit together neatly and the cretonne will be perfectly smooth all around the knob.

Cretonne is usually a yard wide which is a little wider than the average door. This extra width in the material allows for a little fullness in putting it on. Lay tiny folds to take up the extra fullness and crease hem the full length of the material to be used. Tack the cretonne at the top and bottom of the door holding in the little folds with the tacks. A fancy finishing braid may be used to cover the tacks and make a neat finish if desired.



Making the closet door attractive.

TAMALE PIE.

Mix two cups of cornmeal and one teaspoon salt with one cup of cold water. Stir and add two cups boiling water, put in a double boiler and cook forty-five minutes.

FILLING.—Melt two tablespoons fat in a frying pan, add two tablespoons chopped onions, fry until brown and add one pound Hamburger or equal amount of any left over meat, chopped. Fry until brown, add one cup tomato sauce, one-half teaspoon salt and two tablespoons Chili powder, mix well together. Grease a baking dish, put in a layer of cornmeal mush, then a layer of the filling and put the remaining mush on top. Bake one-half hour.

IS YOUR LIBERTY BOND SAFE?

BY FRANK G. CARPENTER.

WASHINGTON (D. C.)—Sit down with me and take account of stock. We are going to lend Uncle Sam another big slice of our savings, and we want to be sure that our money is safe. The amount of his notes in which we have already invested is the enormous sum of about $10,000,000,000 and now he wants $6,000,000,000 more. Is he honest? Is he good? And what has he except his word to back up his loans?

As to the honesty of Uncle Sam he has been borrowing money in bales for 142 years, and he has never yet scaled a note or been short on his interest. His signature is more than a scrap of white paper. It is as good as gold in any market all over the world, and there is no doubt that he will pay to the last cent if he can.

But can he? The amounts he is asking are so great they stagger the mind. Six billion dollars represents so much gold that if loaded on motor trucks at five tons to the truck it would take 2000 to haul it; and $16,000,000,000, the total amount of the loans at the close of this drive, is more than 1500 men working year in and year out could earn from the beginning of time until now.

The Savings of the World From Time of Adam.

I HAVE a friend who recently answered an advertisement. "Sure Way to Get Rich—Send 50 Cents." He sent it and the reply came, "Work Like the Devil and Don't Spent a Cent." Now if 1500 men had started to work that way at $5 a day, shortly after Adam was shoved out of the Garden of Eden, and had kept on working every day, workday and Sunday, throughout the ages, saving every cent, the total amount of their earnings during those 6000 long years would just about equal the total amount we shall have lent Uncle Sam for this war at the end of two weeks from now. Do you wonder we want to know something about the security back of our loans?

In brief, the security is the United States and all it contains. It consists of the land and all that is on it, including the brains and muscle of every one of our 100,000,000 people. It represents one-sixteenth of all the land upon earth, and more than one-twentieth of all the inhabitants. Capitalizing the property at 10 per cent. of its income last year, the amount is $500,000,000,000, or over thirty times the amount of the loans. Five hundred billions of dollars! That sum is equal to half the estimated amount of the wealth of all the world at the time this war began. It equals $5000 for every one of us, or $25,000 for every family in the United States. Invested at 5 per cent. it would bring each of us $600 and every family $1250 a year for all time to come. This in the large is the security back of the loan. It is what the property should bring under the auctioneer's hammer. It makes the interest Uncle Sam has to pay look like 30 cents.

Where is This Value of the United States to Come From?

BUT where does all this wealth come from? Is it real? Is it concrete? Or is it the super-heated air of the psychological moment fired up by the war? Let us look at some of the items. First the land of the United States. It is a common statement that all riches must come from the soil. If all the land upon earth were divided into 160-acre farms Uncle Sam would own a ten-acre field in every one of those farms, and in value his fields would be the choicest and most productive parts of the whole. Take the tracts devoted to farming, those already under cultivation have brought in during the past year, in crops, live stock and products of one kind or another, the enormous amount of $21,000,000,000. We have picked out of the soil, as it were, more than one and one-fourth times our whole war indebtedness, and the same land will yield that much or more every year for all time to come. It is equal to more than eighty times the interest Uncle Sam will have to pay on the fourth Liberty Loan, and this money rolls in that much faster than the interest accumulates. Moreover, our farms grow larger and larger. Last year we cultivated 23,000,000 acres more than ever before, and we have tens of millions more to bring under the plow.

Let us stop a moment and look at this item. What do we raise? Are our crops staple and in steady demand? The three great wants of man are food, shelter and clothing. I will not speak of the shelter except to say that our timber still standing is so great that if cut into boards it would make a five-foot pathway from the earth to the sun and belt the globe at the equator with a wooden band an inch thick and almost two miles in width. It would make millions of houses, and if marketed at the low pr[illegible] per hundred would bring in $48,000,000,000, or eight times the amount we expect to subscribe for this loan.

As to food and clothing, we raise one-fifth of all the wheat grown upon earth. We raise one-fourth of the oats and more than three-fourths of the corn. We raise so much cotton that if the United States should cut off its supply three out of every five men, women and children on earth would have to go naked. We can increase this crop by the millions of bales, and cotton grows so well nowhere else. The crop is now worth $100 and upwards a bale, and the yield of one year is more than enough to pay six times the interest asked for this fourth Liberty Loan, and it will pay more than that interest for all time to come.

And then there is the corn crop. This is so amazingly large that its magnitude is hard to conceive. The amount of the crop we are now taking out of the fields, if loaded on cars at 1000 bushels to the car, would fill a train reaching clear around the globe with many miles to spare. The total is about 3,000,000,000 bushels, and during the past year corn has been selling from $1.50 to $2 per bushel. At the latter figure its value is more than the amount Uncle Sam asks for this loan, and at the former it would pay more than six times the interest on all of Uncle Sam's war indebtedness, with hundreds of millions of dollars to spare. If any German questions the values back of your bond, you have only to shake in his face this great cotton blanket or bury him under our annual product of more than 3,000,000,000 bushels of corn.

Crops That Will More Than Pay Uncle Sam's Interest.

THESE are the chief crops, but we can figure out others which will more than pay all of Uncle Sam's interest. The wheat of last year at $2 a bushel brought in considerably more than $1,000,000,000, and the oats were worth enough to pay twice the annual interest on all of Uncle Sam's bonds at the close of this drive. The potato crop figured up in excess of 400,000,000 bushels, and the little item of peanuts was worth in the neighborhood of $100,000,000. Our fish crop amounts to upward of $100,000,000, and the value of the meat and live stock ran into the billions. The amount of live stock now on our farms is worth considerably more than half we shall loan Uncle Sam during this month of October, and our meat-producing plant is said to be worth more than three times the amount of this loan.

So much for the riches we pick out of the soil. Now for the wealth we have stored away in our rocky treasure vaults under the ground. This is worth hundreds of times all of Uncle Sam's loans, and the amount we are taking out now is enough to pay the interest over and over and keep doing so for generations to come. We have, in fact, about the richest mineral property on earth. We are producing about one-fifth of the gold, two-thirds of the copper and one-third of all the coal and iron that the human race uses year in and year out. We have in our mines half of all the coal that God has stored away from the sunlight of the past, and the amount we are mining now would more than pay the interest on all the loans we shall have made at the close of this drive. The value of that which we take out in twelve months is upward of $800,000,000.

The money received from the bituminous coal alone would pay the full interest charges, and we have a little patch of anthracite in Northern Pennsylvania which brings in something like $200,000,000 per annum. We have 17,000,000,000 tons of that anthracite yet to be mined.

Not long ago I got from the Geological Survey the total amount of coal we have still in the ground. The area of the fields is thirty times that of the State of Massachusettes and the total amount in them is something like 4,000,000,000,000,000 tons. This is beyond comprehension, but our ablest coal scientist estimates that it represents a solid block of coal eighteen miles square and eighteen miles high. That block would contain enough coal to build a solid wall of black diamonds half a mile wide and half a mile high clear around the United States and leave some to spare. The actual length of the wall would be more than 23,000 miles. Are you still afraid Uncle Sam may not be able to pay the full amount of your bond?

Our Mines of White Coal Will Last Forever.

BUT in time the coal will play out. Yes, perhaps, some ages from now, but even then, supposing the loan should be renewed 1000 times over, we have enough additional values in our mines of white coal, which will renew themselves every year as long as God allows the sun to shine and the rain to fall. I refer to the enormous hydroelectric powers stored up in our streams. More than one-half the power we are using for manufacturing is now produced in that way, and we have enough left to run every factory, operate every railroad and light and heat every house in the United States. The amount that is easily available is equal to more than 55,000,000 horsepower, and of this only about one-seventh has been developed. The amount going to waste over Niagara is equal to more than 6,000,000 horses all pulling at once, and in the undeveloped water power of the Mississippi and its tributaries there is considerably more. The south has 14,000 water power plants now working, but the horsepower developed is only 1,000,000. There are nine times as much yet to be harnessed. Each of these hydraulic horsepowers working throughout the year is said to equal the energy produced by ten tons of coal. In other words we can create through our streams 550,000,000 tons of white coal every year, and this production can go on for all time to come. In other words, strange to say, we can easily pay our own debts by watering them.

Now coal and iron form the basis of all modern manufacturing. Our supply of iron almost equals that of our coal. We have one ton in three of all the iron ore upon earth, and the most of our iron lies so close to the surface that it can be gotten out with steam shovels. The total amount of that now easily available is almost 5,000,000,000 tons, and there are something like 7[illegible],000,000,000 more which C. W. Hayes, one of our ablest geologists, has said may become available at some time in the future. Of this vast amount 72,000,000,000 tons is on the shores of Lake Superior, where we take out the ore with steam shovels and send it down the mountains by gravity into steamers which carry it at the lowest freight rates on earth to our steel mills on the edge of the coal bed. This combination is such that we are bound always to be the chief of the manufacturing nations, and the income from our exports will be enough to pay the principal and interest of all the debts Uncle Sam may contract.

Our foreign trade is steadily increasing. It amounted last year to more than $9,000,000,000, or to double the highest figure ever received in normal times. The greatest gain was in exports which exceeded our imports by over $3,600,000,000. That was our balance of trade. We sold more goods than we bought to the sum of $10,000,000 a day and of this $3,000,000,000 worth came from our factories. Those factories are all working now. Their work has been standardized and speeded up by the war, and when peace comes they will have an output which will keep busy the 25,000,000 tons of shipping we shall then have in carrying such goods to foreign lands.

Iron and Steel Output Alone Would be Enough.

OUR iron and steel output alone ought to satisfy any one that his investment in the fourth Liberty Loan is absolutely safe. The amount of iron ore we mined last year was upward of 75,000,000 tons. We then made 35,000,000 tons of pig iron and produced more than 42,000,000 tons of steel ingots. The pig iron was worth more than $100,000,000 and our exports of iron and steel, including machinery, sold for more than $1,000,000,000.

Germany is beginning to wonder where she will get the raw materials for her big manufacturing industries after peace comes. If I had the say I would not give her a bale of cotton, a pound of food, a gallon of oil nor an ounce of iron or steel until she has absolutely secured the payment of every cent of damages caused by this war. By that time she will have lost the mines of France, Belgium and Alsace-Lorraine, and the petroleum of Rumania and Russia will be in the hands of her enemies. She will be begging also for copper, another big asset which you men who are buying Liberty bonds should consider in figuring up Uncle Sam's wealth. We are now producing 65 per cent. of all the copper that comes out of the mines, and in 1917 we sold enough to pay about twice the interest charges on the $6,00,000,000 loan of the present drive. At the average price of 27 cents a pound the amount was $510,000,000. The total amount of copper produced was almost 2,000,000,000 pounds. It was considerably more than the half of all the copper taken out the earth that year. Of that amount over one-third came from Arizona, and about one-fourth from the two States of Montana and Michigan. We are now annually getting more than 80,000,000 pounds of copper from Alaska, and Utah is yielding in the neighborhood of 250,000,000 pounds. The Utah Copper Company has a new leaching plant which often handles as much as 4000 tons of ore in one day, and the Nevada Consolidated has plants which handle 13,000 tons within the same time. Some of our biggest mines are operated by steam shovels and the ore is gotten out at a cost of about 35 cents a ton. The cost of our copper produced in 1917 ranged from 7 to 10 cents a pound. The average price in the market last year was about 27 cents, so you can see there is a fair margin of profit.

I might mention a score of other minerals each of which would bulk large in paying the interest on the bonds we are buying. Our lead and zinc would each do its share. We are now producing about half the lead of the world and our zinc is going into brass goods used for making arms and munitions. We exported almost $250,000,000 worth of such goods in 1916.

We Supply Ourselves and Allies With Sulphur.

ITALY used to monopolize the sulpur market of the world. We got most of our supply from there, but we have now found great beds of pure sulphur 1000 feet under the swamps of Louisiana and Texas. We melt it with super-heated water and it is pumped to the surface, where it hardens into blocks of pure sulphur as big as a New York hotel. That sulphur now goes into munitions for oursedves and our Allies. We have so much of it that we produce all that we use and fix its price in the markets of the world.

In that same region are some of the great oil fields which supply the gasoline which moves and the oil which lubricates a large part of the world's machinery. We have ten great oil fields and we are now taking out of the earth more than 1,000,000 barrels of petroleum for every one of the working days of the year. Oklahoma alone produced more than 100,000,000 barrels last year and the output of California was only a little less. Our exports of mineral oil in 1917 sold for enough to pay the annual interest on all the bonds of the fourth Liberty Loan.

Now, I have already shown you enough of Uncle Sam's assets to prove that the principal and interest of your bonds are reasonably safe. But I would like to add a few more items to run the golden rod of confidence up your rubber backbone. In the first place, you are not casting your money upon the waters. As far as the nation is concerned, you are merely taking it out of one pocket and putting it in the other. The most of it stays at home. It goes into the buying of American goods and the building up and developing of American industries. Through the war we are improving every branch of manufacture. We are standardizing the processes and speeding up the machinery, so that peace will find the country days of protective legislation seems incredible. The strong arm methods of 'ethical' physicians and surgeons, if practiced by a railroad or other public service corporation, would result in the latter being haled before one of the many regulative' commissions and heavily punished

,"If we can regulate the butcher, baker and other dealers in public necessities, then in God's name let us also regulate the activities of doctors, surgeons and hospitals. If the strong, able bodied public is entitled to protection from the tradesmen of whom they purchase the luxuries of life then how much greater is the need of the ill and helpless to whom medical and surgical aid is a necessity and whose misfortune and suffering is taken advantage of to extort sums of money out of all proportion to the time, skill and quality of the service rendered.

"These legalized highwaymen have reached a stage in their bare-faced effrontery where concealment is no longer attempted. If you contemplate an operation, you are openly asked what your income is, or, the information is secured from other sources and the glad word is then passed around, doctor, X-ray specialist, surgeon, anesthesia giver, hospital, to soak him accordingly. An apparently poor man, unable to pay but little if anything who applies to one of the medicos for treatment is given scant attention. One not so poor—apparently able to be bled for a certain amount—is strung along, X-ray must be made, blood test taken, have your teeth examined, operation necessary, by all means go to the Soakem Good Hospital—I will make the necessary arrangements—(whisper, the doc owns stock in the Soakem Hospital,) and the patient is robbed of all that can be secured from him by a system of the meanest, cheapest, bare-faced devices, all based upon the advantage given by his physical suffering.

"Could anything be meaner?

"Take the case of a self-respecting hard working man earning say $3500 yearly, who pays his obligations. His wife takes sick and a doctor is called in. The doctor thinks an operation is indicated and calls in a surgeon (friend of his.) The surgeon confirms the first M.D.'s diagnosis. The husband goes to the surgeon's office to talk it over.

"He is told that his wife's condition requires the operation. Her future health—possibly her life depends upon it. He asks the cost and is told the usual fee for such an intricate, difficult operation by one so skilled and of such high repute as Dr. Cutem is $1500. This rather jars the husband, and the doc who is closely watching to see how he takes the news notes this. The husband is then asked what his income is and finally is told that as he cannot afford to pay such a large fee—as a special favor—(placing the husband in a position of accepting charity)—the doc will prevail upon Dr. Cutem to exercise his world-renowned skill and devote as much as possibly one hour of his invaluable time for a trifle of say (closely watching the husband) $800. 'And your wife's welfare is well worth that to you, isn't it?'

"The system is all wrong. It is rotten. Doctors and hospitals should be supervised and prevented from exploiting a suffering public."

Astrology.

"DR. FRANK CRANE'S OPINION OF ASTROLOGY," is the misleading catchpenny title of a book of 100 pages by Frank Theodore Allen (Astrological Research Society, Washington, D.C.)

Dr. Crane is altogether too intelligent to believe in the vagaries of astrology.

Only eight pages of the book are devoted to Dr. Crane and this is mainly made up of lengthy letters to the doctor by the author, to which letters Dr. Crane vouchsafed only the briefest replies. In one of these notes he wrote:

"I have never considered astrology seriously, for the simple reason that it hasn't the slightest basis of fact. It is simply a curious excursion into that borderland of insanity, from which nothing of any consequence has ever been brought back to humanity. Life is too short to bother with such things."

The author is mentally unbalanced. In fact he practically admits as much.

Thousands of years ago, simple oriental shepherds, gazing at the starry skies, gave fanciful names to the constellations, according to what they thought they resembled. Sometimes it requires a very strong imagination to detect the resemblance. For instance the Great Bear is far more like the "Plow," or the "Dipper," both of which names it bears among the peasants in England. If, instead of "Aries the Ram," these shepherds had happened to name the constellation under which I was born by the name of my wife, Agnes, the Lamb, I suppose I should have been as mild and docile as she—sometimes—is. You might as well say I am a "rich lord" because my given name happens to be Harry derived from "Hein reich."

Later on the Greeks gave fanciful names to the planets. Mars was named after the god of war, because it is red and fiery, and Venus was so named because she was one of the most beautiful stars in the heavens. So now according to astrology, if you happen to come under the influence of Mars you will be warlike, or if you happen to connect up with Venus you will have troublesome love affairs. The ignorance of be realized when I say that it was the these Greeks in regard to astronomy may sober belief of primitive Greeks that the sun was a torch and the stars candles, periodically lit and extinguished.

I will say no more on this subject, but will quote the following opening paragraph on "Astrology," in the Encyclopedia Britannica:

"Astrology: the so-called science by which various nations, in various ways, have attempted to assign to the material heavens a moral influence over the earth and its inhabitants. For long ages astronomy and astrology were identified. Isidore of Seville is the first to distinguish between the two. Nor did astronomy wholly rid itself of astrology, till, with the system of Copernicus, the conviction that the earth itself is one of the heavenly bodies was finally established. Even at the present day a few may be found who, from a superstitious reverence for the past, or the spirit of contradiction, pride themselves on their adherence to the belief in stellar influences. It is not longer necessary to protest against an error which is dead and buried."

"Soft Drinks."

THE ending of the consumption of alcoholic beverages of every kind in the United States during the war will involve the necessity for the government to raise an additional $800,000,000 by some form of taxation.

People are now asking if it is necessary to shut down the breweries to save coal and food stuffs why it is not equally necessary to curtail, if not to do away with, the so-called "soft drinks" which consume coal and cereals.

Why not? As I have frequently said, "soft drinks" are more harmful, from a health point of view, than light wines and beers.

Besides "soft drinks" there are the tipples known as patent medicines. Two years ago the Ladies' Home Journal wrote:

"There are sold in our drug stores nearly 250 so-called 'medicinal' preparations which contain so much alcohol and so little medication that Uncle Sam requires the sellers thereof to pay him a special liquor tax.

HOW I BECAME AN INDIAN WARRIOR.

BY JAMES WILLARD SCHULTZ.

Author of "My Life As An Indian," etc.

[J. W. Schultz, the author of this sketch, lived for thirty years among the Blackfeet Indians. This is the true story of his vigil among the wild animals at a lonely water hole when he got the sacred "medicine" which made him a warrior of the tribe. This is the first of two installments.—Ed.]

AWAY back in the buffalo days, in the third summer of my long life with the Blackfeet Indians, I left camp to pray and fast, and got into one hell of a mixup.

One morning in August, my close friend, Aspi—Arrow—came hurrying into our lodge, tremendously excited. "I am going to war, my mother! Going to war, my sister!" he cried. Little Plume leads a large party against the Crows and allows me to join it. Hurry, you, two, and make for me several pairs of moccasins. We leave tomorrow night."

"Elder brother, I want to go with you," I told him.

He turned sharply around and looked at me—stared a long time, gave me no answer.

"Well?" I jerked out.

"Of course I would like to have you with us, but it is not for me to say that you can go; only the chief can decide that. Come, we will ask him," he answered.

We went over to Little Plume's lodge and found him within, quietly smoking; his four women sewing moccasins for him. He welcomed us pleasantly, motioned us to seats, asked what he could do for us? Aspi told him that I wanted to join his war party.

A smile lit up his kindly but somewhat stern face. He turned to me and said: "My son during the time that you have lived with us, my eyes have been upon you and all that I have seen of you is good, very good. Though your skin is white, you have actually become one of us. Why, you speak our language as though you had been born a Blackfeet. My son, one thing you lack; you have not endured a fast—you have not obtained your sacred medicine. We cannot begin to teach you the ways of war until you have endured that experience."

"But, chief, the whites do not have sacred dreams; they do not pray to Sun, Old Man, nor anyone else so far as I know, therefore you should allow my younger brother to go with us," Apsi plead.

"Not so!" Little Plume exclaimed. "War is not alone an undertaking of courage and endurance; it is an undertaking in which we must each one of us constantly pray the gods to give us their favor—to lead us to success. But Apikuni, your younger brother, can not pray because he has not had his fasting vision; were he to go with us as he is, he would likely be the cause of us all being wiped out. I am very sorry to have to say 'no' to what you ask."

"Chief, never again will you have to say that to me. I shall go right now and have my sacred fast," I impulsively told him.

"Oh, good! good! For a long time I have been hoping you would do that!" Aspi cried.

"Spoken like the true Blackfeet that you are" Little Plume told me. "My son, just around the mountain from here, at a little spring at the foot of a cliff is where I had my medicine fast in the long-ago days of my youth. It is a wonderful place for that purpose. To that spring come many of the children of the plains, and from the heights above the mountain children trail down to it to drink. You can pray to them all for help; without doubt one or another of them will pity you and answer your prayers."

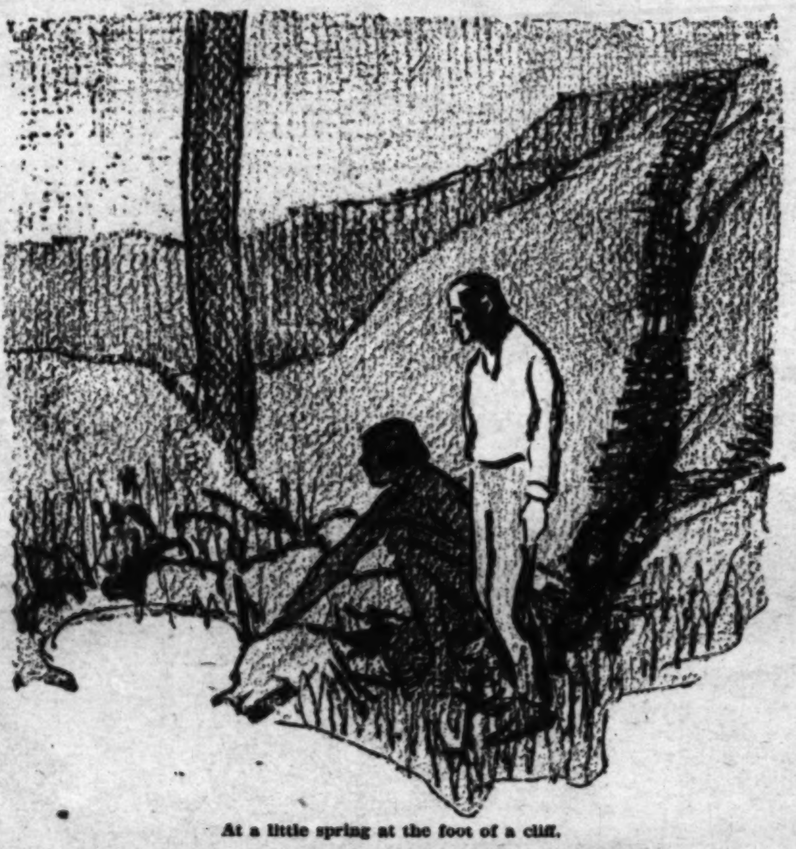
"I shall go there!" I said.

"You will find a narrow rock shelf at the foot of the cliff, straight back of the spring, and a lone pine tree standing upon the shelf. I lay right under the tree and had a buffalo bull's skull for my pillow. I advise you to lie there," he said, and kindly dismissed us.

"There remains but one thing to be done; you have to get a medicine man to instruct you, and to pray for you during your absence from camp. Shall I ask Lodge-pole Chief if he will do it?" Apsi said to me.

"Yes. Go ask him," I answered, and hurried home to tell the women what I was about to do. They were more than pleased that I had decided to endure a fast.

Apsi soon came to escort me to the old sun priest's lodge, and on the way over, said that he had given him a certain horse to become my helper. We entered the lodge, and the old man motioned me to a seat beside him. Several old men and women had been called in to assist in the ceremony, and it began with the singing of four thunder medicine songs, during which the sacred bundle was unwrapped, and the long, gorgeously decorated stem of the thunder medicine pipe was exposed to view. The medicine man then painted my face with red earth paint, the sacred color, after which he filled and lighted his pipe, and smoked to the gods, praying them to pity me and give me a powerful vision.



At a little spring at the foot of a cliff.

The ceremony lasted all of an hour, the old man concluding it by instructing me just what I was to do during my fast; I was not to eat food of any kind, and could drink water only after the setting—and before the rising of the sun. I was to pray the gods for help during my waking hours, and entreat all the animals that I saw to help me. I was not to wash the paint from my face until I ended my fast. Beside these, I was given many minor instructions, and the reason for observing them were fully explained to me.

It was a most impressive ceremony, that of the thunder medicine. Non-believer though I was, I went out of that lodge with a strange feeling of elation; of reverence, too, for the implicit faith of my friends in their gods. How earnestly they had prayed for me. I determined to observe in every detail the instructions that had been given me.

While Apsi and I caught and saddled a couple of our horses, the women brought out from the lodge the few things that I would need during my fast; a buffalo robe and a blanket from my couch, my rifle, cartridge belt and knife. I made a roll of the bedding behind my saddle and we were off for my fasting place before noon. The great camp was located upon Badger Creek, and due north of The Heart, a lone, high, partially timbered butte that stands sentinel-like upon the divide between Badger Creek and Birch Creek, on the east slope of the Rockies, and about forty miles south of the Canadian line. We rode fast, on and on around the base of the butte for six or eight miles, and had no difficulty in finding the place that Little Plume had mentioned. I dismounted at the foot of the shelf where he had fasted, and climbed up onto it, right under the lone pine tree and saw the buffalo skull—yellowed and green stained with age, —that he had used for a pillow. Apsi tossed my bedding up to me, then took the lead rope of my horse.

"Would that I could stop with you for a time, but it is impossible; we warriors take our medicine sweat bath this evening, and tomorrow leave for the south," he said, importantly.

"Go ahead. I am all right here. May luck be with you," I answered.

"I pray that you may have a powerful vision in this place," he said, and rode away without another word.

Dazedly I sat down and watched him go. I felt that I had been dazed all day. Why had I cried out to the chief that I would undergo a fast? I sprang up to shout to my almost brother to turn back and take me home. I could not do it; the disgrace would be more than I could bear. I sat down again and took account of myself: "Now that you have gone into this thing you must stick it out," I said. "You mustn't be a coward. What if you do have to lie here four or five days and fast? It is nothing. Just lie low and watch and listen; this may prove to be a worthwhile experience."

And with that I turned and brushed off the rock fragments and the sticks that time had deposited upon the narrow rock shelf under the tree, carefully made my soft robe bed, placed a folded blanket upon the buffalo skull for a pillow, and stretched out facing the spring, about fifty yards down the slope from me. It was in a bare, gravelly depression and was ten or twelve feet in diameter and quite deep. A small stream trickling from it was soon absorbed by the thirsty plain. Deep, hard-packed game trails radiated from it in all directions.

It was now late in the afternoon. I fell asleep almost at once, and when I awoke night had come and a full moon was well up in the eastern sky. I was very hungry, very thirsty. I looked down at the spring and saw a small band of cow elk and their calves crowding around it. They drank, and slowly moved off along a game trail running to the west. As soon as they were out of sight I hurried down to the spring and drank all the water that I could hold, and returned to my couch. "Oh, I forgot what I was to do," I said, and in Blackfeet called out to the vanished elk: "Hai-yu, skim po-no-kaks! Kim-o-ket Nok-spom-o-ket!" Or, as one would say in English: "Oh, female elks! Pity me! Do help me!"

I would not acnowledge to myself that I had no faith in that little appeal to the animals. I was there upon that rock shelf to obtain a medicine dream—a vision, and I intended to act just as though I was in fact—as well as in inclination—a Blackfeet youth.

Again I slept, and when I awoke the first faint white light of coming day tinged the eastern sky and paled the stars.

A band of twenty-five or thirty buffalo, all of them cows and most of them with funny little red, new born calves at their side were now coming up to the spring, traveling one of the trails in single file and led by an exceptionally large cow that had twin calves. The two coyotes raised their heads and sniffed the air when they saw them coming. Just then a cottontail rabbit came hopping along to the spring and they made for it, one some little distance ahead of the other. The rabbit saw them as soon as they started and ran quartering down the slope, and just as the lead coyote was about to land upon it, it suddenly dodged to the right and turned back up the slope and was instantly snapped up by the other coyote. It gave one pitiful, piercing squeal as its life was crushed out. Off the captor went with it as fast a she could run, the other following close and vainly trying to sieze its dangling hind legs. I soon lost sight of them and turned my attention to the buffalo.

As was ever the case at this time of year, the buffalo were accompanied by numbers of small blackbirds, or, as the Blackfeet tribes called them, ksi-ni-u: buffalo birds. It was not an uncommon sight to see four or five of them contentedly riding along upon the back of one of the animals, all of them on the watch for the poisonous, stinging flies, gnats and mosquitoes that pestered the great animals, and darting into the air to catch them and fluttering back to their perches with satisfied chirping and chattering of their successful raids. The favorite feeding place for the small black gnats was the tender, bare inner corners of the buffalo's eyelids, and frequently a bird was to be seen clinging to the coarse hair over an eye, protecting it from the attacks of the enemy. The buffalo were very grateful to the birds for this service, the Blackfeet said, and in return for it permitted them to build nests and rear their young in the long, deep and thick hair that crowned their massive heads.

There was much crowding and angry snorting and horn thrusting one against another when the buffalo gathered at the little spring, and the weaker, or less valiant hearted animals gave way to the aggressive ones and meekly stood back and drank last. When all had quenched their thirst they one by one lay down in a circle around the spring and lazily chewed their cuds, their calves lying well within the circle. One little calf lay so close in front of its mother that she rested her head upon it.

From afar off around the butte there came to me the cry of a lone wolf, a long drawn out, melancholy, slowly rising and falling howl that seemed to be burdened with all the woes of the world. Sad though it was, I loved always to listen to it. I agreed with my Blackfeet people when they said that the howling of the wolves was the most beautiful music in all the world; far more beautiful than the quavering cries of sandhill cranes, or the trumpeting of swans, or the calling of gray geese winging their way across the great plains.

Again the lone wolf howled, and was

CARE OF THE BODY

CONDUCTED BY HARRY ELLINGTON BROOK, N. D.

Folly of Feeding the Sick.

SURGEON-GENERAL BLUE of the Public Health Service was formerly president of the American Medical Association. Between the two bodies there is a close bond of sympathy. Surgeon Blue was stationed at San Francisco when the ridiculous bubonic plague scare was hatched. His autocratic and altogether unnecessary and useless "health measures" to combat this supposed epidemic were promptly sat down upon by Gov. Gage.

Surgeon Blue recently issued a manifesto on the so-called "Spanish grippe," which has appeared in this country. In regard to "methods of control" he admits that quarantine is impracticable. Also, he might have added that it is useless, for this or any other epidemic. You cannot quarantine against the atmosphere. One must breathe. Yet he advises that attendants on patients should wear gauze masks, although the organisms known as bacteria are so microscopically minute that they will even penetrate the tissues of the body.

"During epidemics persons should avoid crowded assemblages, street cars and the like." Easily said, but how is business to go on "as usual" or any other way? We should all have to stay at home.

Now as to treatment. Surgeon Blue recommends rest in bed, with fresh air—which is good—but then, in addition to that, "abundant food," although he shows that the ailment is accompanied by fever, with a temperature of 101 to 103.

What do you think of that?

Every kindergarten student of the laws of health knows that food is a poison in a sick stomach. Such advice from the head of the Public Health Service discloses an amazing condition of ignorance in regard to the laws of health. No wonder so many sick people die.

On the other hand, another high medical authority, the British Medical Journal advises "rest in bed, free motion of the bowels and light diet." This is good, except that for "light diet," you should substitute "no food."

On this important subject I reproduce a short article from the first number of the Care of the Body, when I resumed the conduct of it, a year ago this month:

"For every one who is killed by disease, 1000 or more are killed by maltreatment of the sick person—by the administration of poisonous drugs, adding another poison to the poison already in the patient's system, and the giving of food, where the digestive organs are utterly unable to utilize this food, so that it ferments and rots in the stomach, adding to the poisons in the body of the unfortunate invalid.

"Watch a dog when it is sick. It will crawl into a corner and you cannot tempt it to eat. What criminal folly it is to continue to shove food into a sick stomach. It is as bad as forcing a man with a broken leg to walk. Especially are foods usually given to invalids exceedingly dangerous. Such, for instance, as beef tea—a stimulant without nourishment, about equivalent to urine—and milk, both of these substances being favorite culture mediums for bacteria, and used for that purpose in laboratories. How, then, do you suppose they will act in the moist sick stomach of a human being?

"When a person is sick, the very first thing to do is to stop eating, taking absolutely nothing but water, according to thirst, to which may be added a little fresh fruit juice. This alone, with rest and fresh air, is sufficient to effect recovery, in acute diseases, in nine cases out of ten.

"Yet many physicians continue to insist upon giving sick people food "to keep up their strength," while it is all the time adding to their feverishness and weakness, and hurrying them to the grave."

To this I add: When persons are attacked by this, or any other acute disease, put them to bed in fresh air, open the bowels—not by "harmless cathartics," which are harmful, but by enemas—rub the abdomen gently with cool water, keep the feet warm and give no food except a little fruit juice in water.

Then there will be quick recovery and "no complications."

Also keep away from doctors, unless you are so exceptionally fortunate as to know one who is sensible.

Meantime, prevention is better than cure. If you live right and keep the blood pure you will be immune from this and all other diseases.

Cancer and Diet.

CHARLES MAYO, M.D., is of the firm of Mayo Brothers, at Rochester, Minn. Dr. Mayo was for a time president of the American Medical Association.

Yet, Dr. Mayo sees a truth that is invisible to a great majority of the medical fraternity. At a recent meeting of the A.M.A. he said:

"In my practice as surgeon I am impressed by the alarming increase of cancer cases lately brought to my notice, an increase which, in the light of the general hygienic and sanitary improvements of our time, can point to no other cause than an indulgence in certain foodstuffs detrimental to the normal life of the body."

Osteopaths in the Army.

FOLLOWING bill was introduced in the House of Representatives on July 13, 1917, by Mr. Smith of Idaho. It was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs and ordered to be printed:

"That hereafter osteopathic physicians who have been duly licensed by the laws of the States in which such physicians reside, and who have graduated from a college of osteopathy duly authorized by law to confer the degree of doctor of osteopathy, shall be admitted to examinations prescribed by existing law to ascertain the physical and professional qualifications of applicants for the medical branch of the army of the United States, and if found qualified shall be eligible to appointment therein: Provided, That such appointees shall have the same official status, rank, pay and allowance of officers of corresponding grades in the medical branch of the service."

If you approve of this rational and just move toward medical freedom, write to your Congressmen and Senator and tell them so.

Medical Practice.

THE following communication will doubtless arouse sympathy among many who have been "through the mill." There are many honorable physicians—I know several of them—who would not stoop to practice this hold-up game. Unfortunately there are many others.

Medical journals say that fee-splitting between family physicians and surgeons is more common in California than in any other State. Honorable physicians deplore this "ethical" quackery, which has already been forbidden by law in five States. Others will soon have to do so.

Perhaps, in course of time, we may come to the sensible custom of hiring physicians by the year to keep people well—by teaching them how to live so as to avoid disease.

Here is the letter. It is a sample of many others I have received:

"On what basis do the medicos frame their tariff for services rendered and in what way do these methods differ from those used by the ordinary hold-up artist, except, that as the weapon with which they mulch the public is human agony their work is all the more ghoulish and contemptible?

"That an organized body of men should be permitted to exploit the public in these

LIVER DISEASES

The Liver is the largest organ in the body; and controls digestion; when digestion is normal, the body is free from and not liable to be afflicted with the large number of very prevalent diseases. The following are the most frequent diseases or symptoms caused by impaired action of the Liver: PAINS OR ACHES IN ANY PART OF THE BODY, RHEUMATISM, GALLSTONES, LOSS OF APPETITE, BELCHING, BAD BREATH, DISORDERS OF STOMACH AND BOWELS, INDIGESTION, SICK HEADACHE, BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, PILES, NERVOUSNESS, DESPONDENCY, BLUES AND JAUNDICE. If the Liver can be restored to normal action, these diseases or symptoms usually disappear quickly. If neglected, serious complications, DIABETES, APOPLEXY, PARALYSIS, DROPSY AND HEART DISEASES are almost sure to follow. Nine-tenths of all chronic diseases are caused by torpid or inactive Liver. No one can perfectly recover from a dangerous disease so long as the digestion is impaired.

GALL STONES

Gallstone are concretions which form in the Liver and Gall-bladder. The majority of cases occur after middle life. The number of Gallstones in the Liver and Gall-bladder may vary from one to a thousand.

THE PAINS OF GALLSTONE COLIC ARE SOMETHING TO BE REMEMBERED. In May, 1915, I took your Gallstone Treatment and received much benefit. When I took your treatment I passed about 150 stones from the size of a bird shot to a marble. J. L. DULL, Anthony, Kansas, 811 North Spring Street.

In June, 1909, I thought my last days had come. I was yellow and bloodless; stomach would not digest food; and so weak I could hardly move around. I tried the Gallstone and Liver Treatment and was astonished at the results. I must have passed several hundred stones, varying in size. It was a marvelous result with little expense. Yours very truly, H. W. OLMSTETT, Los Angeles, Cal., 2035 W. 29th St.

In 1915 I took your Gallstone Medicine. It is the greatest [illegible] ever heard of. It removed the Stones and I have not been bothered since I took the Medicines.

In 1915 I took your Gallstone and Liver Treatment and received wonderful beneficial results. Food would not digest, liver was very bad, had a great deal of stomach trouble and suffered in all parts of my body.

MARRIED LIFE OF HELEN AND WARREN

BY MABEL HERBERT URNER.

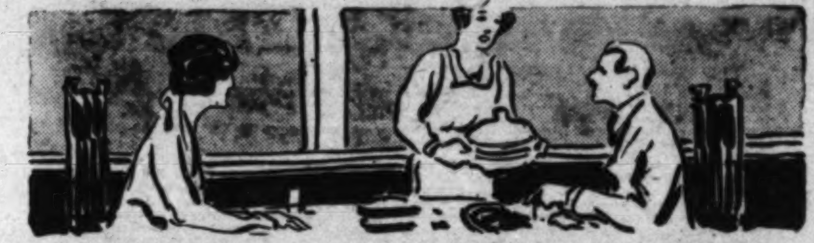
"DONE TO DEATH," growled Warren as he carved into the porterhouse steak, which showed no streak of red.

"Again?" despaired Helen. "Dear, it's just stubbornness! She's determined to cook the steaks too much. Oh, she's getting on my nerves in so many ways."

"Then fire her," was Warren's laconic advice.

"Oh, you always say that! And you know how hard it is to get any one. You heard what Mrs. Reynolds said—she's been trying for six weeks."

Warren ate on in grumpy, unhelpful silence. His attitude towards the maid problem was always unsympathetic. He had a masculine disregard of the difficulties of securing a new maid, and the ordeal of "breaking her in."



He was wholly unconscious of Nora's hostility as she served the salad—a silent, sullen hostility that to Helen was more exasperating than words.

After dinner in the library, Warren absorbed in a magazine, Helen got out her work basket and the napkins she was hemming.

"Corking story," chuckled Warren. "Want to hear it?"

"Oh, yes, I'd love to."

To be read to while she sewed was a much coveted pleasure, but tonight Helen could not keep her mind on the story.

There were certain disturbing sounds from the kitchen. She did not object to the maid having company. It was a natural, wholesome diversion, but tonight their shrill laughter grated upon her already ruffled nerves.

Her resentment towards Nora still smoldered. It was not the noisy company, nor the overdone steak, nor any one of a dozen things—it was the cumulative effect of them all. Perhaps more than anything else it was Nora's arrogant independence, which at times amounted to insolence.

Yet the girl was exceptionally capable.

"Ha, ha, that's clever! This chap can write—who is he anyway?" Warren turned back to the first place. "Marion Westover," disappointedly. "Hump, doesn't write like a woman."

"Dear, doesn't that noise out there annoy you? It's the third time she's had company this week."

"Eh? Yes, that's pretty loud. Why don't you go out and call her down?"

"Not before her company—she'd be sulky for days. Wait just a minute, I'll close the dining-room doors."

As Helen drew out the sliding glass doors, from the kitchen came a man's deep laugh. Then the rattle of dishes and Nora's shrill:

"Make Jim take some more! What's the matter with his appetite?"

So they were having supper! Unconsciously Helen had crept nearer the pantry, but now she turned away ashamed of her impulse to listen. Then she brought the doors together with a deliberate bang—which she hoped Nora would hear and take as a reprimand.

But apparently Nora had not heard, for the laughter shrilled on, only slightly muffled by the closed doors.

"Where'd I leave off?" asked Warren as she again took up her sewing, for he had read ahead in the interval.

"Oh, go right on, I'll understand," guiltily conscious that she had heard hardly a word of the story.

But the details of the management of the Great Falls plant came to Helen only as a murmurous accompaniment to her own broodings.

She was entirely too indulgent in letting Nora have so much company. She had said she could have her sister and occasionally some other friends, but she had not meant that she could have a noisy crowd almost every night—and certainly not for supper.

That was why they had used so much butter lately. Butter at 60 cents a pound to spread sandwiches for Nora's nightly guests! Possibly that was why she had overcooked the steak—so it would not be eaten and there would be more left for her company.

"Huh! Laying on the coincidence a bit thick," commented Warren. "Pretty far fetched along here."

"Yes, isn't it?" murmured Helen vaguely.

No one else would put up with it, her thought flowed on to Warren's resumed accompaniment. It was always the same. All her maids took advantage of her—but none so flagrantly as Nora.

"Started off well—but pretty weak at the end. Too probable," was Warren's criticism, as, the story finished, he threw down the magazine. "Half-past ten!" with a yawn. "Almost through there?"

"Oh, I didn't expect to hem all these. I'll get ready now," folding up the napkins. "We were up so late last night." Then resentfully. "Dear, they're still out there."

Warren, now noisily winding the eight day clock, shrugged his indifference.

With deepening vexation Helen took her bath. Sounds of merriment still came from the kitchen. Were they to be kept awake by Nora's boisterous party? How much longer would they stay? Were they still at supper?

It was an imposition no one else would tolerate. She should speak to Nora now—yet she hesitated to humiliate the girl before her company.

As she plaited her hair and tied on the pink ribbon that matched the bows of her gown, there was a sudden cessation of the voices.

Cautiously she stole out and pushed open the pantry door. All was dark. Only a faint drip from a leaking faucet stirred the stillness. Nora had gone down to the basement to see her guests off.

In the kitchen Helen switched on the light. The place was in spotless order. Nora had washed up all the dishes so there would be no trace of their supper. Incensed at this added proof of the girl's duplicity, Helen turned to the ice box.

Apparently they had used no butter. There were the two-pound prints delivered that morning—one untouched and over half of the other. The steak left from dinner showed no sign of depletion. The jar of preserves, the cheese—everything was as it should be. Even the fruit cake had not been molested.

They had had supper! She had heard the dishes. Baffled she turned from the ice box, crossly ignoring Pussy Purr-mew's importunities.

From the waste paper basket under the table protruded the colored wrapping of a cracker box. Fig Newtons—a cracker they never had! Underneath was an ice cream carton with the name of a nearby confectioner.

So Nora had bought her own refreshments! Helen's face grew crimson at the thought of her unjust suspicions.

The next second the kitchen door swung open and Nora confronted her.

With guilty haste Helen thrust the pastboard container back into the waste basket, but not before the girl's keen eyes had detected her purpose.

"Oh, I—I've lost a bill. I thought it might've been thrown in here."

But Nora's steady gaze proclaimed her disbelief of this stammered excuse. Flushed and disconcerted Helen left the kitchen. It was an ignominious retreat. The situation was supremely Nora's.

"Hurry up, there! Don't nosey around all night!" called Warren with his usual impatience, when he was first in bed.

Quickly Helen switched off the bedside light, fearing even its shaded glow would reveal her deepened color.

Then as she lay beside him, her hot face pressed smotheringly against the pillow, her poignant silence betrayed her mental turbulance.

"What's the matter now?" with an inquiring poke of his elbow.

Even as she told him, she realised the folly of her confidence. But her smarting humiliation demanded at least the relief of unburdenment.

"And she came in just as I found the things in the waste basket," she ended, with unsparing self-denouncement. "She knew I'd come out to see what they'd had! Oh, I never felt so small."

"Caught with the goods, eh?" contemptuously. "Huh, some of the things you do are too small for words. Why, you actually begrudge the girl what she eats."

"Warren, that's not so! When Anna was here, I never minded her having company—I even let her give a party on her birthday."

"That's because you happened to like Anna. But once you get a grudge against anybody—by George, there's nothing too small for you."

Her face still scorching against the pillow, Helen knew he was right. With any one she liked she was lavishly generous, but with any one she disliked she was penuriously close. A trait she had tried vainly to overcome.

SECRETARY TUMULTY said the other day in the White House:

"It's astonishing how manw thousands of requests for army commissions come to the White House with every mail. A good many men seem to think that an army commission is a safe and highly paid sinecure.

"Yes, a good many men are like the chap who was after a consulship.

"'Is a consulship hard work?'

The Point of View.

CONGRESSWOMAN RANKIN is naturally a staunch advocate for the equality of sex—and then some, and delights to tell of the professor who prided himself upon his advanced and enlightened views concerning women and their place in the scheme of things.

He sat next to a very clever woman at a little dinner he attended the other night, and, in reply to a remark of hers, cried:

"My dear lady, I go farther than believing in woman suffrage: I maintain that man and woman are equal in every way."

"Oh, professor!" said the lady very, very sweetly, "Now you're bragging."

• • •

Too Optimistic.

MORRIS HILLQUIT said in a Cooper Union address in New York:

"This war will accomplish good, I don't deny it; but the harm that war accomplishes is always greater than the good by far, and they who praise war seem to me too optimistic altogether.

"Yes, these optimists optimising about war are as bad as the old beggar woman who said:

"'I've a great deal to be thankful for. I've no teeth left, and nothing to eat.'"

Sure Protection.

TWO war workers were discussing slackers.

"Bothered with time-wasting callers, are you? Why don't you try my plan?" said the first.

"What is your plan?" said the second.

"Why, when the bell rings I put on my hat and gloves before I open the door. If it proves to be someone I don't want to see, I say: 'So sorry, but I'm just going out.'"

"But suppose it's someone you want to see?" asked the second.

"Oh, then I say, 'So fortunate, I've just come in,' said the first.

• • •

Always the Case.

SENATOR SIMMONS was congratulated the other day on a recalcitrant Senator who had returned to the fold.

"I'd value his return more highly," he said, "if he didn't need my support. Election time is coming on, you know, and he needs all the support he can get."

The Senator added:

"Any man will look up to you when he is in a hole."

• • •

Wrong Again.

THE late Prof. Lounsbury of Yale was a foe of the purist and pedant. On a summer vacation in the Adirondacks, he gazed across the lake one gray and sultry afternoon and remarked:

"It looks like rain."

"What looks like rain, professor?" chuckled a pedant in a rocking chair. "I've got you there!"

Prof. Lounsbury turned a cold eye upon the critic and answered, "Water."

The Limit.

AL LEVY got the shock of his life the other night, but was equal to the occasion. A patron, obviously looking for something to kick about, demanded:

"Do you sell diseased meat here?"

"Worse," replied Al, blandly.

"What do you mean, worse?" demanded the truculent patron.

"The meat we serve is dead," confided Al in a stage whisper.

Worth Imitating.

"WHERE the carefully trained child learns bad manners is a standing mystery to its watchful parents," remarked a speaker at a meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association, the other day.

"These anxious rearers of the young are often heard propounding this query, but generally without result. Once in a while, however, out of the deep silence comes an illuminating answer.

"Johnny furnished one just the other day. He had just finished a particularly toothsome dish of apple pudding, which he ate to the last morsel. Then, despite the fact that there was company at the table, he deliberately picked up his saucer and licked it clean.

"'Johnny!' exclaimed the mother after a horrified gasp, 'whom did you ever see do a thing like that?'

"'Dogs,' replied Johnny."

Four-flushing.

ORVILLE WRIGHT, at a dinner in Dayton, talked of his early struggles.

"We had, my brother and I," he said, "lots of oral encouragement, but no financial encouragement. People talked big, but they would put up nothing. With their mouths full of millions and their quite empty hands, they reminded me of a barber I once knew.

"This barber said one day as he shaved me:

"'That's a fine pup of Wilbeforce's. I'd give anything for it.'

"'Well, it's for sale, isn't it?' said I.

"The barber sneered.

"'Oh, yes, it's for sale,' said he, 'but Wilberforce, the chump, wants $1.50 for it.'"

• • •

Up-to-date.

CUPID SPARKS is accused of the following, which only goes to show that even the eternal game of love is keeping pace with the times:

She was not young, but she had money.

"Dearest," he began, but she stopped him.

"I anticipate what you are about to say, Mr. Sampson, and I would spare your feelings, for it can never, never be. I esteem you highly, and will be a sister to—"

"I have four sisters already," he replied bitterly, "four grown sisters, and life is a hideous burden. But oh, Clare," he went on passionately, "if you cannot be my wife, will you not give me a mother's protection and love? I am an orphan."

Not Worth Seeing.

LITTLE Irene marched into the room breathlessly.

"Oh, mother," she cried, "don't scold me for being late for supper, because I've had such a disappointment. A horse fell down and they said they were going to send for a horse doctor, so I watched and waited, and what do you think? It wasn't a horse doctor at all. Only a man!"

• • •

Another Recruit.

CARRY HALDEMAN says the Los Angeles girls are not only the most patriotic of all, but very clever about it, too.

Proving his point, he recounts an episode he overheard at the athletic club the other night:

He: Unless you consent to be mine, I shall go to war!

She: All right! Remember now, that's a promise!

Refuting Slander.

LORD NORTHCLIFFE was concluding an indignant reply to a charge that while America was giving up food for the Allies, England was enjoying a more bounteous table than in times of peace.

"Even children know better than that, and realize it keenly," he declared, and cited the case of little Harry who, after eating his meager ration of bread and 'margerine, asked, "must I say grace, mother?"

"Of course, darling. Why?"

"Well, you said God could read our thoughts, and if I say I'm thankful, He'll know jolly well what a 'bominable little liar I am."

Epidemic.

ATTY.-GEN. GREGORY tells this piquant story on a prominent financier and a well-known physician:

The money juggler called at the office of the physician one day and told him with much concern that his only son was suffering from diphtheria. The doctor was solicitous, but assured the financier that with the care given in the hospital to which the boy had been sent, he would pull through nicely.

"But," said the father, "the boy confessed to me that he is sure he caught it from the parlor maid, whom he had kissed."

"Well, young people are certainly very thoughtless," mused the doctor. "I'm sorry to hear that your son has been so indiscreet."

"Yes, of course, doctor," said the financier, nervously "but don't you see, to be frank with you, I've kissed the girl myself. Do you think I too, will have the disease?"

"Why, yes," said the doctor. "You are probably already infected. In fact, that would be the very next thing to expect."

"Oh, that's awful," gasped the financier, "and I kiss my own dear wife every night and morning, and she, too—"

"Good heavens," cried the doctor, "then I'll have it too."

Wise Padre.

A LETTER received at Knights of Columbus headquarters here contains a good story which marines in the front lines, on leave in Paris, are telling. The central figure is the Rev. John J. Brady of New York, the first priest to go abroad with Gen. Pershing's forces. Father Brady was working in the front line just at "zero" time one day. It was the moment for attack.

"Just a minute boys," Father Brady said, and turning toward the enemy positions, directly ahead, he gave the enemy absolution. He finished at the very moment of the launching of the attack.

"Now boys," he cried, "go get 'em." And they did.

London Time.

LLOYD GEORGE, after praising American ingenuity, especially as regards the daylight savings laws, added:

"But when it comes to change of time, London is really not so far behind America. Nowadays, one doesn't speak in weeks and months. Only the other day I encountered a friend I had not seen for a long time.

"Been in London long?" I asked.

"No, not very. Just about four raids," was the reply.

Playing the Game.

AMONG the crowd of people leaving the Superba Theater the other night, who were waiting for the seemingly endless flow of autos to cease, so that they could cross Broadway, was a woman garbed in a dress that resembled nothing so much as a checker board. She thought she saw a chance to gain the other side of the street and started on her journey, just as a jolly looking chauffeur started his machine.

The woman hastily retreated to the curbstone, but with an appreciative glance at her costume, the driver of the car came to a standstill and shouted out admiringly, much to the amusement of the bystanders:

"Go on, lady—it's your move!"

With Limitations.

CHAMP CLARK was speaking on patriotism. "Our boys will go through hell and high water to win the war, and there's no job too big for them to handle. I thought that the sky was the limit to their patriotism till the other day when I was visiting training camp. A company was at mess when I came along, and I was just in time to hear one of the boys land on the company cook.

"If you'd keep the cover on that kettle there wouldn't be so much dirt in the soup."

"Shut up," retorted the cook, "your job is not to criticise, but to fight for your country."

"Sure," snapped the recruit, "but not to eat it."

Rude Awakening.

WITH all that has been printed about America's winning the war in the air, one man has been found who didn't know that the United States army has airplanes.

Airplanes fly over Camp Kearny daily. When one appeared Friday, a drafted man, who had just arrived from Wisconsin, ran out of a shower bath without stopping to dress, and gazed up at it.

"Say," he cried, "that's Lawson! Why, I didn't know Lawson ever came this far south. Well, what do you know about that?"

"Who's Lawson?" several recruits inquired.

"Why, Lawson of Green Bay," the Wisconsin man replied. "The man that owns the airship."

Gently but firmly the unclad rookie from the Badger State was appraised of the fact that there are other aviators than Lawson, and that a number of them are working for Uncle Sam.

Common Variety.

BILLY GARLAND is a great Los Angeles booster, but the other day he had to admit that "somewhere else" has got something on us. He was showing some homesites to a man who had toured Egypt and couldn't forget about it. For everything that Garland could say, the man had some comparison to draw that included the pyramids or the Nile.

"But isn't this really a beautiful sunset," demanded Garland.

"Pouf. You should see the sun set in the East."

"It would be interesting," commented Garland, dryly. "It only sets in the west, out here."

• • •

No Surprise.

IT WAS during a divorce hearing before Judge Chesebro.

"She claims that if things go on as they are, she will lose her mind," declared the wife's lawyer.

"Wouldn't surprise me a bit," shouted the husband, breaking into the proceedings. "She's been giving me a piece of it every day for fifteen years."

Financier.

"SOME of these war profiteers really believe that they are honest," said Secretary McAdoo, the other day. "They look on their work exactly like a woman I know. She's a perfectly good woman, a church goer, and all that sort of thing, who wouldn't cheat anyone out of a penny. But this same woman borrows eggs from the neighbors when eggs are 60 cents a dozen and pays the eggs back, egg for egg, when eggs are 30 cents a dozen."

Can't be Done.

"GERMANY," said Representative Mudd of Maryland, "thinks she'll get the peace she desires by some means—by any means—by victories, or by diplomacy, or by bluff.

"Germany is very much like the young lady who presented a check at the bank. The teller after examining it, said:

REPRESENTATIVE MUDD of Maryland said in the course of a heated argument about the Liberty Motor:

"We don't know the whole truth yet, and from half truths optimistic and pessimistic conclusions can, with equal justice be drawn. This brings you nowhere. It's like the two clubmen.

SHERIFF CLINE was discussing campaigning.

"In the old days," he remarked, "I used to do it on horseback, but now it's the auto. Probably next time, folks will say:

How I Became an Indian Warrior

answered by others of his kind, some quite near, some so far away that I could no more than hear them. I knew, of course, that he was the leader of a band; that he was calling his comrades to gather for a hunt. Each of them had a mate and a litter of young and a burrow in that vicinity, and father and mother took equal care of their young, by turns going out to forage for them, and, when the kill was too large to be carried, filling the stomach with chunks of meat hastily torn from the carcass, and hurrying home and spewing it out before the hungry fussy little pups.

I thought that the wolves might come my way, and in the course of a half hour or so they did, thirteen of them appearing in single file upon the trail coming in to the spring from the west. Their leader, a very large, creamy white male, evidently had the morning hunt all planned; led his band at steady trot, stopping not once to sniff at the bunches of sweet sage growing here and there at the sides of the trail. His followers were of varying shades of gray and black; their long fluffy coats—roaching high above the shoulders—quivered in time with their footsteps; all held their round thick furred tails at a graceful drooping angle out from their bodies; their broad, rounding heads gave evidence of their great intelligence. They were, the Blackfeet said, the wisest, the most successful hunters in all the world. The Blackfeet hunters never went out in quest of meat but what they first sang over and over the song of the wolf, and prayed Ancient Wolf—the first wolf—to give them good luck.

When the old, white leader came to the rim of the depression in which lay the spring, he stopped short upon seeing the buffalo lying around it, and his followers flanked him on either side, and crowded close up behind him and also came to a stop, and there they stood as motionless as so many statues.

Not so the buffalo. A cow lying to the west of the spring discovered the enemy as they came to a stand, and loudly snorting she sprang to her feet with wonderful agility for so large and unwieldy an animal, and faced them with lowered head, her hair all bristling forward like that of an angry dog. Her first snort aroused the other cows and they all sprang up and crowded into a solid, close-packed mass behind her. The little calves had got upon their feet even more quickly than their mothers, and in their fright several of them started to run straight away from the band; but they made only a few leaps and came scurrying back, and darted under their mothers' bellies into the center of the mass and disappeared from my sight, every one of them.

The wolves now relaxed the tense postures into which they had frozen at sight of the buffalo; they shifted their feet uneasily and looked at one another and down at the little herd, and presently, as though they had been ordered to do so by the old, white leader, several of them started at a slow walk to circle around the herd—at a very respectable distance, however. The leader calmly sat down upon his haunches, the rest of his followers remaining standing behind him.

The circling scouts pursued a zig-zag course, going from one clump of sagebrush and buck brush to another, in hope no doubt of finding a sleeping calf, and those that took the upper side of the slope passed within fifty feet of me. As they went around, some of the cows kept turning to keep head toward them, and thus the little herd soon shaped itself into a circular wall of frightfully menacing sharp horned heads alight with angrily gleaming eyes. The wolves were wise with the experiences of their ancestors accumulated through countless years of time: they knew that an attack upon the herd would result in their being gored to death; that it would be impossible for them to stampede the herd and pull down some of the fleeing calves and hamstring one of the fleeing cows.

The lead scouts completed the circling of the herd; the others stopped here and there around it and all looked back at their old, white leader. He presently arose and started off on a trot, disdaining to give the buffalo even a glance as he passed below them and went on around the butte with his followers. The buffalo remained in close formation for a long time after the wolves had gone, and then, the old lead cow heading them, they started off down the slope at a brisk walk, their calves close at their sides or trailing right at their heels, and went far out upon the plain before scattering out a bit to graze.

I had called upon the buffalo and the wolves for help. I now stretched out more comfortably upon my couch and recalled the tales I had heard about the buffalo, particularly the tale of "The Four Bulls," which was a favorite one of the Blackfeet medicine men.

In the days when the Blackfeet had all the country to themselves and war was unknown, a man took his family and went out upon the plains to hunt for a time. One evening as they sat around their little lodge fire they heard heavy footsteps approaching; then the door curtain was thrust aside and four young, elegantly dressed men came in. The hunter welcomed them, gave them seats of honor at the back of the lodge, had his women set food before them. Answering his questions they said that they were from a far camp of people and were just traveling about seeing the country. They did not tarry long, leaving after a pipe had gone the rounds and promising to come again. The man and his wives wondered that the visitors should step so heavily as they went off into the night.

On the following evening the four strangers came again, their approach heralded by the sound of heavy walking upon the dry plain. This time they remained until nearly midnight, and the talk turning to sacred things, they said that they had great favor with the sun, and at the host's request they taught him some of their sacred prayers and songs.

Four nights in all the strangers visited the hunter, teaching him their sacred songs and prayers. On the fourth evening there came a light fall of snow and it seemed to make the visitors uneasy. They told the hunter that they had taught him all the sacred matters they knew, and that they could not come again as they were going to resume their travels. They filed out of the lodge and for the last time the little family heard the sound of their heavy retreating footsteps. One of the wives again remarked how strange it was that the active young men should make so much foot noise. She presently went out, and a moment later shrieked to her man to come to her. They all rushed out and found her pointing to fresh tracks in the snow: "Look! Just look at the departing tracks of our visitors!" she cried.

They stared down at them and could hardly believe their eyes, for the tracks they saw were unmistakably the tracks of buffalo bulls! One of the wives burst into tears: "Misfortune—death, perhaps, is upon us!" she cried.

"Hush, woman! Dry your tears and be glad!" her man commanded. "Don't you realize that our visitors are our friends? that they have earnestly, patiently taught me all the rites of their wonderful buffalo medicine? Oh, the gods are good to us. Let us rejoice! Let us rejoice!"

Thus it was that the Blackfeet got the buffalo medicine in the long ago. Down through centuries of time it had been transferred from one to another, its symbol two huge red mouthed, red hearted, black buffalo painted one upon each side of the lodge of the owner, and now old Lone Man had it. How many times I had heard him—assisted by brother medicine men and his women—singing the weird songs of the medicine. One of them, the Song of the Bull, I especially loved. Slow, and deeply sonorous it was, compelling a vision of the stately, deliberate movements of a lone old bull. If I was to have a fasting-dream experience I hoped it would be a buffalo that would appear and offer me its help.

guilty conscience and cut her throat to let the evil spirits out of her body. In taking the rounds I saw some remarkable surgery, one young man showed scars from thirty operations which prolonged his life long enough for him to believe and accept Christ as his Savior. He had done so and been baptized. Now he must die so that someone else could have his cot.

Could it be Worth While to Take this for Anything.

PASSING on I said, "What is the matter with this miserable old creature?" The doctor said, "He came here the other day in the last stages of poison from smoking opium. I took away his pipe and two dozen prescriptions by typical Chinese doctors for which he had exhausted his money. Here is one interpreted for me:

A Chinese doctor sat beside him holding his pulse for two hours, then ordered this remedy which required nearly a half day to prepare:

Two oz. salted lizards, two male and two female; ½ oz. Korea ginseng root, six dried grasshoppers, three male and three female; 1 oz. sweet potato stalks, 1 oz. walnuts, ½ oz. lotus leaves, ½ oz. tail of rattlesnake, 2 oz. black dates, ½ oz. elm tree bark, ½ oz. devil fish claws, ½ oz. hartshorn, ½ oz. bird's claws, ½ oz. dried ginger, ½ oz. old coffin nails. The whole to be mixed with two quarts of water and boiled down to half the quantity. Then let the patient drink the mixture as quickly as possible.

One naturally wants to know what happened to the patient. There should be something of strong human interest regarding a man who has imbibed such a mess.

There Will be Wonderful Opportunities for Americans in China.

WHEN we have suppressed Prussianism our fight is not finished—we must win a lasting victory of peace. We must be the guardians of these 400,000,000 people. In co-operation with the missionaries we should send vast armies and money to this benighted land. China is one vast country filled with mineral resources yet undeveloped, owing to lack of capital and technically trained men. They need our civil, sanitary and electrical engineers, for an injection of American methods would serve as just the needed stimulus.

Our boys who have gambled with death on the battlefield against the Hun will have tasted of the greatness of the world, and with the tinge of salt sea air in their nostrils will never be content to return to their old routine of life. They will be quick to see these great opportunities across the Pacific. While this would be a victory of peace it would not be without a fight, for there are greedy competitors even now in the field. With our great marine built up, and with quantities of raw material and machinery which China needs, the millions of trained and hardy men of our army and navy will naturally man our countless vessels of commerce. Besides securing great profits in their respective branches in China we would gain the gratitude and friendship of a nation sure to become great in the future generations.

A Story from Alaska.

When one of the Citizen's circulators was collecting the first of the month, he knocked at the door of a subscriber on Seventh avenue and a voice cried, "Hello! Come in!" He tried the door but it was locked, so he went around to the back door and knocked there. The same voice repeated: "Hello! Come in!" but that door was also locked. The boy hastened around to the front door again but still no admittance. He waited a while, then tried it again and received the same invitation. "But I can't get in," he shouted. The voice was mumbling something and the lad peered in through the window and saw a parrot preening itself on a perch and looking wisely around.—[Fairbanks (Alaska) Citizen.

in a far sounder condition than it has ever held in the past.

In addition to all this is our savings. We were wasting $1,000,000 a day on tourist travel in Europe when the war opened. We are saving that now. Foreign nations then owned something like $5,000,000,000 of American securities. All that has come back, and Congress has provided for $7,000,000,000 worth of loans to our Allies in Europe. The interest on those loans in round figures equals more than $1,000,000 for every working day in the year. Such loans are bound to increase, and when the war ends the interest will be flowing in a golden stream across the ocean to us. From now on we shall be a creditor nation, doing our own international banking and sending our goods to all countries in our own ships. Indeed, the financial condition of Uncle Sam could not be better. His credit is the best in the world, and his paper passes as gold with every nation on earth. He will be a mean spirit indeed who hangs back and distrusts him in this hour of need.

FOR THE SAKE OF HIS PAPER.

BY JAMES C. YOUNG.

"WERNER is the man to beat. We must find some way to defeat him." And the city editor of the Call shook a bony finger at the man who sat in attention beside him.

"If Werner is re-elected to the bench it will be a bad blow for good government in New York," he added. "Now, Johnson, this is an eleventh hour case. I want you to start an investigation of his life, beginning at the cradle. It is impossible that Werner has covered all of his sins. And we must have the story for tomorrow morning's paper. Get busy."

That was the way Johnson got the worst assignment of the year—and the best. Three of Satterlee's staff had failed on this story. In something less than twenty-four hours the polls would open with Werner's election practically conceded by the city's best element. So the tall, shabby reporter, with the thin, ascetic face, took a mental hitch in his belt and prepared for the work ahead.

Going to the Call's morgue, that last resting place of men's records, he called for the envelope relating to Werner, then immersed himself in a batch of clippings that bore a first date of some twenty years before.

Unaware of the new forces gathering against him, Judge Werner paced the floor of his law office, rather pleased with himself and the world. The election was at hand and he knew victory to be his. Every leader in the organization assured him of it. A smile made his aquiline features seem less sharp, and he smoothed his straw-colored beard complacently. The smile even extended to the man's pale blue eyes as he halted and the fingers of one well kept hand played a rat-a-tat-tat upon the desk before him. His mood was truly genial, and he turned with kindly air to the boy who entered and announced a visitor.

"Ah," he exclaimed, "show in the gentleman."

A moment later the boy returned, escorting a man of red face and pig's eyes.

"Welcome, welcome indeed, Clancy," said the judge, taking the other's hands in both his own. "What is the good news today?"

"Everything is fine," answered the man who ruled political destinies, "but we can't take any chances. The Call is hammering us mighty hard, and there's no telling what they may print next."

A frown, just a trace of worry, furrowed the judge's forehead. It quickly disappeared. This was no day for fears.

"Tut, tut, my dear Clancy," reassured the jurist. "What could they possibly say about us that they haven't already said?"

"I don't know—that is what bothers me," replied the boss. "But if they should run up on anything I can see trouble ahead."

"They can't, they simply can't, Clancy. The election is ours."

"Well, I hope so," Clancy agreed, rising. "I've got to hurry on and meet my brother. He's coming from Joliet."

"Joliet?" queried the judge, in sudden surprise.

"Yes; he's warden out there."

"Oh," commented the judge, and saw his visitor to the door. "Be certain to keep me posted."

. . . .

With pencil in hand, Johnson abruptly ceased to shuffle the many clippings which told of Werner's career. A half column article of the year before held his attention. It related in detail how Judge Werner's decision in a long-drawn-out gas litigation had favored the company, nullifying earnest work for a lower price. Johnson studied this clipping, then laid it beside another which hinted that the gas interests had been large contributors to the organization's chest for the present campaign. And it was rather broadly intimated that the contribution came grudgingly.

Rapidly Johnson penciled a few notes from the clippings. Something within him insisted on coupling the two incidents together as one. And this first footprint in the political sands lead to the office of the Commonwealth Gas Company. And presently Johnson gained admittance to the private retreat of Edward Wayburn, gas magnate.

Johnson was an able reporter. None knew it better than Samuel Satterlee. That is to say, he was an able man except for occasional lapses. Even as Johnson was preparing to delve for that rare quality called truth, Satterlee endeavored to convince himself that he had picked the man to defeat Werner.

He recalled that it was ten years now since a lanky boy with burning brown eyes had told him that he must have a job. That "must" impressed Satterlee. He liked men who must do things. So the editor had hired the newcomer and given him his chance.

The youth had done splendidly—except for his lapses. Satterlee shuddered at thought of these, particularly the one that had carried Johnson from Park Row to the West. There was a girl, Satterlee remembered, but his recollection stopped at that point.

When Johnson left, strange tales came back to the city room about the wanderer. They were vague, and Satterlee had never expected to see him again. But in the end Johnson came back, a trifle older, much chastened.

Satterlee saw that he was a changed man, and gambled upon past accomplishments, mingled with a little hope for the future. Where his habits had been of the worst, his ways careless, the new Johnson kept regular hours and could be depended upon. At least Satterlee hoped that he might. Some of his old brilliancy seemed lacking, but the editor had been willing to sacrifice a bit of personality for a grain of steadiness. Johnson began his upward climb again.

"We must have the story for tomorrow morning's paper, get busy."
(This picture was posed in The Times Office by members of The Times Staff.)

By this time he would have been the Call's most trusted man—if Satterlee only could have trusted him. It was a part of the editor's creed never to rely wholly upon a man who had once lapsed. He knew the danger of smoldering fires.

Now Satterlee had broken that creed, and sat pondering over the risk. Still, he assured himself, his need was desperate. If there was one man who could get the story, save the Call's face and win the election—that man was Johnson.

Edward Wayburn was a man of considerable intelligence, which explained in a way why his company charged the public a dollar for every 1000 feet of gas that it bought, when the Legislature had ruled that the price should be 80 cents. Johnson got a distinct impression of ability as he looked into the pleasant face of the capitalist. And Wayburn decided with equal quickness that here was a man who wanted something from him. Wherefore he smiled. It would be so much easier to make a graceful refusal.

The reporter began casual comment on the political situation, trying to draw an opinion from the man before him. Instantly he noted a hint of annoyance that crossed the other's face, a fleeting glimpse of some unpleasant recollection. Therefore he strengthened his attack, and within a few minutes had made Wayburn half suspicious that the organization was beaten. Johnson kept close check of his progress. The time had arrived.

"I thought perhaps you would like to know that we've got the evidence of Werner's interest in gas," he said. "We know the size of a certain contribution to the organization, and we know why it was made. The facts will be printed Now—"

"Get out of my office!"

"Now—"

"Go before I call a porter!"

"Never mind the porter, Mr. Wayburn," and the man in the chair eyed the other down again. "Just listen to me for a moment. My chief believes that you can do good government better service than any man in New York. I assure you that the hour has come for the organization. As a matter of fact it seems to me that they have made you pay dearly enough!"

That was the weak spot in Wayburn's defense. Johnson took note of the old flash of annoyance. The man looked at him with new interest, and asked: "What do you want?"

Then Johnson knew that the stakes were his. He drew a bag of tobacco from one pocket and a packet of brown cigarette papers from another, holding Wayburn's gaze.

"May I smoke?" he asked.

Wayburn nodded, reaching for a box of cigars in a convenient drawer. Johnson refused and carelessly rolled a cigarette, heedless of the tobacco flakes that fell upon the rug. He took his time, playing for effects, but in no hurry to get them, like an actor who knows his audience.

An hour later he left the Commonwealth Company's office with the political fate of several men in his hands. But he also felt that the story was not complete. It would be interesting to know what Werner could say in defense of himself. That would be something Park Row had never done before—ask a man if he was guilty before public accusation. Johnson decided to interview the jurist.

He found him at his office. At least the boy on guard in the reception-room expressed the opinion that the judge might possibly be within.

"Tell the judge," instructed Johnson, "that a reporter for the Call wishes to see him about a very important matter."

The boy returned after a moment's absence and crooked a dirty finger at the caller. A few steps, and the reporter faced the man whose sins he was seeking out.

It had taken much boldness for Johnson to come there. Perhaps it had taken more for Werner to receive him. It was their first meeting. They looked at each other a long minute, these two who represented such different callings, both accustomed to wield a measure of power. Each sought for a tell-tale look in the other's eye, some trace of uneasiness.

The judge waved his hand toward a chair. Johnson seated himself without comment. Then he said: "How's the election, judge?"

"We are going to win, I believe, despite our good friends on the Call."

The judge smiled, faintly. Johnson regarded him solemnly. He liked the man's assurance.

"Well, I don't know, judge," he answered. "That was what I came to see you about. I believe that you will lose."

The judge smiled confidently now, inclined his head courteously, and replied: "No doubt, my dear fellow; and I am certain that you will do all in your power to defeat me."

"Yes, I am going to defeat you," said Johnson, almost musingly. He had slumped down in his chair until the judge seemed to see nothing but the man's burning eyes. For a moment the jurist doubted his hearing.

"How—you are going to defeat me? Is that correct?"

"Yes," answered Johnson, "and I called to learn what you have to say about it."

Not often did the judge permit himself to laugh. But now he laughed long and frankly.

"Capital!" he exclaimed. "You are going to defeat me, and you want to know what I think about it? Why, I think it is immense. And how are you going to do this, may I ask?"

Every minute Johnson felt himself more strongly attracted by this suave jurist. He began to keenly regret that the task had fallen to him of ruining such a man's life. But there was no alternative. He sighed half audibly, and answered: "It's going to be easy, judge—and I'm sorry."

He laid before the other man the result of his search. Slowly at first, then with quickened interest, and finally in dramatic intensity he told the judge a story that made him lose his assurance. From indignation Werner passed to horror. When Johnson paused, the judge sprang from his chair and paced the room.

"But you can't print the story!" he cried. "It's blackmail!"

"No, it isn't, judge—only the truth. I want nothing."

"My God, man, will you ruin me for the mere satisfaction of a sensation? It isn't ture—but the public will believe anything."

"Can't help it, judge, my paper comes first. I—"

There was a sudden rap on the door and it was half opened. Clancy stepped into the room. He stopped short on seeing Johnson, cast a quick glance at Werner, and sensed tragedy. Without a word he closed the door behind him, softly. Then he spoke: "Hello, Johnson, what are you doing in the enemy's camp?"

"He has come here to accuse me of every foul deed in the calendar," cried Werner.

"Is that so?" demanded Clancy, and his pig's eyes narrowed to mere slits. "Why don't you have him thrown out?"

"At your service," replied Johnson, and pulled his long frame from the depths of the chair. "Go ahead."

"No, no, no," interrupted Werner. "I'm glad you came, Clancy. Sit down. Let us talk this thing over."

Silently the three grouped about the judge's table. Then, in broken phrases, Werner repeated to Clancy the half of what Johnson had told him.

"It's not true, Clancy; not a word, and you know it," pleaded the judge. "I had nothing to do with the gas company's contribution, but many people will believe anything bad about me just now."

Clancy turned to the reporter. Quick decisions had made him the mighty political factor that he was.

"What's your price, young fellow?"

Johnson smiled. "I'm afraid I haven't any," he said.

Clancy was patient. In his ponderous way he tried to make the reporter see the

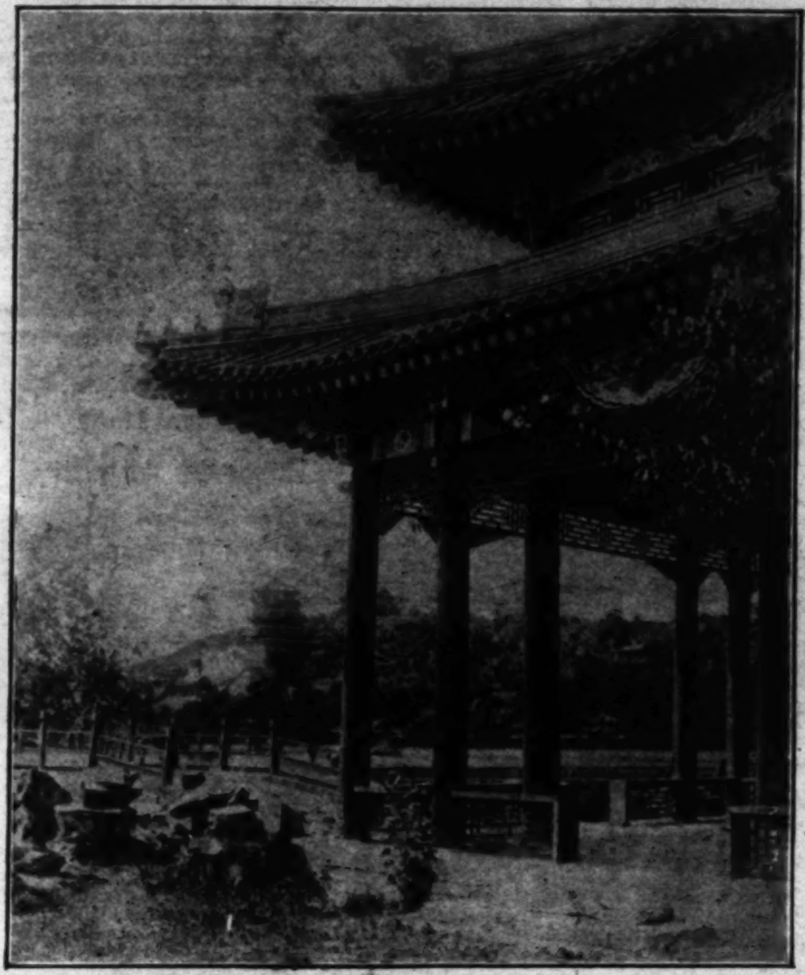
A YANKEE DOCTOR IN NANKING.

BY DR. A. B. LEAVELLE.

[This is the second of two articles by Dr. Leavelle upon his travels in the interior of China.—Ed.]

MY NEW friend showed me everything from a Mission School to the lowest opium den. He took me away on interior trips by wheelbarrow, sedan chair, house boat, on donkeys, camels and railroad—for none of which I was allowed to pay a cash. I seemed to make a hit in a foreign land anyway. He told me his father said if I cared to enter any business activity he would furnish the capital.

One thing extremely novel and interesting was a trip far in the interior to a big wedding in a community where not more than one in ten had ever seen a foreigner. They followed me about rather than the bride. I was the whole show.



A Chinese Temple in Nanking.

When a boy becomes of marriageable age his parents go to a broker of wide acquaintance who selects a girl and casts a horoscope, which if favorable, is presented to the parents of the bride and if accompanied by a sum of money as recompense for rearing the girl, a lucky day is set for the wedding. Here came the bride in a huge gilt sedan chair which is locked, the key having been sent ahead to the bridegroom. The marriage procession was completed with long lines of coolies, bearing red boxes containing the bride's clothing and food for the feast. In one big sedan chair reposed, in his dignity, a big red rooster, present to the bride. When the procession arrived through the narrow streets and the great jam of wedding guests, the sedan chair was unlocked and for the first time the bride and bridegroom saw each others faces.

The ceremony is not religious, but is symbolical of the bride's joining her husband's clan. They both knocked their heads on the floor before the father and mother of the groom and made obeisance before the latter's ancestral tablets and the ceremony was complete. The bride, after exchange of a few words with the groom, which, of course, was interrupted by the crowd, trying to make them laugh while they were trying not to, was ushered to the bridal chamber. She has no voice in the management of the home and is but little more than a slave to her despotic mother-in-law, who may beat her or mistreat her in anyway she chooses.

If a man can afford it he is allowed by custom to take secondary wives or concubines, who have no legal or social standing.

Of all China's great cities I found Nanking the richest in historical interest. It is 205 miles inland on the banks of that wonderful waterway, the Yangtze River. Its history dates back, under different names, several centuries before Christ, and it has served under a number of dynasties as the Capital City. Nanking is very advantageously situated for defense and has the vantage point striven for by many of the leaders of China's numerous rebellions. It was here that Dr. Sun Yat Sen lived and took his oath of office as President of the Republic of China in 1912. During our stay in this city we were entertained in that great Yamen, formerly owned by Li Hung Chang, ex-Minister to America.

The present walls of Nanking are among the finest in China, being ninety feet high, forty feet thick and twenty-two miles long. In their construction no fewer than 4,000,000 workmen were employed. These walls have now been built more than 1000 years and, though moss covers most of the brick, are well preserved.

The past glories of this city are indicated by arched bridges of carved stone; by the ruins of the world famous porcelain pagoda; the Examination Halls containing cells for 30,000 students; the nearby ancient Confucian temples; the drum tower, and the precious stone tea houses. The celebrated mausoleum of Hung Wu, the humble founder of the Ming Dynasty, we saw just outside the city walls. For miles it is surrounded by huge carved granite figures of animals and solid stone images, known as the Ming Tombs. This is one of the most picturesque places known to history.

The Mountain Was Chained so it Couldn't Come to Anybody.

ALL IS overshadowed by Purple Mountain, where the greatest battle of Chinese history was fought. The wife of one of the Emperors declared she could see this mountain move, and to relieve his people of their terror he set forth with 1,000,000 coolies and constructed a huge iron chain about its base. Since that day it has not moved.

Possibly the rarest privilege of my life was my visit to the palace of His Excellency, Gov. Mak Wing Sun of Canton, South China. This was made possible through my brother, Dr. George W. Leavelle, called by the Chinese "Taai I Shaang" which means "The big doctor." Weighing 230 pounds, Dr. Leavelle is the largest man and the only foreign doctor in active practice in a province of 8,000,000 people. A couple of years ago this military Governor of Kwang Sai Province came to my brother's hospital for an operation, and it was through his appreciation and friendship that we had the privilege of going, under close military escort, to call on His Excellency the Governor at his palace. This is a concession rarely afforded one in 10,000 foreigners in China.

He is the Governor over 35,000,000 people, and nothing suits him better than to keep trouble stirred up with the northern and central forces, for whom he has great contempt.

This Man Stepped From Pirate Chief to Military Governor.

GOV. MAK is an ex-pirate chief from the wilds of Kwang Sai, having been born and raised in the mountains. He speaks the language of the common coolie, and is not able to write his own name. Of course, he spoke through an interpreter or through my brother, who also speaks the language. While sipping tea, smoking water pipes and eating roasted pumpkin seed, he expressed himself freely on various subjects. He told me that he had "a great regard for Americans, as he has never heard them criticize his people.' He thought "his people consider America China's best friend." He is loyal to the Allies and said, "I am enthusiastic in doing all I can, that is, sending coolies for manual labor behind the lines and contributing to the Liberty Loan and Red Cross."

While he is very shrewd and cunning, he looks like the average well-to-do citizen with long finger nails, but without a queue, as that is the one distinction of the southern Chinaman. All the people of South China fear Gov. Mak because he passes the death sentence on an average of three or four people a day, principally for treachery against the government. He is the highest court of the land, from which there is no appeal, and had we remained over until daylight doubtless we could have seen a few heads chopped off.

He is the exception among Chinese officials in that he is not afraid to venture into the streets without a heavily armed bodyguard. He is not afraid of anything, not even the devil himself, as he does not believe there is one existing. Several attempts have been made on the life of Gov. Mak. "A few days ago," he told me, "a bomb was thrown at my sedan chair by a northern spy, killing one chair bearer and a detective. The next morning at daylight I had the offender shot on the spot where the bomb exploded." He sent his greetings to the people of "Kam Shaan" (Gold Mountain) California.

Taking a stern wheeler we proceeded up the world famous West River right through China's present theater of war.

Our good captain, having a big consignment of silver aboard, was sure the pirates would take us, and at nightfall placed "Big Doc" (my brother) and me in a private cabin adjoining his on the bridge, all of which was enclosed in iron grating with locked doors. We had 300 Chinese herded below on the deck which had no beds, as they preferred the floor. I was glad of the chance to see them at their evening meal of rice, bamboo sprouts and chopped duck, served before them as they reclined, a half dozen or more eating with chopsticks out of the same large bowl. It certainly was a great sight. Then they passed around the community water-pipe, which after a few puffs would lay them out to sleep.

Some Duck Boat—Beats Anything we Have in America.

OH, SAY, did you ever see a duck boat? Well, all along here you see these peculiar boats with overhanging sides equipped to accommodate something like 4000 ducks. They land at a new grazing place each day, throw down a bamboo gangplank and herd them like sheep—a call will bring back any straying drake. In the afternoon when the call is given "all aboard," you never saw such a scrambling and falling into the water to get up that gangway, for the last half dozen get a sound thrashing for being late. It looked like a crush at a theater fire.

We finally reached Vuchow, the "Big Doc" and his charming wife, formerly of the Blue Grass, showed me the most interesting ten days of my life. Yes, I could forget three-fourths of it all and still have enough left to write a book. I arrived in time to see what their city is most famous for, a flood. It rose forty-five feet, inundating a great part of the city, driving the natives to the hills, on to house tops, and a few who were able to pay 40 cents a day, to house boats.

Of course, we lost no time in seeing that great missionary hospital of which my brother is chief surgeon and superintendent. He had three Chinese men and ten Chinese women nurses, trained also as Bible students, and can accommodate about 150 patients. They have every heinous disease and affliction conceivable—leprosy, typhus, Asiatic cholera, smallpox, tuberculosis, dengue fever, opium smokers' poison, and plague. The first sight that struck my eyes was a woman who had just come in with her throat cut wide open and bleeding to death. The bleeding was quickly stopped, and the Bible women going to work at once, found that she had suffered from

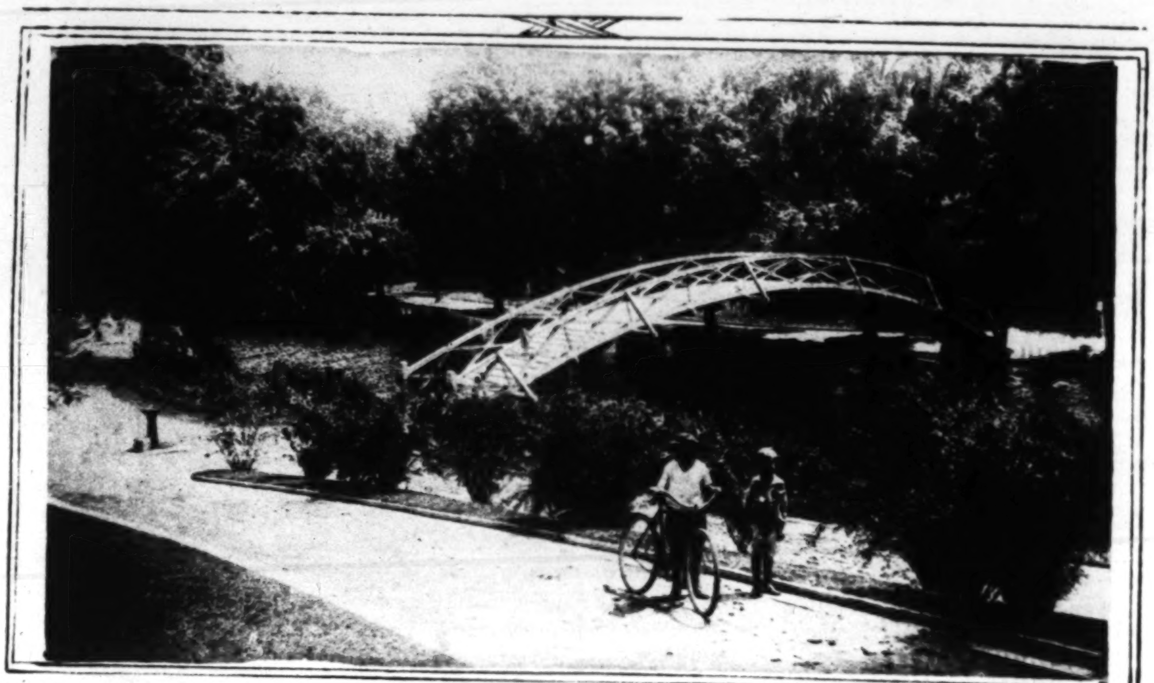
PROGRESS AND PRODUCTION

SUNDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 6, 1918.

"Meet me at the Liberty Fair."

The Garden Beautiful in Southern California.

INFORMATION BOTH PRACTICAL AND SCIENTIFIC. BY ERNEST BRAUNTON.



Bow bridge in Los Angeles park.

AN ARTICLE recently appeared in an English garden periodical which stated that the most urgent need in garden equipment was a tractor about three feet long, in which the detachable or soil-stirring parts were inclusive, or beneath the engine and not trailed behind. The reason urged for a compact form and small size is the necessity of turning in a very limited area at each row end and the use of the machine in the smaller gardens. Over there garden space is worth so much that room at the ends for turning is not allowed and if the tractor is to supersede hand tools, it must be small and therefore very compactly built. The strange thing about it is that the English writer wished to ride also.

Their problems are also ours, but we have solved them and have the tractors they desire. To wish to ride on the smallest tractor is, however, unreasonable and impracticable. All should be very well satisfied at the substitution of the tiny motor for the bulky and often unwieldy horse. The increased power is also a large factor, inasmuch as the smaller tractors have two and one-half horse-power in a space but little larger than the common dinner pail. These will pull all the equipment possible to a heavy farm team and do much more work, more uniform in all ways, than is possible with the use of horses. The present writer has visited all tractor demonstrations given in the south end of the State, about Los Angeles, and has been especially interested in these "baby" tractors and was fairly delighted with their performances. Not only have they come to stay, but their use in the near future will be universal. We simply cannot afford to be without them. The smallest sizes are necessarily what are termed walking machines and we will continue, as of old, to "follow the plow." Just a little larger, a little more powerful are the riding or "sulkey" machines that, strange to say, sulk not, wherein they also are superior to animal-drawn equipment. Bless you, our dear English cousins, we have tractors to meet your every whim and fancy, and as soon as the bloomin' war is over you shall have them, too.

Hardiness of Blue Grass.

A correspondent wishes to know if Kentucky blue grass is hardy in all parts of California. Barring a few points of extreme cold, such as the summit of Mt. Whitney and other peaks, it is fairly hardy throughout the State. It is so much at home in Northern Mississippi Valley where the thermometer occasionally registers fifty below zero, that it has overrun all the botton lands, though not native to the States so overgrown. The seed got loose from orchards sown to this grass and it is now naturalized on all rich lowlands. It will come up green beneath the snow and cold spring rains often freeze it into sheets of ice, but when the latter melts away the grass remains unimpaired. There it is usually known as June grass, for it flowers during that month. In spite of this hardiness, autumn-sown lawns in local territory are sometime caught "in the milk" by severe early frosts and the young grass killed, but such occurrences are indeed rare. Generally speaking, the grass is hardy throughout the United States.

Resistance to Alkali.

Last week a visit was made to the alkali-burdened fields of the Bolsa Chica, in Orange county, where only the duck hunter inhabits during a portion of each year. In some fields of late drained by deep ditches, lima beans were growing, though in spots the crop was a failure. Blue gum and red gum trees flourish under the same conditions. A line of Lombardy poplars presented a pathetic sight. At one end they were evidently on comparatively high ground, for they appeared in a fair state of health—a little spindly, and a little scant of foliage. As the line approached the very shallow pond of alkali water, the trees were smaller, all parts more slender, the foliage grew less and less until it ran out, with trees still having a feeble hold on life. The three last trees, the smallest of all had apparently died last year. Still the eucalypts flourished.

Native Bay or Laurel.

Recent trips to mountain and foothill canyons reveal our native laurel, Umbellularia Californica, in the heights of its glory, though in the depths of the canyons. Of all green things it is in September greener than any other native plant. It is wonderfully drought-resistant and will grow in hot, dry situations, though thriving best close to the Coast, where it is vigorous and of large size almost within the reach of salt spray. In some ways it is used as a substitute for the European bay, but in odor it is more pungent and less pleasing than the latter. The strong odor of the California plant gives some persons headaches, yet others claim its leaves are a cure for the same trouble. For ornamental use in Coastal regions it is of greater value than Laurus nobilis, the European species.

Edible Myrtle Berries.

In the myrtle family there are many species bearing edible fruits. It is probable that the numbers of these species runs into hundreds, there being about a hundred in Eugenia and Myrciaria alone. Just how many will thrive in California is a problem, but their names are legion. New species are constantly fruiting in local gardens. One new species of Myrciaria, a genus close to Eugenia, is now fruiting at Beverly Hills, near Sawtelle. The Los Angeles Park Department should have a botanic garden or trial grounds where all such fruits could be grown to ascertain their value for local planting.

Avocado Insurance.

Occasionally a lot of drivel finds its way into various periodicals about avocado trees being insured with Lloyds of London and other companies for prodigious sums, ranging from $10,000 to $30,000. It is said a tree near Los Angeles is or has been insured against frost damage for the latter sum. If so it is nothing short of ludicrous, for there never was, nor will there ever be, any sort of a fruit tree worth that sum or productive of such a sum in total returns over the period of an ordinary lifetime. Trees of the best avocados are now so common over the Southland that no monopoly of budwood exists at present. Today none of the varieties so sensationally written up five or ten years ago are considered worth planting, for better sorts are obtainable at prices within the reach of all.

Sundials.

Sundials are of remote antiquity, for Herodotus states: "It was from Babylon that the Greeks learned concerning the pole and gnomen and the twelve parts of day." In Europe there were famous dialmakers of record in the fifteenth century and on down to a century ago. At present they have become mere garden ornaments, for we now look at watches to see how near the dials are to correct time, while formerly the reverse method was necessary. Floral sundials are now no longer popular, though quite a fad at one time. It is claimed that one may be made that will record the hour fairly well in the opening of flowers, but to one who knows flowers well the scheme does not appeal. The writer has seen a half-dozen such and they were all I.W.W.'s; they wouldn't work.

Bow Bridges.

In parks, and sometimes in private gardens, bow bridges are so constructed as to allow boats to pass beneath. But they seem to be a feature in Japanese gardens where boating of any sort is impossible. The excuse for the design must then lie in gaining elevation for change of scene or to gain a more extensive view of a landscape than would be possible from the common level. If no excuse is offered but appearances, let us have no bow bridges, for they are not beautiful nor are they easy to walk upon.

A Quiet Garden Retreat.

One of the chief aims of garden building should be comfort. To be comfortable one should usually be quiet, in some degree of seclusion. No private arbor, garden house or seat should be in the open. It is an easy matter to mask or immure, or immerse such structures in a mass of shrubbery that should be a copse or covert. Having done this it remains for one to make the interior comfortable, either with fixed or built-in seats, or chairs. If large enough, a hammock could be slung across the arbor to the rear of the space used for chairs. It matters little what you do so long as such accessories cater to comfort.

A quiet garden retreat.

Edison Isn't the Only One Who Crowds Two Days in One.

Time Conservation.

A SOMEWHAT novel solution of the farm-labor problem is the theory of Conductor B. J. Foss of the La Habra line of the Pacific Electric Railway, put into practice on his fourteen-acre lemon and orange ranch. Mr. Foss firmly believes that within twenty-four hours there are two perfectly good working days besides a good night's sleep—and he proves it by holding down two jobs.

From 4 o'clock in the afternoon until 1 o'clock the next morning Conductor Foss performs the duties of what is generally considered a day's work. He is brisk and alert and evidently contented in his employment, as any of his friends, the regular passengers, can testify by his cheerful manner. His health is very evidently of the best and he gives not the slightest evidence of being burdened with overwork. In the way of accomplishment it is equally evident that he is "putting over" just twice what the ordinary man counts as a daily stint. And it seems so altogether simple a matter to Conductor Foss himself that he can see no occasion for comment. He says he feels that out-door exercise is the best rest and relaxation possible from confining labor, and it might just as well be the kind that conserve energy by applying it to a productive end.

HE GETS RESULTS.

And certainly this is what he has done on the pretty little ranch at Yorba Linda, which in the past six years has been transformed with his own physical labor from a raw piece of unimproved land to a producing citrus grove and an attractive home place. Even the irrigating system represents the owner's own personal efforts. During the past few months he has completed this system by the laying of 1000 feet of concrete pipe line, the ditches for which had to be dug two feet in depth. Altogether he has put in 3400 feet of this eight-inch pipe on the slopes of the rolling land comprising his ranch.

LA HABRA LINE LIMITED

Here Mr. Foss is seen holding down what he calls his "regular" job.

This, of course, is only one item among many in the building of a citrus grove, but, from the initial plowing of the grassy slopes to the harvesting of the first crop, after several years devoted to development and upkeep labor—in addition to a regular job—all the items on the list are accredited to this rancher-conductor himself. He keeps his own team of horses with which to do the frequent cultivating and the necessary hauling, and it is with more than the ordinary satisfaction that he now uses it to take in the monthly crop of lemons. From his 1100 trees he has shipped 500 boxes this season and begins to feel that he is reaping his reward. Mr. Foss has only recently been elected a director of the local citrus association.

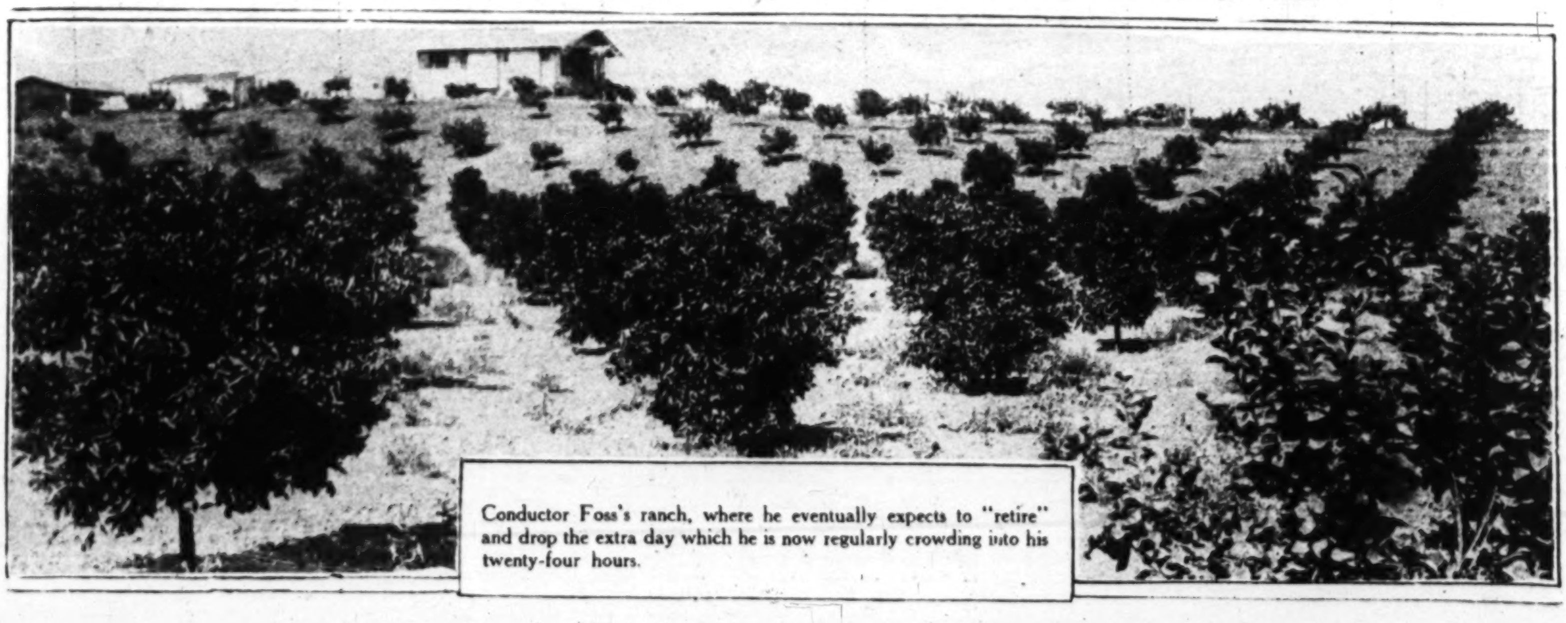
In addition to the care of the orchard, there are some 200 chickens on the place to add to the regular chores. And these chores seem to be accomplished with surprising ease. Certainly they are accomplished in a thoroughgoing manner as the appearance of the deep green, sturdy trees and the neatness of the entire place clearly testify.

SAYS IT'S EASY.

When asked how he managed his double-shift, daily programme, Conductor Foss declared it to be simplicity itself. He says that he sleeps soundly after his early breakfast—or dinner, as it may be—and usually is at work at his out-of-door tasks by 8 o'clock in the morning. He thinks this daily conditioning in the fresh air is equal to any known sport, and plainly enjoys the hours he spends trudging behind his horses between the rows of trees. Certainly he resembles those trees of his in their vigorous healthfulness and his plan seems to have wrought only beneficial results. Oddly enough, when asked whether he went in for vegetable gardening, he replied, "No, that's too much work."

So it is quite evident that he has his limitations. He declares them to be those of any ordinary man who gets plenty of sleep and exercise and work. He is fully convinced, from his own experience, that the problem of food production could be greatly simplified if his programme were patriotically adopted by those enlisted in the laboring half of the nation's "work or fight" armies.

And here is the way he spends his time during the hours when most other men in his calling would be having a good snooze.



Conductor Foss's ranch, where he eventually expects to "retire" and drop the extra day which he is now regularly crowding into his twenty-four hours.

The Kind of Backyard Gardening that Pays.

Out of Waste Land.

JOHN JIRKU'S persistence in turning a poison oak patch on a hillside into a highly productive garden won for him the first prize in the second of the home garden contests conducted by the Germain War Saving Society, under the auspices of the Germain Seed and Plant Company this year. He took a double satisfaction in the $50 in War Savings Stamps that he received in recognition of his gardening ability, for Mr. Jirku is a naturalized Austrian, who has a son in France fighting for the Stars and Stripes. He proudly exhibits, beside the prize he won, evidence of the purchase of $250 in Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps.

This expert gardener lives in the rear of No. 4922 Granada street, in the hill region near the Southwest Museum. The ground of his place is hard and stony, and his steeply sloping back yard was a thicket of poison oak when he resolved to plant a garden last winter. He attacked the oak and at first was seriously infected with it. He reached a condition similar to inoculation with the poison, however, and worked valiantly, planting as he cleared.

He now has in his garden potatoes, string beans, lima beans, carrots, three varieties of tomatoes, cabbage, celery, cactus fruit, garlic, onions, green corn, sunflowers, kohl rabi, lettuce, okra, milo maize; squash, cucumbers, watermelons, muskmelons, horseradish and pumpkins, besides many varieties of herbs. He has sold over $60 worth of vegetables and kept enough for his own table this year.

The former Austrian also provides for feathered visitors to his garden, as well as for his neighbors who come in for a generous share of products of his garden. He has placed a tub full of water with its floating corks, which make an excellent landing place for bees from neighboring hives. He also places sunflowers, tied with strings, on branches of trees for the benefit of the birds.

More than $10,000 in War Savings Stamps have been sold by the Germain War Savings Society as a result of its second home garden contest. The third contest is already on, and will end December 1.

The winners in the second contest besides Mr. Jirku are: Second prize, Miss Stella Lee, No. 1307 North Alvarado street, $25; third prize, Miss Annie Benninger, No. 1744 Reid street, $10; fourth prize, Mrs. Lillie A. Duncan, No. 1309 North Mariposa avenue, $5; fifth prize, Mrs. Sherwood Moss, No. 207 East Avenue 41, $5; and sixth prize, Mrs. A. W. Bowman, No. 1417 De Long street, $5. The prizes are all in the form of War Savings Stamps.

The judges in the contest found that the entrants showed great enthusiasm for the cause of raising more food by striving to make their gardens produce the maximum.

FARM AND TRACTOR SECTION.

Devoted to the multiform agricultural interests of the great Southwest and issued every week with the world's biggest Sunday newspaper.

EDITED BY HAROLD M. FINLEY.

Communications from practical farmers, ranchers, stock raisers, poultrymen, gardeners and others engaged either in a large or small way in the vital work of food production are gladly received.

Good clear photographs of interesting farm and garden activities are always welcomed. The Los Angeles Times Farm and Tractor Section is the only farm journal in the west printing illustrations in the incomparable rotogravure process.

"FOOD WILD WIN THE WAR."

Our Newest Fixture.

THE livestock exhibit at the California Liberty Fair will, it is now assured, surpass both in size and scope that at this year's State Fair. This is important news to the farmers and stockmen south of the Tehachepi, not only because they will all thereby be afforded the opportunity to see such a splendid aggregation of fine animals, but because it unquestionably means the beginning of an annual livestock fixture for Los Angeles. Nothing could be more desirable from the southern breeders' point of view, for Sacramento is so far away that Southern California can never hope to have anything like an adequate representation at the State Fair or any other of the livestock events that center around the capital. The growth and importance of the livestock industry in this end of the State demand, too, that the breeders of the section have an opportunity to get together every year and exhibit their stock and that this getting together shall be really representative of the business.

Southern California has all the material right at home for a great show, although, of course, the Liberty Fair entries have come from all over California as well as from other States. The livestock interests of the south were not heavily represented as to numbers at this year's State Fair, but they more than made up for it by the number of ribbons they captured. The southern ribboners will all be at the Liberty Fair and with them will be hundreds of other animals that one would have a big job convincing owners were not just as good. The breeders of the section welcome a chance to show their stock in an accessible location and many that never have cared to take valuable animals year after year up to Sacramento and back will have fine individuals and groups in the pens and stalls at the big show which opens at Exposition Park next Saturday. As for breeders in other sections, they have been quick to see the advantages of showing in the metropolis of a vast region that is making such progress agriculturally as is Southern California.

Every farmer in Southern California, for his own good as well as the encouragement of an industry that is so vitally a part of his own, should arrange to attend the Liberty Fair stock show. He will find everything at the fair, from mammoth displays of agricultural and horticultural products to a huge exhibit of farm tractors and implements, but it is an annual livestock fixture that most needs encouragement now. We have an annual tractor show, a great poultry and rabbit fixture and permanent exhibits of farm and orchard products at Exposition Park and in the Chamber of Commerce building. These are sure to grow in importance. What is needed is a great annual livestock show, either to be held in conjunction with a general exhibit of farm and industrial products, such as the Liberty Fair, or alone and standing on its own feet. The two weeks of the Liberty Fair is the time to make the thing a go.

FARM LABOR AGENCY NO. 191.

The editor of the Farm and Tractor Section is an officially authorized farm labor agent and will receive and forward applications for work from volunteers in any branch of the great farm army, as well as calls by farmers for help.

Farmers or workers wishing to take advantage of this service should anticipate their requirements and desires as much as possible in order to insure getting results and should be as specific as possible in their communications.

Such calls will be received by letter, telegraph or telephone, and every effort will be made to bring farmers and applicants together in mutually satisfactory arrangements. State wages wanted or offered.

FRENCH FODDER PRICES.

Shortage of animal feeds in France, though frequently announced in the foreign crop reports, is perhaps most clearly reflected by the prices prevailing in the forage markets. There are three qualities of fodder. The prices quoted prevailed in midsummer and are for the second or medium-quality. First-quality fodder averages from $2 to $3 more per ton and third-quality the same amount less:

Wheat straw	$78 per ton
Hay	84 " "
Lucerne (alfalfa)	88 " "

Shortages of transport makes deliveries of all feeds uncertain and in some markets there is practically no business.

THE STATUS OF AGRICULTURAL LABOR UNDER THE NEW DRAFT.

WASHINGTON.—Under the rules of the War Department for executing the new draft law, special provision is made for informing the district boards in regard to farm-labor requirements in order that necessary food production may be maintained, says a statement issued by the Department of Agriculture. The statement continues:

In the new draft the district boards are charged with the duty of putting into deferred classes those persons who are more likely to further the war by remaining in civilian occupations than by entering the army. Accordingly, three advisers are to be seletced for each district board—one for agriculture, one for labor, and one for other occupations. The agricultural adviser will be appointed by the board upon the recommendation of the Secretary of Agriculture. The advisers are not members of the board but may, when invited, attend its meetings.

The duties of the agricultural adviser will be to furnish to the board facts relative to farm-labor requirements, not only of his own district, but of the whole country. He should be the repository of all facts having relation to the deferment of agricultural workers, whether these be necessary farm laborers, managers or operators. He will be expected to advise the district boards as to a shortage or surplus of necessary farm workers for any given district, as well as for the entire nation. Such information will be supplied to the advisers by the Department of Agriculture. This will make it possible to have necessary workers transferred from districts in which they may not be necessary to other districts in which they are sorely needed.

The adviser may also concern himself with individual cases that come before the district board. He will have the right, under certain conditions, to examine the questionnaires and other records in the files of the local board for the purpose of ascertaining whether persons entitled to deferred classification have actually claimed it. In case he finds the names of such registrants he may file for them a claim for deferred classification with the district board, which, in turn, may require the local board to certify the questionnaire and record of any such registrants for consideration. Reasonable time will be given for the purpose of obtaining information and supplying the affidavits required. If a local board determines to consider a case for deferred classification because a registrant is engaged in a necessary occupation, notwithstanding no claim for deferred classifications on that ground has been made, it shall endorse the recommendation on the questionnaire of the registrant and forward it to the district board having jurisdiction. The district board will thereupon consider the case and proceed to classify the registrant, notwithstanding the fact that no claim for deferred classification by or in respect of the registrant has been made.

A further duty with which the adviser is charged is to confer with employers of necessary farm workers, and to instruct them as to their right under the regulations to file a claim for deferred classification in respect of any registrant who has failed or refused to file a claim for deferred classification in his own behalf. This, in the opinion of the War Department, is a very important matter. The apparent injustice of placing many registrants in Class I is often due to the fact that employers have failed to make claims for deferred classification on behalf of necessary workers. It is to avoid a repetition of this trouble that farmers should see that all of their necessary employees, whether sons or other laborers, of the draft age have made for them just claims for deferred classification.

One important explanation is made in the new Selective Service Regulations in connection with the expression "skilled farm laborers." The questionnaire provides deferred classification for the "necessary skilled farm laborer in necessary agricultural enterprise." The new regulations provide that in Class II shall be placed any registrant found to be engaged in a "necessary" agricultural enterprise, and found to be necessary to such enterprise in the capacity of a farm laborer—"especially fitted for the work in which he is engaged."

The purpose in the appointing of advisers is to place men where they can do most to help win the war. These advisers will be able to help greatly the district boards to keep in agriculture the necessary workers. These workers, whatever may be their inclination to enter military service, should stand ready to serve in any capacity in which they can contribute most toward a speedy ending of the war. In order that this may be done a frank statement should, in each case, be made to the boards. It is believed that it will frequently require as much courage on the part of many men to remain in their civilian occupations as to waive deferment.

This effort to keep men in industry, rather than to send them to the camps and the trenches, should not be abused so as to permit the slacker to escape military duty. The necessities for raising an army are paramount. Every man that can be spared will be needed badly to bring the enemy to his senses. The adviser should be assisted in every possible way by every legitimate agricultural interest to find the men that can be spared for military duty, but also to keep these that are essential to the maintenance of a proper food supply.

These high school girls are real farmers.

The superintendent of the Bixby ranch near Long Beach says so and he ought to know, for they harvested 500 acres of beans for him. Right to left they are Florence Pardes, Amelia Vignes, Josephine Andrews, Florence Reuther, Dorothy Andrews and Lena Reuther.

PLUCKY HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS HARVEST LARGE BEAN CROP.

LONG BEACH.—A group of Long Beach and Compton High School girls, six in number, recently completed the harvesting of a 500-acre bean crop on the Bixby ranch.

Preceding the attack on the beans, the girls raked and stacked 800 acres of hay.

The harvest crew, attired in coveralls, heavy boots and negligee shirts, was composed of Misses Josephine and Dorothy Andrews and Amelia Vignes of Long Beach High School, and the Misses Florence and Lena Reuther and Olive Pardee of Compton High School.

R. C. Andrews, superintendent of the ranch and father of two of the girls, says he would not trade his feminine crew for a set of the same number of men. They made good in every particular, he declared. The girls were paid $2 a day and were furnished a bunkhouse and their meals. Each member of the sextette says she enjoyed the experience.

AGRICULTURAL BUILDING TO BE PACKED WITH FINE EXHIBITS.

CALIFORNIA agriculture and horticulture, in their varied forms and wonderful profusion will be well shown at the Liberty Fair at Exposition Park October 12 to 16.

An entire building, one of the largest of the temporary structures built especially for the fair, will be used for the agricultural exhibit. The main showings of the State Fair exhibit will be here. The California Liberty Fair at Exposition Park October 12 to 26. third larger than that at the Sacramento event.

The educational feature of the exhibit will be pronounced. By showing special examples of thrift and industry in increasing crops on lots and small acreage, the committee in charge, headed by C. B. Messenger, hopes to put in motion the incentive for greatly increased food crops in and immediately about the incorporated cities of the section.

Premiums aggregating $6750 have been offered in this division. Almost every county and many chambers of commerce in California will be represented. Los Angeles county and the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce will have elaborate showings, but these will not be allowed to compete for the $1575 in prizes offered in this class. Imperial Valley will have a cotton, milo and butter exhibit. The products of the Salt River Valley in Arizona, notably Egyptian cotton, will be shown. The San Francisco Chamber of Commerce exhibit will be extensive.

October Hints for the Poultry Raiser.

LIBERTY FAIR PRIZES ATTRACT ENTRIES. BY HENRY W. KRUCKEBERG.

THIS is the month in which to prepare for changes in weather conditions; usually it is the beginning of the rainy season, which admonishes that the houses and yards be put in condition for the comfort and health of live stock generally, and particularly fowls. The fact that we are exempt from zero weather often leads to carelessness and indifference to essentials for winter production and robust health. It should be borne in mind that our rains are anything but tropical in character, being usually quite the opposite. This lends added reason for the precaution that the houses be rain and draft-proof—hence see to it that the roofs are water tight and that all cracks and faulty spots are properly repaired, thereby providing insurance against physical suffering and colds, both of which are but the forerunner of more serious troubles. It is also opportune to put the houses and yards, in sanitary conditions, which means a general cleaning up. If the whitewash shows signs of wear and tear, apply another coat. Lime is always a purifier. An additional coat of whitewash not only makes for health and freedom from insect pests, but gives an added appearance of prosperity to the place. Some breeders use crude oil in place of whitewash, which is equally effective and can be applied to interiors this month with good effect. A little carbolic acid in either the whitewash or crude oil renders both more effective.

Where birds are confined to runs and have little free range, the yards may be cleaned of droppings and litter, and the ground thoroughly spaded up, though in our judgment the removal of the top soil to a depth of four inches or more, to be replaced by vigin soil, is much better. The tainted soil can be used to advantage in orchard and garden.

If you have not already done so, it is advisable to cull close; with present prices for feed, the drones and light layers had better be put in condition to supply a good carcass and be disposed of. Particularly does this apply to the more or less inferior cockerels; the best specimens can be carried along with the hope of marketing as breeding stock and also for next season's breeding operation.

A flock of growing pullets nearly always contains a considerable proportion of birds that are very much under size, or in other ways poorly developed. These should be culled out as soon as they are noticed as conspicuously backward. They will never make a profit and the sooner they are eaten, the less will be the loss on their account.

Those who contemplate exhibiting at the fall fairs and winter poultry shows should be getting their prospective show birds in condition to meet competition in the show alleys. As already remarked in these columns on more than one occasion, be sure that your show specimens are free from disqualification; this once accomplished, scrutinize them carefully so as to insure their being as free from faults or "cuts" as possible. These precautions appear simple enough, yet there are but few birds under the handling of judges that are not subject to punishment in one or more sections. If one has experience, even though limited, much can be done in selecting the best specimens and grooming them into condition for the fray. Where, however, the novice is somewhat in doubt, the better practice is to get the service of some experienced breeder and fancier to make the selection, thus insuring at least a running chance of the birds being placed.

With the close of the season, and another just ahead, it is opportune for buyers to supply their needs and requirements this month. Many breeders in going into winter quarters with their stock will find it expedient to reduce their stock, thereby cutting down feed bills, and also because wanting all the room available for spring breeding operations. For this reason often good breeding specimens can be secured just at this time at somewhat reduced prices. And by this we do not mean to send away for bargain counter prices, but to get in touch with responsible breeders near home. For certain it is, that the better class of our California breeders possess strains that are equal to the best that can be secured anywhere. Particularly does this apply to the American, English and Mediterranean classes.

And finally, we want all our poultry readers this month to "take in" the poultry exhibits at our fall fairs.

Full Exhibits Assured.

From present indications the poultry department of the Liberty Fair (which will be held during the first week of the fair,) will attract a good deal of attention. Entries so far received give promise of full exhibits in all classes. The large list of cash prizes and specials have proved attractive to fanciers and commercial poultrymen alike. Walter M. Ross, superintendent of poultry, has announced that as no marked catalogue of exhibits will be issued, he will accept entries up to October 8.

Lectures will be given each afternoon during the show in the poultry department on poultry breeding for profit. Mrs. H. Ament will lecture and give demonstrations on caponizing, and experts from the United States government exhibit will tell why every home should have a pen of chickens in the back yard.

Judging will start at 9 o'clock on the opening day and it is expected that all of the ribbons will be up by noon of the second day.

The fall fairs afford good opportunities for making sales of surplus breeding and foundation stock.

It sounds reasonable enough BUT like a lot of other things that sound alright—they don't prove out. Many a poultry raiser asks himself: "Why should I buy mixed feeds? I want to know what my hens eat. Why shouldn't I buy the separate ingredients and mix them myself? Then—I can see just what goes into the mash; and, not alone that, I can save the mixing charges!" As we say, all this sounds reasonable enough BUT —it doesn't work out!

Here's why: As manufacturers and millers we can mix a first-class egg food cheaper and better and quicker than you can. Mixing feeds is our special business. We have the facilities. We have the experience. We know how—that's all!

Now, then, where's the sense in bothering with hand-mixed feeds and mashes that are only guesswork at the very best?

We don't ask you to take our word for it. But—we do ask you to benefit by the actual experience of thousands of other poultrymen who have found that Surelay—a perfect-balanced ration—gives their hens the exact ingredients they need to make them profit-producers. And—that's exactly what

SURELAY does!

Farm News of the Great Southwest.

DOWN-TO-DATE REPORTS FROM TIMES CORRESPONDENTS.

REDLANDS.—J. J. Prendergast, Redlands director of the county farm bureau, has written to the United States Food Administration for an opinion on the use of bean and other straw for fertilizing and mulching orchards. The administration recently issued a request that straw not be used any more than necessary for fertilization and mulching. The reply received by Mr. Prendergast is to the effect that the administration will not absolutely prohibit the use of these products as fertilizer, but that they should be saved wherever possible for feeding of live stock to prevent a loss similar to that of last year. Last year a large percentage of the range cattle died of starvation, and the bean and alfalfa straw used for mulching would, it is declared, have saved them.

This will work some hardship on the orange growers, but Mr. Prendergast says he is confident that all of the growers of this section will gladly follow the request of the administration. The ruling does not apply to green cover crops grown in the orchards and then plowed in.

VAN NUYS.—With tomatoes coming into the Vanomar Producers Cannery on Sherman Way at the rate of fifty tons a day and with the late cling peaches to handle at the same time, this is a busy season for canners. The tomatoes must be handled promptly and there is a great need for pickers and peelers to help handle this crop. Pickers receive 7 cents a box and earn from $2 to $6 a day. Peelers get 10 cents a pan and earn from $2 to $4 a day. The quality of tomatoes grown in Van Nuys for the cannery this year is highly satisfactory.

VENTURA.—The first of the farmerettes to be sent by the Woman's Land Army are now doing their bit in the bean fields of Ventura county. A unit of ten girls is now doing satisfactory work on the Ernest Hill ranch at the Mound. Another unit of the Woman's Land Army is working on the Kelsey walnut ranch. Some of these women have worked all over the State.

POMONA.—Making a record run on tomatoes for a single day, the Pomona Valley Canning Company today canned seventy tons of tomatoes, and in addition there were also put up ten tons of grapes. Peaches are beginning to near the end of the season. Clings are practically finished and work is under way on Salways. The cannery is somewhat handicapped at present for men and is also short of women. This is partly because a number of the girls have stopped to attend school. The cannery last week paid out for labor the sum of $4000. An interesting item of expense was that of $40,000 for the cans used during the month of August. This was exclusive of freight or handling of the cars.

LA VERNE.—That the La Verne Fruit Growers' Association will erect a storage house was recently made known by the manager, D. G. Arbuthnot. The building of the plant is made necessary because of the large crop of lemons this season. The association has purchased a four-wheel drive truck, to be used mainly in the hauling of the fruit crop from the groves. Only those who use the truck will be assessed for the use of it.

PORTERVILLE.—At the annual meeting of the Tulare County Citrus Fruit Exchange H. C. Carr was chosen president; Hobart Webster, vice-president, and W. E. Sprott, secretary, treasurer and manager. This makes the twelfth year for Mr. Sprott as the general manager of the organization. Practically all of the directors, representing the fifteen associations which make up the exchange, were chosen to succeed themselves.

According to reports which were filed with the directors during the past year, 70 per cent. of citrus fruits of Tulare county were marketed through association channels, a considerable increase as compared with last year.

FALLBROOK.—In response to the call of the government for increased food production, a numbber of citizens of Fallbrook, nonranchers, formed a club early in the year for the encouragement of the planting of tomatoes for canning purposes. They invested $100 per member in leasing land and employing men to cultivate it, as well as in planting and caring for the tomatoes. The result was the planting of nearly 200 acres.

An arrangement for the canning was made with the California Growers' Association for the use of the new local olive mill, which is used only a part of the year. Although late in starting the results of the planting are encouraging. The canning is going forward at the olive mill, with between thirty and forty women and girls employed. It is expected that the tomato canning will be in progress until the harvest of the olive crop so that the operation of the canning plant will be continuous.

DINUBA.—Present indications are that 1918 will establish new records for shipments of green fruit from Central California, and that the net returns to the growers also will be a new mark.

Reports from all parts of the deciduous fruit section, including Fresno county, show a total shipment to date of all varieties of fruit of 15,005 cars, as compared with 11,719 cars last year at the same time.

Grapes showed the largest increase, there being 4683 cars to date this year, compared with 2062 cars for last season. Shipment of the fancy varieties of late table grapes in drums will be limited this season, the packers say, only by the amount of packing material available under war conditions.

From a map prepared by the United States Chamber of Commerce, the entire State of California has been classed in the "business and crops good" area, which now covers more than half of the United States. Arizona, Washington, Oregon and Montana are shaded as "fair," and Texas, Oklahoma and Northern Montana are the only sections rated as "poor."

GOAT INDUSTRY WILL BE WELL REPRESENTED AT LIBERTY FAIR.

ONE of the blessings of America's intervention in the war was the "discovery" of the milch goat, which may really be said not to have come into anything like popular use until the world food crisis was impressed upon the people of the United States. That the revelation of what Nanny can do in the way of turning odd bits of fodder into a considerable addition to the family larder is the beginning of a great food-producing movement in California is the belief of many who have made a study of the remarkable increase in the flocks of milch goats in Southern California.

The greatest assemblage of milch goats ever held in this country, probably, will be seen at the live stock exhibit of the California Liberty Fair. This great showing will reveal the strides made by goat breeders during the past year in particular and will reflect the increasing interest taken in milch goats. C. R. Thomas, manager of the live stock exhibit of the show, states that the general public has little idea how the milch-goat idea has taken hold in this section.

More than 200 high-class goats have been entered. Unprepared for the rush of entries in this division, the Liberty Fair Association had offered but fifty-nine prizes, and the California Milch Goat Association, thirty prizes, aggregating in all $442. But the goat owners have shown that prize money was not the only incentive in showing their best animals. They want to impress the public with the importance of their industry and are presenting their portion of the exhibit as a great argument as to the [illegible] of the little milk-giving ruminants.

Progress in the development of the milch goat in Southern California has been centered chiefly in bettering the Toggenburg, Saanen and Anglo-Nubian breeds. Just now there is much friendly rivalry between the breeders of the first two classes, who seem to be more numerous than the advocates of the Nubians. The Toggenburg admirers claim their goats are hardier and better adapted to the climate of Southern California. The Saanen breeders come right back and point to the milk record and the prolificacy of their breed.

Toggenburg predominate among the goats entered in the Liberty Fair show. Many of this breed are of the El Chivar imported stock, a line of heavy milkers.

Winthrop Howland of Redlands, a leading Toggenburg breeder, has entered fourteen goats, descendants of a well-known animal, El Chivar, and most of them sired by Rob Roy, a notable figure in goatdom.

Others who have entered Toggenburgs—noting the number of animals to be shown—are: S. Earl Wetherbee, Upland, 2; Ralph and Luella Ulmer, Monterey Park, 3; Elmer C. McInturff, Los Angeles, who enters his $500 buck, "Allessandro;" Charles W. Hibbard, Burbank, 3; Mrs. Ida M. Burdick, Lankershim, 2; Mrs. L. O. Rhodes, Los Angeles, 1; Miss H. A. Wood, Pasadena, 7; F. T. Heinly, Baldwin Park, 10; J. B. McLaughlin, Los Angeles, 7.

Many exhibitors of Saanen goats show examples of the celebrated Hofer line. Among Saanen exhibitors are: H. F. and L. J. Schinker, Eagle Rock, 9; L. L. Bonham, Los Angeles, 3; F. T. Heinly, Baldwin Park, 3; Henry Sienser, Los Angeles, 4.

Anglo-Nubian entries include showings by C. Earl Wetherbee, Upland; Miss Emma Kraft, Los Angeles; Archibald E. Ford, Hawthorne; Mrs. E. A. Messerly, Eagle Rock, who shows ten animals, and Mrs. P. B. Heintz of Baldwin Park, showing 5.

The exports of dressed beef and beef products have increased 177 per cent. during the last three years. The shortage of beef abroad, like the shortage of other meat products, is expected to be accentuated as the war progresses.

COTTONSEED MEAL PRICES.

In spite of the lower yield of cotton and the increased cost of production, the organized cottonseed producers have agreed with the Food Administration to stabilize the price of cottonseed at the average price of last year. This is a concession on their part to the cattle-feeding and dairy interests in the country. The prices will vary from $64 to $72 per ton in carload lots, f.o.b. cars, depending upon the yield in oil. Differentials have been fixed for crushing seed on the basis of last year's cost and regulated profit of last year, plus the increase cost imposed by change in labor, transportation and supplies. As a result the price of meal is about $3 per ton higher than last year.

DUROCS GO TO BRAZIL.

It is believed that the largest single consignment of Duroc swine ever exported from this country was recently shipped to the Brazilian Department of Agriculture at Rio de Janeiro from the Longview farm, Lees Summit, Mo., for use in improving the herds in Brazil. Two hundred and twenty-six head of spring sows, seventy-four boars and 150 gilts were sold to the Brazilians.

War service serves the server.

CALIFORNIA'S BIG LIVESTOCK CIRCUIT.

California this year has a real livestock show circuit. The California Liberty Fair in this city will get many of the winners of the State Fair Livestock Show, including not only the animals of southern exhibitors, but the ribboners owned by the northern men. From the Liberty Fair a special train will take stock on up to the California International Livestock Show to be held in San Francisco November 2 to 10.

Among the Southern California breeders who will have stock at San Francisco are Thomas T. Miller, Los Angeles Shorthorn breeder; Adelaide Gillis McCormick of Pasadena, breeder of fine horses; the Pescadero Company of California and Lower California; the Kern County Land and Livestock Company, and a number of the leading southern swine breeders.

Pending the determination of the amount of malt required for next winter's operations, the Food Administration has [illegible] a ruling prohibiting all maltsters buying for malting purposes any grain before October 1, 1918.

VALLEY POULTRY RAISERS ONCE MORE BECOMING OPTIIMISTIC.

VAN NUYS.—Present indications point to a decided impetus in the poultry industry aruond Van Nuys this fall. The average good price received for eggs during the past season and the lowering of prices in some varieties of feed have produced a spirit of optimism among the egg producers that has been painfully lacking for some time.

Increased flocks of hens and more housing facilities are all ready planned and in a number of instances are actually in progress. New people are being attracted to the industry by its promise of good profits, and almost daily there are inquiries at the local realty offices for improved ranches suitable for raising chickens.

The Holly Poultry Ranch near Van Nuys, operating one of the largest and most successful hatcheries in Southern California, reports a demand for fall-hatched chicks away beyond its capacity even at the advanced prices due to the high price of eggs.

Among the new buildings erected recently for poultry purposes are two laying and brooding houses built by C. H. Schleuter near Kester Junction to handle four thousand fall-hatched chicks; a brooder house and laying house built by George H. Taylor; a new brooder house built by Dr. S. W. Woods of North Van Nuys to add to his present large capacity, and extensive additions to the brooder houses on the ranch of Obegi Brothers.

A live association of poultrymen has been organized to co-operate with and help in every way the beginner. As a result, during the depression caused when the prices of feed went soaring last year, only a very small percentage of the Van Nuys poultrymen quit and the great majority kept right on and, in nearly all instances, made good, despite the conditions.

SUGAR SITUATION AGAIN ENCOURAGING.

Sugar-beet growing and sugar making in Southern California have emerged from a somewhat chaotic state, caused by the controversy over the price of beets and sugar and the scarcity of labor.

Now that the harvest has come, it appears that both growers and refiners are in better shape than they expected. The sugar makers are getting a better price for their product. They now receive 8.6 cents per pound, as against 75 cents a few months ago. Growers are selling beets at a flat rate of $10 per ton, as a rule. Beet growers are experiencing little difficulty in finding labor for the fields. The sugar companies have employed a number of young women, and, although they are not provided as well with workers as the field men, the work of getting out Southern California's 1918 crop is not being held up materially by a lack of workers.

There are seven sugar factories in the Southern California field: the American Beet Sugar Company's plants at Oxnard and Chino, the Los Angeles Sugar Company's factory at Los Alamitos, the Holly Sugar Company's plant at Huntington Beach, the Anaheim Sugar Company's factory at Anaheim, and the factories at Santa Ana of the Southern California Sugar Company and the Santa Ana Sugar Company.

Because of the uncertainty regarding the price of beets and sugar which prevailed last fall and winter many sugar-beet growers in the Pomona Valley planted beans and other crops instead of beets. As a result the acreage of beets decreased from 6000 acres to 1000 acres, and the Chino factory people decided to close their plant for the season. A campaign is now on, led by the Chino Chamber of Commerce, for a revival of beet growing in the Chino district, and indications are that the Chino factory will be reopened next year to take care of a big 1919 crop. The sugar content of the Chino beets this year will average high, possibly 18.3 per cent, it is said.

It appears that the sugar companies in the Southern California field have contracted their entire output with Uncle Sam. Several hundred tons have already been delivered to the Quartermasters' Corps

The production of sugar in California from fourteen active factories last year was 185,000 sugar tons of 2240 pounds, from 185,000 acres. This year there are 113,000 acres. The estimated output of sugar is 135,000 sugar tons.

Harvesting of beet seed is well under way in Southern California It is estimated that 650,000 pounds of beet seed will be gathered. This industry is as yet largely experimental.

EVERYBODY HELPS HARVEST WALNUTS.

SANTA BARBARA.—The 175 growers affiliated with the Santa Barbara Walnut Growers' Association are in the midst of harvesting their crop of 3000 acres. The yield is estimated as being 75 per cent. of the tonnage of last season, but the 1917 crop was a heavy one. The price being higher this year, the association officials expect to distribute fully as much money among the growers this year as last.

Practically all of the growers own groves in the Goleta vicinity, only twenty of the whole number being at Carpenteria. Packing, which will continue throughout the next five weeks, is being performed by women and children as well as men. Many of the rural schools have taken vacations for the purpose of giving the children an opportunity to help in the harvest of the crops. Men pickers who are expert earn from $5 to $6 a day, while women are paid from $3 to $4.

Payment this season is made under a new plan. The picker who wishes to cash in at the end of the day receives $27 per ton ranch weight. Those who wait a few days and are paid on warehouse weight are paid $30, the difference being due to the loss of weight through drying. The yield this season is running anywhere from 1200 to 1500 pounds per acre, whereas last season many fields yielded as much as a ton to the acre. The association this season will handle the crop through a new plant just completed at an outlay of $22,000 at Goleta.

HOMECROFTING

IN CALIFORNIA

CROFT: A Scotch word meaning a large garden.

If you cannot earn more to meet old H. C. L., then create more—it is easier and better.

UNCLE MARSH.

OUR good old City of the Angels has a great deal of its territory so densely built up that homecrofting is almost impractical for a large part of our population, and this is not as it should be.

In the good old days when it was quite easy to keep house by the day and order our living by phone each morning from the grocery store we quite ignored all the fundamentals of life that we are now brought face to face with.

Keeping house by the year is now more in vogue.

In a large part of our close-in residential districts we have ample sized lots for considerable gardening, but they have been planted with pepper, palm and monkey trees "forward and aft" until usefulness in homecrofting is almost extinct. In these cases great detail of attention should be given to the small flock of poultry, and to rabbits. Border rows in the rear may be used for producing carrots and beets for the goat and other live stock, where these are kept. During the coming winter many useless and illy cared for climbing roses over the rear buildings could be profitably replaced with Mammoth blackberry vines.

If you find you can remove some useless trees in the rear of your lots you should consider carefully the subject of dwarf peach and plum trees. Some of our nurserymen have them and for the town lotter they will fill in many a crevice and give you all of any one variety of peach or plum that you can practically use. The big standard peach or plum tree in a back yard is entirely out of place. No one family can use its entire product. The crop comes on with a rush and goes with a whirl. Your neighbors may help you enjoy it, but you cannot use its product. You could have over ten different varieties, fruiting at ten different periods on dwarf stock and have them along a driveway and grow vegetables right up to within eighteen inches of the trunk of your baby trees. The big standard trees monopolize the sunshine and make gardening impracticable.

The good planting hours are slipping away to make the winter garden. If you failed to see or failed to heed previous urgent warnings, get busy now. The time for corn and beans has passed, except on the late harvest thereof. Now is the planting time of onions and cabbage and a host of other hardy plants. Look around and see if you cannot find someone who planted a lot of onion seed and get some young "green sets" from him. But if you cannot, and if your seedsman has none, get busy and make a seed bed of onion seed. Don't lose any day that you can gain.

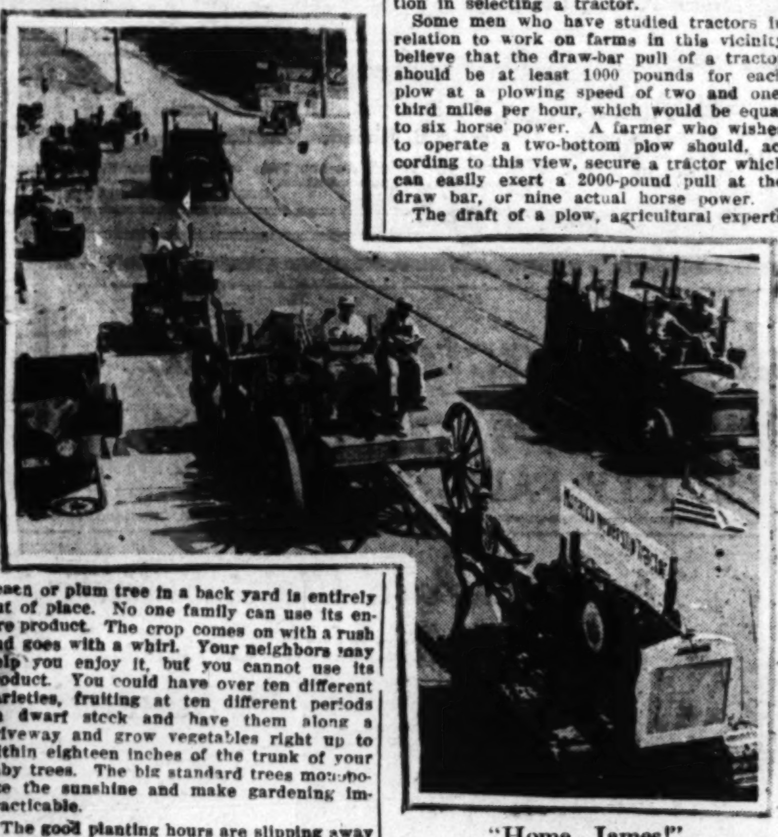
Plant cabbage, cauliflower and lettuce plants now.

Plant peas if you have the room for them. Sprinkle a little sulphur in the seed row; it's miraculous in its effect.

Plant kohlrabi, beets, carrots, turnips, etc., but omit eggplant, corn, beans and the tender things. Don't fool with potatoes planted this month. They will make a good start, but the cool nights soon to come will stop them at the half way station.

I have just received some interesting communications from other Homecrofters and will give them attention in the next issue. Write us about your successes and send photographs.

UNCLE MARSH.



"Home, James!"

The photograph, taken on Sunset boulevard, shows a procession of farm tractors on their way back to Implement Row from the big tractor demonstration. Some of the machines, it will be noted, are going back under their own power, while others are riding in state in auto trucks.

PLENTY OF POWER IMPORTANT ITEM.

Although conditions at the recent tractor demonstration did not reflect those on the average Southern California farm, the soil on that portion of the La Brea ranch available for the tractor men being harder to plow, pulverize and cultivate than that ordinarily encountered, one conviction which has taken hold of the farmers who viewed the work of the different machines is that plenty of power is an important consideration in selecting a tractor.

Some men who have studied tractors in relation to work on farms in this vicinity believe that the draw-bar pull of a tractor should be at least 1000 pounds for each plow at a plowing speed of two and one-third miles per hour, which would be equal to six horse power. A farmer who wishes to operate a two-bottom plow should, according to this view, secure a tractor which can easily exert a 2000-pound pull at the draw bar, or nine actual horse power.

The draft of a plow, agricultural experts tell us, is greater in the Southwest than it is in the corn belt. In the Middle West the average draft is 5.26 pounds per square inch of furrow slice. University of California professors gauge the average draft per square inch of furrow slice in Southern California as 6.5 pounds. At the tractor demonstration it was nearer ten pounds.

There is too great a tendency to overload the tractor, materially shortening the life of the machine, experts say. The tractor buyer, therefore, should select a machine with sufficient power to do his work, both on the belt and at draw-bar tasks, erring on the side of too much power rather than being short when the pinch comes.

It was stated at the Samson Sales Company's office, Los Angeles, last week, that during the tractor demonstration, seventy-three Samson "sieve-grip" machines were sold to visitors to the show.

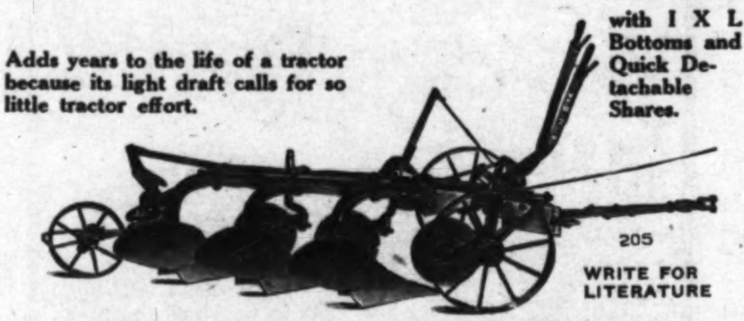
Little Genius Tractor Plow

Adds years to the life of a tractor because its light draft calls for so little tractor effort.

with I X L Bottoms and Quick Detachable Shares.



WRITE FOR LITERATURE

THE P. & O. Little Genius is an efficient power lift tractor plow for the small tractor. With any tractor it constitutes the ideal one-man outfit.

Power furnished by the land wheel raises and lowers the bottoms at the will of the operator.

High level lift on all three wheels gives ample clearance for trash in turning or transporting. Only one trip rope is required.

Rear wheel lift responds instantly to action of power lift device. No sliding parts. No strain on lifting parts while plow is at work.

Bottoms are forced—not merely dropped—into the ground by the whole weight of the plow.

One-half as much power required to raise the bottoms of the P. & O. Little Genius as is required on any similar plow. No spuds on power wheel—plow runs smoothly.

Swinging levers. When the plow is at work the levers are within easy reach of the operator from his position on the tractor, but as the bottoms raise, the levers swing back over the plow out of the way and do not interfere with the tractor in turning.

The plows can be raised by hand. No skipped places as a result of striking a stone or other obstacle.

Levers give perfect control of plow in finishing up a land—every bit of land can be plowed.

Spring balanced bottoms. The levers and bottoms are counterbalanced by heavy springs, making their operation extremely easy.

Pin break hitch. Better than an insurance policy—protects both plow and tractor against danger from striking hidden roots and stones.

Hitch adaptable to any tractor.

Cone coulter bearings permit taking up all looseness occasioned by wear.

Great bottom clearance. The P. & O. Little Genius has made good repeatedly in ground so trashy as to render other plows almost useless. If you get a chance, compare the 19-inch bottom clearance of the P. & O. Little Genius with that of any other plow.

A combination coulter and jointer can be furnished on special orders.

HOLT AND INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER TRACTORS USED FOR DEMONSTRATION

SHOW RESULTS IN NUMEROUS SALES.

The value of Southern California's third annual tractor demonstration to the nation's food raising efforts and to the paramount cause of downing the Hun is already manifest in a striking way.

Dealers report the sale of scores of tractors during and after the show. Increased sales of farm implements are also reported.

Some of the purchasers of tractors rode their machines from the show to the farm and immediately put them to work. Others were compelled to wait for the delivery of a new lot to get their particular machine, so great was the demand for some tractors.

Several bean ranchers wanted tractors for immediate delivery to help them in their bean harvesting, which is now on. Farmers intending to sow grain ordered farm power machines for early plowing. Citrus and deciduous fruit growers, having been shown the value of the tractor in deep and efficient cultivating, purchased generously.

A great many inquiries regarding tractors are being answered by dealers since the show. Many of these callers did not get out to the third demonstration. Others had heretofore scoffed at the tractors, but had become convinced at the trials.

An easing of the demand for farm workers has followed the installation of many tractors for field and orchard work. While Uncle Sam is preparing to call from city and farm more than 2,000,000 of his nephews to the Great Cause, the farm owners and renters are patriotically endeavoring to save man power by putting to use power machines, some of which save the labor of half a dozen men.

TRACTOR COURSES IN HIGH SCHOOLS.

The enthusiasm with which pupils of the Los Angeles high schools are taking up the tractor courses which are now part of the curriculum of those institutions greatly encourages the conviction that no small part of the farm work in Southern California during coming months will be willingly and efficiently done by young men and even women from the confines of the cities.

Thirty-seven pupils completed the tractor course last year. Twice as many have enrolled in this division this year. A three-day short tractor course given at the San Fernando High School last month as a preliminary to the real course developed much enthusiasm for the study of farm power machinery among the young men and women.

Many types of tractors have been used in the work. It is the aim of the instructors, headed by Prof. Keinholz, to teach the operation and repair of the various track-laying and wheel types.

At Los Angeles High School a goodly plot of ground to the south of the main building was plowed just after the big tractor demonstration as a part of the outdoor class work of the tractor course students.

HOW TO CONTROL CABBAGE WORMS.

Cabbage worms of various species are beginning to make their presence known on the fall cabbages now in the field. The most important of these is the common cabbage worm, a green larva about an inch long when grown. The parent of this worm is the imported cabbage butterfly, white with black spotted wings. The butterflies lay their eggs mostly on the under sides of cabbage leaves. The young worms hatch from them in four to eight days, feed on the leaves and reach maturity in ten to fourteen days. Then each attaches itself by a thread around the body to a leaf, stalk, fence post, or any other support, and transforms to a pupa called a chrysalis. From this the butterfly emerges in from seven to twelve days. In Southern California there may be as many as five or six generations during the season. The last chrysalides formed in fall remain thus over winter on dead stalks and produce butterflies the following spring. All of the cabbage worms being "chewing" insects may be controlled by arsenical sprays.

Spray with an arsenical in soapy water.

To make fifty gallons of spray, dissolve four pounds of laundry soap or other good soap in several gallons of water by boiling. Add this to enough water to make fifty gallons. Then stir in the arsenical (one and one-half pounds of powdered arsenate of lead or three pounds of paste form, or other arsenicals according to directions on package.) The soap is to make the liquid adhere better to the smooth leaves.

To make one gallon of spray use one-half ounce of powdered arsenate of lead, or one ounce of paste form and an inch cube of soap.

Dusting may be substituted for spraying, using one part of powdered arsenical with four parts of air-slaked lime. In small gardens the mixture may be shaken on the plants from a cheesecloth bag. Apply thinly while the dew is on the leaves.

Since the cabbage head grows from inside the plant, there is no danger from poisoning. If outer leaves are removed before cooking, spraying is safe to within three weeks of harvest. If spraying is begun early in the season there will be little damage from late broods of worms.

Tractors, autos, accessories and equipments were shown in great quantity at the Chicago Automotive Exposition, held on the Windy City's $5,000,000 recreation pier, from September 14 to 21. It was said to have been the greatest exhibition of the kind ever held in the Middle West.

POWER FARMING EXHIBIT TO BE GIVEN PROMINENCE AT FAIR.

ONE of the most interesting and important departments of the big California Liberty Fair, to be held at Exposition Park October 12 to October 26, will be the agricultural machinery and implement exhibit, to be installed in an immense tent near the live stock quarters.

Charles L. Wilson, superintendent of exhibits, who is aided in this particular field by E. G. Judah, states that almost all of the firms which entered the recent tractor show will have exhibits at the Liberty Fair. A number of firms which did not show at the tractor demonstration will be represented.

There will be no actual field operation of farm power machinery and tools at the fair, but many of the engines will be shown running, with the interior mechanism displayed, thus enabling the visitors to gain intimate knowledge of the inner workings of tractors, pumps, threshers and other machines. These "still" exhibits, Mr. Judah declares, will be of great educational value.

The firms planning to exhibit at the fair are already engaged in assembling their displays ready for removal to the grounds. Many of the tractors will be taken to the park under their own power.

HOW TO PROTECT FALL POTATOES.

Advice on the control of the potato flea-beetles now in evidence in the fall fields of this section is given by the Special Field Agent of the United States Bureau of Entomology stationed at Alhambra. Bordeaux mixture alone at 4-4-50 strength acts as a repellant, it is pointed out, and to be effective should coat both surfaces of the leaf. For small gardens a compressed-air hand sprayer is best, an effective traction sprayer giving satisfactory service for commercial growers.

The Bordeaux mixture may be obtained as a stock solution ready to dilute and use, or may be prepared as follows:

Copper sulphate ...	pounds 4	or	oz.	4
Quicklime	pounds 4	or	oz.	4
Water to make.....	gallons 50	or	qts.	12

Prepare the copper sulphate by suspendit in a gunny sack just below the surface of several gallons of water in a clean barrel. When the sulphate is dissolved, which requires three or four hours, remove the sack and stir into the barrel enough additional water to make exactly twenty-five gallons of the copper solution.

Prepare the lime by slaking it slowly and thoroughly in a clean barrel, strain and add enough additional water to make exactly twenty-five gallons of lime milk. Stir thoroughly.

Pour the two ingredients together into another barrel or, better, directly into the spray tank, if it will hold fifty gallons. It is highly important to stir the mixture thoroughly and to strain both ingredients before they are combined, as otherwise clogging of the spray nozzles might result. Use copper or bronze wire strainer of eighteen meshes to the inch. Do not put copper sulphate or Bordeaux mixture into tin or iron vessels; use wood or copper containers. Mix the Bordeaux as needed and apply at once. It is never so good after it has settled.

In some cases it may be found necessary to spray for leaf-hoppers on potatoes. Some success has been obtained by the use of 40 per cent. nicotine sulphate in the following proportions:

Nicotine sulphate	⅜ pint
Rosin fish oil soap	2 pounds
Water	50 gallons

If needed, a combination Bordeaux and nicotine sulphate spray may be applied, when both flea-beetles and leaf-hoppers are prevalent. In such case add the fish oil soap (dissolved) and then the three-eighths pint of nicotine sulphate to fifty gallons of Bordeaux instead of water.

BIG DEAL REPORTED.

John F. Willys of the Willys-Overland Company has purchased a controlling interest in the Moline Plow Company, which makes the Moline Universal tractor and a large line of farm tools. This is the report which comes over the wires. Thus the man who controls the second largest auto plant in the world and the Curtiss Airplane Company enters the farm power implement field.

Fifteen Thousand Acres Put Under New Water System.

Problems Solved.

APPROXIMATELY 15,000 acres of citrus lands lying in a strip along the foothills from Exeter to Strathmore in Tulare county, is now under irrigation from the system of the Lindsay-Strathmore Irrigation system.

Water for the land has been developed in thirty-seven deep wells driven in the Kaweah River delta lands north of Exeter—a new departure in systems of this size—and is distributed through 100 miles of giant redwood pipe and concrete flume.

Each of these wells is equipped with an individual pumping plant and water is delivered under pressure to an open canal located on the hillsides, flowing by gravity for six miles to a "booster" plant, where it is lifted again up the slope of the valley sufficiently high to care for the greater proportion of the orchard lands. A second booster station is ample in power to deliver water sufficient for the remaining lands in the system.

COST HUGE SUM.

The district was organized under the amended Wright act of 1897. Bonds in the sum of $1,400,000, were approved by State officials after a thorough investigation and were sold at par by Elliott and Horne of Los Angeles.

Water is delivered by meter to each land owner a member of the district. For 1917 season the assessment was on the basis of $7.35 per acre for the lands irrigated. Engineers in charge of the work have estimated $5 per acre as the probable cost for the complete season of 1918.

Assessments for district administration purposes are based on the "single-tax" system, without regard to value of improvements. Practically all the lands under irrigation, in conformity with this system pay their dues on the arbitrary valuation of $100 per acre.

FINE LANDS COVERED.

The extreme length of the district proper from north to south is eight miles, with an average width of six miles. The lands under ditch lie in sheltered coves, close to the Tulare county foothills, and include some of the most profitable orchards in California. Because of intensive cultivation to which a large portion of the cultivated lands were subjected, the water supply developed by individuals had begun to show signs of failure and the steps to organize the district were taken before the situation became acute.

Plans for the work were drawn by S. E. Kieffer of San Francisco and his engineering notes, together with estimates of the cost were submitted to State officials and approved by them withou qualificaion. Work was started on the project immediately upon the sale of the bonds, which were approved by members of the district without dissenting vote.

Final reports on the engineering work were made by Quinton, Code and Hill, consulting engineers of Los Angeles, who approved of plans and construction in all details. A similar final report was made by W. F. McClure, State engineer, and his assistant, Paul M. Norboe.

The directorate of the district includes E. L. Daniels, president; Charles K. Towt, John Burr, D. A. Eckert, F. M. Pfrimmer, E. G. Natzke, secretary; R H. Shoemaker, Jr., treasurer; W P. Stephens, assessor and tax collector. E. C. Eaton is superintendent of the system.

NEW OLIVE GROVES.

While the Lindsay-Strathmore district lands are at present chiefly in citrus fruits, there is a growing interest in olive culture. Many young orchards are now coming into bearing and the fruit has been pronounced by experts connected with Los Angeles packers the equal of the finest imported Italian and Spanish varieties. With the success of the irrigation system assured, there is every reason to anticipate the olive industry will continue to grow in importance in the district.

In the Lindsay district as a whole there are 11,000 acres of citrus fruits in full bearing, while in El Mirador and Strathmore, also under the district canals, there are 7000 acres more in various stages of maturity. Two transportation lines, the Southern Pacific Railroad, and the Minkler Southern, the latter a subsidiary of the Santa Fe, run directly through the property.
